ORMER IS UNSEATED.

Excluded by United State Senate.

His Title Declared Invalid by Vote of Fifty-five to Twenty-eight.

Resolution Urging Corrupt Practices His Election Is Adopted.

Senate Closes With Dramatic Incidents in Upper House of Congress.

[A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.] WASHINGTON, July 13.—By a vote of 55 to 28, the United States Senate took away today from William Lorimer his seat as junior Senator from Illinois. His right to that seat had been indicated and he was declared to have been the recipient of votes obtained by corrupt methods and practices." Lorimer had been a member of the body since June 8, 1909. The first suggestion of fraud in connection with his election became public in April, 1910, when Charles A. Munn, a member of Illinois Legislature, swore that he had received $1000 as a bribe for voting for Lorimer. The Senate, by its action today, reversed the majority of its own Privileges committee and changed the vote of March 1, 1911, when that committee retained his name by 46 to 40. Technically, Mr. Lorimer will pass out of the records of the Senate as a member of that body, notwithstanding his more than three years occupancy of his seat.

"I AM READY."

Following his associates in the decision, "I am ready," Mr. Lorimer sat in the chamber and heard his fate decreed as the roll call showed the adoption of the resolution of Senator Luke Lea of Tennessee, the Senate's youngest member. The man who for three days held the Senate to close attention with his remarkable speech of defense and attack upon his enemies, rose wearily from his seat and passed back to a cloakroom door.

Senators and members of the House gathered about him, grasping his hand and patting him on the back. Outside the Senate door, as Mr. Lorimer stepped into the corridor, friends greeted him again and a party of Sisters of Charity pushed forward to express regret at his expulsion. In his office, when a physician had attended him, he said he would not leave Washington before the first of next week.

The outcome of the vote was not a surprise, but the leaders of the fight against him had not estimated a greater vote than 50 to 35. Lorimer gained only one of the men who voted against him March 1, 1911, Senator Jones of Washington; while he lost the votes of his associate, Senator Cullom, and Senators Curtis of Kansas, Briggs of New Jersey, Simmons of North Carolina and Watson of West Virginia.

SOME COOLER; OVER NINETY.

Missouri and Kansas Blistered by Temperatures a Hundred Plus.

[A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.] KANSAS CITY, July 13.—Western Missouri and Kansas found no relief from the heat wave today, but "slightly cooler" is predicted for this immediate vicinity tomorrow. Here the temperature reached 94 without the breeze that has been blowing for several days. At Hutchinson, Kan., the thermometer registered 104 and at Strong City, Kan., 102.

Aerial Tragedy.

DASHED TO HIS DEATH.

Aviator Falls at Palo Alto.

University Student Killed in Presence of His Mother and Fiancee.

Aeroplane Plunges to Earth from Height of Two Hundred Feet.

Holder of Amateur Speed Record in Air Crushed Under Machine.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.] PALO ALTO (Cal.) July 13.—With a message in his pocket from his mother to his sweetheart, both of whom witnessed portions of his flight, Victor Morris Smith, Jr., a 20-year-old Stanford University student, was instantly killed today by a fall from his aeroplane.

A score of spectators witnessed the accident. Smith dropped from a height of 200 feet, and his neck was broken.

The youthful aviator set out from his home at Mountain View this morning to fly to Ravenswood Park, where a meet was scheduled for tomorrow afternoon. Just before his departure, his mother gave him a note to carry to Miss Marie Wilde, a Palo Alto High School student, to whom the lad was engaged to be married.

Flying north to Palo Alto, Smith circled over the town, then shot across the Stanford campus and started for Ravenswood Park. While crossing a prune orchard, Smith endeavored to make a sharp turn to reach an open field near the park.

AVIATOR LOSES CONTROL.

The machine veered and it was seen that the aviator had lost control. The biplane plunged downward, and when within about thirty feet of the ground the boy jumped. He was dead when aid reached him. Mrs. Smith arrived in an automobile shortly afterward and the body was taken to the family home.

When Miss Wilde, who had witnessed the flight from a distance, was informed of the death of her fiancee, she fainted, and was carried to the automobile in which Mrs. Smith had rushed to the scene of the accident.

Smith had been a prominent member of the Stanford freshman track team. In the last intercollegiate meet with the University of California he finished third in the mile run and was awarded a class sweater, which he was wearing today.

STUDIES AT SAN DIEGO.

For the last two months Smith had been studying aviation at a school near San Diego. Friends, bearing in mind the superstition attached to "13," had urged him to postpone his flight until tomorrow.

Smith was holder of the world's amateur record for aeroplane speed.

The young aviator was a member of Stanford University class of 1914 before he took up aviation. He was a son of Victor Harris Smith, traffic manager of the Western Meat Company of San Francisco.

LEAVES COLLEGE.

Smith left his class in civil engineering to devote all of his time to aviation. He was encouraged when, in amateur competition, he broke all speed records at San Diego last April.

The young aviator was nearing his destination at Ravenswood when something went wrong with his biplane. Instantly the crowd of 400 persons who were waiting for him to descend realized that danger to the flyer was imminent. The machine turned turtle and Smith was hurled earthward with great force and pinioned beneath the wreckage.

Floor Manager of Her Own Romance.

Mrs. Reverdy Johnson Daingerfield,

Who, as Miss Mary McKim Wilde of Baltimore, took matters into her own hands and wedded Reverdy Johnson Daingerfield, without the knowledge of her parents. The wedding ceremony followed the suggestion on the part of her mother to take her away to Bedford Springs for the summer. The happy couple are spending their honeymoon in Philadelphia.

PREFERS A HONEYMOON TO OUTING WITH MAMMA.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.] BALTIMORE (Md.) July 13.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Miss Mary McKimm Wilde and Reverdy Johnson Daingerfield, the former a beautiful society girl of New York City, and the latter a Baltimore broker, faced the possibility of a separation of months, when Miss Wilde's mother told her she was going to take her to Bedford Springs for the summer. After a short consultation, Miss Wilde and Mr. Daingerfield decided it should not be so. They slipped off and were married.

ROMANTIC SETTING.

Atlantic City was the setting for the romance. Miss Wilde, who is the daughter of Mrs. George Cobb Wilde and grand-daughter of Robert V. McKim, a cousin of the noted architect, had been staying at the Hotel Chelsea for the last month. Mr. Daingerfield had been a similar length of time at the Dennis. They met each other about a year ago in Baltimore, when Miss Wilde was there visiting relatives. They had been engaged several months. The engagement was known only to a few friends. True love really ran smooth during the short sojourn until the unwelcome announcement of her departure. They decided to make it even nearer and the Rev. C. M. Niles of the Church of the Ascension, was called into service. Samuel E. Swayze, a friend of the groom from Washington, was let in on the secret and played the part of witness and best man.

EARLY WEDDING.

The ceremony occurred at 1 o'clock in the morning and naming Mr. Swayze a deputy, to tell the mother, the couple boarded a train for Philadelphia. They protested that it was in no sense an elopement and that in all probability Mrs. Wilde would have joined in the plan had she been told of it, but they decided to take no chances. They emphasized the fact that they had been engaged several months.

The bride is 21 years old and the groom is 34. She made her debut in New York society three years ago. Her mother's home is No. 30 East Eighty-second street.

Cloakrooms of the House and Senate Surcharged With the Kind of Humidity that Usually Precedes a Cyclone or a Tornado and in Which a "Shake Up" Is Demanded to Stimulate Loyalty and Party Effort.

BY SUMNER CURTIS.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

WASHINGTON BUREAU OF THE TIMES, July 13.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Some public servants, valuable and respected members of Congress, are growing weary of the game. They are not being driven from official service by the "reaction against reaction," because they are dyed-in-the-wool progressives. They are advanced leaders in the cause which the sentiment of the day supports; yet, they dread such fights as they have to make to keep alive politically, wonder if the sacrifices they undergo in neglecting private business for the public weal are justified, and are now hesitating between duty to the friends at home and duty to themselves.

DUTY TO THEMSELVES.

If certain statesmen whose names are more or less household words follow their inclinations there will be some announcements that will be interesting, if not sensational, in the near future. The rupture in the ranks of the Republican party will present some of the responsibility. Of course, those who are in public life for the living and incidental glory they get out of it, and who are not forced by circumstances over which they have no control "to return to their private business affairs," are not affected by the mix-up in the political situation. As to at least a few others, the advices they receive within a short time from those to whom they feel under obligations to keep the cause afloat will determine their course of action. It is not permissible to mention names at this time, but consent to do so may come any day.

"SHAKE-UP" EXPECTED.

A shake-up that would make a "for-the-good-of-the-service" order of a metropolitan chief of police look like a love letter is being urged by strong party men of the Republican persuasion in Congress. They are urging that President Taft do the shaking. They declare it necessary in order to stimulate to effective action the organizations that must be depended on to elect the national ticket in November if it is in the cards to elect it. They do not care if the shake-up hits some high places in the government service. In fact, that is what they want it to do. The point particularly dwelt upon is that President Taft has been keeping in office men who only do not do him any good politically, but whose hearts are not with him in the work he is trying to do, in so far as it means a continuance of his administration.

SPECIFIC INSTANCES.

Some specific instances of this have been noted in the news dispatches during the last week. There are other cases that are being talked about in the cloak rooms of Congress and there is at least one in the department of the government which is declared to be honeycombed with disloyalty, and where there has been a cabal, apparently working in the interest of a rival of the President, and where subordinates almost openly antagonistic to the administration have been permitted to usurp functions of superior officials to the detriment of the morale of the service.

The least the President can do at this time, it is declared, is to insist on loyalty as well as perfunctory performance of duty, and to chop off heads where it is not obtained, replacing the same with men who legitimately can be of service in creating support for the national ticket. If there is any man who hesitates in the slightest to take a militant stand for the President because of past friendship for somebody else, the government service under the present administration at this critical time is no place for him, it is declared, and if he has not the decency to resign, he ought to be fired.

MATTER OF DOUBT.

It is not known how the President will act with respect to the advice that is being given behind his back, and a part of which is known to have been expressed to his face. He has been loath to do many things for plain politics' sake in order to gain a personal advantage. This is one of the reasons he has been called a poor politician by many of his friends. But he waked up about the time of the Massachusetts primaries. He broke the ice by entering into combat with Roosevelt. That was a mere verbal conflict, however, and now that the President has won his renomination and is spurred to take a more determined stand than ever by the charges that fraud gave him his victory it may be he will hearken to the demands of supporters in Congress and set up a guillotine.

WHY TAGGART QUIT.

Politicians here have been speculating a great deal over the reasons that impelled Thomas Taggart of Indian to resign his membership on the Democratic National Committee of which he once was chairman. From an apparently authentic source it is learned that for once a much-assailed machine leader has acted the part of an altruist. Mr. Taggart, it is declared, has stepped aside solely for the purpose of removing his personality from attack and giving the State and national tickets of his party a better chance than they otherwise would have in Indiana.

As a matter of fact, Mr. Taggart has got about all he wants in the matter of nominating candidates. He was influential in having Gov. Marshall nominated as Wilson's running mate on the national ticket and he has won the nomination for his particular candidate to head the Indiana State ticket—Samuel M. Ralston. Those who are inclined to give him full credit for noble self-sacrifice in effacing himself from membership on the national committee say he realizes the clique to which he belonged would cut a small figure in the management of affairs it formerly controlled and that having got what he wants in a preliminary way, he is willing to abdicate.

There is little doubt, however, as to the animating motive of the Taggart action which, as stated, is to bring success to his party in his own State. He seems to have had the sense to see that he could help more as a has-been than as "among those present."

RECEPTION AT CAPITOL FOR "THE TIMES" AUTO.

BY BERT C. SMITH.

[BY FEDERAL (WIRELESS) LINE TO THE TIMES.]

WASHINGTON BUREAU OF THE TIMES, July 13.—[Special Dispatch.] The campaign for a National Highway across the United States was carried into the corridors of the Senate and House of Representatives today.

Surrounded by notables, The Times car was given a place of honor on the Capitol grounds. This was the signal for the camera men to get busy, and Senator Elihu Root was one of the first to be snapped while he was approaching the ocean-to-ocean organizing car. Senator Allen B. Fall of New Mexico then climbed into the machine with Senators Carl Hayden and Mark A. Smith.

Col. Dell M. Potter, national organizer of the Ocean-to-Ocean Highway Association, who has made the trip across the continent in The Times car, then outlined the work that has been achieved and told the leading men of this nation just how many good-roads adherents have swung into line in favor of a highway entirely across the United States.

LEGISLATORS ENLISTED.

The plan, which is to culminate in a monster petition containing at least 1,000,000 names, was explained to the Senators and Congressmen, and many of them came out strongly in favor of national aid. While this subject caused some of them to express themselves carefully, others came out frankly in favor of the plan urged by National Organizer Potter, who advocated that the government pay half, the States through which the highway passes to pay the other half.

An important skirmish in the campaign for a National Highway was won today. While no effort was made to commit a Senator or Congressman to the National Highway plan against his will, enough interviews were grant-

BURNS MAN ON STAND.

More Testimony From a Detective Affecting the Conduct of State Dispensary in South Carolina.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE TO THE TIMES.] AUGUSTA (Ga.) July 13.—When the South Carolina Legislative Committee reassembled here today to continue its investigation of alleged graft in the State liquor dispensary, Detective E. F. Reed, an assistant to William J. Burns, testified. Burns swore yesterday that high officers had been guilty of grafting in the purchase of liquor by the State and had sold pardons and protected "blind tigers."

Reed continued along this line of testimony.

Especially mentioned in Burns's story yesterday were Gov. Coleman L. Blease and H. H. Evans, ex-commissioner of the dispensary.

Hearings are being held in Georgia to obtain the testimony of Thomas B. Felder of Atlanta, the attorney who was employed to help close the affairs of the old dispensary when it went out of existence. After his work was done, Blease accused Felder of bribery. The Governor of Georgia refused to extradite him and a grand jury at Newberry, S. C., dismissed the case.

Blease has repeatedly declared he would arrest Felder if the latter ever set foot in the State. Felder has not done so and when the committee of the State Assembly wanted his testimony it had to come on the Georgia side to get it.

DISCOVER IN GOMEZ SUCCESSOR TO OROZCO.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.] EL PASO (Tex.) July 13.—Evidence is in the hands of Mexican government agents here tending to show that Emilio Vasquez Gomez of the revolutionary party soon will be acted to assume the provisional presidency of Mexico and that Gen. Pascual Orozco Jr., who repudiated him, will be deposed and succeeded by Gen. David De la Fuente.

Rebel juntas are holding daily sessions here and in Douglas, Ariz.

Emilio Vasquez Gomez is now in San Antonio, Tex., while Gen. De la Fuente is said to have gone to Baltimore, Md., for medical treatment. The two may meet at San Antonio within a few days.

That Gen. Orozco's days as head of the present revolution are numbered is apparently indicated by recent developments in Juarez. The entire rebel force has been dispatched to points on the Mexican Northwestern railroad, leaving a garrison of only 150 men in Juarez. The furniture and household goods in the home of Col. Pascual Orozco Sr., where the rebel chief is stopping, are packed for moving.

Persistent reports are that Gen. Orozco after distributing the rebels at designated places on the border line between Sonora and Chihuahua will resign as chief of the revolution and join his family in Los Angeles, Cal.

CHAMP CLARK VISITS WILSON.

Governor Insists the Speaker Brought Up the Subject.

Legislation and the Campaign Their Popular Theme.

Missourian's Love for Bryan Is Again Exemplified.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SEAGIRT (N. J.) July 13.—Speaker Champ Clark and Gov. Wilson talked for two hours today on legislation pending before the House of Representatives. Charles R. Crane of Chicago and President Van Hise of Wisconsin University, both of whom have been prominent supporters of La Follette, also visited the Governor.

Crane said he is going back to Chicago to work for Wilson and would be glad to contribute to the Democratic campaign fund.

In talking with the newspaper men tonight, Gov. Wilson said the subject of contributions had not been touched upon in his conversation with Crane and that there had been no pledge of support for the Governor on his visitor's part.

Speaker Clark came from Washington half an hour before he was expected. He rode in a hack to the Governor's home. The Governor excused himself to the other guests, shook hands with Clark and escorted him with smiling face to the parlor.

HE LIKES CLARK.

"The speaker was very fine," Gov. Wilson said tonight to the reporters. "His position was admirable and generous in every respect. What we discussed—he introduced the subject—was chiefly the business pending in the House and the prospects of adjournment," Gov. Wilson said.

"Of course the whole country knows the prospects of adjournment, but, he was kind enough to tell me the details of the business. He also explained the generous position which he takes in regard to the campaign—he will do everything in his power to help.

"I had two other callers today, Charles R. Crane, and President Van Hise of Wisconsin University. Van Hise has devoted a great deal of study to the trusts and he wanted to discuss that subject with me. We spent perhaps three-quarters of an hour on that. I was extremely interested in what he hade to say. He has the scientific habit of mind that goes to the features thoroughly."

WHAT CRANE PAID.

"And did Crane join in the discussion?" the Governor was asked.

"Mr. Crane accompanied Mr. Van Hise. He paid me a visit of compliment."

The Governor also said that the subject of contributions did not arise and that Crane did not pledge his support.

When Speaker Clark left the Governor he came out on the porch and told the reporters he was willing to talk on anything except politics.

"The Governor invited me to come here, and I came, as I thought I ought to do," he said. "We talked about a good many things. He can tell you about them if he wants to; if he doesn't, you will have to let them go. It's easier for us to come down here and see him than it is for him to prowl around the country and see us."

"What do you think of the third party movement?"

"I don't know a thing in the world about it," was the reply.

"What do you think of the platform?"

"I think it's a very good platform. There is not a busier man on earth than the Speaker of the House at this session. When I have studied the platform in detail, I will express my opinion about it. It always turns out that there are only two or three issues in a campaign, no matter how many planks there are in the platform."

"What do you think of the prospects for retaining or increasing the Democratic majority in the House?"

"The House always goes with the President."

"Do you think there is a chance that the Senate will be Democratic, too?"

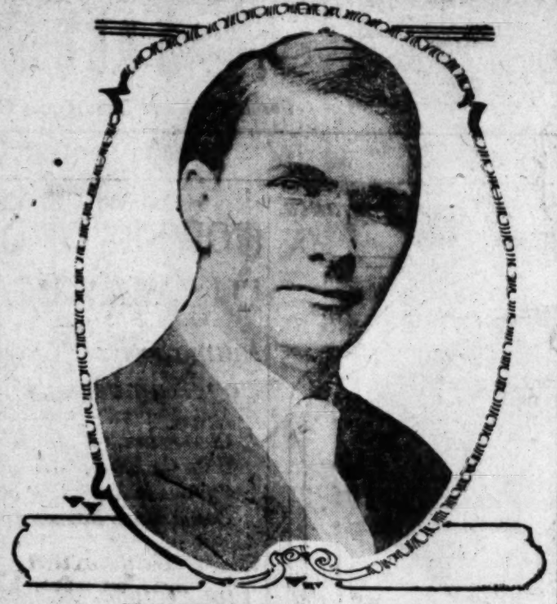
"Well, that depends on which way the cat jumps," he replied.

LOVE FOR BRYAN.

The Speaker refused to talk of what action William J. Bryan might take in the campaign, saying:

"I don't know and I don't care. I'm not going to talk about it. Don't ask me any more about it."

Inaugurates Fight on Senator Lorimer.



United States Senator Luke Lea

Of Tennessee, who introduced in the United States Senate the resolution adopted yesterday depriving Senator William E. Lorimer of Illinois of his seat in the upper house of Congress. Senator Lea was the youngest member of the Senate until after the vote on the Lorimer resolution yesterday, when successors to the late Senator Hughes of Colorado and the late Senator Nixon of Nevada qualified and took their seats.

LORIMER IS UNSEATED.

lits began in the Senate chamber early Thursday afternoon. When he concluded his eloquent declaration that he was not a coward and "would not run in the face of certain defeat," at 3 o'clock this afternoon, he had held the floor for twelve hours, with intermissions and recesses to restore his strength.

The moving character of Lorimer's appeal was admitted on every hand, but it apparently swayed no votes. Instead of the pleading defense that had been expected, it was throughout a ringing defiance of those who had opposed him, a declaration of his unfaltering belief in the purity of his election in Illinois and a promise that he would not give up his fight with his eviction from the Senate.

"I'M NOT A COWARD."

"It has been suggested that I resign," he said, in his closing declaration. "He who is so cowardly as to run because defeat stares him in the face, has no place in this body. Though you all vote to turn me out; though every vote has been canvassed and is against me, I will not resign. My exit from this body will not be from fear. It will not be because I am a coward. It will be because of the crime of the Senate of the United States."

Only two incidents marked the few minutes between the termination of Lorimer's speech and the taking of the roll call. One was the charge of Senator Dixon, Col. Roosevelt's campaign manager, that the affidavits Lorimer had introduced to show attempted corruption of delegates to the Chicago convention were "malicious and deliberate falsehoods."

The other was the request of Senator Tillman of South Carolina, feeble from the effects of paralysis, for permission to have the clerk read a statement. It was an affirmation of his belief in Lorimer's innocence and a pathetic statement of his own feebleness. Tillman went as it was read and other members of the Senate exhibited deep feeling.

TILLMAN'S DRAMATIC PLEA.

"Since I was stricken with paralysis thirteen months ago," said Tillman's statement, "I have thought often and seriously about death and the hereafter. That I am here at all is in some respects a miracle, and I know I must go hence and meet the Great Judge face to face very soon. I cannot do otherwise than vote as my conscience dictates and I believe this man is innocent of the charges brought against him."

Senator Tillman expressed the hope that Mr. Lorimer would consecrate the remainder of his life to the purification of politics in Chicago and to the uplift of his fellow citizens in Illinois.

"I believe if he does bravely fight for a purer and better government in Illinois," he said, "God will strengthen his arm and he will return to the Senate vindicated by the people of that great State."

The Senate, as constituted when the Lorimer vote was taken, had ninety-four members. The vacancies caused by the deaths of Charles J. Hughes, Jr., of Colorado and George Nixon of Nevada had not been filled. Immediately after the vote, however, the Nevada vacancy was filled when W. A. Massey, appointed by the Governor of Nevada to fill Senator Nixon's unexpired term, was sworn in. He had been waiting three days to take the oath of office, but was prevented by consideration of the Lorimer case.

The unseating of Lorimer closed a fight that had not ceased since the publication of the charges of Charles A. White by the Chicago Tribune early in 1910.

HISTORY OF CASE.

Mr. Lorimer was elected as a junior Senator from Illinois by the Legislature of that State May 26, 1909. He was at that time a member of the United States House of Representatives, having been elected to the Fifty-fourth Congress in 1894. He continued to hold his seat in the House of Representatives until June 17, 1909, nearly a month after his election to the Senate. He then resigned and was sworn in as Senator the next day.

His election came after the Statewide primary had indorsed Senator Albert J. Hopkins for re-election. A deadlock in the Legislature prevented the election of Hopkins and Lorimer's election ultimately was brought about by the support of fifty-three Democrats.

The charges of bribery in connection with the Lorimer election were made public by the Chicago Tribune April 30, 1910, when it published a confession of State Representative Charles A. White, that he had received $1000 to vote for Lorimer. Senator Lorimer specifically denied these charges in a speech in the Senate May 28, of that year, and said he courted investigation.

INVESTIGATION BEGINS.

The Senate authorized an investigation June 20, and it began in Chicago September 20, 1910, under the direction of Senator Julius C. Burrows of Michigan. As a result of that first investigation Senator Lorimer was exonerated by the Senate committee and on March 1, 1911, the Senate, by a vote of 46 to 40, affirmed his title to a seat. The second investigation began June 20, 1911, as a result of charges that new evidence had been found, particularly the statement of Clarence S. Funk of the International Harvester Company, that Edward Hines had asked him to contribute to a $100,000 Lorimer fund. The second investigation committee, presided over by Senator Dillingham of Vermont, again affirmed Mr. Lorimer's title to his seat, but the vote today was an overwhelming defeat of the committee report, as well as of Mr. Lorimer.

STRIVE FOR DELAY.

There was a well-defined belief in the Senate today when it re-assembled that the pro-Lorimer forces were working to delay further the final vote in the hope of changing several wavering votes to the support of Mr. Lorimer.

Senator Lorimer's immediate attack upon Lea, Kenyon and Kern and his repeated challenge to them to disprove his statements lent added color to the belief that an effort would be made to bring on further debate before the final vote on the Lea resolution of exclusion.

Senator Lorimer seemed refreshed after a few hours' respite from the strain of his defense and plunged into his effort with renewed vigor.

"IF THE PEOPLE KNEW."

At one point, declaring that the proceedings against him had been conducted by conspirators, he exclaimed:

"If all the people knew the full story they'd drive that band of hypocrites out of the country. And they will know it. If God spares me, they'll know it from one end of the land to the other."

To his own efforts he credited the Senatorial investigation, saying the "Tribune people" took no steps to cause an investigation by the Senate until he introduced a resolution asking for it. "This attack on me is not the first instance where efforts have been made to drive Senators out of this chamber by conspiracy," he cried.

He compared his case to that of Senator Percy of Mississippi, in which he declared a conspiracy to attempt to fasten evidence of corrupt practices upon the election of Percy had been thwarted only by a fortunate discovery of facts.

Bailey's speech in defense of Lorimer at the last trial was sensational. It had been generally understood that he would not speak this time.

TENSE MOMENTS.

The closing moments of the trial were intensely dramatic. Lorimer, holding the floor, making a last defense of his election, declared he did not appeal for the vote of any Senator, but asked for justice.

Senator Lorimer, when the vote was announced, walked slowly toward the back of the room and passed into a cloakroom, Senator Smoot throwing an arm over his shoulder.

The vote ousting him was concluded at 2:05 o'clock. The man who had occupied a seat in the Senate since June 18, 1909, by the vote today passes out of the records and never officially has held a seat in the Senate of the United States.

TEXT OF RESOLUTION.

The Lea resolution, adopted by a vote of almost 2 to 1, was as follows:

"Resolved, that corrupt methods and practices were employed in the election of William Lorimer to the Senate of the United States from the State of Illinois, and that his election therefore was invalid."

In the closing sentence of his speech, Senator Lorimer expressed gratitude for tributes which Senators had paid to his private life.

EXPRESSES GRATITUDE.

"Every man who has such a life has his own reward—he has it here," he said. "I ask nothing on that account; it has no bearing in the case. I hope it will influence no Senator in making up his judgment."

He spoke of his family.

"I ask nothing because of them, or because of my ideal home life. It has been said by Senators that the worst foes of Lorimer have not impeached his integrity. They have said 'that his word was as good as a bond; that he never turned on a friend; that he has been consistent, right or wrong.'

REFERS TO RECORD.

"But I ask no consideration for that. When Senators are making up their minds, when they are deciding whether they will believe Lorimer or Charles A. White, all I ask is to consider in connection with a record of forty years my truth and veracity, as stated by my enemies. I ask the consideration of Senators as to whether they will believe the bribe taker, who has lied time and again, or believe me.

"Much has been said about 'Lorimer's resigning,'" he continued. "If at the beginning of this case I had believed that one man had been bribed to vote for me I would have laid my resignation on the Vice-President's table. But I know the record. I know there was not a corrupt vote cast for me."

"To resign in the face of that conviction? Why? 'Because,' they say, 'the Senate has been canvassed and enough votes have been found to turn Lorimer out.'

"Resign because they say defeat stares you in the face! Oh, what an argument! What sort of a man is it who runs in such a case?

WON'T RUN FROM DEFEAT.

"If the men who founded this country had run when defeat stared them in the face, we would have had no country, no flag. And he who is so cowardly as to run because defeat stares him in the face has no place in this body. This chamber is no place for cowards. It was not built for cowardice.

"Oh, Senators, though you all vote to turn me out, though every vote has been found against me, yet will I not resign. No, no, no, I'll not resign. If I go from this body it will be because more Senators vote for that resolution than against it.

"I am ready," he added, dramatically, as he took his seat.

The roll was then called on the resolution.

VOTE ON RESOLUTION.

Those who voted to oust Lorimer were:

Ashhurst, Bacon, Borah, Bourne, Briggs, Bristow, Brown, Bryan, Burton, Chamberlain, Clapp, Crawford, Cullom, Cummins, Curtis, Dixon, Fall, Gardner, Gore, Gronna, Hitchcock, Johnson, Kenyon, Kern, La Follette, Lea, Lodge, Martin, Martine, Myers, Nelson, Newlands, O'Gorman, Overman, Page, Poindexter, Pomerene, Rayner, Reed, Root, Sanders, Shively, Simmons, Stone, Sutherland, Swanson, Townsend, Watson, Williams, Works, Clark, Smith of Arizona, Smith of Georgia, Smith of Michigan and Smith of South Carolina—55.

Those who voted against the Lea resolution and in favor of Lorimer were:

Bailey, Bradley, Brandegee, Burnham, Catron, Clark, Crane, Dillingham, Fletcher, Foster, Gallinger, Gamble, Guggenheim, Johnson, Jones, Tippit, McCumber, Oliver, Paynter, Penrose, Perkins, Richardson, Smith of Maryland, Smoot, Stephenson, Thornton, Tillman and Wetmore—28.

Senators paired in favor of the resolution were Chilton, Culberson, Davis and Owen.

Senators paired against were Bankhead, Dupont, Heyburn and Warren.

Senators absent and not paired were Percy and McLain.

Senator Lorimer did not vote.

There were ninety-four members in the Senate, there being one vacancy from Colorado and one from Nevada.

As Lorimer walked out of the Senate door into the Republican cloakroom, the chief clerk of the House, Jerry South, announced to the Senate the impeachment of Judge Robert W. Archbald of the Commerce Court.

RESPECTS TO ENEMIES.

Lorimer in his speech went after Senator Crawford of South Dakota, who had spoken and voted against him at the first trial. He referred to charges made against Mr. Crawford, of which the South Dakota Senator was fully acquitted, and invited Mr. Crawford out to the cloakroom while he read an affidavit which charged Crawford with having employed a man to file a public land claim in his interest.

"That's supposed to be a sworn affidavit," said Senator Lorimer. "But all the circumstances surrounding it deny its truth. A Federal grand jury cleansed the skirts of this Senator."

"Has Charles A. White made any statement to your committee stronger than that Crawford affidavit?" he demanded. "I think not. And yet Senator Crawford would turn me out of this body on the statement of a man more foul than the man who made this affidavit against him."

"I don't ask for the Senator's vote," continued Mr. Lorimer. "But I am asking you, Senator Crawford, if, after that awful experience you had, don't you think you ought to weigh carefully, thoughtfully, meditate long and often before you vote to destroy your fellow man on evidence like that?"

JOLTS W. J. BURNS.

Senator Lorimer took up the employment of Detective Burns, to whom he referred as the detective "who has driven to his grave a United States Senator, whom the people now believe not to have been guilty."

The reference was taken by the Senate to apply to the late John H. Mitchell of Oregon.

Mr. Lorimer declared it had been shown that the Burns detectives had committed perjury and he made like charges against others. He said White was bought by the Tribune to perjure his soul; that Glavis was bought, but lacked the nerve to go through with it and was then indicted in Washington to close his mouth.

"If Senators knew the testimony they soon would settle the 'foul conspiracy,'" he said. "If you drive me from this chamber, I'll never charge you with anything except that you were not sufficiently influenced. There will be no charge in my mind that you did not vote in accordance with your conviction of right."

Drawing a parallel from the election of Senator Lea of Tennessee, Democrat, by thirty-two Republican and thirty-four Democratic votes, Mr. Lorimer said these Republicans voted for Lea because of a political condition that made the election of a Republican impossible.

"Are Democrats the only people who are susceptible of receiving bribes?" he asked. "I'll not believe it, nor will I believe that the Republicans of Tennessee were corrupted. I believe, Senator Lea, that you occupy your seat by as clean a title as any man who ever sat in this body—by as clean a title as mine."

PROTRACTED STRUGGLE.

For more than two years the fight had been on to oust William Lorimer from his seat. A constant newspaper agitation, investigations by two Senate committees and one committee of the Illinois Legislature, millions of words of testimony and scores of speeches have kept the case of Lorimer before the public.

Charges and counter charges of bribery and corruption, crimination and recrimination, indictments, trials and "confessions" galore have filled the history of the case. Today's vote in the Senate ended one of the most sensational legislative imbroglios that the country has ever known.

AN IDEAL COMBINATION OF QUALITY AND QUANTITY.

The value of a newspaper's circulation should be determined by the number of copies of the paper that are read and by the character of its readers, instead of the number of copies distributed. Mere circulation without definite value means nothing. To an advertiser one reader who has purchasing power is worth a multiplicity of those who are without means with which to buy advertised articles.

It is seldom that a newspaper can be found that possesses the enviable circulation features enjoyed by The Times. This paper not only exceeds all its local contemporaries in quantity of circulation, but in quality and permanence as well. The Times goes into the great majority of homes, offices and business houses of Los Angeles and Southern California, and it is read by, and has the confidence and moral support of the substantial, industrious, thinking, earning men and women in this field. Unlike other newspapers, this journal does not issue a Sunday paper Saturday night, send incomplete issues to out-of-town points, misbrand its editions or resort to any other subterfuge to make its circulation appear to be larger than it actually is. The Times circulation figures are based on the number of copies that go to bona fide subscribers. The Times circulation is not of the "fly by night" kind, but it is made up of home-loving, home-making, law-abiding, buying men and women, and represents the buying power of the consumers of this rich field. Consequently each copy of The Times is a selling force, and materially aids advertisers in solving the ever-present problem of distribution.

The fact that The Times regularly prints twice as many legitimate "Want Ads" as any other local newspaper indicates its widespread popularity, and its thorough distribution in the homes of Los Angeles.

The genuineness and superior quality and quantity of The Times circulation, and its pre-eminence as an advertising medium, due to the responsiveness of its readers to the appeals of its advertising patrons, lift this journal entirely out of local comparisons and place it in a class by itself.

The Times is subject to no interest save the interest of good citizenship, and its incomparable circulation enables it to give its advertisers greater value for less money than any other paper in California, and, in fact, greater publicity at less cost than any other paper printed in the United States.

In Addition to Five and Six Dollars a Day for "Stackers" the Husbandmen Are Offering Free Auto Rides, Fried Chicken and Plenty of Leisure to Court Girls.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

HUTCHINSON (Kan.) July 13.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] "Boys, I'll pay $2.50 a day and board," said B. J. Mtahews, a prosperous Pawnee county farmer of near Frizell, to a bunch of thirty sun-burned harvest hands on the street here today.

"Hold on, there," shouted John Hitchcock, another farmer from Plains, in Mead county, before they could answer:

"We'll pay $5 or $6 a day for stackers."

"We'll let you use our motor cars for pleasure rides after the day's work is done," offered the Pawnee county man.

"Fried chicken three times a day if you want it," countered the Mead farmer.

The Mead county man scratched his head. Then his face lighted up and he said:

"Boys, five meals daily, free smoking and cold pop, knock off working at 6 o'clock and no milking and chores."

"Boys, the best-looking girls live in Pawnee county," Matthews came back. "They're the right sort of girls, too, and want good husbands. I don't know but what good-looking fellows like you will make a hit with these girls."

"I've got two motor cars and the neighbors have four."

"Say, boss, what's the fare to Larned," spoke up one of the men.

"That's all right, come along," replied the Pawnee county man, and he bought the tickets for the bunch.

The Dons Are Notified to Keep Away from the Portuguese Border the Royalist Mobs Bent on Putting the Exiled Boy King Back on the Throne in Portugal.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

LISBON, July 12.—A semi-official note issued today says: "The Portuguese government counts on the loyalty of the entire police and military forces to maintain order and to win over the sympathies and devotion of the public."

Advices from the frontier state that Capt. Couceiro, leader of the royalists, was wounded in the hand during the recent battle at Chaves.

A great mob of people on learning that several royalist conspirators had been arrested at Bellas and were being conveyed to Lisbon, invaded the railroad station this afternoon bent on lynching the rebels. The police altered the route of the prisoners and avoided violence.

COLLECTIVE NOTE.

According to the Portuguese newspaper, Paiz, Spain has received a collective note from England and France pointing out the principle of international law which obliges Spain to respect the republic of the Portuguese and to enforce neutrality on the frontier.

Senor Augusto Vasconcellos, the Portuguese Premier, had an interview today with Sir Arthur Henry Hardinge, British Minister to Portugal, in the course of which he protested against Spain permitting armed Portuguese royalists to encamp on Spanish territory.

Wholesale arrests of royalist conspirators have been effected at Bellas, in the province of Estremadura, about eleven miles to the northwest of Lisbon, where the rebels cut the telegraph wires and planned to seize the batteries of the fortress of Queluse.

The plot failed owing to the republican troops having discovered a store of guns and dynamite and a number of women's divided skirts with which conspirators had intended to disguise themselves.

Further disorders are reported from the town of Casimbra, about eighteen miles south of Lisbon, on the Atlantic Coast, where royalist sympathizers attacked the Democratic Club.

WYTHEVILLE (Va.) July 13.—The jury in the case of Claude Allen, one of the members of the Allen gang, charged with the assassination of court officers at Hillsville, Va., reported today that an agreement was impossible.

The jury was discharged and another venire was ordered summoned for a new trial.

The case went to the jury at 5:30 p.m. yesterday.

THE IOWA SITUATION.

BOONE (Iowa) July 13.—No third party candidates except Presidential electors will appear on the official ballot in Iowa next fall, according to announcement of John L. Stevens, provisional committeeman for Iowa. Judge Stevens says that since nominations for State Congressional and county offices already have been made by all parties and prospective members of the new party participated in the primaries, it would be inconsistent to take any other action.

NEW TO THE BANKER.

STOCKTON, July 13.—A local bank lost $50 today by a trick new to the president. A stranger called at the bank, asked for a letter which he had addressed to him in San Francisco and upon getting it, requested the clerk to cash the check it contained. An identification card in the letter showed the stranger to be William N. Thompson, to whom the check was payable. It was later found to be a forgery.

GOMEZ SUCCESSOR TO OBR

Campa and Rojas, the three principal military leaders, are in sympathy with the cause of Emilio Vasquez Gomez, having begun the revolution with the idea that he would be the civil head of it. The popularity of Orozco has waned with his successive defeats, and his enemies have become bold enough to launch a movement for the resurrection of Gomez.

Juarez is likely to be attacked by the rebels as a port of entry. Dissatisfied that so little ammunition has been smuggled from the United States, thirty rebels who had had charge of ammunition chases here, left today to make their way to some point in the State of Sonora, opposite New Mexico or Arizona.

WHAT BOOK TITLE DOES THIS PICTURE REPRESENT?

That's the $$$$$$ Question That "The Times" Today Hopes You to Answer.

In today's Times you will find an explanation of the unique Booklover's Contest, about to start, the rules of the contest, and a picture just such as will be published in the contest, with the answer to the picture. The illustration explained today is worth more than a passing glance, for it was drawn originally to comprise one of the seventy-seven pictures in the contest, but then The Times decided to publish it previous to the contest, and explain it, so that contestants may see how the pictures may be solved.

That picture printed today is an object lesson to you. Look at it carefully. Do you see that it plainly and fully represents the title?

Probably you could have named that title even if it had not been printed out before you in black and white!

The seventy-seven titles to be represented by the seventy-seven contest pictures are now being selected from an official list, now in the possession of The Times, containing many thousand titles of books. Each title selected is chosen because it lends itself to being clearly and fully and plainly represented by a picture.

First the title is chosen, and then the picture is drawn to represent the title—to fit it like a glove fits the hand!

Don't think that pictures are drawn, and then titles selected to fit the pictures. Just the reverse is the case, for The Times wants each picture to be an absolute pictured representation of the title.

In these talks each day we will tell you more about the pictures. Just how the titles are selected, just how the pictures are drawn to represent them, the elaborate precautions taken to insure entire secrecy, and everything else about the contest. Then you know about it, of course, it will be easier it will be to unravel the pictures, dissect them, take them apart and get at the correct title.

There is only one thing about the contest that will not be told you, and that is the seventy-seven correct titles. Only the publishers of the newspaper, know all the correct titles. These are filed away privately as well as they are selected. Well tell you all about that, too. The Times exists so that you to know all about this contest, so that there will never be any question but that this most interesting and most unusual game will be conducted fairly, squarely and honestly in every particular.

That's the spirit of frankness with which this great contest is being instituted. There is no concealment, no solicitting connected with it, no trace of any sort concealed about it. The Times is going to the trouble and expense of this contest for one purpose only—to make friends, to give its readers an entertaining game in which most valuable prizes will be awarded.

Watch for the announcement of those prizes. And watch for the daily lessons every day. Pictures will appear within a short time, and then the contest will be on in full force.

A New Tack in Investigation of Judge Hanford.

Congressmen Learn of Award to Salmon Receivers.

Lawyer Denies that Court Slept During a Trial.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SEATTLE, July 13.—The investigation of the House Judiciary Sub-committee into the charge filed against United States Judge Cornelius H. Hanford that he allowed a fee of $140,000 to Kerr & McCord, attorneys for the receivers of the Pacific American Fisheries Company and the Pacific Packing and Navigation Company was begun today.

James A. Kerr, one of the receivers of these companies, was on the witness stand nearly all day. He testified he received $52,500 for work that occupied him fully for three days and partially for five years more. His law partner, Evans McCord, received a fee of $16,000, it was testified. Kerr told how a plan of New York financiers to form a Pacific Coast salmon trust failed, although backed by Morgan people.

ALSO UNFORTUNATE.

The Pacific Packing and Navigation Company was mismanaged, witness said, and also was unfortunate. Witness operated the canneries for two years and then they were sold at receiver's sale for a low price.

Kerr testified he never had any discussion with Judge Hanford concerning compensation and was not in court when the fee was fixed.

As to his association with Judge Hanford in the irrigation and power company, now the property of the American power and Light Company, Kerr turned over to the committee the minute book of the Hanford Company saying it contained the history of the company. Kerr is to be recalled to testify concerning the ansell Company.

Kerr said the Pacific Packing and Navigation Company was organized by the Morgan interests with a capital of $25,000,000 for the purpose of combining all salmon canneries on the Coast.

REFUSED TO SELL.

The Alaska Packers Association, he said, refused to sell and the company was forced into a receivership in New Jersey because of over-production. Thomas J. McGovern, he said, was the New Jersey receiver appointed by Judge Hanford.

The witness said he had no knowledge of a salmon can topper patented by Judge Hanford about this time; but said Judge Hanford had rendered a decision dealing with salmon-canning machinery. He said he did not know whether or not the Judge had attempted to sell his patent to one of the litigants.

Sutcliffe Baxter, said to have been frequently appointed to receiverships by Judge Hanford, was then examined.

Councilman Austin E. Griffiths testified that he was counsel opposed to L. H. McMahon of Salem, Or., in three suits before Judge Hanford at Tacoma. McMahon testified Hanford fell asleep and was apparently intoxicated while the trials were in progress. Witness denied that anything of the sort took place and testified that Hanford called McMahon to order for arguing to the jury and for making an improper citation.

Los Angeles County Gets a Little Hundred and Fifteen Thousand Dollars for Grammar for the Fiscal Year Ending Last Year—How the Others Fare.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE T

SACRAMENTO, July 13.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The third apportionment of moneys for the primary and grammar schools of the State for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1912, was announced today from the office of Superintendent of Public Instruction Hyatt's office, on figures submitted by State Controller Nye. The sum of $845,242 has been transferred to the school funds in the State Controller's office from the State treasury, bringing the total amount apportioned for the fiscal year just ended up to $4,899,236.90, based upon $150 each for teachers and $9.52 per pupil in average daily attendance. The method provided in the new school fund apportionment law passed by the 1911 session of the Legislature.

POLL TAXES

The moneys for the school fund are derived from poll taxes, interest on funds held for the schools, interest on school lands, from dairy law fines, portion of money raised by the sale of reports from the University of California, portion of property taxes, etc.

Jack Wood, Jr., statistician in the office of Superintendent Hyatt, says of the sum turned over to the common schools for the fiscal year just ended, $843,302.69 comes from the amount collected in poll taxes, representing $48.16 per teacher, or $1.50 per pupil in average daily attendance.

Mongolia Skipper Resigns Berth on Receiving Fortune and Accepts Invitation from Paris Duke.

[By Federal (Wireless) Line to The Times.]

SAN FRANCISCO BUREAU OF THE TIMES, July 13.—[Special Dispatch.] Capt Henry E. Morton, for many years commander of the Pacific Mail Liner Mongolia and who recently received a large fortune by the death of a relative in Canada and gave up his position, left for Paris today. His intimate friends assert that he will return within a year to claim in marriage the hand of Miss Marguerite Butters, an heiress of Oakland, who was a frequent passenger on the captain's ship.

A short time ago the Duke de Monspensier, brother of the Duke d'Orleans, asked Capt. Morton to join him in Paris on August 1, that he might take command of his paintal yacht for a world's tour.

Friends of Miss Butters, who claim to have knowledge of her secret engagement to Capt. Morton, assert that she will shortly join him in Paris and become one of the Duke de Monspensier's guests in a world-girdling yacht tour.

SACRAMENTO, July 13.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The third apportionment of moneys for the primary and grammar schools of the State for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1912, was announced today from the Superintendent of Public Instruction Hyatt's office, on figures furnished by State Controller Nye. The sum of $845,242 has been transferred by the school funds in the State Treasurer's office from the State School, bringing the total amount distributed for the fiscal year just ended up to $4,889,236.90, based upon cash for teachers and $9.52 per pupil in average daily attendance, as the latest apportionment law passed by the 1911 session of the Legislature provided in the new law.

POLL TAXES

The moneys for the school fund are derived from poll taxes, interest on money held for the schools, interest on school lands, from dairy law fines, interest on money raised by the sale of bonds from the University of California, a portion of property taxes.

Ward Hyatt, statistician in the office of Superintendent Hyatt, says that the sum turned over to the various schools for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1912, $845,803.69 comes from poll taxes collected in poll taxes, $48.16 per teacher, or $12.52 per pupil in average daily attendance.

The law now provides $13 per pupil in average daily attendance from the general fund of the State in support of the elementary schools," says Wood. "If the poll tax be repealed and this amount increased to make up for the loss, the State must give at least $16.20 per average daily attendance to bring the school funds up to that of the present year. The poll taxes for the present year amount to about $149,000 more than for any year in the past."

MONEY APPORTIONED.

The apportionment of school moneys announced today is as follows for the fifty-eight counties:

Alameda, $54,530.01; Alpine, $86.94; Amador, $2523.33; Butte, $7460.28; Calaveras, $2819.34; Colusa, $1765.71; Contra Costa, $8263.44; Del Norte, $838.35; El Dorado, $1827.81; Fresno, $22,970.79; Glenn, $2045.16; Humboldt, $9136.98; Imperial, $2751.03; Inyo, $1146.78; Kern, $7940.52; Kings, $4645.08; Lake, $1579.41; Lassen, $1177.83; Los Angeles, $115,506; Madera, $1912.68; Marin, $4955.58; Mariposa, $860.60; Mendocino, $5940.90; Merced, $5394.61; Modoc, $1784.34; Mono, $258.75; Monterey, $5603.49; Napa, $4450.50; Nevada, $3904.02; Orange, $10,221.66; Placer, $4079.97; Plumas, $1018.44; Riverside, $8816.13; Sacramento, $14,107.405.13; San Francisco, $71,574.46; San Joaquin, $11,225.61; San Luis Obispo, $5535.18; San Mateo, $6317.64; Santa Barbara, $5974.02; Santa Clara, $20,052.09; Santa Cruz, $6361.11; Shasta, $4717.53; Sierra, $902.52; Siskiyou, $4268.34; Solano, $5835.33; Sonoma, $12,662.19; Stanislaus, $7741.80; Sutter, $2003.76; Tehama, $2369.96; Trinity, $687.24; Tulare, $11,471.94; Tuolumne, $2639.25; Ventura, $4810.68; Yolo, $3452.76; Yuba, $1869.21; totals, $545,242.14.

MINER STEPS IN NICHE TILL LANDSLIDE PASSES.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

STOCKTON, July 13.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] When Matt Pitalo, a miner, employed at the South Eureka mine, chanced accidentally to glance up from his work the other day, he saw death bearing down upon him in the shape of a mass of falling rock. Death was in an awful hurry and so was Matt. Just why he glanced up at the right moment is a matter for psychology to thresh out, although Matt thinks that it was his guardian angel that saved him. At any rate, when he looked up he saw an avalanche of rock rolling with frightful velocity towards his corporeal presence. Just at that moment the miner saw a little niche in the clammy side of the big dark hole and just as he climbed into it, the huge body of moving rock thundered by and piled up all around the niche, imprisoning the miner.

The roar had been heard up above and a few minutes later a report was sent to the nearest town that one Matt Pitalo had been killed in a most horrible manner. This sensational news brought the inhabitants to the mine in a body, and after an exchange of eulogistic comment concerning Matt's many sterling qualities, a band of miners set to work clearing away the debris.

In the meantime, it is said, an undertaker in a near-by village made grim preparations for a certain unpleasant duty which he was confident would soon devolve upon him. After five hours of work on the part of the rescue party Matt emerged from his tomb and insisted on shaking hands with everybody present.

FOR ELK HONORS NEXT YEAR.

Portland Man Announces His Candidacy for Grand Exalted Ruler In the Rochester, N. Y., Convention.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

PORTLAND, (Or.) July 13.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Post-convention politics of the Elks' gathering develops that Ralph E. Moody, Past Exalted Ruler of the Portland Lodge and chairman of the Committee of Grand Lodge Arrangements, will be a strong contender for the office of Grand Exalted Ruler at the Rochester convention next year. His campaign has been formally launched.

The success of the Portland convention is expected to give powerful prestige to the right man representing this lodge in any contest in which he may appear, and Moody has been boosted by various grand lodge patriots for the last few days.

Edward Leach of New York, Grand Treasurer for six successive terms, will be Moody's most formidable opponent.

With the convention in the East next year and with the Grand Exalted Ruler a central western man, the chances for a far western man for the big chief's job are considered favorable, the more so since all the contenders so far announced for the convention in 1914 are eastern or southern cities.

Home of Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey

The above illustration shows the magnitude of The Duffy Malt Whiskey Co.'s plant, at Waterloo, N. Y. and the executive offices of the concern at Rochester, N. Y. This manufacturing plant is the largest and most complete of its kind in the land, occupying over 15 acres. It is equipped with every up-to-date device, known to the art. There are immense duplicate warehouses a great distance apart, so in case of fire in one warehouse, the trade can be supplied and the high quality and excellence maintained.

How It Is Made—What It Does

Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey is manufactured from specially selected and cleaned grain, the best that can be bought. Only the purest spring water is used at any stage. Every step in the process of malting and manufacture is watched most carefully by men of broad experience, under the supervision of a chief chemist. Great care is exercised to have every kernel thoroughly malted, producing a liquid food, tonic and stimulant, requiring no digestion, in the form of a medicinal whiskey, which has been for over 50 years and is to-day, the world's greatest medicine.

Taken as directed, it brings into action all the vital forces; it makes digestion perfect and enables you to get from the food you eat all the nourishment it contains, thus building up the nerve tissues, toning up the heart, giving power to the brain, strength and elasticity to the muscles and richness to the blood. It is a promoter of good health and longevity; makes the old feel young and keeps the young strong and vigorous.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SAN FRANCISCO, July 13.—Custom officials said here today they had received advance information from Honolulu that the liner Korea, due to arrive here Monday, carries a large amount of contraband opium. The vessel will be searched and will be closely watched by secret service agents from the time it passes the lightship until she departs. Customs inspectors said today they are drawing the evidence closer about men suspected of being engaged in a smuggling conspiracy and that they believe the ring will be broken up by arrests soon to be made.

More Information About Land Cases.

Standard Oil and Southern Pacific Are Involved.

First Actions Will Concern San Joaquin Valley.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

PORTLAND (Or.) July 13.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The first suits in the California oil cases to be filed by the government next week will concern lands in the San Joaquin district.

Ramifications of the alleged frauds extend from California into Wyoming.

The Standard Oil Company, through its subsidiary concern, the Kern Trading and Oil Company, will be involved.

The Southern Pacific company will be made defendant in suits involving lands worth $600,000,000.

These were some of the main points disclosed today by Asst. Atty.-Gen. B. D. Townsend and Dist.-Atty. A. I. McCormick of the Southern California Federal District, after they had held a second conference to plan further their proposed campaign.

PROSPECTIVE DEFENDANTS.

"We cannot, for obvious reasons, make known the names of the prospective defendants in the first lot of suits to be filed next week," said Mr. McCormick today, "but I will say that the lands involved in those suits are in the San Joaquin Valley and in the Sunset, McKittrick, Midway, Devil's Dam, Elk Hill, Lost Hills and Coalinga districts, on the west side of the San Joaquin Valley. I shall return to Los Angeles next week and then action will begin."

CALLS IT TREMENDOUS.

"The scope of these oil land frauds is tremendous," said Mr. Townsend. "It extends over a large portion of the California oil districts and extends as far eastward as Wyoming. I expect a visit here next week from Dist.-Atty. Ridgeley of the Federal District of Wyoming, and he and I will plan our campaign in that State. I do not wish at this time to name prospective defendants in California and Wyoming, but I will say that the Southern Pacific company and Standard Oil are involved.

FINANCIAL VALUES.

"The financial values of the lands involved," said Mr. Townsend, "are so great that they are almost staggering, but it is valuable land, and there are thousands of acres of it, so that the amounts are necessarily great. We are satisfied that the rights of the government will be proved beyond a doubt. Much of the land was taken without even a pretext of a title and we will meet with no technical questions which have not already been passed upon by the Superior Courts."

THREE HUNDRED SUITS.

Some 300 hundred suits in all will be filed and valuable oil holdings in Fresno, Kern and other California counties will be affected. The suits will be directed against individuals, as well as corporations, and associations. The California actions will all be filed in the United States District Court of Los Angeles.

RIGHT OF OWNERSHIP.

One suit against the Southern Pacific company alone demands an accounting of the right of ownership to oil land of the value of some $600,000,000, said Mr. Townsend this morning. The Southern Pacific company has been holding this land and operating on it, said Mr. Townsend, in spite of the fact that the original grant excluded mineral lands, and there are other corporations and individuals who, it is said, have been doing much the same thing.

All of the suits will demand an accounting to the government of the oil that has been taken from the lands in question, and some of the suits will demand forfeiture of the land and ejectments. The general charge is that all the lands were taken from the government on mineral claims after they had been withdrawn from allotment.

The government's contention is that the title to such lands still remains with the government.

CORPORATION TAX ALIBIS.

A Los Angeles Concern Fails to Pay Only Because Its President Is Now Behind the Bars of Prison.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SACRAMENTO, July 13.—The State Controller received all sorts of excuses from corporation attorneys for the failure of their companies to pay the corporation taxes, which are levied by the State Board of Equalization. The latest and by far the most original was received today from a Los Angeles law firm explaining that the corporation franchise taxes on the Pan-American Investment Company have not been paid because its president, John Grant Lyman, is spending an enforced vacation behind prison bars. The attorneys say the company is defunct. It owes corporation franchise taxes for 1911 and 1912.

"Doc" Lyman was credited with being one of the most astute bunco steerers on a large scale that ever worked in California. He succeeded in eluding nurses at the Oakland hospital to which he had been taken after a hard capture; later went to Dunsmuir and eventually to Oregon, where he was re-arrested and again broke jail, but at last was caught by the Federal authorities.

WEDDING DATE IS SET.

SAN FRANCISCO BUREAU OF THE TIMES, July 13.—[Special Dispatch.] Miss Julia Langhorne has named August 14 as the date for her wedding to Lieut. James Parker, U.S.N. Miss Marion Newhall will be the maid of honor and the two bridesmaids will be Misses Sarah Cunningham and Louise Boyd. Lieut. Parker will be attended by his brother, Lieut Cortland Parker, U.S.A., now stationed at Ft. Riley.

LIGHT FROM THE EAST ON THE LIVING ISSUES.

[BY FEDERAL (WIRELESS) LINE TO THE TIMES.]

NEW YORK BUREAU OF THE TIMES, July 13.—[Special Dispatch.] The following editorial comments on topics of the hour are printed in eastern papers:

OTHERS CAN BE CONVINCED.

PROFIT THAT COST TOO MUCH.

[New York Times, July 13:] Nobody grudges our coastwise marine any profits fairly earned, but the gains from the operation of the Panama Canal ought not to go disproportionately to owners of vessels operated under a monopoly. It is difficult to fight arguments which shall persuade a man against his own interest, and the owners of the vessels who are asking that they be exempted from tolls and that their competitors be forbidden to reduce their rates, may be left to their own conclusions. All other Americans can be convinced readily enough that it is more to their interest that freight rates shall be reduced and that the coastwise marine shall be increased.

LORIMER.

PUNISHMENT FOR CAREER.

[New York World, July 13:] Lorimer will lose his seat in the United States Senate for a reason which he and his defenders seem unable to comprehend. He is not a newspaper victim. He does not suffer from distorted law. He is not to be sacrificed to the jealousies and hatred of political and business rivals. Far from it.

Lorimer is to be punished for his whole political career. He is to be punished as a representative of the mercenary interests that have preyed on the people for a generation. He is to be punished because he was caught.

ZINC RECORDS BROKEN.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

JOPLIN (Mo.) July 13.—All records for zinc were broken here today when $60 a ton was paid for blende from mines located near Webb City. High price of spelter during the last few months has steadily increased the price for zinc ore. The recent heavy rains that flooded many mines in this district caused them to shut down, bringing about curtailment in the output.

IMMERSED FOR BURNS.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

LOUISVILLE (Ky.) July 13.—Charles T. Rogers, who for six years was an editor of the Associated Press at Louisville, and who suffered severe burns in a fire in his rooming-house two weeks ago, lies immersed in a bath tub filled with a saline solution kept at a temperature of 100 degrees Fahrenheit. This course was directed yesterday by the physician attending him at a local hospital as a last chance to save his life. Gangrene has developed and the doctors hope in this way to check it.

WILL IMPEACH MAYOR.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

INDIANAPOLIS, July 13.—Impeachment proceedings to remove Mayor Lewis Shank from office for not enforcing laws prohibiting disorderly resorts were decided on last night by the Indianapolis Church Federation. The action follows an investigation by the Civil Service Commission, which repeatedly asked the Mayor to enforce the laws. He has held that conditions would be worse if the plan of segregation was abandoned.

TAGGART STAYS IN HARNESS.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

INDIANAPOLIS, July 13.—Thomas Taggart, Democratic national committeeman from Indiana, who, after the national convention, announced his retirement, will continue in active political work. The Indiana Democratic Committee today refused to accept his resignation. On learning that the committee's decision was unanimous, Mr. Taggart consented to withdraw his resignation and will continue to represent Indiana in the National Committee.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

NEW BEDFORD (Mass.) July 13.—The New Bedford Cotton Manufacturers' Association accepted the strike challenge of the Weavers' Union by voting to refuse the weavers' demands for the removal from the mills of notices concerning the adoption of a grading system in the cloth mills. The weavers already have voted to strike Monday. Twenty thousand operatives will be affected.

TORNADO HITS GRAND RAPIDS.

Many Injured and Vast Damage Caused.

Whirling Cloud Descends Without Warning.

Grand Stand Picked Up and Dropped in a Crowd.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

GRAND RAPIDS (Mich.) July 13. A tornado that injured forty or more persons and did thousands of dollars worth of damage. The storm struck the city from the southwest about 4 o'clock. The first place struck was the City Market and the Grand Rapids Central League Baseball Park, adjoining.

PANIC AMONG FARMERS.

The market was crowded with farmers and their teams, as trading had just begun. After the storm struck, the roof of the ball park grand stand was lifted off and scattered about the market. A panic followed. Horses were killed and a great many persons were hurt, some so badly that they had to be sent to the hospital. The police reserves and fire departments were called out.

The storm then swept across town, striking the best residence district.

The storm struck the market place at the same time as the bell for the morning opening rang.

BALLOON CLOUD WHIRLS.

A terrific thunderstorm which had been approaching had given no warning of danger from wind, but suddenly a whirling balloon cloud appeared in the southwest and headed directly toward the clustered produce wagons.

With a deafening roar, the roof of the ball park grand stand was lifted high in the air and fell in a rain of planks and beams upon the frightened men and horses in the market place, causing a panic.

Men and women thrown down by the wind were run over and knocked unconscious by dashing teams. Nellie Varana attempted to quiet her frightened horses, but fell and in a moment two heavy fruit wagons passed over her. She may die. Many other persons suffered broken limbs, but it is thought all will recover. Charles Gibbe, 57 years old, who was suffering from a nervous disease, died from the shock caused by the storm.

CYCLONE KILLS ONE IN WISCONSIN CITY.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

KENOSHA (Wis.) July 13.—Mrs. [illegible] Prints of South Kenosha, was killed and many people injured in the tornado which passed through the streets of Kenosha early today. The storm was the most severe known in this part of the State in many years, and left a path of desolation behind it. Houses were blown down, trees uprooted, barns collapsed and crops ruined by the force of the wind.

Mrs. Printz was about to become a mother. She was ill when the tornado struck her home and died from the shock.

The two-story home of Capt. O. [illegible], at South Kenosha, was completely demolished and Nelson was found buried in the debris. He was unconscious, but it was believed he would recover.

It is said that the path of the storm was a half mile in width and that this territory everything was practically ruined. It is impossible to estimate the loss.

In Kenosha proper a hotel was struck by lightning. The hotel guests escaped in their night-clothes.

TIDAL WAVE IN LAKE INDUCED BY STORM.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

RACINE (Wis.) July 13.—A terrific electrical storm in this vicinity today was featured by a small tidal wave on Lake Michigan.

The water in the river here rose several feet, then receded, leaving the level one foot lower than the usual stage.

In Racine much damage was done along the lake front by lightning.

What's the Matter?

JURY SERVICE A PROFESSION.

KANSAS COMES TO BAT WITH A "NEW" NOVELTY.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

Steps Will Be Made to Present the Matter Through the Legislature to the People and Have the Question Vote on a Constitutional Amendment.

TOPEKA (Kan.) July 13.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] A new plan of handling criminal and civil cases in the courts will be presented to the next Kansas Legislature by John S. Dawson, Attorney-General and a member of the Kansas Bar Association.

The plan contemplates to establish a professional jury service and that it should be adopted in Kansas, which would require additional courses in the Kansas law schools.

The proposition will be submitted to the Legislature next winter and if the law-making body should think best it will be submitted to the voters at the election in 1914.

The plan would do away entirely with the present methods of drawing and taking men from their homes for periods of thirty to ninety days.

Conditions in the State would be improved especially trained men of law work and with nothing to do but sit as jurors. There would be no delay for each District Court would travel over the district judges do as they do at the present time.

RECEPTION FOR "THE TIMES."

ed to make practically certain the passage of a bill providing Federal aid for a National Highway across the United States from the Pacific to the Atlantic at the next session of Congress.

GREETED WARMLY.

With The Times car almost in sight of the goal, the reception given in Washington was a fitting climax to a tour that has meant hardship and hard work.

Judge J. M. Lowe, president of the National Old Trails Ocean-to-Ocean Highway Association, was obliged to return to his home in Kansas City, but the good roads enthusiast who had ridden so many miles refused to leave the car until he was certain that success would crown the efforts of the thousands who are behind the enterprise.

Crowds at the Capitol today saw The Times car filled with Senators leave the front steps of the big building on a tour through the White House grounds. The question of Federal aid for a national highway did not frighten the leading men of the nation, who were willing to climb into the old, road-scarred machine, even though moving-picture operators were at work.

NOTABLE ACCESSIONS.

When such men as Senator Guggenheim of Colorado, Senator Oliver of Pennsylvania, Senator Martine of New Jersey, Senators Works and Perkins of California, Senator Dupont of Delaware, Senator Sutherland of Utah, Senator Townsend of Michigan, Senator Dixon of Montana, Congressman Kahn and Congressman Stephens of California, Congressman Copley of Illinois, and scores of other leading legislators joined the movement, Judge Lowe felt that his work had been done, at least for the time being, and he returned home for a much-needed rest.

Senator La Follette of Wisconsin was one of the most positive in his statement in regard to a National Highway.

"I am in favor of a National Highway across the United States because it will help the farmers to make more money and because it is one of the greatest things in the development of this nation."

TIME FOR AWAKENING.

Senator Guggenheim of Colorado said:

"I am in favor of a National Highway and of national assistance for a permanent road across the United States. It is time we awakened to this great need and you can count me in on this movement."

Julius Kahn, Congressman from California, said:

"I am in favor of a National Highway along the exact route followed by The Times car. Keep up the fight. You have the people with you in this great movement. I think it was time this question was brought before Congress."

COMMENDS ENTERPRISE.

Senator Perkins of California said:

"I want to congratulate you upon the success of your great undertaking and I want, through you, to express my appreciation of the enterprise and public spirit of the Los Angeles Times, which has sent you across the continent on a most laudable errand."

Senator Curtis of Kansas is one of the most enthusiastic men in Congress on the subject of good roads. He said:

"I have been trying for five years to work up sentiment in my State in behalf of better roads. It is one of the greatest movements now before the people. The government should find means to effect an arrangement with the various States and through the joint effort of the States and the general government secure the best roads possible. I would go at it deliberately, carefully and in a methodical way, so that the movement would result in a positive success."

HELPS STATE PROJECT.

Senator Oliver of Pennsylvania said:

"We are devoting $5,000,000 a year to our roads, we are planning to bond Pennsylvania for $50,000,000 to improve our State highways. Now this will help our project, as I realize we must have better roads through that part of Pennsylvania passed by The Times car."

Congressman Raker of California said:

"Reckon on me to aid you in a fight for a National Highway. I am for good roads first, last and all the time. I will do all in my power to help you win."

Senator Root said:

"Convey my regards to Gen. Harrison Gray Otis of The Times. He is doing a great work."

EVERYBODY WANTS IT.

Senator Martin of New Jersey said:

"I favor a plan that would give us a national highway. We should all be with you in such an undertaking. In New Jersey everybody is in favor of a national highway across the United States."

Mr. Lincoln, being a practical man would have preferred a memorial that would have been of real value to the people in their every-day life. Mr. Clark believes such a road could be made the beginning of a great system of national highways built by the States with government aid.

Mr. Clark favors a system of memorial highways across this country, each section of which should be built in honor of one or more illustrious statesmen. In this way a highway across the United States could be built and the men of this country be committed to a great plan that would enlist the sympathy of the nation.

THE MORROW CASE.

Widow Accused of Murder Takes Notes and Intends to Have as Much to Say as a Lawyer.

[By Federal (Wireless) Line to The Times.]

CHICAGO BUREAU OF THE TIMES, July 13.—[Special Dispatch.] Mrs. Rene B. Morrow made it plain today that she was going to have more to say regarding the conducting of her defense than her attorney.

Armed with copious notes she entered the courtroom for the morning session and promptly called Attorney Eberstein into consultation. Every question that will be asked and every move that was made had her stamp of approval before Eberstein acted.

Mrs. Morrow's principal effort now is being directed towards disproving the contention that she quarreled with her husband on the night that he was slain.

She was particularly incensed at the witnesses who testified that she mistreated her husband or forced him to eat his meals with the servants in the kitchen. Today she induced several women friends to agree to take the stand and testify that she always treated the inventor with the greatest of consideration. W. H. Palmer, formerly a roomer at the Morrow's house, Mrs. F. H. Woods, another roomer, and Mrs. Katherine Scanlon, cook at the Morrow's home, all testified that Mrs. Morrow failed to show any attentions to her husband and that quarrels were frequent.

SIZZLING HEAT.

Hot Weather Extends All the Way From the Rocky Mountains to the Atlantic Coast.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

WASHINGTON, July 13.—At the conclusion of another day of sizzling heat where high temperature prevailed generally from the Rockies to the Atlantic coast, with the exception of New England and eastern New York, weather bureau officials tonight promised somewhat lower temperatures in the plains States within the next thirty-six hours and probably during Monday in the Missouri and upper Mississippi valleys and Upper Lake region.

They said there would not be much change from the present aggravating heat over the eastern portion of the country.

There was a marked fall in temperature in western Montana and the extreme Canadian Northwest, where a rise in pressure indicated a lower temperature for the northern central portion of the country. Local showers and thunderstorms may bring relief to various sections of the country, but it will be only temporary.

MURDER CHARGE FAILS.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SPOKANE (Wash.) July 13.—The jury in the case of Mrs. Della Olds, charged with the murder of her husband, Dr. W. H. Olds, on May 28, returned a verdict today of not guilty. Dr. Olds was killed by a shot from a rifle fired by Mrs. Olds as he stood at the telephone. When the verdict was announced women in the courtroom began a demonstration in which cheers and sobs were mingled.

ADJOURNMENT AT EARLY DATE

Archbald Impeachment Trial Must Wait a While.

Senate Makes the Canal Bill Unfinished Business.

Britain's Request for Delay Met With Refusal.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

WASHINGTON, July 13.—It was practically determined today that the Archbald impeachment case would not be tried by the Senate this summer. This indicates an earlier adjournment of Congress than seemed possible a few days ago. The delay is said to be in accordance with the wishes of Judge Archbald.

TO DEMAND TRIAL.

It was arranged today that the Senate should be notified of the House resolution of impeachment and that the managers should formally appear next week to demand trial. While the House managers were anxious to have the case heard at once, they met opposition on both sides of the chamber. The hot weather, the rush of other business, and the approaching political campaign all combined to favor a postponement of the trial.

The Senate today voted forty to thirty-four to make the Panama Canal bill unfinished business. This substantially refuses Great Britain's request that the bill be held up pending diplomatic negotiations. An effort to put Democratic tariff legislation ahead was lost.

The Hague Tribunal would be subjected to the most severe strain ever placed upon it, in the opinion of the officials here, should the settlement of the issue between America and Great Britain regarding the use of the canal be referred to it. This strain would be felt in the important step of securing an impartial court of arbitration.

In this peculiar case the United States would stand almost alone against the nations of the world in her assertion of the right to discriminate in favor of American shipping. Every maritime power would profit by a decision in favor of Great Britain.

Unless the parties to the arbitration would be satisfied to elect the judges from countries absolutely without maritime interests, such as Switzerland, it would be practically impossible to secure an impartial tribunal.

TO HONOR ARCHIE BUTT.

Plan Is Launched for Memorial Building at University of the South, Where He Graduated.

[By Federal (Wireless) Line to The Times.]

WASHINGTON BUREAU OF THE TIMES, July 13.—[Special Dispatch.] One of the most striking plans to honor the memory of Maj. Archibald Butt, President Taft's aide, who went down with the Titanic, is for a memorial building to be erected at the University of the South at Sewanee, Tenn.

Butt was an alumnus of that university, and was known there as an exceptional athlete. The plan is to make the memorial building a gymnasium, theater and auditorium. President Taft and prominent men of the South have joined in the movement.

The University of the South has a long list of graduates high in public life, among them Senators Lea of Tennessee, John Sharp Williams, Perry and Hoke Smith.

Gives Advice.

GOODRICH IS PLEASED AT HARBOR PROSPECTS.

SAN PEDRO, July 13.—Within a year and a half Los Angeles can increase her harbor facilities by the expenditure of the $3,000,000 harbor bonds so that a million tons more freight a year can be handled. This is practically an increase of 50 per cent. over the present business of the port," is the way Consulting Engineer Goodrich of Los Angeles Harbor put it after he had visited the Huntington fill with City Engineer Hamlin.

Goodrich does not seem to be worried over the delay in getting harbor work started.

"Los Angeles is doing pretty well," he said. "I was here six months ago and we now have plans practically completed for both the Wilmington work in the inner harbor and for the improvement of the Huntington fill in the outer harbor. Contracts might have been let for the work a month after I was here but it is better to go slower and work out the details carefully. It is better not to be ready until two months after the canal is completed—although I have no fears that the work will not be done before that—than to waste a lot of money in construction work because of hastily-drawn plans."

The harbor was a Mecca for harbor officials today. First came the Harbor Commission accompanied by Secretary Matson. It was the first trip. Edward Johnson and Frederick T. Woodman, the newly-appointed members, have made since their appointment. In the afternoon Special Counsel Hewitt visited San Pedro on matters connected with the boulevard condemnation suits.

Goodrich's visit was to get results of the tests made to learn what sort of a foundation the Huntington fill has for warehouses. He said the tests have proven satisfactory and that there is no reason why six-story warehouses may not be built there, if necessary. The tests in the inner harbor have not been completed.

Goodrich said that the completed plans for the work on the Huntington fill will be ready by the middle of next week. They will provide for concrete wharves in unit sections beginning at the shore-end of the fill so that Los Angeles may build out from the shore as far and as rapidly as funds will permit. It will depend on the amount required to condemn the right of way for the boulevard how many of the units of wharf construction can be completed out of the present bond funds.

"The approaches to the harbor are most essential," said he. "There is no need of building wharves unless you can get the freight away easily and economically. I do not mean by this that a low water-grade route is absolutely essential at this time.

"But you have not sufficient tracks and roads. The Southern Pacific is cramped now for room to handle its present business. Tracks must be provided to the Huntington fill and there must also be a good serviceable street leading to the fill. A much larger proportion of the freight than you imagine will be handled by automobile trucks. I know a Pennsylvania piano manufacturer who is delivering from his factory to New York City, a distance of 150 miles, practically all his output by automobile trucks.

"In the outer harbor you will have the same class of quick-moving freight that is handled on the east side of Manhattan Island, while in the Wilmington district will be located the factories that are found back on the flats and along the creeks of New York Harbor.

"I believe the wholesale business not only of the territory outside Los Angeles but of the trade of the city itself will be handled from warehouses at the harbor. There may be a few lines of high-class goods like drugs that will be carried in warehouses in Los Angeles, but even the more bulky classes of groceries will be sold from samples and delivered from the harbor by auto trucks."

Goodrich said the harbor lines established "before the Panama Canal furor" were good, but now the lines in the inner harbor will have to be changed to meet increased demands of commerce. Fully two-thirds of the rail business now coming into Los Angeles will be handled by water, in the opinion of Goodrich.

It's of Vital Interest to Every Citizen

Talks On Teeth

Better Than Natural Teeth

There is no middle ground for the man who has poor teeth or not enough teeth to properly chew his food.

In a pinch he can get along and be fairly comfortable with other parts of his anatomy missing, but he must have enough teeth, or the human engine will go wrong and break down.

Good teeth are vital.

How about yours?

We have a sensible, rational and entirely effective plan of restoring missing teeth through and we accomplish this result without having to half fill the mouth with a partial plate or torture the wearer with an ordinary piece of bridge work.

A partial plate can't be made so it will fit for any length of time, because the gums are constantly changing their shape.

One can't "bite" on any such contrivance or chew his food properly.

An ordinary "bridge" is high in the middle, like a "Cantilever" structure, and it is both dangerous and painful to bite on—dangerous because it is apt to snap in two under the strain; painful because the constant strain irritates the teeth to which it is anchored and finally ruins them.

When we place the Rex Method of Alveolar teeth in your mouth, we say: "Go and use them just as you would nature's teeth, crack nuts with them if you want to. They will stand the usage."

We take all the chances.

They are good to look at, too.

So nearly do they resemble natural teeth that even dentists have to look twice when examining them.

There is no pain about the installing of Rex Method Alveolar Teeth; no surgery, no boring or cutting into the gums, nothing about having them put in your mouth that you need fear; so come to our office and have the work done right away.

All we require is that you have two or more teeth in your jaws.

We will supply the rest.

OUR CHARGES ARE REASONABLE

We do not ask fancy prices for our work. Just a fair fee—a reasonable sum—just what anyone will gladly and willingly pay for high-grade work such as we invariably execute. Remember that you can always consult us free of charge regarding your teeth troubles, and there is no obligation incurred on your part in so doing.

Irresistible.

MOCKING SMILE IS FATAL LURE.

Automobile Speeders Look and Are Lost.

Winsome Lassies and Pearly Teeth Aid Law.

Sweethearts Used as Decoys by Officers.

A winsome lass, flashing a smile as sunnily sweet as a day in June, has brought about the downfall of dozens of auto speeders on the Venice road, the "speed mania" road of Los Angeles county. She has caused their hearts to flutter so that their digestions are upset and their mental poise seriously disturbed, and incidentally has touched their pocketbooks to the end that the county treasury bulges with their dollars paid out in fines.

On the rear seat of a motorcycle, with a sturdy county motorcycle "cop" steering, the young woman, claim the autoists, has been the pretty decoy that has led them into opening the mufflers of their engines and cutting down the road at a pace that soon landed them in trouble.

Of course, the motorists do not for a moment think that the pretty young woman on the motorcycle is either the wife or sweetheart of one of their hereditary foes. Far from it. When the motorcycle puffs saucily behind an autoist and starts to pass, with the girl on the rear seat showing a row of pearls in a derisive smile, his pride is touched.

No man with an auto that can cough along at a speed of more than twenty-five miles an hour wants to see his machine passed. Furthermore, he has a sort of brainstorm caused by the tantalizing smile of the pretty young woman, and so he is led to his undoing.

MANY ARE TRICKED.

So far, it is estimated, about 100 autoists have fallen into the nicely-baited trap. The motorcycle policemen deny that they are carrying their girls or sweethearts along as "motor bait." Of course, they can't help it if their feminine companions stir the autoist to speeding.

H. Drew of the District Attorney's office, who has charge of the eight motorcycle policemen who hunt speeders for the county, said yesterday that if the motorcycle policemen carried fascinating young women on the tandem seats of their machines, they were using the feminine decoys on their own initiative. He said that the women never appear in court against the speeders, but said there was nothing strange in this, as out of the 1200 speeding cases he has handled since March 28 of this year, there have been only two contested cases. All the other victims promptly pleaded guilty and were punished.

Warren McIntyre, member of the real estate board, who is connected with the Janss Investment Company, was one who fell into the feminine motorcycle trap. McIntyre was not arrested but he sped his machine only a short distance and as he was going under thirty miles an hour the motorcycle "cop" stopped him and allowed him to proceed after giving him a warning.

"I was driving back from Venice with a party of friends when a motorcycle came up right back of my machine," said McIntyre. "I looked back and saw that there was a man and a woman on the machine. The girl was pretty and she was smiling. The motorcycle was spitting away in an exasperating manner and suddenly it started to pass me. I saw the girl grin. Now I will leave it to any man, who ever drove a machine, if he wouldn't have done the same thing that I did. I opened up my machine just a little bit to show the girl that she couldn't steam around me as if I were a knot on a log. Well, I hadn't gone very far before the man on the motorcycle shot his machine right up along side of me and called out for me to stop, saying he was an officer.

"I stopped. I didn't think the fellow was a regular cop at first, but he showed his star and convinced me that I was really in the hands of the law. He was nice about it, though, and simply warned me. The girl kept smiling all the time.

The Venice road is said by the county officials to furnish more speeders than any other of the county roads. The road to the seashore is level and well-paved and it takes a stout-hearted man to deny himself the pleasure of skimming along over the smooth asphalt at a speed less than thirty miles an hour.

Since Drew took charge of the county motorcycle squad in the latter part of March, the speeders have paid into the county fines amounting to $5700. This money goes into the general fund.

The special deputies generally content themselves with warning any one they catch speeding. The warning is usually sufficient to cause the driver of the fast-going machine to slow down and take heed of the speed laws. Chief Sebastian and Sheriff Hammel say that the "speed mania" in Los Angeles has grown to such an extent that they are adopting every measure they can think of to stop it and put an end to the numerous deaths and accidents.

ICY GRIP OF THE NORTH.

Long Hand Reaches to the Sunny South for Man Alleged to Have Committed Fraud.

How that powerful corporation, the Hudson Bay Company, whose grip on the commercial life of British Columbia is mighty, pursues an accused person, will be illustrated before United States Commissioner Van Dyke Tuesday, when the order for the removal of Arthur Benson Fletcher to North Vancouver to answer to the charge of having obtained goods under false pretenses will be heard.

Fletcher has been a resident of Venice for some months. It is alleged that he obtained goods valued at $440 on December 6, 1911, from the Hudson Bay Company, giving an assignment of book accounts to the corporation to secure the credit when, it is charged, they had previously been assigned to the Royal Bank of Canada.

Fletcher, after failing in business in North Vancouver went to Calgary where he resumed business after turning over his assets to his creditors. It is alleged that now there are plenty of assets to settle the Hudson Bay Company's account.

Fletcher was arrested at Calgary, but made his escape from the officer en route to North Vancouver, afterward coming to Venice. His bond was originally fixed at $500, but increased to $2000 on the representations of British Vice-Consul Mortimer, representing the Dominion government in the proceedings. The surety was furnished by friends of Fletcher's attorney, who think he is persecuted.

Pure Water

The Best Physician

PURITAS

Distilled Water—the Purest

Physicians compel you to drink pure water when you're sick—they'll advise you to do so when you are well.

And more than two hundred physicians in Los Angeles use and indorse PURITAS as the only really pure drinking water hereabouts.

PURITAS isn't flat and unpalatable, like ordinary distilled water—for this reason:

PURITAS is thoroughly and scientifically aerated with pure ozone, after distillation—and this restores to the pure water that life and sparkle that you miss in water that has simply been distilled.

It's a pleasure, as well as a matter of hygiene, to drink PURITAS Distilled Water.

And if you'll drink quantities of it this summer, you'll find your general health improved, without any question.

Just telephone Home 10053; Sunset Main 8191, and we'll see that you are promptly supplied with a five-gallon demijohn of PURITAS, at a cost to you of only 40c, if you live within the old city boundary lines. To points farther out, the cost is just a trifle higher.

And if there isn't a dealer in the part of Southern California in which you live, you, too, can secure PURITAS by simply writing or telephoning the home office. Los Angeles Ice and Cold Storage Company.

Do it immediately—for your pleasure and for your good health, and that of your family.

Grand Army.

OHIO MEN TO COME IN STYLE.

LUXURIOUS TRAIN ARRANGED FOR BY DEPARTMENT.

Buckeye State Delegation to National Encampment Plans Big Gathering Here and Expects to Make Good Showing in Parade. Headquarters at Westminster.

The Grand Army veterans of Ohio are making big plans for their participation in the National Encampment to be held in this city in September. A special train, consisting of two sections of Pullman cars, will leave Cincinnati Tuesday, September 3, arriving here the following Saturday. Practically every post in the State will be represented in the big delegation. Headquarters of the Department of Ohio will be at the Westminster, where fifty rooms have been engaged.

At a recent meeting of the Department of Ohio, G.A.R., in Springfield, Rev. Charles W. Blodgett, D.D., pastor of Cincinnati's largest church and one of Ohio's most popular lecturers, was elected department commander. Dr. Blodgett went to the front as a member of an Iowa regiment. Writing to a friend in this city, he says that the veterans of the Buckeye State will make the trip in grand style and that their special train will be splendidly equipped.

Reservations on the train can be made by application to Dr. Blodgett, The Roanoke, Cincinnati, or Gen. W. S. Matthews, Central National Bank building, Columbus. It is probable that the departments of West Virginia and Kentucky will come on the same train and the Ohio officials desire that every Ohioan who wishes to visit California at this time make reservations as early as possible.

The Westminster will be the rallying place for Ohio people during the Encampment. The Ohio Society of Southern California will install an information bureau in the hotel and is arranging a series of entertainments and receptions for the visiting delegates. Special rates have been made by the hotel management. Any Ohio veteran may take advantage of them by applying to Gen. Matthews or Chaplain Orville J. Nave, No. 2505 South Grand avenue, this city.

The department officers and the Ohio Society of this city expect a big gathering of Ohio people during Encampment week and are making every possible effort to have a good showing in the grand parade. Anyone desiring information regarding the special train or hotel arrangements may address Chaplain Nave.

HASSAYAMPA CLUB JINKS.

Committees Meet and Prepare for Three Days' Celebration by Summer Visitors Here.

A large committee of Arizona people took the first steps in arranging for a three days' celebration by the Hassayampa Club at the Hollenbeck yesterday. It is estimated that at least 5000 Arizonans are passing the summer in Los Angeles county and they want to have a tremendous summertime feast.

Not until another meeting is held at the same place Wednesday morning at 11 o'clock will the date of the high jinks be agreed upon, but most members of the committee have expressed a personal preference for August 13, 14 and 15. Thy also have decided in a general way that they will pass one day at some beach, one evening at a theater, and one day in giving a banquet at a city hotel or in holding a barbecue at a local park.

The general committee has been divided into several sub-committees to discuss these details and to make some final report Wednesday. Among the members of the committee attending yesterday's conference were C. D. Baker, Yuma; Oscar Roberts, Dos Cabezos; S. H. Bryant, Gleason; Gus Heyman, Prescott; Maurice Salsman, Williams; Judge and Mrs. E. A. Davis, Mojave; Thomas M. Brennan, Parker; John S. Mitchell, Los Angeles and Ajo; W. T. Webb, Safford; Judge W. C. McFarland, Solomonville; Charles H. Wilde, Globe; Edward Vail, Vail; Atty.-Gen. George Purdy Bullard, Phoenix.

PLANNING Y.M.C.A. OUTING.

San Bernardino and Orange County Organizations Will Establish a Camp on Catalina Island.

ONTARIO, July 13.—Prof. F. S. Hayden, M. Hartwig, Ernest Lee, F. W. Watenpaugh and other Ontario men prominent in Y.M.C.A. work are busy today perfecting plans for the annual summer camp of the associations of San Bernardino and Orange counties, at Catalina Island.

"Camp Wilson" will be open this year from August 14 to 28, and all boys belonging to the associations of the two counties between the ages of 12 and 18 will be admitted. The boys will leave San Pedro by the Cabrillo on the morning of August 14 and will make the trip from Avalon to the camp by glass-bottom boats.

Robert J. Hamilton, county secretary of Orange county, who has had charge of four Y.M.C.A. camps at Oak Park, Illinois, will act as camp superintendent. He will be assisted by M. Hartwig, new secretary of San Bernardino county.

Every effort is to be made this year to make the camp an even greater success than in previous years. A field day is to be a feature of the outing and there are to be awards for the winners of the various contests. Scout craft is to be taught and the shells and plant life of the islands and are to be studied. The plans for the camp also include the establishment of a wireless telegraph station. First aid and life-saving is to be taught and Bible study is to be a feature of the camp life.

NEWS BRIEFS.

The trustees of the Chaffey Union High School today held their initial meeting following the spring election and organized for the coming year with E. C. Harwood, president and J. O. Mills, clerk. As the State law requires that two of the five trustees serve for three years, two years and one for one year, the five members of the board drew straws with the following result: Harwood and Mills, three-year-term; C. C. Graber and B. F. Warmer, two-year-term, and H. C. Kennedy, one year.

The overly-strict speed regulations in Claremont, Upland and other towns along the Foothill boulevard are causing a greatly-increased traffic of motorists over the Valley boulevard through this city. There has never been an arrest made in Ontario for fast driving and yet the number of automobile accidents in this city during the past few years is smaller than of many other towns whose speed laws are the strictest. Word was received here today that the speed limit in Pomona, on the Valley route to the west of Ontario, has been raised from twelve to twenty miles per hour.

To fill a vacancy on the Board of Directors of the Ontario Young Men's Christian Association left by the resignation of E. W. Henry, Solon Y. Russell was elected a member of the board, today. B. P. Glenn was chosen secretary, and Russel, treasurer. The directors are now working to perfect plans for the erection of a $12,000 association building, funds for which were raised at a recent campaign for popular subscriptions. A committee composed of J. S. Armstrong, R. P. Garbutt and B. P. Glenn was appointed to look after the final arrangements for starting work and report at a meeting to be held next Thursday.

PERRIS.

PERRIS, July 13.—Roy Cummings, youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. George Cummings, met with a serious accident while hauling poles for the Southern Sierra Power Company. While crossing the railroad track the breach broke, allowing the poles to strike the horses, which frightened them and they started to run. The young man was thrown off and was either struck by the heavy poles in his fall or the wheel run over him. Three ribs were broken and his shoulder blade was fractured. One of the ribs punctured his right lung.

The city pumping plant came near being destroyed by fire yesterday. Marshall Pike, who runs the plant, started the fire in the furnace, then left the building for a few minutes. When he returned the whole interior of the building was ablaze. By the help of the hay baling crew working near by the fire was extinguished, but not before considerable damage had been done.

The well-boring rigs have been doing a rushing business the past few weeks in this section. The Lapp Gifford Company has just completed a 300-foot, 12-inch well for the Temescal Water Company east of town, which gives a flow of 100 inches. The same company has just finished a 175-foot tunnel connecting three wells on the Emil Firth ranch northeast of town. One well is 325 feet deep; the other two 200 feet. It is estimated that the three wells will give a flow of 300 inches of water.

Crandall and Pierce are busy this week sinking a twelve-inch well for James Landcaster on his ranch at Valverde.

COLTON.

COLTON, July 13.—Mrs. A. C. Haight died last evening at her home in Highgrove. Mrs. Haight was afflicted with goiter and choked to death. The funeral will be held Monday from the residence. Interment will be at Riverside. Five daughters, Mrs. Donnis of Riverside, Misses Addie, Alzora, Alla and Elizabeth Haight, and two sons, John and Ira, survive.

Prof. J. P. Mitchell and Prof. Bohart, instructors in chemistry at Stanford University, were guests at dinner last evening of Joseph Cothell, at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Cothell of West F street. Cothell is in his fourth year at Stanford.

WASHINGTON, July 13.—[By A. P. Night Wire.] Victor Berger, the Socialist Congressman, enlisted today President Taft in an effort to secure the release from Siberia of Stefan Dabrowski, who claims American citizenship, and who is exiled on a political charge. The case will be laid before the Cabinet Tuesday.

Te ls Positive Cure For all Foot Troubles

Science has proven that nearly all foot troubles originate from a common cause; that of injured tissues. The following information will be welcomed by thousands of victims of daily foot torture. No matter how many patent medicines you have tried in vain, this treatment which was formerly known only to doctors will do the work. Don't waste time. Get it at once. "Dissolve two tablespoonfuls of Calocide compound in a basin of warm water. Soak the feet for a full fifteen minutes, gently rubbing the sore parts." The effects are marvelous. All pain disappears instantly and the feet feel simply delightful. Corns and callouses can be peeled right off. Bunions, aching feet and sweaty smelly feet get immediate relief. Use this treatment a week and your foot troubles will be a thing of the past. Calocide works through the pores and removes the cause. Any druggist has Calocide in stock or will get it from his wholesale house. Don't be influenced to take something else instead. A twenty-five cent box is said to be enough to cure the worst feet.

Railroad Record.

FREIGHT RATES GASHED DEEPLY.

Sweeping Reduction by the Railroad Commission.

Cuts of from Ten to Sixty Per Cent. in Oil Fields.

Joint Sunset Branch Dividends Are Excessive.

[By Federal (Wireless) Line to The Times.]

SAN FRANCISCO BUREAU OF THE TIMES. [Special Dispatch.] The Railroad Commission rendered a decision today making reductions of from 10 to 60 per cent. in the rates between Bakersfield and the McKittrick and West Side oil fields, in Kern county. These reductions will be reflected to a large extent in the rates from San Francisco, Los Angeles and other shipping points to the Kern county oil fields. The commission found the existing rates unreasonable and excessive, and ordered widespread reductions to take effect August 4.

A COMPLAINT.

The case was brought to the commission in a complaint filed by the Kern County Merchants' Association. It was directed against the Sunset railroad, controlled jointly by the Southern Pacific company and the Santa Fe, and running from Bakersfield through the West Side oil fields to Shale, and against the McKittrick branch of the Southern Pacific company running from Bakersfield through McKittrick to Olig.

The commission found that the Sunset Railroad was almost without parallel among railroads in its earning capacity. In 1910 it declared a dividend of 60 per cent., or $300,000 on its capitalization of $500,000. In 1911 it declared a dividend of 100 per cent., amounting to $500,000.

The commission adds:

"It must be remembered that of this $500,000 capital stock upon which dividends were declared, $470,000 was issued for right-of-way which a witness testified cost approximately $4000, and cost this company nothing."

WATERED STOCK.

In another portion of its decision the commission says:

"We are required to give a value of $470,000 to water in the stock of this concern."

Because of the vast size to which the oil industry has attained, points on the Sunset Railroad and the McKittrick branch are among the most important shipping stations in California. The amount of freight moving to and from Taft, for instance, is as great as that which goes and comes from an ordinary city of metropolitan size.

Rates from Bakersfield to Taft on first class are cut from 31 cents per hundred to 18 cents; on second class, from 28 cents to 16 cents; on third class, from 25 cents to 14 cents; on fourth class, from 22 cents to 13 cents; on fifth class, from 18 cents to 11 cents per hundred pounds. Classes D and E shipments are cut from 9 cents to 5 cents per hundred pounds. A substantial percentage of the reductions are in this proportion. The points directly affected include all the important oil-shipping and oil-industry territory in what are known as the West Side and McKittrick fields.

SENATOR BAILEY IS PESSIMISTIC.

SEES DISTRESSING CONDITIONS AHEAD OF THE NATION.

In Farewell Speech Predicts Condition Similar to that of French Revolution if Affairs in Country Are Permitted to Continue Thirty Years on Present Trend.

[BY S. P. DAY WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

WASHINGTON, July 13.—Senator Bailey of Texas, in a farewell address at a private dinner last night, predicted that if conditions in the United States continued to change as much in the next thirty years as they had in the last thirty, the country would face a condition paralleling that of the French revolution. Colleagues of the Texas leader revealed his remarks today.

Mr. Bailey charged that members of Congress by their own cowardice were responsible for a condition of unrest which prevails. He virtually charged the Democratic party with exaggerating the importance of existing evils.

"This republic is near a crisis which is greater than the wisest men think," said Senator Bailey. "I do not forget that the French revolution came while the Governors were at the theater and that they rose from their banquet tables to come face to face with violence and bloodshed in the streets of Paris. I do not say the United States is facing such a state of affairs, but I do maintain that if within the next thirty years the country should continue to change as it has in the last thirty, we will find ourselves face to face with such a condition at the end of that time.

"You Senators and Representatives," continued Mr. Bailey, "can prevent this great crisis and you will do so if you have the courage to go out and tell the public the truth. Every evil which exists in the country today can be corrected without danger to the principles and policies upon which this republic was founded, and it should be done.

"The impatience of the minority, of which I myself have been a member, has been largely responsible for the state of mind of the people of the United States today, for they have grossly exaggerated the evils of the country."

FAULT IN CONSTRUCTION.

Disaster to Dirigible Balloon Akron Due to Escape of Gas and Ignition By Engine's Exhaust.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

ATLANTIC CITY (N. J.) July 13.—The explosion of the gas envelope of Melvin Vaniman's airship here on July 2, which caused the death of its crew of five men, was due, not to the action of the sun's rays, as at first supposed, but to a fault in construction which allowed the expanding gas to escape directly over the exhaust of the engines, thus igniting it. This is the conclusion reached by Charles Hillman, an expert, who has just concluded an investigation of the disaster.

Mr. Hillman made an examination of the balloon on June 15, and one of the first things that struck his notice was the arrangement of the six exhaust valves in the gas envelope by means of which the gas, when it began to expand, was allowed to escape. This was Mr. Vaniman's invention to prevent accident. These valves, according to Mr. Hillman, were placed three on each side of the envelope in a horizontal line on the lower side of the bag. Four of the valves, he said, were located directly over the engine exhaust.

AVIATRIX'S JEWELS GONE.

Mother of Miss Harriet Quimby Mystified by Disappearance of Daughter's Trinkets After Fall.

[By Federal (Wireless) Line to The Times.]

BOSTON, July 13.—[Special Dispatch.] A necklace and bracelet worn by Miss Harriet Quimby, the aviatrix, on the flight in which she and William H. Willard of San Francisco were killed on July 1, are missing, according to Mrs. William H. Quimby, the dead girl's mother.

Mrs. Quimby says it is possible the necklace was unfastened from her daughter's neck and was lost in the water. The girl's body struck with fearful force, but Mrs. Quimby does not understand how the bracelet could have disappeared, unless it was removed from her daughter's arm.

The necklace was fashioned of California gold and had an idol, considered a "good luck charm," attached. On the day before she was killed, Miss Quimby spoke lightly of her charm, which was to bring her luck.

NEW YORK, July 13.—The Morton punch bowl, a historic piece of rarest Lowestoft porcelain presented to the city of New York by Gov. Jacob Morton in 1812, after a sojourn of 100 years in the Governor's room of the City Hall, has been consigned to a glass case in the Metropolitan Museum of Art.

The bowl is nearly six feet in circumference. It is the largest perfect piece of the ware in existence.

"Drink deep. You will preserve the city and encourage canals," its inscription reads.

TO LOWER CALIFORNIA.

Mexican Official En Route via Los Angeles to Investigate Conditions for Madero Government.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

EL PASO (Tex.) July 13.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Francisco Portillo, Mayor of Juarez under the Federal government of President Diaz, arrived here to day from Mexico City en route to Los Angeles and Lower California.

The former Mayor of Juarez is now Perfecto of San Angel, a small settlement in the Federal district of Mexico. He has been appointed by President Madero to make a trip through Lower California and report to the government the exact status of the political and industrial conditions there. From Los Angeles he will proceed to Ensenada and from there to the interior of Mexican California. He expects to leave here Sunday en route to Los Angeles and will stop there a few days before proceeding into Lower California.

PUZZLED BY MARINE TERMS.

Light Breaks on Secretary of Oakland Park Commission When Called on to Redeem Warship Relic.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

OAKLAND, July 13.—Henry Vogt, secretary of the Oakland Park Commission, is using all the city library's encyclopedias to find the definition of a "port torpedo facing," and all the City Auditor's clerks to find a fund containing $33.

Vogt, who has made many cruises on trans-bay ferryboats, was at first of the opinion that the port torpedo facing was the platform on which the gunner's mate stands when he teaches the young torpedo how to shoot, but in the light of the wisdom of more experienced mariners, has about decided that it is a hole in the side of a battleship through which the torpedo is let out to drink.

The trouble was caused by the accession of the Navy Department to a request made by the City Council two years ago that this city be assigned a portion of the hull of the battleship Maine. A few days ago Vogt was notified that the "port torpedo facing" weighing five tons, had been forwarded, and that the freight would be $33. The park treasury will contain no funds until January, but as soon as he can raise the money, Vogt will redeem the five tons section of a torpedo firing tube, and mount it in a park.

BISHOP WARREN IS ILL.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

DENVER (Colo.) July 13.—Bishop H. W. Warren, recently retired by the Methodist Episcopal Church, is reported critically ill at his residence in University Park. He has been confined to his bed with inflammatory rheumatism for four weeks. The inflammation has now reached his lungs and it is feared he cannot recover. Mrs. Warren, who has been in constant attendance upon her husband, is also under the care of a physician.

SUFFRAGIST REMANDED.

Helen Craggs Charged in English Police Court With Setting Fire to an Official's Mansion.

[BY CABLE AND A. P. TO THE TIMES.]

OXFORD (Eng.) July 13.—Helen Craggs, the suffragist, who on June 26, at Cardiff, Wales, broke through the police cordon and sprang at Reginald McKenna, the Home Secretary, when he was driving with King George and Queen Mary, was charged today in Police Court here with having been found in Nuneham Park, the country residence of Lewis Harcourt, Secretary of State for the colonies, with the intention of setting fire to the mansion. The accused was remanded. She declined to say anything in court.

HALF-MILLION TIMBER SALE.
GOVERNMENT GETS PROCEEDS.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SAN FRANCISCO, July 13.—A sale of 183,000,000 feet of timber for $409,960 has just been made by the United States Forest Service. The tract is located near the head of the north fork of the Trinity River, and the buyer will build a special railroad. A tract comprising 300,000,000 feet of yellow pine, cedar and fir in San Joaquin Canyon is being prepared for sale by the forest service and bids soon will be called for. The San Joaquin and Eastern Railroad runs near this timber, making special tracks unnecessary, and the forest service expects spirited bidding.

The "Desmond Man" Attracts

The inimitable "Desmond Man" gains the friendship and confidence of particular men and women by his distinctive appearance. That he is a thoroughbred American, through and through, is evidenced by every line and curve of the clothes he wears. Nowhere can you find clothing so premeated with the "personality" atmosphere as at Desmonds. They virtually breathe of fine discrimination, of exclusiveness, of a high regard for the finer points of dressing. No matter whether you buy a Tie, or a complete outfit, you will FEEL the difference in Desmond clothing the moment you don it. Here are a few summer specials for Monday shoppers—every article especially seasonable and substantially reduced.

STOCKHOLM, July 13.—Twelve more points were added to the American score in the Olympic games today. As twenty-four points constituted the total score in the track and field events today, this may be regarded as a fairly satisfacory day's work. The point-makers for America were Platt and Ben Adams, in the standing high jump; Ted S. Berna and Norman S. Taber in the 3000-meter team race, and Charles D. Reidpath and Edward F. Lindbergh in the 400-meter flat race.

These wins make it impossible not only for any country to beat out the United States, but practically places the Stars and Stripes in a position where it is bound to have more points in the track and field events than all the other countries of the world combined.

Moreover, it practically means that the United States will have a very comfortable lead over any single nation on points, including all the multifarious events in many of which there were no American entries at all.

The Adams brothers, Platt and Ben of the New York A. C., captured first and second place in the standing high jump.

Platt Adams had to clear the bar at 5ft., 3¼in., to beat his brother, Ben, who finished second, only a half inch behind. The Greek, Taicitiras, was third, with 5ft., 9-10in.

America will add at least ten more points before the games come to a close.

America received a setback in the discus throw, both hands, in which the aggregate throws count. Talpaile, the giant Finlander, won in this event, with Nicklander, another Finn, second. Duncan, the mainstay of the American team, was outclassed, finishing fifth.

The final of the 400-meters flat race was fast and exciting. Charles D. Reidpath, of Syracuse University, won by a yard, sprinting to the front in the last ten yards, beating Braun, the fleet German, by the narrowest of margins.

The Decathlon, a very arduous test of all-around athletic ability, finds several of the United States teams among the leaders in so far as it has been contested, but the chances in this event are so precarious that no idea can now be obtained of the position the participants are likely to hold at its conclusion.

The leaders in points after the second event were Eugene L. Mercer, James Thorp, United States; S. Jacobson, Sweden; Rohr, Russia, and C. Lemberg, Sweden. The climax of the games will be reached tomorrow, when the marathon will be run. Stockholm is on tip-toe for the great race. Every country has a sleeper and it is impossible to predict the winner. The outlook is for hot weather, which will favor the Americans, who are used to working hard in high temperatures.

The Americans who look good for the event are Ryan, Demar, Sockalexis Tewanimar and Gallagher. The other Americans will be outclassed on the twenty-five-mile course. The course is in perfect condition. The first few miles are over steep hills, but most of the way the going will be easy. The last three miles will be easy to cover. The running most of the way is through beautiful pine forests and there will be little danger of heat exhaustion such as struck Dorando at the Olympic games in London.

Yesterday's results:

Standing high jump, final—Platt Adams (New York A. C.,) first; Benjamin W. Adams (New York A. C.) second; C. Taicitiras (Greece,) third.

The 400-meters swimming, free style for men, semi-finals: First heat—G. R. Hodgeson (Canada.) first; J. Q. Hatfield (Great Britain,) second; Foster (Great Britain,) third. Time, 5m., 25 2-5s.

Discus throwing, right and left hand, final—A. A. Taipile (Finland,) first, total throw with both hands, 82 meters 85 centimeters; Nicklander (Finland,) second; total throw 77 meters, 36 centimeters; E. Nilsson (Sweden,) fourth; total throw, 71 meters, 40 centimeters; James H. Duncan (New York,) unattached fifth; total throw, 71 meters, 13 centimeters.

The 400-meters, swimming free style, semi-finals, second heat won by Hardwick (Australia;) second, Lastorres (Hungary;) third, Healy (Australia.) Time, 5m., 13s.

The 100-meters, back stroke, final—Won by Harry J. Hebner (United States;) second, O. Fahr (Germany;) third, P. Kellner (Germany.) Time, 1m., 21 1-5s.

Plain high diving (women) final—Won by Greta Johansson (Sweden,) 39.9 points; second, Lisa Regnell (Sweden,) 36.3 points; third, Isabel Wright (England,) 34 points.

Fencing final—Anspach (Belgium) first; Ossler (Denmark,) second; De Beaulieu (Belgium,) third.

SENATORS BLANKED.

CHRISTIAN TOO STRONG.

[By Federal (Wireless) Line to The Times.]

SAN FRANCISCO BUREAU OF THE TIMES, July 13.—[Special Dispatch.] The game today was decided in the opening inning when four of the Oaklanders crossed the plate. Everybody who saw the mix-up was ready to deed it away then. Fitzgerald issued passes to Patterson and Leard and Hoffman bunted them on their way. Once again Fitz's control failed him and he walked Coy. Hetling drove the ball to left for a long single on which Patterson and Coy romped home and the other two advanced on the return of the ball. Cook pasted the ball down through O'Rourke and Coy and Hetling being already set for a sprint came right around and the score was 4 to 0 right off the reel.

With Christian on first base and two out of the way in the next spasm, Hoffman bounced the ball over the right field fence. Too bad the umpires did not call the game and order rain checks, but still Fitz was allowed to stick. He walked the next man, Coy, and then was ordered out of the box to make way for Schwenck.

Schwenck got by very nicely till the fourth when the Commuters again became ambitious. Christian hit and stole and was advanced on an out. Leard walked and he and Christian pulled a double steal. Another wallop from the bat of Hoffman sent Leard through.

Then things were quiet enough till round seven. In this lucky period the Oaks ran true to form and tacked on a couple more. Hoffman walked and Coy hit to Heister and they advanced on a bad peg to second. Cook put Hoffman across with a long sacrifice fly to Swain and Coy completed his journey when Tiedmann, who took Sharpe's place, clouted safely to the center garden. The eighth was about the most agonizing spasm of the afternoon. It netted three more Oakland tallies and it made those who remained, groan. Christian hit to short and got to third after Heister had booted Patterson's grounder.

The next one was started by Leard down to O'Rourke, who fought it all over the lot. As a result Christian landed. Patterson crawled up to third and a passed ball let him in. Hetling was on the job with another wallop so Leard rang the bell for the thirteenth Oakland tally.

Inning after inning Christian mowed the Senators down and they never had a chance to register a tally. They were yelling "Lucky Christian" in the bleachers, but when a man gets through like the little Oakland slabster he must be there with more than luck. Anhow he made the up-country sluggers look like so many monkeys.

[By Federal (Wireless) Line to The Times.]

WASHINGTON BUREAU OF THE TIMES, July 13.—[Special Dispatch.] Cicotte pitched his first game for the Chicago Americans this afternoon and had a hard time of it in the early innings.

Moeller hit the first ball pitched in the first inning for a home run. The Nationals scored again in the second, third and fifth. The Sox got one run home in the fourth, when they solved Johnson for three hits. Again in the seventh three safeties produced a run. Score:

Pasadena.

PRESENTIMENT IMPELLED HIM.

Pasadena Man Hurries Home to Sick Mother.

Engagement Is Announced at a Hotel Luncheon.

Preparing Plans for a Municipal Water Plant.

[Office of The Times, 12 S. Fair Oaks avenue.]

PASADENA, July 13.—At length giving in to a presentiment that something serious had happened at home, Oris Sutliff, son of H. R. Sutliff, No. 662 Summit avenue, rushed back with all possible speed to Pasadena from a remote place in the third range of mountains north of the city, where he had gone to camp with a boy companion, to find that his fears were well grounded. He arrived late last Friday night and learned that in his absence his mother had become ill with a fever and had been taken to the Pasadena Hospital.

So vivid was the impression that all was not well which obtruded itself upon his inner consciousness that young Sutliff made a mad rush of the return journey. He and his companion, Logan Green, of No. 611 North Los Robles avenue, traveled thirty-five miles with a pack burro during the day. The boys held up well under the strain, but the pack animal was about used up.

It was reported last night that Mrs. Sutliff's condition had improved and she is not believed now to be in danger.

"I cannot describe the feeling that came over me," said the Sutliff youth last night. "It was not that I ever took any stock in mental telepathy or anything of that kind. I never have. But I suddenly got to feeling that something was wrong. The feeling became a settled conviction. Although we had provisions enough to keep us two weeks longer, and had started out with the intention of remaining as long as possible, I could not keep from turning back. I felt queer and very much disturbed. Nothing could have held me back."

The boys were camping near the head of Mill Creek, very near to the hills that border upon the desert.

LUNCHEON DISCLOSES SECRET.

An enjoyable luncheon was given at the Hotel Maryland yesterday when Mrs. William Hoffman Kobbe of No. 65 South Madison avenue entertained a small party in honor of Miss Bird Chanslor of Los Angeles. The luncheon was given for the purpose of announcing the engagement of Miss Chanslor and William Kirk Reese, Jr., also of Los Angeles.

A short time ago Mrs. Kobbe, who formerly was Miss Mazie Mather, was herself the guest of honor at a luncheon at which her approaching wedding was announced, and at which Miss Chanslor was the hostess.

Yesterday's affair was simple yet dainty in its appointments and only a few intimate friends were present. Place cards announced the engagement. The gentlemen of the party received Miss Chanslor's photograph and the ladies Mr. Reese's, each mounted in a handsome silver frame, decorated with the initials of the recipient.

Miss Chanslor is the daughter of Mrs. John Chanslor and the late John Chanslor, one of the leading business men of Los Angeles. Mr. Reese is the son of W. K. Reese of Washington, D. C., and a scion of one of the oldest and best-known colonial families.

OLD RESIDENT DIES.

Mrs. Howard Craig, widow of the late James Craig, and a resident of the San Gabriel Valley for fifty-five years, died last Friday at the McBride's Sanatorium at the age of 68 years. She leaves seven sons and daughters.

Mrs. Craig was the daughter of Gen. Volney E. Howard and was just 8 years of age when her parents brought her to California. She has been in poor health for years.

Funeral services will be held at 10:30 o'clock tomorrow morning at All Saints' Episcopal Church. Burial will be private.

WORK IS BEGUN.

Burdette Moody, the engineer that worked out the plans for municipal water works in Pasadena, and members of the City Water Commission are now at work on preliminary arrangements for the system to be. Moody declared yesterday that when the property of the three companies,—the Pasadena, the North Pasadena and the Pasadena Lake Vineyard Land and Water companies—is taken over by the city, there will be a vast amount of work to be done by the city in order adequately to meet the demands of residents in all parts of the city.

The prospective acquisition of the property is also interesting the members of the Arroyo Seco Park Commission. With the purchase of the water companies holdings the city gains 406 acres of property that is destined to become a part of the proposed Arroyo Seco Park. The city already owns about 100 acres of this land, thus leaving only about 400 acres to be acquired by Pasadena, and about 300 acres by the county of Los Angeles if it co-operates with the city to bring the plans of the Park Commission to fruition.

BUILDS LARGE TANK.

Improvements that have been undertaken in Pasadena by the Los Angeles Gas and Electric Company are being carried out on a scale which will adapt itself to a population of 100,000.

Believing that the city will widen greatly in the coming few years, and to meet the requirements, the company is making its new holder, which is now in course of construction, a receptacle with a capacity of 1,000,000 cubic feet. It is to be completed within sixty days.

The tank now in use has a capacity of 500,000 cubic feet.

DISCUSS PROPOSED MEASURE.

In line with recommendations that Dr. E. L. Conger, president of the local Humane Society, recently made to the State Humane Society that an attempt be made to secure the passage of a bill making the State organization a part of the State government, a conference between him and Mrs. Rossmond Wright of the Los Angeles Humane Society was held here yesterday.

This State project will be one of the principal topics for discussion, if not the principal one, at the convention to be held in Santa Barbara next October.

CITY BRIEFS.

Schedules have been arranged for the indoor baseball league games that are to be begun at Carmelita playground this week.

Giles Kellogg of Los Angeles will speak at the open-air meeting to be held in Library Park at 3:30 o'clock this afternoon, under the auspices of the Pasadena Young Men's Christian Association.

Another meeting was held at the rooms of the Board of Trade last night for discussion bearing on the proposed northeast storm drain district.

The city's share of the assessment for the Broadway storm drain is $4254.30.

Miss Anita Smith of No. 465 South El Molino avenue is exhibiting a dahlia the blossoms of which measure from six to eight inches across.

WATTS BRIEFS.

WATTS, July 13.—City Marshal Braswell has issued a notice to the effect that all owners of unlicensed dogs will be arrested. The dog ordinance is stringent, but its provisions are not generally known. Braswell has decided to take this action on account of the fact that several owners of dogs, have refused to decorate their canine pets with the little brass tag for which they must pay the city $2. J. P. Shattuck, a retired minister, is about to begin an agitation to prevent dogs from running loose on the streets at all, and in this he is receiving encouragement. It is probable that within a few days such a petition will be circulated among the citizens.

Local capitalists are seriously considering the erection of a three-story concrete building in the central part of town, the lower floors to be devoted to stores, while the upper floors are to be fitted up as flats. There is a demand for flats in this city at this time.

Long Beach.

CITY GROWING; ALSO EXPENSES.

Long Beach Budget Larger Than Ever Before.

Preacher Objects to Wedding on the Water Front.

Los Angeles Man Almost Loses Life in Surf.

LONG BEACH, July 13.—That the cost of running the city government of Long Beach is growing more expensive every year is shown in the report of City Auditor Shuman for the fiscal year ending June 30, and which will be submitted to Council Monday night. The budget allowance for the year was $349,066.25, exclusive of water and library departments and redemption of bonds.

The expenditures were $294,659.15, leaving a balance in the treasury of $54,407.10, on which the city will have to run until taxes begin coming in in October. As the city expenses are about $25,000 a month, there will have to be a close paring during the intervening time. Some of the funds have been drawn up to the limit, one or two are overdrawn, particularly the advertising and entertainment fund, from which the band is paid and which was provided for in a special tax under special provisions. The Auditor claims that this fund exhausted the band has no funds upon which to draw their future salaries and expects to have a fight on his hands when the July warrants are allowed. The street department has a balance of $24,000 and the fire department a balance of nearly $4000. The other funds are running pretty dry.

During the year the city received $449.33 as interest on city moneys. The receipts from the water department were $1,010,725.45, which included the bond issue of $850,000 for the purchase of the plant and was raised by a bond issue. Expenses were $1,066,053.95, the money spent outside of fixed expenses being used in rebuilding and extending the system.

Estimates of the different departments require nearly $375,000 for the coming year, which the auditor insists will have to be cut considerably to come within the dollar limit of tax levy. It is likely that Council will ask voters to again favor a special levy for the support of the municipal band.

LOWERS DIGNITY.

The announcement of the Pike Association that a public wedding on the beach will be made a public feature of its August carnival has aroused the ire of Rev. Walter C. Loomis, pastor of the Central Methodist Episcopal Church and president of the Ministerial Association, and he has sent the association a personal protest in order that it may not be charged that his criticism is untimely, were it delayed until the last moment.

If this protest fails, Rev. Loomis promises an organized formal protest. He says his objection is because he believes such a show is beneath the dignity of Long Beach. "Marriage is a sacred institution not to be paraded as a common attraction for a common crowd.

"Christian people are continually working against the divorce evil and anything like this which will tend to lower the importance and sacredness of marriage would prove a serious handicap to our endeavors."

NEWS BRIEFS.

The Board of Public Works this morning opened bids for the reconstruction and repairs to the Pine-avenue pier, by which it is hoped to make the structure serviceable for at least six years longer, by the use of a strong underpinning of creosoted piling. The contract was awarded the Mercereau Construction Company on a bid of $26,850. The work will be started immediately as the company's pile driver is now in use making temporary repairs to save the structure during the prevailing high seas.

D. H. Brandriffe of Bridgeton, N. J., a guest at a local hotel, enjoys the distinction of being the greatest muskrat trapper in the United States and follows no other business. In his fifteen years at the profession he has caught approximately $6,000 of the rodents. Of this number only one was white and he has seen only one other white one. He is an interesting talker of his experiences.

Clyde Hunsaker, for whom the police have been looking for several days, was picked up on the pike this morning and will be held for an officer from San Francisco, where he is wanted on a felony complaint.

WHAT THE NEAL DRINK HABIT TREATMENT ACCOMPLISHES

For Men and Women Who Are So Badly Poisoned With Alcohol They Cannot Stop Drinking Without Assistance.

When the craving and necessity for alcoholic stimulants becomes stronger than the will power to stop at once, and never take another drink, it means the drinker is poisoned with alcohol to such an extent that scientific medical treatment is needed, if he ever hopes to become master of himself again. So long as the drinker is unable to eat well, sleep well, transact business or be comfortable without just so much alcoholic stimulation he is not master of himself. The safe and sane thing to do is to take treatment—the Neal Treatment—eliminate all alcohol from the system and neutralize its functional effect upon the body tissues. When this is accomplished all craving and necessity for drink will be done away with and perfect self control regained, which means a sober, happy, useful life instead of one of drunkenness and wretchedness.

The Neal Drink Habit Treatment is administered at fifty-three Neal Institutes in the principal cities of the United States, Canada and Australia. It is a harmless, vegetable remedy, administered internally. No painful, dangerous hypodermic injections—and relieves the drinker of all appetite for liquor in three days' time.

For further information and reference call at the Los Angeles Neal Institute, or, write or phone G. U. Neal, manager, for Dr. Neal's free book. Phone Bdwy. 4602, A4072.

NEWS REPORTS FROM CORRESPONDENTS OF THE TIMES.

Riverside.

MAYOR PETERS WAS OBDURATE.

Riverside Executive Would Grant No Concessions.

Movement to Secure Municipal Water Drags a Bit.

City Auditor May Get Tax Collector's Job.

RIVERSIDE, JULY 13.—Committees representing the Chamber of Commerce, Business Men's Association and Realty Board strove with Mayor Peters today with a view to securing from him some concessions relative to the contract for the purchase of the domestic system of the Riverside Water Company. The Mayor is said to have been obdurate.

The only important point of difference between the city and the water company concerns a clause guaranteeing the city immunity from litigations with respect to development on the Byrne tract, recently leased by the city with a view to purchase. The tract adjoins a water-bearing tract belonging to the company, and from which it is under contract to deliver 125 inches to outside parties.

The committeemen urged that in view of the importance of the city's securing the domestic system it was unwise to lay great stress on this clause, and it was suggested that in the interests of arbitration the water company waive right to any action against the city relative to any development the city might make, so long as the 125-inch flow was not interfered with on the tract adjoining. The Mayor gave the committeemen no encouragement, declaring that he could not consent to any alteration in the clause in question. The committees have decided to go before the City Council on Tuesday.

RATE QUESTION IN THE AIR.

The break in the negotiations with the water company leaves the water rate question still in the air. The Board and Council agreed to allow present rates to remain in force, in view of the prospect that existed for getting together on the purchase of the domestic system.

The ordinance passed both readings the last one being on the last day on which the law permits of fixing rates for the incoming fiscal year. It is learned that the Mayor has withheld his signature from the measure, to affect vetoing it, for the reason that he is opposed to allowing the present rates unless the city is assured of acquiring the domestic plant. It will require the votes of five Councilmen to overcome the Mayor's opposition, and it is considered that this number of votes can be secured.

FOR DIVERSITY OF CROPS.

Committees appointed recently to look up the question of the advisability of naming a commission to make investigations that would make possible the encouragement of greater diversity of crops in this district held a conference last evening and presented the following resolutions, which set forth clearly the recommendations of the joint committees:

"Inasmuch as the rapid growth of Riverside seems to require that we no longer confine our attention to two or three field and orchard products, we believe that a commission should be appointed to study local soil and climatic conditions with a view to recommending the planting of a greater diversity of crops.

"We advise that the university experiment station be asked to make experimental plantings of varied crops, and that the co-operation of growers in all parts of the valley be invited to the end that every suggested crop may have a serious and careful test.

"It is especially desired by this committee that all parties who have themselves experimented with any fruit or vegetable, not now commonly grown in this valley, make immediate report on their success or failure to the secretary of the Chamber of Commerce. Reports should be in writing, giving the fullest data possible as to yield."

AUDITOR MAY ACCEPT.

The Board of Supervisors at its regular Monday will decide on a successor to Tax Collector E. D. Crane, who yesterday made final settlement for the amount which he failed to turn over to the County Auditor on the 10th of this month. Charges were preferred against Crane a few hours before the settlement was made.

It is understood that City Auditor J. R. Stibbens has been offered the place, but he declined on the ground that an appointment would be good only six months and that he would immediately have to make a campaign to hold the place for the following term. Other candidates, who have looked into the law found that the Supreme Court had held that the Supervisors would hold office until the next general election for that office, which would be two years hence. It is reported today that Mr. Stibbens has changed his mind and is now in a changed mood. What action the Board may now take is problematical.

ORANGE ACREAGE SOLD.

The A. B. McCormick orange property, comprising forty acres of fourteen-year navels and valencias, has been purchased by U. S. House and wife, late of Indiana. The consideration is reported to have been in the neighborhood of $20,000. The grove is situated on Washington street, between Magnolia and Victoria avenues.

Mrs. Westbrook has purchased from Tyler Hanna the ten-acre grove on the corner of Victoria avenue and Washington street. The grove is one of the best in the district, and it is Mr. Westbrook's intention to build a fine residence on the property.

CONCRETE BLOCK.

Plant Closed at Beaumont Which Will Be Followed by Construction of Business Building.

BEAUMONT, July 13.—As a result of a real estate deal closed here today a modern stone or concrete business block will be erected in Beaumont in the near future. C. E. Smoot, a local hardware dealer, purchased the R. E. Williams lot one-half block east of the postoffice and will improve it with a modern business building as soon as the plans can be drawn and the contract awarded. The lot has a frontage of forty-six feet on D street and is 140 feet in depth.

An unusual number of real estate transfers have been made in this city the past week. H. Leslie Roberts has purchased what is known as the Swan place on California avenue. This property comprises sixteen lots and was originally improved by the late Senator Stephen M. White. The consideration was $5500. The Chester McNeil residence on Edgar avenue was sold to E. P. Stewart, who recently moved here from Pomona, for $4000. The Rev. Father N. M. Redmond bought the east one-half of the Frank Bliss ranch which adjoins Beaumont on the south. It is reported that this will be used by a Catholic society as a hospital site. E. M. Kieron purchased of P. H. Manchester ten acres on East Sixth street. It will be planted in apples.

NEWS BRIEFS.

G. F. Van Velzer, former publisher of the Beaumont Leader, who sold that paper to D. H. Spruill last February, left this week for Los Angeles where he will establish a job printing establishment. His family will follow him to their ney home September 1. Mr. Van Velzer will retain his extensive local real estate holdings.

Postmaster James A. Kelly reports that the receipts of the Beaumont postoffice for the quarter ending June 30, 1912, were $930.68, an increase over the same quarter of last year of $107.40, or about 13 per cent. The gain is in the general business of the office and is attributed to the growth in the population of Beaumont during the present year. The receipts of the office for the past fiscal year were the largest for any twelve months since its establishment.

Two sixteen-inch wells are being drilled at Glen Eyrie Heights, two miles northeast of Beaumont. This ranch has been subdivided into five-acre tracts and will be put on the market within a few weeks.

Arrangements are being completed for a public celebration of Beaumont day, August 2. A picnic will be held at Edgar Canyon during the day and at night a home talent minstrel show will be given at the opera-house under the auspices of the Board of Trade.

WILL ERECT SANATORIUM.

Women Buys San Jacinto Property on Which She Will Construct a Modern Home for Invalids.

SAN JACINTO, July 12.—Announcement is made this week that a $75,000 sanatorium is soon to be erected on land recently purchased on the Midway ranch by Mrs. L. K. Northam.

As preliminary work, the land has been surveyed and mapped and made ready for a landscape gardener, who will put the property in condition. Many old, gnarled cottonwoods are growing upon the property at present and these will be left in all their rugged attractiveness. Mrs. Northam expects to leave next week for the East, where she will travel extensively in gathering plans for building and ideas and methods of conducting the most modern institution of the kind in America, and immediately upon her return to San Jacinto work will begin.

NEWS BRIEFS.

W. W. Lockwood has obtained a lease upon a part of the Domenigoni block and a lunch counter and restaurant will be conducted there.

On Monday evening the boys of the Long Beach Y.M.C.A. who, in installments of fifty each two weeks, have been camping in Indian Sanyon, will bid the people of San Jacinto goodby until next year. During the past six weeks there has been a camp of fifty of the Long Beach boys in the canyon, and they have had such a thoroughly enjoyable time that they all declare they are coming next year.

Jessie Cobb narrowly escaped serious injuries while attending the celebration at Elsinore in company with her parents. The girl slipped while attempting to climb upon a wagon and fell in such a manner that a wheel passed over one of her feet. Had the child not had the rare presence of mind to draw up her knees the heavy wheel would have crushed both her limbs.

On the Piper ranch C. E. Bunker has harvested a 400-ton hay crop and is now busy with a large force of men and teams preparing ground and planting 100 acres to potatoes. On that place Mr. Bunker has a 100-inch artesian flow of water for irrigation purposes. The potato land was deep-plowed with a traction engine plow, thoroughly irrigated and cultivated and is in splendid condition. A record-breaking potato crop should be the reward.

BAND SWAYS MULTITUDE.

Upland Finishes Successful Whirlwind Play for Funds and Enjoys First Concert of Season.

UPLAND, July 13.—The whirlwind soliciting campaign, to raise funds for band concerts was most successful and the first of the concerts was given last evening. There was a splendid crowd present. The concerts are to be given each Thursday evening during July and August, at least.

PROPERTY INCREASE.

The assessed valuations of property in Upland for 1912 show an increase of about a quarter of a million dollars, as compared with the figures of 1911. The total for this year's assessment foots up $1,467,090. There seems a very general satisfaction among property owners here with the fair and impartial treatment accorded everyone by Deputy Assessor Paul Bodenhamer, who was in charge of the work this year.

NEWS BRIEFS.

The Co-operative Fumigation and Supply Company, with headquarters in this city, is now under new management, Walter M. Scott of Monrovia having been chosen by the committee of the growers to succeed Charles F. Plum, former manager, lately removed to Los Angeles. T. J. Moon is the new secretary and treasurer. During the past season some 1300 acres of fruit was fumigated, the Walgum system of marked tents being used. The average cost of the work was about twenty-nine cents per tree.

MEDICINE MAN PLANTS PATIENT

San Bernardino Officials Have Odd Problem.

An Investigation of Killing at Needles Proposed.

Three Burglaries in Business District Puzzle Police.

SAN BERNARDINO, July 13.—Because the medicine man of the Santa Manual Indians, above Highland, treated a Mexican patient, who died, the Sheriff and Coroner are making an investigation today. The death was reported this morning, and the investigation so far made discloses that the Indians knocked together a rude box for a casket, dug a hole on the reservation, and concealed the remains.

Whether the civil authorities will be able to bring the medicine man to trial for an offense against the State laws, when all the affair occurred on distinctly Federal property, is a problem. The only charge against the Indian would be that of practicing medicine without a license. This will be the first time in the history of the State, and possibly the country, where a medicine man has been so charged.

NEEDLES KILLING.

Sheriff Ralphs and Dist.-Atty. R. R. Goodcell go to Needles Wednesday to investigate the killing of an Indian named Fish by a youth, George Smith, who has been stationed at Needles as a special officer. The Coroner's jury disagreed, five of the members holding that Smith was justified, and one juror declaring that there was no justification in the homicide.

Smith is a resident of this city, where he served for a time as special officer on the police force. He was relieved when an automobile in which he and other officers were riding struck and killed a Santa Fe engineer named Pattee. Smith and the others were arrested, and while the case against them was hanging fire Smith apparently lost his mind, and was in a local hospital for some time.

THREE BURGLARIES.

Thee burglaries occurred in the business district here last night, one, the robbery of the San Bernardino Drug Store, being soon discovered, but the other two, that of the Dobson grocery and the office of Boyd, Scott & Lothrop, brokers, were not discovered until this morning, when the owners made the discovery. There is no clue. Last night there was a shortage in the number of officers on duty in the business section, the force having been divided to investigate a particular section of the town, which needed watching closely.

TO DETERMINE HEIRSHIP.

Attorney George H. Johnson yesterday filed a petition for Mrs. Luisa Ranzoni in the Superior Court to determine the heirship of herself and children, under section 1724, Code of Civil Procedure, in connection with a parcel of government land, which her late husband, Peter Ranzoni, filed on in 1886. He died the following year and in 1890 the government issued a patent to the petitioner as "the widow of Peter Ranzoni." Under that title the widow would not be holding the estate exclusively, but all the children would have an interest in the property. Mrs. Ranzoni resides in San Francisco.

FISH AND GAME.

R. D. Duke, legal adviser for the California Fish and Game Commission, is touring the State in the interest of the organization in the various counties of a fish and game protective association. He will speak in the Chamber of Commerce rooms, Friday, July 19, explaining the new movement, which is to give the respective counties local option, as it were, in the regulation of fish and game laws. For several months County Game Warden Vale has been personally active forming an association in this county. The various associations will hold a conference, each sending a representative to discuss needed legislation.

NEWS BRIEFS.

"Oh, you rhubarb" is the label attached to a splendid specimen of the delicious vegetable on display at the Chamber of Commerce exhibit. The shortest of the stalks is twenty-three inches in length, and the longest, twenty-nine inches. The specimens were picked at haphazard on the E. M. Boger ranch at Tippecanoe. The giant stalks weighed from one and a half pounds to one and three-quarter pounds each. Nothing quite so gigantic in the rhubarb line has ever been seen here before. The rancher has been experimenting in vegetables and has developed a new industry for this valley.

The directors of the Y.M.C.A., through Attorneys Curtis & McNabb, this morning filed a petition with the Superior Court asking the privilege of selling the Broadfield orange grove at Rialto back to John Broadfield, the donor, for $10,000. The petition recites that the association is unable to keep the terms under which the grove was donated to the association, and that Mr. Broadfield has offered to pay the sum mentioned in consideration that the grove be deeded to him again.

TEN THOUSAND CLUB.

El Centro Women of That Organization Celebrate Nation's Birthday a Few Days Late.

EL CENTRO, July 13.—A delightful society event of the week was the card party given by the Woman's Ten Thousand Club last evening at the Toggery, with Mrs. A. M. Johnson as hostess. Suggestive of the national birthday, the decorations were large flags, which were suspended about the walls. There were ten tables for the game of the evening, which was progressive whist. Mrs. Virgil McCombs and Mrs. W. E. Packard won the ladies' prizes, and Harry W. Krotz and John Norton were awarded the men's prizes. Between the progressions, an entertaining programme was rendered. Readings were given by Miss Garnet Davis, Mr. Krotz and Mr. Conkling, and a baritone solo was sung by Mr. Krotz, accompanied by Mrs. W. E. Cox. A short talk was given by the club president, Mrs. R. B. Vaile. About fifty guests were in attendance.

NEWS BRIEFS.

The members of Mrs. W. E. Cox's music class entertained their mothers at a musicale given at the studio of Mrs. Cox on Broadway Wednesday afternoon. Contributing to the programme were Maude Poole, Zona Waldrop, Lucile Champion, Ruby Fowlkes, Zuma Waldrop, Jessie May Cox and Thelma Champion. Musical games and contests completed the afternoon.

Howard Cooper, a young man who has been employed as a milker on the Cardiff ranch, near Imperial, committed suicide yesterday by hanging himself on a ramada, standing on an empty nail keg, which he kicked from under his feet. He was 26 years old. Cooper has been drinking heavily and this is believed to have caused him to take his life.

W. S. Fawcett, who owns a 160-acre vineyard between El Centro and Heber, is installing a pre-cooling plant for his grapes. His vines are coming into bearing heavily this year, and he expects to begin shipping about the 15th inst.

NO HELP FROM THE STATE.

Railway Commissioners Tell the Great Fruit Interests of California to go It Alone for Better Rates.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SAN FRANCISCO, July 13.—Under a decision rendered today by the State Railroad Commissioners the fruit men of California have been informed that no intervention will be made in their behalf with the Interstate Commerce Commission to obtain relief in shipment rates and regulations to points outside the State of California.

Application had been made by the growers to have the Railroad Commission prosecute a complaint with the Interstate Commerce Commission against the Central California Traction Company, the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe Railway, the Southern Pacific Railroad Company and the Western Pacific Railroad Company. Nearly all the firms and associations in California were interested in the appeal.

The Railroad Commission declined to take action on the grounds that it was already burdened with a congested calendar and that the applicants were well equipped to prosecute the investigation.

HIS HEARING WAS RESTORED

Veteran Could Not Hear His Beloved Bugle.

Tells How Deafness Was Overcome.

Below is a picture of Henry Farrar, a Civil War veteran, who is a natural born musician, and whose bugle has led troops to many a victory. With the approach of old age and the infliction of various disorders, he gradually became more and more deaf until he could not hear his own bugle which he had been accustomed to play on various occasions throughout the year. He also became harassed with those head noises which so often accompany the advancement of deafness. This infirmity distressed Mr. Farrar greatly. He is a man of activity despite his age—in fact, he looks much younger than the 70 years that he is.

The loss of his hearing was a sad misfortune and the future looked very dark. Of course, Mr. Farrar had tried one thing after another; he had followed medical advice, had consulted specialists and had adopted various devices and remedies, but all to no avail. He felt that he was doomed to end his life in that melancholic stillness which is dreaded by all who are inclined toward deafness.

Mr. Farrar has always been popular, and all his friends were exceedingly sympathetic, but even these kind sentiments did not appease his deep dejection. One day, however, he happened to learn of a simple and harmless home treatment, which he decided to try. He did not have much hope, because he had been disappointed in his previous attempts. Yet in this case, to his surprise and joy, he found that his hearing began to improve almost immediately, and it continued until he became so well that he has recently done jury duty, listening to the various witnesses and the court proceedings without the slightest difficulty.

Mr. Farrar is so delighted with the manner in which he was liberated from the thraldom of deafness and head noises, as well as the way in which his health was generally improved, that he is giving information about this wonderful treatment to all who write him. He has nothing to sell, but he will cheerfully send full particulars of how his own hearing was restored, and will tell how others may get the same treatment. Persons of all ages—men, women and children—have followed the information given by Mr. Farrar, and many cures of deafness have been reported after all else has failed. To obtain the desired information it is only necessary to write to Mr. Henry A. Farrar, 107B Main Street, Hanover, Mass., enclosing a stamped envelope for reply.

PROMINENT SYMPTOMS OF CATARRH

THE HEAD AND THROAT.
This form of catarrh is most common, resulting from neglected colds. Quickly cured with little cost by Drs. Shores' famous treatment.
Is your head stopped up?
Does your nose discharge?
Is your nose sore and tender?
Is there pain in front of the head?
Do you hawk to clear the throat?
Is your throat dry in the morning?
Do you sleep with your mouth open?
You can be easily cured now. Don't let it run into complications. Call or write.

OF THE STOMACH.
Catarrh of the stomach is usually caused by swallowing poisonous mucus, which drops down from the head and throat at night.
Are you constipated?
Is there nausea?
Do you belch up gas?
Do you bloat up after eating?
Is there constant bad taste?
Now is the time to be permanently cured. Drs. Shores are curing hundreds every year.

OF THE EARS.
Catarrh extends from the throat along the eustachian tube into the ears, causing partial or complete deafness.
Is your hearing failing?
Do your ears discharge? Do they ring?
Is the wax drying in your ears?
Do you hear better on some days?
Does a cold make your hearing worse?
Don't neglect this until your hearing is irreparably destroyed.

THE BRONCHIAL TUBES.
When catarrh of the head or throat is neglected or wrongfully treated it extends down the windpipe into the bronchial tubes and, after a while, attacks the lungs.
Have you a cough?
Do you take cold easily?
Have you a pain in the side?
Do you raise frothy materials?
Do you spit up little cheesy lumps?
Do you feel like you were growing weaker?
Don't risk neglecting these warnings—stop the disease before it reaches the lungs.

ESTIMATES FOR DEPARTMENTS.

Santa Monica Is Confronted with a Bunch of Demands Which Will Necessitate Tax Advance.

SANTA MONICA, July 13.—That the estimate for maintenance of the several city departments, which will be presented to the City Council Monday evening, will call for a budget that will increase the tax rate is the assertion of several of the city heads, who point to the high cost of materials generally and the increase in population as the cause of the rise. This situation will place the City Councilmen in a quandary, for they were elected as members of the Municipal League virtually pledged to a reduction, not a raising of the tax rate. The rate of taxation is to be fixed the first week in August.

Under the City Charter the Councilmen at first saw visions of a lowering of the tax rate, but have about come to the conclusion that a city that is growing so rapidly, and has two business sections that have to be policed and cared for cannot save even under a revision of the present charter. Mayor Dow expects to call a meeting of the Charter Revision Committee Monday evenin, and one of the problems which this body will have to wrest with will be this increase in expenses.

Capt. James Reynolds, aged 78 years, who had followed the sea for over fifty years, and who has been a resident of this city for eight years, passed away last night at No. 2514 Main street. Capt. Reynolds came around the Horn forty-eight years ago, and since that time had considered himself a resident of California, though his ships took him to the far corners of the earth for sometimes two years at a time. His last voyage was in the ship Flying Scud, which sailed from San Francisco to New York, the ship that became the conveyance of one of Stevenson's novels.

Men and teams yesterday began work on the Beverly-Sawtelle road, which will be an important link in the county highway system in this vicinity. The roadway will be eighteen feet wide, and will consist of macadam base with an oil dressing. Beyond Beverly the roadway has already been completed to the roadway that connects with the Arroyo Seco drive, near Pasadena.

OBITUARY.

Stephen Green, who passed to the great beyond from his beautiful home, No. 725 West Tenth street, Long Beach, in the early morning hours of July 5, was born in Carroll county, Ill., July 20, 1842, growing to manhood among the verdant and picturesque hills surrounding his parents' home, receiving his education at the Mt. Carroll Seminary, Polton, Ill., and later attending college in Chicago. When 24 years of age he purchased a beautiful farm of 320 acres in the suburbs of the thriving little town of Grundy's Center, Iowa, and for many years engaged in farming, raising and buying and selling stock successfully. In 1897, removing to Southern California, he built a beautiful new home near Westlake Park, Los Angeles, purchasing two fine orange orchards near Covina, about six years ago building the fine home on Park Circle, West Tenth street, Long Beach, where he has spent the remaining years in quiet, restful enjoyment. Mr. Green was one of the organizers of the City National Bank in Long Beach, being a stockholder and a director for some time, working earnestly for the best interests of all concerned. Later deciding to sever connections with all active business, he has lived a quiet, unostentatious home life, traveling quite extensively with his wife for recreation and change. Never being of very strong constitution, his health has been failing for the past two years, progressive paralysis seeming to gradually sap his vitality until on the morning of July 5, surrounded by his faithful wife and many kind friends, he passed to the other life beyond the grave. The funeral took place at the residence, being largely attended by sympathizing friends and relatives. Services were conducted by Rev. Henry Rasmus of the First M. E. Church, speaking most earnestly and heartfully of the life that had gone, having lived 69 years, leading a true and honorable life, accumulating a goodly fortune, but with never a tainted dollar. In passing, Mr. Green leaves a devoted widow, now lonely in the home; also two sisters, Mrs. Simon Bowman and Mrs. John Madera of Mt. Carroll, Ill. Interment took place in beautiful Hollywood Cemetery, at the base of the hills which in life he loved so well.

CARD OF THANKS.

To the kind friends who so generously came to my help with words of comfort and love, beautiful flowers and words of cheer, during my great sorrow in the sickness and death of my husband, I extend my heartfelt thanks. May they be alike comforted should the dark hours of sorrow ever be theirs.
MRS. STEPHEN GREEN AND RELATIVES.

CARD OF THANKS.

We take this opportunity for thanking our many friends for the kind words of love and sympathy extended to us in our sorrow over the sudden death of our dear little daughter, Hollis; also thanks for the many beautiful flowers.

It Takes Over 365 Days to Build the Best--and Yet the Cheapest Piano in the End--Which is the Incomparable STEINWAY

The World's Standard

It requires more than a year to complete the superlative quality of work demanded by Steinway & Sons. Mechanical skill and material must also be fully up to their standard of perfection.

It may seem a loss of time to many to consume over a year in building a Piano. In that time—within one year—some of our "sky-scraper" office buildings, costing over a million dollars, are begun, completed and filled with tenants. Why, it does not take a year to manufacture "presidential timber," nominate, elect and inaugurate a President of the United States, governing over ninety million people.

And it takes over a year to build a Steinway—the cheapest Piano in the world to buy.

The word "cheapest," to the careful and economical purchaser, means in its strongest sense, the greatest value for the money invested.

Many other makes of instruments are made from start to finish in less than half—yes, a fourth of a year.

There's a reason why it takes more than a year to build the incomparable Steinway. That reason is found in all Steinway Pianos—especially after 20, 30—yes, 40 years or more of continued use.

The instrument itself explains why it takes more than a year to make this cheapest Piano in the world to buy.

You get at least twenty years more service—Steinway service—for the small amount at first invested.

The Steinway is found in the palaces of Kings over the entire world. Used by three generations of English Royalty—Queen Victoria, King Edward VII and King George V.

Kings, Queens, Potentates, Princes, Presidents and Musicians all have paid tribute to the Steinway—a Piano that lives, the same as a beautiful painting.

INTERNATIONAL APOLLO IS STRONG ON THE JOB.

Los Angeles Armenian Makes Eleven Happy Matches of Local Countrymen With English Girls, and Is Best Man at Every Wedding—He May Have Two Hundred More to Look After.

THE champion "best man" in all Los Angeles was discovered last night. He is G. G. Harootunian, who lives at No. 1147 Dewey avenue.

To his credit he has eleven marriages. All these he personally arranged as matchmaker, and at all of them he acted as best man. What is more, all the marriages have resulted happily, and an even dozen healthy and hearty youngsters have been added to the population of Los Angeles as a result.

The latest consummation of the matchmaking proclivities of Harootunian occurred last night when Miss Bessie King, a charming English girl, and M. G. Roobian, a thrifty young Armenian, were married by Rev. P. J. McDonald, pastor of the Reformed Church. The ceremony was at the residence of Mrs. P. P. Corvo, an aunt of the bride at No. 5858 Brentwood avenue. Of course, Harootunian was best man.

The activity of Harootunian as an ally of Cupid had its origin in a desire of the thrifty young Armenians of Los Angeles to take unto themselves English girls or girls of other Saxon nations as wives.

It began when Harootunian, himself, fell a victim to the bright eyes of an English lass. That was about five years ago. The marriage of the Harootunians was so blissful and resulted in so much happiness that he decided that the marriage of the 200 young Armenians of good standing and sufficient worldly goods in this city would solve the problem of taking care of these fiery young bloods.

IT'S CONTAGIOUS.

His first "victim" was a friend, G. Mouradian. He met the latter in the park one day and told him of his happy home, and then took him there to dinner. He knew of a charming young English girl who was of marriageable age and was desirable. He brought the two together the Reformed Church, and within two weeks a marriage resulted. Certainly Harootunian was best man.

Then in rapid succession followed S. Marsho, a swedish; who was introduced to a young Saxon girl and gave her no peace until she was Mrs. Marsho; Jacob Halvajian, George Gasvinnie, Samuel Bahl, Robert Tootjian, M. Garo, R. Diujian, D. Safady and lastly M. G. Roobian. All were prosperous, in the prime of manhood, and good citizens. Harootunian kept in touch with the desirable Saxon girls and introduced them to the sturdy young Armenians and marriages followed with wonderful rapidity. Harootunian always best man.

"There are 520 Armenians in Los Angeles," said Harootunian, after the ceremony last night, "and all of them are thrifty. Of this number perhaps 200 are young men of marriageable age. There are but two Armenian girls in Los Angeles of the age to marry, so you see, there was a question as to what should be done with these fine young fellows. My own marriage has resulted so happily that I felt that the mingling of Armenians and Saxons was desirable from both sides, so I began to cast around to see where I could help out these young fellows. I feared that if they were left to themselves they would marry unadvisedly. I found many desirable English, German or Swiss girls of the age to marry who would welcome sturdy, thrifty and clean young husbands. So I began to bring them together at my own home, and also at my church, the Reformed. As a rule the courtship would last two or three weeks, and sometimes a little longer, but generally a week's friendship showed the young couple that they were fitted for each other and a ceremony followed. There are still many of those young men who want desirable wives and they will make good husbands, as not a note of discord has arisen in the eleven couples so far married."

NOT LIGHTLY TAKEN.

A marriage, in the understanding of the Armenians, is serious, and important. It calls in Armenia for one week's celebration, in which all of the friends of the bride and groom go to the house in which the wedding is held and remain, eating and sleeping there and enjoying themselves to their hearts' content. This has been modified a little in Los Angeles, and it is considered sufficient if the groom hires a hall and a banquet room and for a full night and day keeps open-house for his friends.

At each of the eleven weddings this custom has been carried out. Also the job of the best man is a hard one. He is called upon to be host also at a banquet and open-house for a day and night, and never does he falter. It is a point of pride with the Armenians to observe this rule, and chief among those who like this custom is Best Man Harootunian. Time and again has he hired two halls, one for dancing and one for a banquet, and entertained the guests of the wedding. There is no carousing here, but merely an innocent jolly good time, in which all join.

These Armenians are Armenians in name only. They call themselves Americans and all of them have become citizens. They are as a rule younger members of families which have been persecuted by the Turks in Armenia. They have realized that there was no future before them and came to the United States and freedom. They have been accustomed to work unusually hard and rapidly adapt themselves to the customs of any country. It is a recognized fact that the Armenians are the best educated and enlightened people in Asia, and it is to their enlightenment and desire for freedom that their persecution by the Turks is due.

The young men on coming to Los Angeles have learned trades or professions, and as they are naturally enterprising, they have made their way well. The problem that they have found most difficult to solve has been that of suitable wives, and now this seems disposed of in a large measure

Practical Solution of a Broad Problem.

Champion Best Man and One of His Matches.

He is G. G. Harootunian (below) and he has rendered yeoman service in behalf of Cupid, the Armenian young men of Los Angeles, and Saxon girls who have taken these as husbands. At each of the marriages he has played the leading official part, next to the clergyman, and he promises to keep up the good work. Mr. and Mrs. M. G. Roobian (above) were united last night as a result of his good offices. The bride was Miss Bessie King, an English girl.

Answering a Question.

ELKS TO GIVE KIDDIES TASTE OF CLUB LIFE.

"DADDY, what do you want to go to lodge for every Wednesday night? Mamma doesn't go and you never take me." This is a question that several hundred members of Lodge No. 99, B.P.O.E., have long been trying to answer with doubtful success. Now the board of trustees, C. G. Pyle, H. S. Jones and C. F. Stamps, propose to answer it for them by giving the children a taste of club life.

Next Saturday will be children's day at the big club at Third and Olive streets. The trustees have arranged to give the little ones free rein and the run of the entire establishment, and they believe it will be a delightful innovation in club functions.

"We're going to turn over the entire club to the kids from 2 to 5 o'clock," said Chairman Pyle last night, "and we're going to chase every man out of the house. There'll be no prohibitive signs on the walls and nothing to throw a wet blanket on their good time. We are even going to let them use the billiard and pool rooms. If they spoil the cues or cushions, we'll buy new ones."

All Elks' children, even the little ones, are invited, and it is expected that from 800 to 1000 will be present. To begin with, they will all have a free ride up the Angels' Flight and a committee of Elks will be stationed at Third and Hill streets to see that they get safely started.

At the clubhouse the steward and his assistants will be at their service and a committee of ladies will have general supervision over them. Music will be furnished by the boys' band from the McKinley Home. Those youngsters have handsome new uniforms and have practiced so long and so painstakingly that they have become creditable performers. The band will also furnish music for a dance in the big dining-hall after the refreshments have been served and the tables cleared away.

There will be ice cream and all sorts of fancy cakes, circus lemonade and an unlimited supply of watermelons.

After the little ones have eaten and danced and prowled through the clubrooms to their hearts' content, a pleasing little entertainment will be staged for them. A mountebank circus with a Punch and Judy marionette show will be the principal attraction. Then will come a special the direction of William E. Strowbridge.

It will all be quite informal. When the smiling hand-organ man appears and begins to grind out the old familiar tunes, the children will not be expected to stay primly in chairs, but may crowd about as closely as they wish. The hand-organ feature of the entertainment will not be lacking in its most important requisite. The monkey will be there to delight with his antics.

When it is time to go home, each one of the children will be presented with a handsome souvenir pennant. The trustees believe they will enjoy themselves so well that they will no longer wonder why "Daddy" likes to go to lodge once in a while.

Municipal League Seeks to Maintain Educational Feature for Use of the Whole City.

The Municipal League is agitating the establishment of the present exhibit of municipal articles as a permanent institution and is seeking indorsement of the city officials to permit the articles, documents and pictures to remain as a standing object lesson for the public.

The league proposes, through dues from increased membership, to maintain the exhibition wherever a site may be chosen and especially desires that the schools take advantage of it and make special studies of its features.

The exhibits will remain on the floor in the Auditorium until the 20th inst., and it remains for public sentiment, the officers say, to decide by that time whether they shall be made

Overwhelming Waters.

CLOUDBURST SWEEPS WHOLE TOWNS AWAY

DETAILS of cloudbursts and floods which destroyed several thriving cities and exacted a toll of hundreds of lives in the State of Guanajuato were received in this city last night and members of the Mexican colony having friends and relatives in the afflicted districts were almost panic-stricken by the news.

The advices declare that the cities of Salamanca and Celaya have been wiped off the map, and that the number of victims cannot possibly be foretold until the angry waters have subsided.

The first of the series of cloudbursts and floods which have stricken the wealthy State of Guanajuato occurred several weeks ago, when a large part of the capital was washed away, together with several hundred unfortunate peons, who were unable to reach places of safety.

A few days ago the bottom again dropped out of the heavens and quickly covered the valley of the Santiago to a depth of two meters. The natural outlets became clogged and within half an hour nothing was seen of the two little cities but the roofs of the houses covered with terror-stricken people praying for deliverance.

Darkness fell over the doomed cities as the electric light plant, further down the valley, was washed away, and this tended to add to the panic.

According to advices received from the correspondent of El Imparcial it is probable that more than 1000 lives and at least $20,000,000 in property were destroyed before the vast body of water suddenly as it came went out with a rush, carrying houses and people to destruction. Every house in the path of the flood was torn from its foundations and left ruin and misery in its place.

Within a few hours the survivors were called upon to face another disaster inasmuch as it was found that all food stuffs had been carried away and that there was nothing left in the entire valley to feed the half-crazed multitude including hundreds of babies crying for milk. How many have since succumbed to hunger has not been ascertained, but the correspondent already on the ground asserts that the figures will prove staggering.

As soon as communication with the capital of the republic could be established word was sent to President Madero and within a few minutes a council of the Cabinet authorized the expenditure of $50,000 in purchasing food supplies.

Notices received from Santa Cruz that all of the crops covering more than 1000 square miles of rich agricultural lands have been destroyed and that famine stares the survivors in the face unless relief is sent from other parts of the country.

Owing to the unsettled conditions prevailing as the result of the war and the fact crops generally have been neglected, it is feared that thousands will die of hunger.

in the City of Mexico and sent to the scene of the disaster to aid in the work of recovering bodies and restoring the city sufficiently to shelter those who escaped death.

Another telegram announces that it will take several days to repair the telegraph lines and railroads destroyed by the flood, and until that time it will be impossible to even approximate the losses owing to the lack of news from many important settlements in the path of the flood, which are believed to have been included in the work of destruction.

TELLS HOW TORONTO DOES.

Board of Public Works Gets Pointers From Canadian Visitor on Harbor and Garbage Problems.

An interesting visitor at the offices of the Board of Public Works and the Harbor Commission yesterday was F. S. Spence, a member of the Harbor Commission of Toronto. He has been attending the sessions of the National Municipal League.

Spence was seeking general information in regard to the harbor and reports on the power project of the aqueduct.

"Ours is a comparatively new project in harbor development," said Spence. "Our commission has been organized only a little more than a year, although considerable work had been done on this line before the present board was constituted. It is composed of certain members appointed by the government and others representing the city. We have a large area of swamp lands in connection with the harbor that we are trying to reclaim. A considerable part will be converted into public parks, but there are large areas left for industrial development.

"We limit the life of leases on the water front to twenty-one years, but the lease holder has the privilege of renewing, and should the city decide to deny a renewal of the lease it is obligated to purchase such improvements as the lessee may have placed on the land. We have no fixed rate for rentals but decide each individual case on its own merits. The policy is to build up a great industrial center, and this is always considered in judging applications. So far we have found no objection to the twenty-one-year term for leases."

Members of the Board of Public Works are anxious to learn of Toronto's method of handling the garbage disposal problem. Commissioner Spence said the incinerator system is in use, but is far from satisfactory. He said all material possible for such purpose is used for filling the swamp lands, it being covered by cinders.

Spence left last night for San Francisco to make a study of harbor improvements there.

TO COUNT 'EM AND SWAT 'EM.

Sad End in Sight for Los Angeles Flies.

Census of Extermination Is Official Plan.

May Set a Price on Scalps of the Brutes.

The Los Angeles house fly is doomed.

First his food supply is to be cut off and after he has been slowly starved to the point of desperation he is expected to commit suicide by devouring poisoned bait.

This process is to be watched closely. The flies that show unusual hardyhood and cunning in remaining alive will be placed on the proscribed list and a price put on their heads.

Housewives and others who come in direct contact with the fly will be encouraged to swat the brute and earn a good living.

Then to cap the climax and register every fly, a census of the flies in this city will be taken. By this means the tough flies will be classified, and the ones which show an unusual aptitude for remaining alive will be rounded up properly.

This is a rough outline of the campaign begun by the health department, against the house fly.

It is not to be carried forward with a rush; rather the fly is to be subjected to stratagem. His lair will be located and wiped out. Then his meal tickets in the way of unsanitary restaurants, dairies, stables, fruit stands and screenless houses are to be regulated and made starvation resorts for him.

This campaign will be along the lines of the extensive and successful one now carried out in Washington against the same pest.

PROFESSIONAL SWATTERS.

In Washington there has been offered a bounty for flies, dead or alive and the bounty is paid by weight. Professional swatters have developed in that city. Of course Washington has 10,000 flies to Los Angeles's one.

The plan in Washington was to painstakingly remove every breeding place of flies. The restaurants, bakeries, fruit stands, cesspools, stables and dairies were overhauled and made thoroughly sanitary. By this means the Washington authorities declare scores of tons of flies have been exterminated, and their feeding and breeding places abolished, so that there'll be no second crop.

It was found, however, that despite these precautions the fly multiplied amazingly. A good healthy fly family can become a swarm inside of a few hours, so while the Washington health commissioners saw enormous numbers of the pesky creatures swatted and fouly daft, flies continued to exist in abundance.

They offered a bounty for flies and then a plague seemed to alight upon the fly family. It became customary in each home to have one swatter of flies, who enthusiastically murdered them by the hundreds and thousands and millions. The remains were gathered or swept up and taken to the health department, where the price was paid.

Men hired out in bakeries, candy stores and dairies as fly swatters and made money. Boys went from house to house and swatted flies by the hour, carefully gathering up the remains and selling them to the health department. Housewives added to their pin money by taking an hour or so off during the day and swatting a few thousand flies. So popular did the work of swatting become that the health department estimated that 100 tons of them were slain last summer. The supply began to run short and keen competition began to develop as to the places where an amplitude of flies could be found. Energetic boys secured the rights to swat in stables or dairies, and an especially unsanitary place was eagerly sought. The dearth of house flies became apparent in Washington the first of this season of warm weather.

TAKING A CENSUS.

In a fit of pardonable pride the health commissioners of the nation's capital decided to take a census of the remaining flies and to do this requested the housewives and proprietors of places where flies congregate, to carefully note the number and report the same to the Health Commissioner. The census is still under way, and the Health Commissioners are in a quiver of excitement, expecting that merely a nominal number of billions of flies will be dis-

Zoo and Aquarium Plans to Develop Apace.

Now that it has become a certainty that Los Angeles is to have a zoological garden second to none in the country, and that the "beasties" are to roam almost at will through the main fastness of Griffith Park, public interest in the enterprise is growing. Mr. Charles L. Edwards, city naturalist and one of the men responsible, in a large measure for the forthcoming establishment of the zoo, was given a liberal hearing in Choral Hall last evening, when he told of the preliminary plans under way to give this city the zoological park, and also an aquarium.

"There is a universal desire," said the lecturer, "to travel and thus become familiar with the strange animals of other lands. That is not possible for the masses of our city but in a great modern zoological park and aquarium all the remarkable creatures from the distant parts of the earth and from the air and sea can be assembled under natural conditions and observed to even better adantage than in their native haunts.

"The present zoo in Eastlake Park is typical of the past when wild animals were miserably imprisoned behind iron bars and confined in unwholesome pens. The conditions there are not only unsatisfactory but should be condemned by the Humane Society. Our citizens are awakening to the necessity of a new zoological park planned along the lines of the Bronx Park in New York and in Hagenback's remarkable animal park in Stellingen, Germany.

"Griffith Par, with an area of 3900 acres and a boundary line of ten miles, is the second largest municipally-owned park in the world, and here we could have a zoological park unrivalled in natural beauty. We have but to use the mountains and valleys generously provided by nature and then we shall have a more magnificent plan than exists in any city in the world.

"No zoo would be complete without giving the children opportunity to ride upon ponies and donkeys and it is even better to have the thrill of swinging up on the back of a kind, old elephant, or go jogging along hanging to the hump of a camel. There will be a real necessity for some of these saddle-animals to carry adults as well as children over the comfortably-graded trails from which the various groups of animals may be seen to the best advantage.

"The head of a canyon, with the precipitous cliff rising on three sides, should serve admirably as a natural home for bears, lions, tigers, and kindred animals. For certain animals like the lion a moat eighteen feet deep and twenty-seven feet wide should be dug across the open end of this ravine, and partly filled with water. If a lion should attempt to leap over this barrier he would fall short against the vertical outer wall, with nowhere to go save back into his lair."

The lecturer described the birds of all kinds and from all quarters of the world which are destined to make the park a conservatory of heavenly music, and going to the other extreme he told of the reptile house with over head light and cages with glazed fronts for the giant pythons from India and Borneo, with open pools for turtles, alligators, and crocodiles.

AQUARIUM, TOO.

A part of the scheme which Dr. Edwards hopes to work to a successful conclusion as soon as he can secure the requisite funds is an aquarium to be located on the cliffs skirting the base of the San Pedro Hill.

"The site is as perfect for the purpose as Griffith Park is for the zoo," said Dr. Edwards. "Our aquarium would overlook the Pacific, where out in the opalescent mist the island of Santa Catalina arises just as does Capri from the blue waters of the Bay of Naples. The aquarium building planned in the mission style with a tower would crown the crest of the hill. The construction should be of reinforced concrete with massive walls and pillars for carrying the combined weight of the aquaria and the storage and filter tanks.

"The central exhibition room would be like a grotto, since all the light enters from behind black walls through water of the aquaria. Thus the fish would be seen to the best advantage, while the people seem to walk beneath the surface of the sea, to be thrilled by its beauty and witchery.

BEACH BOOSTERS PARADE.

Long Beach Municipal Band and Secretary of Chamber of Commerce Make Harmonious Demonstration on Streets.

The Long Beach Municipal Band, which came up to the city yesterday morning to conduct the employees of the Hamburger store to the beach for their annual picnic, regaled the city with music during the forenoon, paying its respects to The Times. The band was accompanied by R. L. Bisby, secretary of the Long Beach Chamber of Commerce, who stated that he wished to show the people of Los Angeles that they could have plenty of good music at the beach city as well as plenty of water. The band is a popular organization and attracted much attention in natty white suits as well as by its splendid harmony.

MORE LAW CLASSES.

As a part of both the day and the night school of the summer sessions of the College of Law of the University of Southern California, four new classes are to be started. Byron C. Women Leading in the Wor This Season.

The fourth annual Interdenominational Summer School of Missions, which the women of ten of the leading evangelical churches of Los Angeles are deeply interested, as well as the Young Woman's Christian Association, with its 6000 members, will open this afternoon at the First Methodist Church.

To get a comprehensive idea of the approximate number of women interested in the enterprise, it is only necessary to consider that the total membership of these ten churches is 60,000. It is generally conceded that two-thirds of this church membership is composed of women.

Of course, all the women in the churches are not especially interested in missions. If they were, then it would mean that some 40,000 women are looking forward to this summer school session. Half that number would be a fairly good congregation for a rainy Sunday—considerably larger than could crowd into any one church or amphitheater in Los Angeles.

The school which opens today will continue throughout the week, with regular afternoon sessions conducted by two picked leaders—Mrs. D. B.

Mrs. F. F. Van Nuys, Head o

Mission Study

Who will take an active part in the fourth school of missions which will ope

Wells of Chicago and Mrs. G. B. Coleman of Boston. The subjects to be considered are foreign and home missions. Mrs. Wells will have charge of the class in foreign missions and Mrs. Coleman of the home.

A glance at the evolution of these summer schools for the study of missions affords interesting reading. When the Ecumenical Conference of worldwide missions met in New York a dozen years ago the missionaries assembled from all quarters of the globe and declared the church at home was asleep; that it had practically no intelligent comprehension of missionary work, and that some sort of educative measures ought to be adopted to inform the people at large, and create enthusiasm and interest in many millions of inhabitants in the far corners of the earth who have never heard the gospel of Jesus Christ.

AS USUAL, A WOMAN.

As is often the case, it was a woman who solved the problem. She arose in that great gathering of preachers and laymen and suggested that schools should be formed in the church where a regular course of education in missions should be carried on with the assistance of regular text books and under the direction of trained instructors.

This practical solution appealed at once to the conference leaders and was adopted, with the result that there are now in the United States eight summer mission schools. California has the honor of being the only state in the Union with two of these schools—one here and another at Mt. Hermon. Other schools in this country are at Northfield, Mass., Chautauqua, N. Y., Winona, Wis., Minneapolis, and Boulder, Colo.

It was out of this innovation that the great jubilee movement sprung that swept the country two years ago from coast to coast, resulting in a fund of $1,000,000 for missions. The first mission school in Southern California, was held four years ago at Long Beach under the leadership of Mrs. F. F. Van Meter of Highland Park, who is well known in this city as a leader in mission work and contests throughout the year the largest mission study class on this coast, and believed to be the largest in this country. Three times a month more than a hundred women gather at the Highland Park Presbyterian church to study under her leadership the books laid down in the course of reading.

HITS THE HIGH SPOTS.

The summer school sessions are designed solely as an inspiration and to create interest and enthusiasm in the subjects to be studied. The leader goes over the text book, chapter by chapter, in a running review, dealing for the most part in glittering generalities. She "hits the high spots," as it were, without going into details. Then when the missionary societies in the various churches settle down in the fall for regular study in detail of the text book, they have a general comprehension of the subject.

There is a council in Boston consisting of a member of each denomination interested and this council decides on the subject to be presented each year to year and selects the books—one on foreign and one on home.

This year the foreign topic is "A New Day," and the writer is James Taylor Headland, who from long observation of men and events at Peking. He is in this

MISSION STUDY ATTRACTS MANY

Interdenominational School to Open Today.

Programme Both Interesting and Instructive.

Women Leading in the Work This Season.

The fourth annual Interdenominational Summer School of Missions, in which the women of ten of the leading evangelical churches of Los Angeles are deeply interested, as well as the Young Woman's Christian Association, with its 6000 members, will open this afternoon at the First Methodist Church.

To get a comprehensive idea of the approximate number of women interested in the enterprise, it is only necessary to consider that the total membership of these ten churches is 16,000. It is generally conceded that two-thirds of this church membership is composed of women.

Of course, all the women in the churches are not especially interested in missions. If they were, then it would mean that some 40,000 women are looking forward to this summer school session. Half that number would be a fairly good congregation for a rainy Sunday—considerably larger than could crowd into any one church or amphitheater in Los Angeles.

The school which opens today will continue throughout the week, with regular afternoon sessions conducted by two picked leaders—Mrs. D. B. Wells of Chicago and Mrs. G. B. Coleman of Boston. The subjects to be considered are foreign and home missions. Mrs. Wells will have charge of the class in foreign missions and Mrs. Coleman of the home.

A glance at the evolution of these summer schools for the study of missions affords interesting reading. When the Ecumenical Conference of world-wide missions met in New York a few years ago the missionaries assembled from all quarters of the globe and declared the church at home was asleep; that it had practically no intelligent comprehension of missionary work, and that some sort of educative measures ought to be adopted to inform the people at large and create enthusiasm and interest in many millions of inhabitants in the far corners of the earth who have never heard the gospel of Jesus Christ.

AS USUAL, A WOMAN.

As is often the case, it was a woman who solved the problem. She arose in that great gathering of preachers and laymen and suggested that schools should be formed in the church where a regular course of education in missions should be carried on with the assistance of regular text books and under the direction of trained instructors.

This practical solution appealed at once to the conference leaders and was adopted, with the result that there are now in the United States eight summer mission schools. California has the honor of being the only one in the Union with two of these schools—one here and another at Mt. Hermon. Other schools in this country are at Northfield, Mass., Chautauqua, N. Y., Winona, Wis., Minneapolis, and Boulder, Colo.

It was out of this innovation that the great jubilee movement sprung that swept the country two years ago from coast to coast, resulting in a fund of $1,000,000 for missions. The mission school in Southern California was held four years ago at Long Beach under the leadership of Mrs. E. Y. Van Meter of Highland Park, who is well known in this city as a leader in mission work and conducts throughout the year the largest study class on this coast, believed to be the largest in this country. Three times a month more than a hundred women gather at the Highland Park Presbyterian church to study under her leadership the books laid down in the course of reading.

HITS THE HIGH SPOTS.

The summer school sessions are designed solely as an inspiration and to create interest and enthusiasm in the work to be studied. The leader goes over the text book, chapter by chapter, in a running review, dealing in the most part in glittering generalities, she "hits the high spots," as it were, without going into details. Then when the missionary societies in the various churches settle down in earnest for the regular study in detail of the book, they have a general knowledge of the subject.

There is a council in Boston consisting of a member of each denomination represented and this council decides on the subject to be presented from year to year and selects the two books—one on foreign and one on home.

Of the foreign topic this year, "The Uplift of India," and the writer is Rev. Dr. Pastor Headland, who has had long observation of men and things in China. He is in this country on a year's furlough and is scheduled as a leading lecturer at Chautauqua (N. Y.) next month when he will speak on "Some By-Products of Missions." Dr. Headland is the author of "Court Life in China," his wife, as physician to princesses, having a wide acquaintance with women of the upper as well as the lower class.

A prominent reviewer speaks of the book "China's New Day," which is to be considered during this week by Mrs. Wells at the summer school sessions, as one of extraordinary interest. There is no book to compare with it, he says, for puttting the reader in close touch with an immense variety of facts and expert judgments thereon, both Chinese and foreign, concerning China's break with the past, the Chinese women, the educational revolution, the Chinese church and the medical and literary work. It is a book that will command wide attention.

THE MORMON PERIL.

The book on home missions selected by the Central Committee on the United Study of Missions, is "Mormonism" as set forth by Rev. Bruce Kinnay in his book on that subject. Dr. Kinney was formerly superintendent of Baptist missions in Utah and is thoroughly familiar with his subject and for that reason was selected by the council to write the book.

"When we realize the fact that we now have seventeen men in the United States Senate who are touched by Mormonism and more or less under the control of a Mormon constitution," said Mrs. Van Meter in discussing the topic selected for home mission study, "we women thought it was time to become thoroughly informed on this subject, so we asked the Central Council to make this the topic of the year in home missions."

Mrs. G. B. Coleman who is to lead the class on Mormonism, has come from Boston expressly for this purpose and is president of the National Council of Women for Home Missions.

Mrs. Wells conducted the school here last summer with such eminent success that her return is eagerly looked forward to by hundreds of women. A woman of commanding presence, she grasps her subject with a comprehensive sweep that carries everything before it. Last summer there were 600 women present at the opening session, the largest number of students in any summer school she had hitherto conducted, Mrs. Wells declared, and she goes all over the country as leader.

Mrs. R. P. Howell, wife of the pastor of Trinity Methodist Church, South, is president of the local Mission Study School Committee. Two representative women of each church are selected as leaders in each denomination—one on foreign and the other on home missions. The leaders in the various churches appointed this year are as follows:

Methodist Church, South, Mrs. Howell and Mrs. Moore; Methodist Episcopal, Mrs. Charlotte O'Neal of Pasadena and Miss Jennie Chambers of Asbury Church; Presbyterian, Mrs. E. Y. Van Meter of Highland Park Church and Miss Elizabeth Stephens; Congregational, Mrs. A. E. Larkin of Plymouth Church and Mrs. William Davies, wife of the pastor of Vernon Avenue Church; English Lutheran, Mrs. H. J. Weaver, wife of the pastor of the First English Lutheran Church and Mrs. Neale; Baptist, Mrs. G. H. Jacobs of Temple Church and Mrs. T. T. Tompkins; Christian, Mrs. W. R. Harper and Mrs. E. H. Keller; United Presbyterian, Mrs. H. W. Crabbe and Mrs. C. J. Kirk; Episcopal, Mrs. R. Lawrence; Friends, Mrs. R. M. Haro; Y.W.C.A., Miss Edith Conde, secretary of religious work.

Both leaders will speak this afternoon at 3:30 o'clock, Mrs. Wells's topic being "A National Hope," and Mrs. Coleman's "A National Peril." Sessions will be held every afternoon this week from 2 to 4 o'clock. Tomorrow Mrs. Wells will speak of China's break with the past, and Mrs. Coleman will review Mormon history.

Mrs. F. Y. Van Meter. Mrs. A. E. Larkin. Mrs. R. P. Howell, President Mission Study Committee.

Against "progressivism" backwards.
Against treason and the red flag.

A SAMPLE.

It is said that Gen. Luis Terrazas, one of the cattle kings of Mexico, has already purchased a large ranch in New Mexico as an American residence. This is an example of what may be expected of capital's attitude toward Mexico until that country is settled upon some safe basis of government.

NOT CONVINCING.

A new society has been formed by vegetarians of the city who hope to abolish the crude habit of meat-eating. Any time they convince the populace that a beefsteak is a mistake they will need strenuous dieting to nerve them for the task.

REMARKABLE.

The music teachers of California held a convention in Los Angeles which lasted for several days and they adjourned without having had a quarrel or bolt. It is fitting, of course, that harmony prevail among music masters; but, considering what an aggregation of temperament was really collected at this gathering, the outcome of perfect peace is almost surprising.

NOT CONFUSING.

It does not at all disturb honest Bill Mulholland to answer the questions of the aqueduct investigating board. He has managed a gigantic enterprise magnificently. He has nothing to conceal and no man can possibly know more about the building of the aqueduct than he. Men like Mulholland build empires and lesser persons criticise while enjoying the fruits of the great builders.

THE UNDERTONE.

Regardless of what occupies his mind and of what is his apparent conduct, down in any man's heart there is usually some motive which is the inspiration of his being. This underlying desire or plan is the foundation of his character and by it he builds or is destroyed. It may be that this undertone of his life is something worthy and that it keeps him in harmony with the world. It may be that this silent watcher at the life gate contains a large nobility and steadfastness of purpose and it may be that it is only a desire for pleasure, for comfort or for indulgence. It is here that the mainspring of a man's being must be sought and here that his deep attachments must be apprehended. If men look at the thing they live for they soon learn what they truly are.

MRS. SMITH AND HUSBAND.

There is something ominous about the new method adopted for registering at the various women's conventions of late. In some cases the ladies were accompanied by their spouses even as convening gentlemen are frequently accompanied by theirs. And madam registered at the hotels as Mrs. ——— and husband!

Far be it from us to criticise madam's action. Bless her heart, of course she knows best! Her unfailing feminine instinct prompted her to adopt that method which would be best for the prestige of the family. But it is an ominous sign of the times. Who knows but what it may presage the filing of the Presidential chair by Mrs. Charlotte P. Perkins Stetson C. Gillman in 1916? But should such be the case we hope it will please madam to take unto herself still another spouse that the social side at Washington may be fittingly undertaken by the first gentleman of the United States, the while his wife orders the affairs of the nation.

RHYTHM.

Gordon Parker Browne is dead and therefore his books are being published His last work is about Spencer and Kant. In it he praises Spencer's general observations, but condemns his system. He thinks it a compound of bad science, bad logic and bad metaphysics which for a time made a show, but which has passed without leaving much of an impression. It is undertaking a great deal to assume that Spencer has passed. His sort of production comes and goes in periods. In one generation such a man seems a small influence, while in the very next generation he is likely to experience a big revival. Spencer's system may be hard, but there will always be persons who feel obliged to travel his path in order to reach the larger conclusions. Another fact about such writers as Spencer, Swedenborg and perhaps Browning is that, while they are verbose, voluminous, surprising and sometimes awkward, they fascinate the intellect with their variety. They have too much meat in them to be in real danger of being permanently discarded.

PRODUCERS AND CONSUMERS.

The present high cost of living is nothing more or less than the cost of living high. Everybody, rich and poor alike, is living on a high plane; the luxuries of fifty years ago are the necessities of today. This fact will stand repetition. You can't eat your cake and have it. There are so many more knives now cutting into the big cake that the cost of the slices increases as the thickness diminishes. And everyone wants a piece with lots of chocolate icing on top.

No true progressive would see this general higher standard of life reduced. No intelligent political economist requires dear money and cheap living. Cheap money and big profits and high prices inevitably accompany eras of prosperity. The only sensible plan to reduce the cost of living is to increase production, and this is the only remedy the faddists never seek. After all, the fate and fortune of the world are in the hands of the farmers and not of the philosophers. They are the only real "bosses." For the land, when we get down to origins, is the only source of supply. From the earth come the necessities and luxuries of life and the wherewithal to obtain them—the gold used as a medium of exchange.

Gold and population keep on forever increasing, there has been no corresponding increase in the foodstuffs of the nation. Our people have been congregating more and more in the large cities. The last census report shows that the rural population in some of our most productive Central States has actually diminished. The fact is we are more interested in automobiles than in corn crops. No change in the laws will bring about a change in the public tastes; a change of heart must precede a change of laws. No tinkering with the tariff will bring more lands into cultivation or entice the urban population back to the country districts. There is only one thing that is already starting a reversal of the process.

The increasing prosperity of the farmers, due to the present high standard of living and the desire for town delights, must gradually wean the people back to the soil as conditions get ever harder in the cities. For in the bottom of our hearts we are all looking for a sure and a comfortable livelihood. As gold becomes cheaper and the raising of all kinds of produce more profitable, the valuable necessities of the country will draw men back again from the cheap attractions of the city.

To destroy the present protective tariff—the Democratic party's panacea for all our supposed present ills—would injure the city and reduce the quantity of land under cultivation at the same time. To increase the number of acres under cultivation, and to bring present waste places into productive usefulness is the one thing for which all legislation should be framed. Agriculture is the bedrock on which our whole prosperity is rooted.

Really earnest men have been tackling this problem for many years. Numberless great irrigation projects in the West, some completed, some still in course of construction, some as yet only on paper—the draining and cultivation of rich alluvial lands in the South—cheaper transportation by an interocean canal and an ocean-to-ocean highway, these are practical solutions of the greatest problem before us today; the problem of seeing that the knife and fork of the consumer do not outstrip the shovel and fork of the farmer, so as to plunge some of our people into hopeless poverty and others into hopeless superabundance.

Everywhere the cry goes up against the cost of living and the cost of living goes up along with the cry. The remedy lies with the people themselves, not through fiscal changes, but through giving more attention to agriculture. By working for cheaper transportation in the shape of better roads and more waterways, by cultivating every rood of cultivatable land to its maximum efficiency, we may get cheaper beef, larger loaves and fatter Thanksgiving turkeys, without any subsidence in the present flood of prosperity.

Next November we can re-elect the practical and painstaking Mr. Taft and forbear any experimenting with the flaming and fantastic Dr. Wilson. If we are really finding the present high cost of living high a hardship, we must search for a practical remedy under the guidance of practical men. We must certainly avoid the turmoil and confusion that would follow a reign of crack-pot innovations and the muddled manipulations of cotton-batting theorists.

FIGURES WON'T LIE.

The average annual rental of a four-room house in the United States is $131; in London, $114. In England and Wales, outside of London, $63; in Ireland, $77; in Paris, $87; in France, outside of Paris, $49; in Germany, $65; in Belgium, $39.

The retail prices of food, fuel and light, taking England as the par, stand in the following relations: England, 100 per cent.; Belgium, 102 per cent.; France, 118 per cent.; Germany, 118 per cent.; United States, 138 per cent.

The cost of supplying food, fuel, shelter and light—not including clothing, servant hire or miscellaneous expenses—for a family of two adults and two children for one year is, in the United States, $545; in England, $363; in France, $403; in Germany, $419; in Belgium, $345.

The average yearly earnings of all railway employees in the United States is $799.35; in the United Kingdom it is $382.60; in Germany it is $367.67; in Belgium it is $370.56.

The average annual compensation of engine drivers is, in the United States, $1335; in the United Kingdom, $580.84; in France, $492.15; in Germany, $646.82; in Belgium, $617.80; in Italy, $696.90.

The American railway employee earns $799.85 in a year, and it costs him $545 for rent, food, fuel and light, leaving $254.85 for clothing and other expenses.

The English railway employee earns $382.60 per annum, and if he has a wife and two children it would cost him, if he lived on an American basis, $363 for rent, food fuel and light, leaving him $19.60 for other purposes. The Belgian would earn $370.56 and expend $345, and the German would earn $367.67 and on an expenditure of $419 would be $51.33 in debt at the end of the year.

The estimates of the comparative cost of living in Europe and America are based upon the market reports of retail prices of commodities in the different countries. Flour in the United States in February, 1909, is quoted at 3.4 to 3.9; in France at 3.6 to 4.4; in Germany at 3.3 to 4; in England at 2.3 to 2.9, and in Belgium in 1908 at 2.7 to 2.9. The prices of fresh and salted meats were about the same in all parts of Europe as in the United States. The cost of coal per cwt. is about the same in France as in the United States. It is one-third lower in Germany, Belgium and England.

The situation may be summed up in the statement that the American railway employee earns an average of $254.85 per annum above the cost of feeding and sheltering his family, while the European runs $6.07 per annum behind. That is to say, he would run behind if he lived on the same scale as the American. But he does not. He has not as comfortable a home. He does not eat meat as many times a day. Eggs, butter, fruit, fresh vegetables, coffee and other concomitants of an ordinary American table are only occasional visitors at the British or Belgian board.

The statistics given in this article are taken from an official pamphlet issued by the Bureau of Railway Economics at Washington. It may be safely estimated that a compilation of statistics showing the difference in the wages paid European and American workmen engaged in the different industrial avocations would show that in other employments, as in railroading, while the cost of living in America on the same standard of life is but 44 per cent. higher than in Europe, the wages paid in America average 11 per cent. higher here than in Europe.

And Democracy wants to aid in reducing American wages and American standards of life to the European level by a "tariff for revenue only."

"VISUALIZED CIVICS."

The greatest benefit which the meeting of the National Municipal League brought to Los Angeles was the opportunity afforded the citizens of our own municipality to get acquainted with our own city.

How many taxpayers, for instance, know how many bridges the city has constructed in the last two years? And where they are located and what they look like? Here, in the showing made by the city engineer's office, are photographs of each. Here is also seen a large number of blueprints, maps, charts, etc., showing the infinite detail and routine necessary in handling the problems of bridge construction, street work, sewerage, park planning, etc. After looking over this dizzying display of lines and figures you don't wonder that it takes time to get a sewer or a sidewalk on your street. In fact, you wonder that the office isn't completely submerged in details and routines—perhaps that's what's the matter with it.

How many of us have seen the school gardens which are a chief factor in the education reputation of our city? Here they are presented to us in a collection of photographs. Many other features of school and school center work are also shown. By way of contrast, Kansas City presents a most pertinent series of pictures, statements and questions, illustrating the need and the results of social center work through the schools.

Los Angeles' public library presents a collection of books, documents and printed matter on city building, municipal management and allied topics, containing information enough to enlighten a charter committee, one would think. The resources of the library in this direction have never before been segregated and it is suggested that the collection now be kept together and be placed in the City Hall where it will be available for the use of city officials and others engaged in civic work. This is a plan that would certainly result in increased use of much valuable material which has hitherto been largely unavailable.

The showing made by the various departments of the city management gives the average busy citizen a chance to see in a concrete form something of the workings and the results attained. While he may question some of the claims and doubt some of the results, he at least gets an insight into what is doing in the offices for which he is putting up the cash.

The charts from the Auditor's office present in a compact way some facts of interest. It is certainly a commentary on our so-called civilization that out of every $100 of the city's revenue for all purposes nearly $20 goes for police and fire protection alone. Both fire and crime are to a large extent preventable; but instead of paying out our money for preventive measures, we pay the price and let it go at that. In this age is there any good reason why a city should not be practically "fireproof," thus saving a large part of the enormous expenditure for insurance and fire protection? The comparative assets and indebtedness of the city of Los Angeles and the growth of the assessment valuation are presented in striking form.

The examination of the exhibits shown in the Auditorium leads to a more intelligent understanding of the problems arising in our city government and the difficulties which municipal governments must meet. At this time when so many innovations in civic affairs and so many changes in conditions and relations are presented for consideration, the discussions and papers of the municipal experts in theory, at least, and the presentation of what is doing at home and abroad in city construction and management ought to help the puzzled voter to a somewhat clearer understanding of what it is all about.

A Good "Score."

MARSHALL'S HOLE.

The Democratic nominee for Vice-President is in a hole in his own State. It is a chasm that he dug single-handed and alone in order to disfranchise the colored voters of Indiana and precipitate them therein. But the Supreme Court of Indiana has intervened and, as Roosevelt would say, "chucked" His Excellency into the orifice. The war cry of Democracy once was, "Now is and ever shall be world without end" that the "peepul" shall rule, meaning thereby that about one-tenth of the people, or a majority of those who have votes, shall rule the other nine-tenths.

Gov. Marshall doesn't like the colored voters. His motto is "Into the ditch with Africa." The Fifteenth Amendment is to him the sum of all villainies. On the 11th of February, 1911, like lightning out of a clear sky, the Governor hurled into a joint caucus of the Democratic members of the Legislature a complete Constitution written by himself and practically disfranchising colored voters. It was railroaded through the caucus and through the Legislature, being opposed only by the Republican members and by Democratic Senator Stephen A Powers.

After the passage by the Legislature the proposed new Constitution provided that it should be submitted to the voters of Indiana at the next general election, to be approved or rejected. This would have been done at the election next November had the Supreme Court not decided it was invalid.

On May 1, 1911, John T. Dye, as a citizen of Indiana, filed suit in the Marion Circuit Court, attacking the validity of the act, and asking that Secretary of State Ellingham be enjoined from certifying the Constitution at the next election. On June 19 the hearing was begun before Judge Charles Remster. On September 25, 1911, Judge Remster held the act invalid, and the attorneys representing Gov. Marshall and the State Board of Election Commissioners, appealed to the Supreme Court. The action of the latter tribunal rendered last week sustains Judge Remster.

The Supreme Court held that the right to change the Constitution lies with the people, and that the amendment should have been submitted to a constitutional convention instead of to the Legislature.

The spellbinders of Democracy will have a hard task during the coming campaign. Gov. Wilson's panegyric of Chinamen as compared with European immigrants will swat them on one side. Gov. Marshall's attempt to deprive the people of their right to amend their Constitution by amending it himself will swat them on the other side. The orators will not resemble the ass in the fable who went hungry between two bundles of hay. They will be in the fix of the passenger who could not swim. The ship was on fire, there were no boats and no life preservers. If he remained on board he would be roasted; if he jumped overboard he would be drowned.

A Catastrophe.

[National Monthly:] A woman in one of the wards in the Rhode Island hospital was informed she had appendicitis and would have to be operated on at once. Much frightened, she reluctantly consented and was conveyed to the operating room. One of the doctors had commenced to administer the ether and her eyes were closing languidly, when he discovered he had forgotten to inquire if she had false teeth. He quickly removed the rubber cap, and shaking her slightly, he said: "Have you anything loose in your mouth?" Then, as he made a move to put his hand in her mouth, she opened her eyes wildly and exclaimed:

"Nothing but my tongue, doctor, and for God's sake don't cut that out, too!"

[Judge:] "Father," asked little Andy, "what's a leading woman?"

"Any woman," replied father, "who is married."

DEAR DISREPUTABILITY.

BY ALMA WHITAKER.

"Every woman is at heart a rake," said Pope, who seemed to know us unpleasantly well.

There is a hidden tragedy in the way we seize upon every available opportunity to be respectably disreputable, for it shows with what masterly self-restraint we invariably order our highly-commendable lives. With a stern heart and an eternal sense of duty we behave with a decorum that should call for nothing but the highest admiration, while all the time we are yearning with unspeakable desire to kick over the traces, to be gloriously disreputable.

But, of course, being women and therefore so much more self-controlled and conscientious than men, we never give way to these yearnings. But every now and then a loophole opens for us and some great cause, or at least some really worthy cause, can best be furthered by the relaxation of our decorum. For all too brief a spell a charity fete society vaudeville, to raise money for the support of feeble-minded husbands, or woman's suffrage, or even a mere common or garden "tag day" will lend us a perfectly respectable opportunity of being deliciously disreputable—and the eagerness with which we seize upon these crumbs of comfort is one of the touching things of life.

Englishwomen as a rule suffer from this enforced decorum to an even greater degree than Americans, which will account entirely for the zest with which they have taken up militancy for the suffrage. To be able to march through the streets singing, dash about in cabs with hammers, and throw stones through windows and listen to that thrilling sound of shattering glass—shattered by our own fair hands—and all in such a highly respectable cause, is worth a lot.

And that is why the institution of Alexandria Day, the first celebration of which took place on June 26 last, was such an overwhelming success. Alexandria Day is to be a glorified annual tag day upon which all good women will discard their natural reserve and decorum and go forth upon the street to sell roses. The proceeds go to the highly-respectable cause of Charity so, of course, it is perfectly comme il faut for titled dames, daughters of duchesses, countesses, baronesses in their own right, lady doctors, lady musical directors, whole battalions of literary dames, to say nothing of the vast army of sheltered domestic females, wives of professional men and members of Parliament and so forth, to take up a pitch on a busy thoroughfare and become for the nonce a Piccadilly flower girl. She may, under the circumstances, smile and beam upon strange young men, she may even pin a flower in the buttonhole of a fascinating stranger without losing caste. Alexandria Day is bound to thrive, especially as it is under the direct patronage of the Queen. That is being disreputable in fortunate circumstances, if you like.

Our own society vaudeville of recent memory is another case in point. Every one of those charming women who pirouetted about on the Auditorium stage, striving to give the most faithful presentation of a saucy musical comedy girl, simply oozes decorum and refinement in ordinary life. But how they reveled in shedding it all—in the sweet cause of charity! There are many respectably unostentatious ways of gathering in money for charitable purposes, but they rarely find favor with other than really bad women. These prefer to do good by stealth because they have a reputation for naughtiness to maintain and the novelty for them is modest virtue, but all the good women select the disreputable ways—it is their only opportunity, poor dears, of tasting the sweets of impropriety under perfectly legitimate circumstances, and you can't blame them.

One popular little lady who stands very high in social circles, a beloved wife and mother sans reproche, simply reveled in masquerading as the most disreputable of joyous comedians, Harry Lauder—kilts, red paint on her nose and cheeks, full text of the naughty songs and all—while another, an earnest worker in the church, kicked up her shapely legs with a delightful abandon. All, all for sweet charity, mark you, and perfectly legitimate!

Bazaars are another source of relaxation. Few society events are more popular than the great charity fetes and bazaars, where the more timid, refined souls become mere pushing saleswomen, while the more daring spirits stroll about boldly in attractive gowns and buttonhole engaging strangers, or else dress up in fantastic costumes and tell fortunes, hold the hands of strange young men cosily, the while they read them the most private details of their personal emotions!

As programme sellers at charity concerts, respectable young damsels of good family are eager venturers. To artlessly rook some poor male a dollar for a 10-cent programme, or $5 for a 50-cent box of chocolates, throwing in a winning smile and more than a suspicion of a wink as a salve to the depredated pocket, is a perfectly legitimate proceeding calling for much praise from the organizers. No wonder there is always any amount of competition for these offices!

THE GIRL GRADUATE.

[Harper's Weekly:] The girl who leaves school this year and enters life must see beyond herself and her own safety and good time. Aye! she must see beyond her own family and her own social circle. In every opinion she forms, in every partisanship she adopts, she will be playing false or true to the good of the race—of the whole. Is the shelter too large to look comfortable? Is the outlook too alarming? Well! it is not quite so comfortable and easy as the older and narrower life; but it is nobler and that is some compensation. At least to the girl of today one can say, as never before in the world's history:

"You are not ordained to the service of the bodily needs any more. You are not doomed to a house if outdoor life attracts you; or to domesticity if you have the vocation of a scholar or a saint. Really all that is required of you is that in some sort or other you labor to serve your kind, and that you live so that others are helped and not hindered by you. The home is no longer a fetish and the world is yours just in proportion as you have the power to receive and serve it. You are called to the application of a free intelligence to the problems and sorrows and mysteries of life. You are to try to live happily and healthy and to see to it that all the rest of the race lives so also. There is no crime in such living until your happiness and health infringes upon the amount other people can acquire. When that happens you are called to the most joy-giving of all human experience—to self-sacrifice for the good outside yourself.

[Chicago Record Herald:] "I believe honesty pays in the long run."

"So do I; but I often wish it were not such a mighty long run."

THE ORATOR'S OPPORTUNITY.

They've had the nominations an' they've

An' now it's time for speeches that will make the people shout.
The candidates that once were so important in the fray
Are now supposed to stand aside while others have their say.
Somebody has to hustle with the industry

While the aspirant for office holds a dignified reserve.
They've hoisted up the banners an' they've nailed 'em to the mast,
The speakin' starts an' Uncle Jim will get

When he says, "Fellow-citizens!" the silence is intense,
Then "On to victory!" he cries, and rapturous

He'll tell us "right will triumph an' the

When Uncle Jim cuts loose, there's no use tryin' to keep cool.
He'll quote some words from Socrates or

THE POLITICAL WATCHTOWER

Something of a sensation around the Courthouse was the announcement yesterday morning that G. Ray Horton, deputy in charge of the grand jury work for District Atty. Fredericks, was likely to get into the canvass for superior judge. A petition signed by several hundred friends and supporters was presented to him and he took it under advisement, but those associated with him are convinced that he will be a candidate.

The Prohibitionists are sadly bewildered as to what steps they should take to get upon the official ballot. Some favoring the plan of going on by petition, while others contend that the party ought to exercise its right to go on the ticket as a full-fledged political party. They point out that De la Monte, who was supported by the so-called Good Government people at the last county election for Sheriff, was the nominee of the Prohibition party and that he certainly received enough votes to place the Prohibitionists, so far as Los Angeles county is concerned, on the county ballot. But the chairman is away and no one seems to be taking the lead in his absence, although he will not be home until next September.

Earl Newmire announced his verification deputies yesterday in his fight for the Assembly nomination in the Seventy-fourth District, this making the contest seven-cornered. Frank Raley, who is making his canvass as a straight-out Taft Republican, is meeting with gratifying support, his friends announce, and is quite confident of carrying away the nomination from his six competitors.

Judge Clarke, who is trying to get the Republican nomination in the new Eighth Congress District away from Congressman Hayes, has made a fast-footed announcement that he favors the Johnson effort to capture the Republican electors for the third-term party. "I am in favor of electing progressive delegates to go to Washington and vote for Roosevelt or some other good progressive candidate for President," Clarke said in an authorized interview in a San Jose paper; "there is nothing wrong with the progressive programme." Copies of the interview are being sent out through the district by some unknown person, and some of Clarke's associates believe that a friend of Hayes is the guilty one. The district is strongly Republican and is for President Taft and not a third-termer.

There can be no progressive party

Something of a sensation around the Courthouse was the announcement yesterday morning that G. Ray Horton, deputy in charge of the grand jury work, for Dist.-Atty. Fredericks, was likely to get on the canvass for superior judge. A petition signed by several hundred friends and supporters was presented to him and he took it under advisement, but those associated with him are convinced that he will be a candidate.

The Prohibitionists are sadly bewildered as to what steps they should take to get upon the official ballot. Some are favoring the plan of going on a petition, while others contend that the party ought to exercise its right to go on the ticket as a full-fledged political party. They point out that in El Monte, who was supported by the so-called Good Government people at the last county election for supervisor, was the nominee of the Prohibition party and that he certainly polled enough votes to place the Prohibitionists, so far as Los Angeles county is concerned, on the county ballot. But the chairman is away and no one seems to be taking the lead in his absence, although he will be at home until next September.

Burt Newmire announced his veritable deputies yesterday in his fight for the Assembly nomination in the Forty-fourth District, this making the contest seven-cornered. Frank Gould, who is making his canvass as a straight-out Taft Republican, is meeting with gratifying support, his friends announce, and is quite confident of carrying away the nomination from his six competitors.

John Clarke, who is trying to get the Republican nomination in the new Eighth Congress District away from Congressman Hayes, has made the announcement that he will back the Johnson effort to capture the party. "I am in favor of electing progressive delegates to go to Chicago and vote for Roosevelt or some other good progressive candidate for President," Clarke said in an interview in a San Jose paper. "There is nothing wrong with the progressive programme." Copies of the interview are being sent out in the district by some unknown friend, some of Clarke's admirers say that a friend of Hayes is behind the move. The district is overwhelmingly Republican and is for President Taft and not a third-termer.

Will run by the progressive party doings at the Minnesota primaries next fall, according to the opinion of Atty-Gen. Lyndon A. Smith of that State. Under the State law the Roosevelt party has no legal standing in Minnesota and cannot qualify. Atty.-Gen. Smith's opinion, in part, is as follows:

"A political party, as that term is used in the primary election law, is one which has maintained in the Territorial division in question a party organization and presented candidates at three or more biennial elections within the preceding ten years. This rule is modified only as to counties by the clause which permits a number equal to 10 per cent. or more members of a party not qualified to nominate county officers at a primary and to present a petition to the county auditor for a place on the primary election ballot of such county.

"It follows that any party now being formed cannot nominate its candidates at the coming primary election."

What direct primaries may do when carried to an extreme is shown in Texas, where voters will be called upon at the end of July to choose Democratic candidates for even the minor offices. In one county there are so many candidates that the ballot will be more than five feet long, and in some of the other counties the condition is as bad or worse.

This condition has brought a reaction against the present system and there is much talk among political leaders of the necessity of making a change in the law so that the primary shall effect only the chief State and county officers, and that the means of getting names upon the ballot shall be made more difficult. The requirements are now so lax that it is possible for any man with a very small bee buzzing in his bonnet to put himself up before the voters.

Gov. Stubbs of Kansas has made public the platform on which he will run for the United States Senate against Senator Curtis. The pronunciamento is a long one. He objects to Curtis because Curtis voted for Senator Lorimer, and he says that "in an age that is becoming more and more distinctly progressive it becomes the paramount duty of a United States Senator to guard, jealously, the good name of the State he represents. The importance of this has impressed itself upon the country, and particularly upon Kansas, in the Lorimer incident.

Next to New York, Indiana has been the most popular source of Vice-Presidential nominees since the war. The choice of Gov. Marshall by the Baltimore convention adds another to a long series of Hoosier candidates for the second office in the land.

Beginning in 1868 Indiana has furnished major party candidates for Vice-President seven times. Thrice her candidates have been elected—Colfax, Hendricks and Fairbanks serving out their terms. Hendricks ran twice, being defeated once.

It is curious to note that Ohio, which has never had a Vice-President, was the birthplace of two of Indiana's three who reached that office. The two were Hendricks and Fairbanks.

Indiana has had but one President—Benjamin Harrison—and he was born in Ohio.

Giving Ohio credit for every President born within the State she has furnished six of the eight elected to the White House beginning with 1868. To New York belong the other two—Cleveland and Roosevelt. Arthur, of course, was a New Yorker, but he was not elected to the Presidency.

The Citizens' Union of New York has made its report upon the individual records of the Senators who have represented that city in the law-making body at Albany. Of the members of the Senate, five are pronounced "good," six as "indifferent," and ten as "bad."

Mrs. Helen Ring Robinson of Denver has entered the race for State Senator one reason for her candidacy being that there has been too much politics in the Legislature. Mrs. Robinson has long been actively identified with all movements which have had to do with the bettering of social conditions.

The prohibition party in Vermont has already got its State ticket nominated and in its platform calls for legislation that will stop the importation of liquor into the State.

The Secretary of State for Massachusetts is preparing for use at the primaries and State election this fall nearly 60,000 nomination papers, as against about 15,000 last year. The increase is said to be due to the desire of many candidates for extra papers to circulate for the purpose of getting indorsements for their candidacy. The circulating of papers is said to provide an effective means of advertising one's candidacy and of securing addresses of persons to whom campaign literature may be sent.

In the list of sponsors for the Roosevelt convention to be held next month are the names of those Democrats, Judge Ben. B. Lindsay of Denver, Julian Harris of Atlanta, and John M. Parker of New Orleans.

SPITS FIRE, KILLS WEEDS.

Machine Operated by Pacific Electric Will Be Tested This Week and Railroads May Adopt It.

The Pacific Electric is operating a weed burner, built on plans covered by patents held by E. E. Allen of No. 1614 West Thirty-fifth street, and this week tests are to be given with the machine for the benefit of railroad men who are investigating it with the view of adopting it for use on steam lines.

Crude oil is used for fuel and blasts of flame shoot out from each side of the car, cooking the green weeds down to the surface of the earth. Jets of water and steam follow the flame, putting out any remaining fire. It is asserted this machine is capable of working over 120 miles of track a day and killing plant and seed. It has devices whereby the flame may be shut off when passing over bridges or culverts, and turned on again with no stoppage of the car.

Thomas Hughes, roadmaster of the Pacific Electric, highly praises the weed burner and declares it will strip from eight to twenty feet of space. He says the tracks can be kept clean of growth for about $10 a mile a year, and that on heavy growths of vegetation it can successfully cover thirty miles of road a day.

The Standard Oil Company is negotiating with Allen for the construction of a factory for building these weed burners, also ones adapted for use on public roads or fields, at El Segundo, and it is probable that a manufacturing plant to cost from $10,000 to $20,000 will be erected at the new basah town for this purpose.

SUMMARY OF THE DAY.

The Playground Commission's secretary compiled figures yesterday showing that during the fiscal year just closed there have been 622,449 visits of children to the municipal playgrounds.

The Board of Public Works received a report from Sales Engineer Bannister yesterday showing that within the past two months the sale of salvage on the Los Angeles aqueduct work has amounted to $26,099. It is expected the total will reach $1,000,000.

Representatives of the city's legal departments conferred with representatives of the League of Justice yesterday and outlined two propositions pertaining to proposed "anti-spook" legislation, to be presented to the Council Legislation Committee Thursday.

A divorce was granted by a Superior Court judge yesterday to a young woman who married a count and subsequently regretted the act. Both declared they will not marry again.

At the City Hall.

THEY APPRECIATE PLAYGROUNDS.

MORE THAN HALF MILLION OF VISITS IN YEAR.

Operation of Fifteen of These Recreation Centers Proves a Valuable Adjunct Toward Giving the Youth a Wholesome Trend in Life. Vacation Camps Successful.

The annual report of the Playground Commission, which is about completed by Secretary Lamb, will show that during the fiscal year just closed there were 622,449 visits by Los Angeles children to the municipal playgrounds.

The Playground Commission operates throughout the entire year six regular public playgrounds, and for ten weeks during the summer season there are opened nine vacation playgrounds. The latter are located at the grounds of the Amelia-street school, San Pedro-street school, Thirtieth-street school, Thirty-seventh-street school, Fourteenth-street school, Washington-street school, Selma-avenue school at Hollywood, Fifth-street school at San Pedro, and the Colegrove school.

The day attendance at the playgrounds was 325,951 boys and 258,610 girls; and the night attendance was 29,767 boys and 14,721 girls. The night attendance was mainly at club work, etc.

The use of the public playgrounds has been found of much service in physical development of the children in attendance and in directing them into wholesome channels. In some instances notable transformations of neighborhoods, in so far as the elimination of complaints about annoyances by gangs of youngsters on the streets is concerned, have been effected, and there has been a general wholesome trend in every district where the playgrounds are in operation.

A feature provided by the Playground Commission that is now in its second year of successful operation is the vacation camp. The first year this was placed at Corona del Mar, and fifty boys taken there. This year the camp is located in San Gabriel Canyon, about a mile from Follow's Camp. The first party of boys, numbering forty-eight, is now in camp there in charge of S. H. Blesse and Francis Dougherty, superintendents of playgrounds. They will return next Friday and a second group of fifty will leave for the camp the following day. There is yet room for fifteen boys in this second group. The sum of $7.50 pays for the two-weeks' outing, including transportation. The girls will have possession of the camp during August, and many applications are being received by the Playground Commission for admission to these parties. The girls will be in charge of Mrs. Maud W. Hammond, superintendent of girls' work at the public playgrounds.

During the past fiscal year the expenses of operating the playgrounds have been $55,378.52.

Making Good Progress.

Officers of the playground department yesterday reported that good progress is being made on the improvements of the athletic field at Exposition Park. The grading of the ground lying within the circle of the rade track is about completed and during the ensuing week work will be started on the installation of a sprinkling system with pipes beneath the surface of the ground, similar to the system used in Central Square. There is now $4500 worth of water pipe on the ground for this work. The first recreation grounds to be established will be the base ball section.

Asks for Amendment.

Morgan, Walls & Morgan, architects, yesterday filed with the City Clerk a petition to the City Council for an amendment in the building ordinance eliminating the requirements of fire walls on class A buildings. They claim that as the roof materials of this class of construction are fireproof, the construction of fire walls is unnecessary, and frequently prevents the carrying out of desired architectural designs.

Animals Impounded.

The report of the Humane Animal Commission for the past month, filed with the City Clerk yesterday, shows that the sum of $233 was collected from horses, mules and cows impounded during the month, and that 215 dogs were impounded, 188 were destroyed and thirty-seven were returned to owners.

Will Hold up Funds.

The Board of Public Works yesterday served notice on the City Auditor to hold any funds that are due or that may be due C. A. Alexander, the contractor for street sweeping, whose contract was revoked on Thursday, until the city has made its final settlement with the contractor. The Inspector of Public Works will take charge of the street-sweeping until a new contract can be awarded.

"Anti-Spook" Ordinance.

At a conference between the City Prosecutor, Chief Deputy City Attorney and the secretary of the League of Justice yesterday, an agreement was reached as to the medium-regulating legislation to be proposed for consideration of the Legislative Committee of the City Council at its session next Thursday. It is probable that two propositions will be presented. The first of these is to make a clean sweep, prohibiting the issuance of licenses to all classes of mediums, fortune tellers, mystics, etc. The other is to eliminate from the ordinance the requirement that a license fee be paid, but to require that permits be secured in each case from the Police Commission and that such permits shall be revocable at any time upon substantiation of complaints of fraud made against any person holding such permit. Continuance in the practice of these vocations after the permit was revoked would be a misdemeanor and subject to fine or imprisonment, or both such penalties.

Want Delegates Appointed.

The Mayor yesterday received from Edwin J. Becker, secretary of the Trans-Mississippi Commercial Congress, a request that delegates be appointed to attend the next session of this congress, to convene in Salt Lake City August 27 to 30. The Mayor will name delegates during the ensuing week.

Money From Salvage.

The sales of surplus material on the Los Angeles aqueduct for the past two months has amounted to $26,099. The sales for the past month, return of which was made yesterday to the Board of Public Works, amounted to $18,943.56. It is expected that there will be fully $1,000,000 realized from salvage sales on this immense work. E. W. Bannister, the sales engineer, is to visit San Francisco, Seattle and Portland during the ensuing month to investigate prospects for selling large amounts of this surplus material to contractors in these cities.

Reconstructing Vault.

The material is on hand for the relining of the fire and burglar-proof vault recently constructed in the City Treasurer's office, but the steel lining of which proved faulty. The Board of Public Works yesterday telegraphed to the New York firm holding this contract that unless they have an expert on hand to superintend the placing of these plates tomorrow morning the board will employ such a person and charge the contractors therefore.

Bids for Conservatory.

The city is receiving bids for the construction of the wings of the conservatory being constructed in Eastlake Park. This includes the bids on structural steel work and concrete construction on three sections of the conservatory.

A Serpentine Roadway.

Property owners on Baxter street are asking the City Council to provide for the improvement of that street by a serpentine road eighteen feet in width. The street is in a hilly section and even without cuts the roadway would have an eighteen per cent. grade. The subject will be before the City Council at its session next Tuesday.

At the Courthouse.

WILL "BACH" IT, EACH ASSERTS.

EARLY AUTUMN IN SPRING AND MIDSUMMER UNION.

Court Grants Divorce on Grounds of Cruelty and Incompatibility. Business Men Testify as to Count's Honesty and Truthfulness—Closed-doors Case Still on.

"Never again," declared Mrs. Cora von Neindorff yesterday when Judge Rector granted her a decree of divorce from Count Paul von Neindorff.

The Count, who had contested the suit, also asserted that he will not again embark on a matrimonial sea.

The court granted the decree on grounds of cruelty and incompatibility. Mrs. Von Neindorff, who is much younger than the Count, alleged the cruelty consisted in her husband's insisting on buying her clothes for her, restricting her reading to a few books and magazines of his selection, deceiving her as to his age, and sundry things.

Before the case came to a close yesterday half a dozen business men testified as to Von Neindorff's honesty and truthfulness. They asserted the Count stands well in the business world.

That unions of early spring and midsummer are not necessarily conducive to happiness, seemed to be a conclusion of the court. He heard the evidence patiently and allowed the attorneys, Bernard Potter for Mrs. Von Neindorff and Freeman and Culver for the Count, much latitude. A property settlement was made.

The Mowrer divorce, being heard behind closed doors in Extra Sessions Four, will be resumed tomorrow.

MUST BE GOOD.

YOUTH'S JOYS CURTAILED.

If L. D. McCready follows the instructions of Judge Willis, he may atone for his past follies. McCready is the scion of a well-to-do Los Angeles family. He stole his mother's machine, sold it, and on the proceeds went to New York.

En route McCready gave a fictitious check. When he reached New York his conscience twitted him and he gave himself up. He was brought back to Los Angeles and Judge Wilbur sent him to Whittier until he was 21.

While he was serving his time at Whittier, the authorities in South Dakota sent word here that McCready was wanted for a crime committed there. The Whittier authorities delivered him to the Sheriff and McCready was lodged in jail. He had only a short time to serve at Whittier and the court was at first inclined to return him to Whittier to finish his term.

Judge Willis sent for the prisoner yesterday and placed him on probation for five years. He gave him a fatherly talk, ordering that he should not drive an automobile for one year, drink or engage in any frivolities. Furthermore, he was told to engage in legitimate business so that his active mind would have something sensible to work on. McCready promised. The case in South Dakota has been settled.

BACK TO ORANGE.

ALLEGED BIGAMIST'S TROUBLES.

The charge of bigamy against William Rawlins falls because under the law if the defendant demands a jury trial, the case must be tried in the locality where the crime was committed. It appears that Rawlins married Zelma Dickson Rawlins at Santa Ana on November 8, last. She had him arrested for failure to provide.

While this case was pending she alleged that he took a diamond ring from her. When the grand larceny trial was called, she discovered he had another wife living.

Mrs. Mary Rawlins, wife No. 1, had not seen her husband for eight years when she appeared at Rawlins's preliminary examination as a witness. Rawlins was before Judge McCormick yesterday on the bigamy charge. The court will make an order tomorrow setting aside the charge on the ground that the law under which he is charged in the complaint is unconstitutional. A complaint, it is understood, will be filed in Orange county and wife No. 1 will be a witness.

CLAIM TURNED DOWN.

COVERS EXPENSES EAST.

Judgment in favor of the Siam Mining and Milling Company was given by Judge Wilbur yesterday in the suit brought by Mrs. E. A. Higginson to recover $800 on the assigned claim of Telfair Creighton, a director of the company who had been sent East to sell the company's stock.

It appeared from the trial of the suit that Creighton did not make the sales and the company refused to pay his demand. He assigned the claim and when it came before the board for action, Creighton cast the deciding vote to pay it. The company declined to meet the demand, and Mrs. Higginson, as assignee, brought suit.

COURTHOUSE NOTES.

BREVITIES MISCELLANEOUS.

GOES TO TRIAL. By overruling the demurrer to the complaint of Joseph Pratt, who asks $5000 damages by reason of having been arrested, charged with a felony, and thrown into jail, the case afterward being dismissed, the suit against H. O. Vogel will go to trial. Pratt was brought before Justice McDonald of Pasadena on September 28, last, and alleges he was incarcerated with thieves, felons and vagrants for five days. The motion to dismiss the case was made by Deputy District Attorney Richardson. The argument on the demurrer was heard by Judge Craig.

LOSES SUIT. C. Fred Bean, whose dog bit a real estate broker, the latter recovering small damages, won the second action brought against him by U. S. G. McCormick, a barber, who was struck and injured by Bean's auto on San Pedro street, on March 7, last. McCormick failed to show that the accident was caused by the negligence of Bean. He wanted $2000 damages.

COMMISSION SUIT. Judge Craig gave judgment for C. E. Haisell and N. K. Parkhurst yesterday in a suit for commissions on stock sold. The plaintiffs were employed by the Derby Automobile Race Company to handle its stock on a commission basis of 25 per cent., and sold 1840 shares, alleging $460 to be due. The company alleged that the plaintiffs had not complied with the contract.

DAMAGE SUIT. John Weber asked $10,600 damages for injuries received by falling from the pier owned by the Clark and Sherman Land Company at Playa del Rey on July 15, 1911. Weber alleges that he slipped as he stepped on a crossbeam on the end of the pier and fell twenty feet, striking on a rock. He avers that his skull was fractured, his right eye affected and his right ear rendered deaf. Weber was formerly employed in the city tax office.

IN THE INFERIOR COURTS.

The Tale of a Cat, a Gun, a Death in Catville, an Accusation, an Arraignment and an Order.

The carcass of a cat, a large, white Tabby, will be produced in Police Judge Williams's court at the University Station tomorrow morning by M. G. Smith, in an effort to prove that he did not shoot or kill the feline. Mrs. George Zier, No. 795 Clanton street, says he did both. The cat was her pet.

On the technical charge of having discharged fire arms within the city limits, Smith was arraigned yesterday. Smith admits that he discharged a gun. He even went so far as to confess that the weapon was aimed in the direction of Tabby, which he says had been an annoyance to the neighborhood in which he lived.

But as for the bullet from his gun hitting the cat—"Never," stoutly maintained Smith. "I'm not good enough on the aim, to hit anything."

In substantiation of that assertion, Smith declared no bullet wound was found on the body of Mrs. Zier's pet. The court, to satisfy himself on that point, has ordered Smith to produce the body of the cat in court.

Curiosity Is Costly.

Raphael Valverde's curiosity, fortified by a large revolver, cost him $40 or forty days in Police Judge Chambers' court yesterday. He was convicted by Patrolmen Phillips and Perry of having carried a weapon. They further accused him of having made a demonstration, as though to shoot one or both of them. The patrolmen had arrested Mary Williams for being intoxicated on Ducommun street. She screamed, and Valverde, who lived near, took off his coat, put a revolver in his pocket, and went to the rescue. He did not know that she was being arrested. The officers swore that when Valverde saw them place handcuffs on the struggling woman he made a motion as though to draw a revolver. Valverde denied any intention of shooting. The woman was fined $5 or five days.

Alleged Highwaymen Held.

G. B. Ware and Andrew Ammond, negroes, were arraigned before Judge William in the University Police Court yesterday on a complaint sworn to by G. O. Niece. He asserts that they held him up, beat him and robbed him of a few dollars on the night of the 11th inst., near Alameda and Fifth streets. Niece was rendered almost unconscious. His nose was broken and his face cut in several places as the result of kicks after he had been felled by a blow on the head. The court held the negroes to answer under $3000 bail each, to the Superior Court.

Entirely Too Friendly.

Wolpin Attiglio, an aged shoemaker, was sent to jail for ninety days yesterday by Police Judge Chambers on conviction of having made improper advances toward a little girl. It was testified that the child's mother sent her to Attiglio's shop to get a pair of shoes he had repaired. He gave her a cheap bracelet. She became frightened and ran home crying.

Appeals from Decision.

J. R. McKasson filed an appeal bond in Police Judge Frederickson's court yesterday. He is the steward of the St. Ignatius Social Club. He was arrested by members of the Metropolitan Squad several weeks ago on a charge of having sold liquor without a license. He was convicted. He set up as a defense that a social club does not require a license where liquor is disposed solely to members. The court held that a license is necessary. The officers testified that they were served with beer, and had drunk a part of it before they were asked to sign a card, which they swore McKasson told them made them life members of the "club."

RENT DUE; NO MONEY.

Apparently crazed by worry over losing possession of her rented home, Mrs. George Martin was taken from No. 961 Edgeware road yesterday by deputy sheriffs and removed to the hospital for observation. It is possible that no insanity complaint will be filed if she recovers her mental poise during the next day or so. Several days ago Undersheriff Brain sent out a deputy to tell the woman she would have to vacate for non-payment of rent to W. C. Dillingham, the owner. The woman seemed much enraged and threatened the officer with bodily harm if he ejected her. Her daughter is in charge of the house. It appears the landlord has been extremely lenient and is still prepared to make every possible accommodation for Mrs. Martin if she is deemed sane by the examining physicians.

ON PIN, MAN'S WEALTH.

The value of a somewhat ancient watch was called into question in Justice Summerfield's court yesterday when a collection agency tried to levy on the timepiece of Stanley Reeves. The young man said he had got a loan on the watch and so couldn't allow it to go on his debt. The court examined the watch and remarked that it wasn't worth much and told Reeves to put it back in his pocket. The young man said he was very grateful. H. Soloman, another man cited on poor debtor process to disclose his world wealth to his creditors, told Justice Summerfield that he had a stickpin he paid 50 cents for which he was willing to give the plaintiff. There was a general laugh in the courtroom.

COURT REBUKES MOTHER.

Justice Forbes mildly rebuked Mrs. Cordell yesterday morning when the woman declared she was responsible for the non-appearance of her son in court. The boy was arrested several days ago on a charge of exceeding the speed limit on his motorcycle. He was notified to appear in court, but failed to put in an appearance. An officer was sent after him. His mother appeared instead and told the court she was the responsible party. She will be required to produce her son on Wednesday next.

SECRET INDICTMENTS.

Two secret indictments were returned by the grand jury yesterday morning. Deputy District Attorney Veitch, who had the matter in charge said he wished to keep the names secret until arrests were made. He intimated the cases were not sensational.

Discrimination is as necessary in the choice of a Mortgage investment as in a Bond.

Bonds offer the big advantage of having all searching of title and appraisement of value done for you by experts, which you must pay for when buying a Mortgage.

Bonds are secured by first lien upon property. In the case of the Real Estate Bonds we offer, they are issued upon a basis of 40% of the value of the California Real Estate which secures them. Their final repayment is provided for and the interest is paid semi-annually.

Each Bond carries interest Coupons which are paid upon presentation at proper time.

No matter where you are, simply clip the coupon and send direct or through your bank.

These Bonds are tax exempt in California and pay 6% to 7% interest.

New Summer Draperies in Dainty Refreshing Tones

—One of our windows this week will show some very interesting new ideas in summer draperies.

There is probably no branch of home furnishing in which real artistic perception is so important as in the choosing of draperies.

By the tasteful and harmonious use of the lighter, cooler, daintier fabrics, an entirely new home atmosphere may at little cost be created in harmony with the season.

We believe that, judging from the standpoint of artistic and judicious selection, for the peculiar requirements of our Southern California homes—the California's showing of summery drapery materials is absolutely in a class alone.

Our showing includes all the beautiful new French and English cretonnes and chintzes.

—the dainty shadow warp taffetas in exquisite soft, delicate colorings.

—block printed linens in bold designs, with plain linens and borders to harmonize.

—extensive selections of new ideas in tapestries, silk damask, silk armures, brocades, embroideries and reproductions of antique stuffs of all important periods.

We invite you to visit our Drapery Department and study our prices and facilities for service. We shall be pleased to assist you in working out most appropriate results for your own requirement.

Working Together.

UNIFORM GRADE MUCH DESIRED.

Walnut Men Plan to Elevate Standard of Crop.

Southern Californians Hope to Produce Best.

European Competition Lends No Fear at All.

The California Walnut Growers' Association has started a campaign to raise the already-high standard of the Southern California product. A committee has been appointed to make a report upon the plantings and the methods of cultivation, as well as on conditions in the packing-houses. Following upon this, such changes will be made as will insure uniform quality of production.

By this move better commercial relations with the consumers all over the country are to be established and a great improvement and development of the product will begin. According to Fred A. Hazard of the Walnut Growers' Association the consumer must be shown that efforts are being made to ship him the best grade of nuts possible.

Furthermore, Hazard states after this workhas been carried out, a uniform brand will be placed on the entire output of the California Walnut Growers' Association. Hitherto various associations have had different brands, but it is far better to have one uniform pack and brand in order that consumers may learn to recognize the walnuts from this State, because a high-class product is being aimed at by the association.

Thirteen subsidiary associations are affiliated under the central organization in Los Angeles. Six of them are in Orange county, two in Los Angeles and five in Ventura and Santa Barbara counties, and their membership numbers 1590 to 2000 growers. The affiliated associations are interested in the present movement toward establishing a high-class product.

The prospects for the walnut crop of this year are extra good, although it is estimated that it will hardly be as large as that of last year, which exceeded that of any previous season by 4000 tons, when all the producing districts are included.

EARLY FOR CONCLUSIONS.

J. G. Newton of J. K. Armsby and Company asserts that it is a little too soon to come to any safe conclusion regarding the production of this year.

"For last year," he said, "the yield is now estimated to have been 12,500 tons, although we were only satisfied recently as to these figures, and the exact record will probably be received in a week. From present indications, however, it is likely that this year's production will not be as large, although there are many young groves coming into bearing which help to maintain and increase the tonnage.

"Walnut orchards stretch from Goleta on the north to San Juan Capistrano on the south, and the producing counties are Orange, Santa Barbara, Ventura and Los Angeles. The No. 1 softshell constitutes the bulk of the walnuts sold. A few hardshells are raised and a limited quantity of budded nuts. Also, after nuts have gone over the grading screens and the smaller sizes are separated, a small quantity of No. 3's are sold.

"California walnuts are consumed all over the United States, and the southern part of this State is the only producing section for the crop from a commercial standpoint. A few walnuts are raised in Middle and Northern California, and in Oregon and Washington, but not in commercial quantities.

"During an average year, the growers receive something like $3,000,000 for the entire yield. Prices are based on a consideration of the size of the crop, the financial condition of the country, how early the output can be put on the market, and also the quantity of foreign nuts with which the California product may have to compete, as well as how early importations come in.

"Great efforts are being made by means of careful cultivation and attendance on trees, by culling out all inferior qualities, and by better bleaching, grading, processing, etc., to turn out every year a finer crop than that of the preceding year. The associations take the lead in these efforts."

LARGE ACREAGE.

Probably nearly 30,000 acres are cultivated to walnuts in Southern California. The production has grown rapidly but despite this fact the importations are still exceedingly large and during the fiscal year of 1910, over 10,500 tons of unshelled walnuts in excess of 5600 tons of shelled nuts were brought into this country. The latter do not, however, come into competition with the California trade, it is stated. The product from this State is better in quality than that imported and with the endeavors that are now being made to improve walnuts, there is little likelihood of the trade with Europe ever hurting that of California, even though the growers in foreign countries have the advantage of being able to produce their crop at a lower rate.

FALL OF THE BASTILE.

French Colony to Celebrate One Hundred and Twenty-third Anniversary of Freedom From Yoke.

The celebration of the French people of the city today, at Luna Park, marking the 123rd anniversary of the fall of the Bastile, and their freedom from the yoke of autocracy in the mother country, will be an enthusiastic event. An elaborate programme has been prepared, which includes an address by Jean Castera, president of the Executive Committee; address by Louis Sentous, French Vice-Consul; address, Mayor Alexander; violin trio by Misses Louise, Rose and Prudence Verges; "The Death of Jeanne d'Arc," Miss L. Lowdon; address in English, A. Orfila; "Star Spangled Banner," Mrs. G. R. Brennan; "Les Vieux," Miss L. Blondeau; address in French, Leon Curtet; "La Marseillaise," L. Demangane. CONFINEMENT UNNERVES HIM?

Police Say Cook Confesses to Having Fatally Stabbed Aqueduct Laborer in Quarrel Over Card Game.

After having spent a night in solitary confinement, F. W. Woods sent for detectives yesterday morning and confessed to them, they allege, that it was he who fatally stabbed Joseph Hennessey, an aqueduct laborer, in the Pennsylvania rooming-house on South Main street late Friday afternoon, following a quarrel over a game of cards for money. Hennessey died at the Receiving Hospital about half an hour later. Woods used a butcher knife, sixteen inches long. The point of the blade entered at the left shoulder and severed an artery in the front of the neck.

Woods, Owen Breslin and W. T. Walker were arrested by Patrolman Greene, who later found the knife used by Woods. It was in his room, and covered with blood. Walker is to be released by the police. Breslin is to be held for further investigation. Both Woods and Breslin were playing cards with Hennessey before the stabbing.

Woods maintains, the police assert that the other men were cheating him and a fight followed. Woods says the men forced him against the wall in the hall and were choking him. He broke from them, ran to his room, got the knife he used in the kithcehn where he was employed as a cook, and returned to Hennessy's room.

"I didn't mean to cut the boy," said woods. "I only intended to strike him with the butt of the knife. It must have turned in my hand, and the blade entered his body."

The Coroner will hold an inquest tomorrow at Pierce Bros., morgue.

Hotel Clerk Commits Suicide by Shooting Himself with Old-Fashioned Pistol—Had Been Sickly.

Ill-health and inability to negotiate a lease on a hotel dining-room at Thermal are thought to have been the cause that actuated Peter A. Periot, about 45 years old, to commit suicide yesterday morning in his room at the Hotel Centro, No. 341½ South Spring street, by shooting himself through the head with an old-fashioned pistol. He left no explanatory note. Nothing is known of Periot's family by the hotel people.

Periot was night clerk at the Hotel Centro. He came here from San Francisco where he was a conductor for the United Railroads. Periot was a member of Searchlight (Nev.) lodge, No. 22, F. & A. M.

AQUEDUCT VIEWS AND TALK.

Entertainment to Be Given at Blanchard Hall for Benefit of One of the Workers—Vaudeville, Too.

Two hundred stereopticon views of the aqueduct, described by an engineer who has been connected with the project from its inception, will form part of a programme to be given tomorrow evening at Blanchard Hall by aqueduct employees for the benefit of one of their fellow-workers.

The views are from photographs taken by Prof. Bledsoe and illustrate many interesting features of the great project, in addition to giving an excellent idea of the country through which the big ditch is being built. Roderick MacKay, mechanical constructor of the aqueduct, who put the cement plant at Monolith on a paying basis, will give a running fire of comment on the views.

In addition to the aqueduct end of the programme, there will be a number of vaudeville acts. Fred A. Gambold will be heard in a monologue; "Edo," a juggling cook, will conduct a comedy lunch counter; the Hyman sisters, singers and dancers; Dorothy Weinstein, piano soloist; Kornblum and Rosenthal, ragtime singers and players, and Lillian Rosine, vocalist, are also billed.

CAKE-WALKING BANDITS.

Police Believe Two Men Who Robbed Grocer, One in Skirts, Had Disguised Themselves as Negroes.

Minstrel highwaymen is the latest innovation in local crime circles if the deductions and theories of the detective department are correct.

They think that W. Bench, a grocer living at No. 810 West Third street, who was held up at the point of a revolver at Third and Clay streets, in the shadow of Angel's Flight and relieved of $110, was robbed by two white men who had blackened their faces to appear as negroes. One was attired in woman's clothing.

As Bench was crossing Clay street, two forms suddenly appeared from the dark recesses of a hallway. As they approached the grocer, the one wearing finery attire suddenly drew a revolver from the folds of the dress and commanded:

"Stop! Throw up your hands and be quick about it!"

One robber stepped back into a shadow and acted as a lookout while the one wearing skirts kept Bench covered with the revolver and searched his clothing. After the grocer had been plundered, he was told to "beat it."

Medicines that aid nature are always most successful. Chamberlain's Cough Remedy acts on this plan.—

TELEPHONE COMPANY CHANGES.

Pacific Will Remove Auditing Force to Sacramento and Will Enlarge Fresno System.

FRESNO, July 13.—Announcement was made today in the offices of the Pacific Telephone and Telegraph Company that the Fresno district auditing department would be moved to Sacramento and combined with the auditing department. Bernard J. Leonard, formerly assistant district accountant of the Los Angeles division at Los Angeles and now district accountant here, has been promoted and will have charge of the combined auditing departmeht in Sacramento. Leonard and his office staff left this noon for Sacramento. Leonard has been in Fresno since last October when he was transferred here from Los Angeles.

Coupled with the announcement of the change of the auditing department came the statement that between $80,000 and $70,000 would be expended by the telephone company in this city in enlarging their service here and extending wires into the new additions which are being opened by the real estate men of the city. Already many employees of the Pacific Electric Company are in Fresno engaged in installing new switch boards and enlarging the old ones. Plans are being made to increase the service so that thousands of new subscribers can be cared for.

OPEN ON PEACHES.

The canneries in Fresno and vicinity will open on peaches about the 20th of this month, according to an announcement made yesterday by several of the packing-house managers here. There is little possibility of the season opening sooner as the fruit is just beginning to color and it will take about ten days for it to ripen.

The canneries expect a big run this season as the crops are large, but the managers claim that the extent of the amount of help that can be secured. The quality of the peaches this year is excellent. Prices for canning peaches are remaining about the same as they were two or three weeks ago being $25 for Tuscan, from $20 to $25 for Phillip and from $15 to $20 per ton for orange cling.

CLEVER TRICK IS FOILED.

Visalia Detective in Search of Evidence Feigns Illness to Get Liquor. Result Was Distressing.

VISALIA, July 12.—One of the followers of Sherlock Holmes, operating here in the search for evidence against illegal sellers of liquor, was sold a bottle of alleged whisky at a local pharmacy yesterday and today he is suffering from the effects of testing it. The detective who gave his name as Jones at a Main-street rooming-house, walked back of the prescription counter in a local pharmacy yesterday and in a stage whisper told of a violent stomach ache and asked for a bottle of whisky.

The clerk busied himself in the rear a few moments and appeared with a big brown bottle, filled with liquor. The detective made his way to his room, where he took a liberal dose of the alleged liquor. Shortly afterward he was taken violently ill. The liquor was composed of tincture of ginger, tincture of red pepper, ipecac and quinine. The sleuth has not been back for a refilling of the bottle.

MANY FILINGS.

Figures which have been given out from the County Recorder's office show that there have been 822 more instruments nled for record during the first six months of 1912 than were filed in 1911. This represents an increase of about 15 per cent.

The showing for July is even more encouraging. Last year for the first twelve days the total instruments filed was 300, while this year there have

GRAPE GROWERS' BATTLE.

DINUBA, July 13.—Wine grape growers are already in a battle with the association wineries over prices to be paid this fall, the wine men having refused to sign contracts for fall delivery, stating that every winery in the country has an unusual stock on hand and that thus far there has been nothing tangible upon which to base a price. Grape growers, on the other hand, state that the independent winery men declare that there is very little wine in storage and that it will be safe to contract on a basis of $12 for the early varieties. Last year the prices were anything but satisfactory for the growers and the season was not altogether a profitable one. It is the hope of the growers this year that they may be able to arrive at an agreement which will yield them at least a small profit.

LAND SHOW CHORUS.

There will be a meeting of the Land Show chorus, which has also been known by the name of the Handel-Haydn chorus, in Moose Hall, Levy's cafe building, on Monday evening at 8 o'clock. The chorus is to sing every evening during the Moose convention, August 5 to 10, and arrangements are to be perfected for the rehearsals. Members will also be asked to suggest a suitable name for the chorus, as neither of those under which it has been known are satisfactory to the members.

STIRRING TIMES IN FOREST.

Diversified Activities in Angeles Reserve Shows Much Constructive Work and Prosperity—Facts.

Supervisor Charlton of the Angeles National Forest, gave interesting statistics yesterday which show that there are at present 249 miles of trails in the reserve, constructed at a cost of $49,800; ninety-five telephone lines, $3600; 114 miles of firebreaks, $17,900; nineteen houses, $8800; eighteen barns, $1500.

The money for the class of improvements during the year closing June 30, last, came from various sources, Los Angeles county contributing $5900; the State of California, $2124, while $1265 was received from various sources, largely from the water and power companies. The total area of the reserve is 1,265,338 acres, and of this amount 308,144 acres has been patented, leaving the total number of acres of public land within the reserve, 960,194, which represents the area under the care of the local office. During the year there were eight prosecutions of persons who neglected to extinguish campfires in the canyons and mountains.

There were 150 applications for homesteads during the year, making a total of 442 since the reserve was created. Seventy-two of the 158 were listed and thrown open to settlement. The area thus set apart amounts to 8132 acres; the total area covered by the 158 entries is 13,281 acres.

Sixty-nine range stations were withdrawn from entry for administration purposes, with a total acreage of 5016. There were nineteen leases for agricultural purposes; eight for apiaries; ten for camps, and 113 for conduits for irrigation purposes. There were forty-six reservoirs for irrigation provided for; 255 leases for residences; fifteen for summer resorts, and twenty-eight for telephone lines. The leases for residence purposes was that the Interior Department had ordered the selection of a tract in Santa Anita Canyon, back of Pasadena, and a large number of residences have arranged to erect summer homes on those sites. Many buildings are in process of construction.

Forty-four grazing permits were issued for a total of 3709 head of cattle and horses, there being no sheep or goats allowed on the reserve. During the year there were issued 1000 notes and fourteen wild cat licenses by the forest rangers. The amount of timber sold was $24,000 feet, valued at $543.16. One hundred and four four permits were issued for domestic use for timber for domestic purposes and 220,000 feet were so sold.

Supervisor Charlton left Tuesday for a week's inspection trip through various sections of the forest reserve under his jurisdiction, looking into the precautions against summer fires, etc.

PUZZLE OVER LITTLE BOY.

The question of the custody of a year-old Harold Matthews, who has been under the care of Deputy Constable Woodbury and Deputy District Attorney Shannon for several days, was again under discussion yesterday, when Willard Matthews, the father, arrived from Texas. The whole question revolves around the question whether J. L. Matthews, the grandfather, was given permission by the parents to take the child to his fellow to his Denver home or not. It seems to be a conflict of evidence on this point. The grandfather will be charged with kidnaping the child if he can show that he was not allowed to take him. Constable Woodbury said that no decision had been reached yesterday.

MEXICO LOOKS TO A FUTURE.

Takes Steps to Check Labor Union Agitators.

Strikes and Troubles Traced Troublous Leeches.

Convention of Employers a Significant One.

Anticipating the downfall of the Orozco rebellion in Mexico and the early return to normal conditions, steps were taken during the past week to curtail agitation in favor of strikes and boycottage as a means of obtaining higher wages while the country faces a general industrial stagnation.

At a convention of extensive employers which closed in Mexico City last night agreements were made to discourage the formation of labor unions under the plan in vogue in the United States, and a widespread effort will be made to extinguish the spirit of discontent which has seized upon many of the workers since the outbreak against the Madero government.

Under the old regime workers in the industrial trades were paid according to their knowledge of the business and the amount of finished goods turned out, and manufacturing enterprises flourished until the germs of dissatisfaction were planted by emissaries from this country and a wave of unionism swept over the land.

TROUBLE-MAKER COMES.

Within a few months the textile workers of the republic were organized into "gremios" or unions and for the first time the walking delegate was seen skulking around centers of trade.

As usual in such cases, the former contented and well-paid workers began to formulate "demands" and a few months ago the first of a long series of strikes added to the depression due to the war, and many of the largest factories in Mexico were forced to close their doors.

In a number of cases the demands were deemed just and better conditions were promised, but this action on the part of the employers only served to fire the operatives with a sense of their own power until prohibitive demands resulted in lockouts.

In order to apply a remedy the Department of Labor recently issued an invitation to manufacturers to co-operate with the government in re-establishing conditions that would prove equitable to both sides, and the convention the past week was the result.

Delegates from every State in the republic with the exception of Jalisco attended the conference and statistics were prepared showing the exact cost of labor in Mexico as compared with similar trades abroad. It was agreed that, taking the low cost of the necessities of life in consideration, and the limited powers of production characteristic of new industries in the tropics, that the Mexican workman at home as a rule is not so greatly underpaid as had been the general impression in the United States.

The street-car strikes in the capital were analyzed, and it was discovered that the members of the "gremio" were really better paid than in many other Latin-American countries operating under similar conditions.

DUE TO OUTSIDE AGITATORS.

In nearly every case it was found that the strikes in the larger trade centers were due almost wholly to the pernicious influence of professional agitators imported from other countries.

Acting on the suggestion of the [illegible] delegates, it was announced that a memorial will be prepared and presented to the Mexican Congress asking for the promulgation of a law forbidding labor leeches from fattening on the ignorance and emotions of the average union man in hot countries.

The growing power of walking delegates and I.W.W. agitators will be curbed by the application of these laws and it is hoped that the industrial world soon will see the last of the sympathetic strikes and turmoil springing from the unjust demands of the paid trouble-makers.

Dispatches from the capital also announce that a commercial committee composed of employers and representative workers will probably be appointed to hear complaints of workers and adjust any differences that may arise without resort to either the lockout or strike.

Under these conditions, friends of the republic believe that the welfare of the people will be advanced and that a new era of trade will spring up from the ashes of revolt, and that Mexico will soon take her place among the great manufacturing nations of the world.

PICTURES FOR LECTURE.

Man Who Makes His Own Cameras and Slides Is Here to Get Views. Many Summer Traffic.

Never in the history of the Santa Fe has there been such a summer travel across the country," declared William H. Simpson, general advertising agent of the Santa Fe, who arrived at the Alexandria yesterday to meet D. L. Elmendorf in securing pictures for his travel lectures.

"During the past two months it has been necessary to engage a berth, section or stateroom from four to six weeks ahead and our finest limited train has been filled on every trip," he said. "This certainly seems indicative of the fact that the country is beginning to realize that Southern California is just as marvelous a summer resort as it is a winter haven."

Prof. Elmendorf is said to be the only lecturer who manufacturers his own cameras and slides.

In order to facilitate the work of the picture taker, Simpson accompanied him from Chicago and remained with him for a week at the Grand Canyon. In Los Angeles, C. E. Burchfield, advertising agent of the Santa Fe, is taking care of the pictures of the Pacific Coast as far as British Columbia.

DEATH OF MRS. KENEFICK.

Catherine M. Kenefick, wife of John A. Kenefick and eldest daughter of Capt. John Hart of Crosshaven, Cork county, Ireland, died at her residence, No. 5423½ South Hope street, Friday. She leaves, beside her husband, three daughters, Mrs. E. W. Ward, Detroit, Mich.; Mrs. Richard and Mrs. W. H. Gesser of this city, and two sons, William Kenefick of this city, and James Kenefick will be taken to Columbus for interment.

Miss Rosina Long,

A Los Angeles telephone operator whose simplicity of attire and beauty were highly commended yesterday by C. D. Millette, a Parisian artist.

Artist's Idea, Too.

GIRL'S WAY TO REFORM THE COST OF LIVING.

"SIMPLICITY in dress is one of the reforms that should sweep America in order to reduce the high cost of living," said C. D. Millette, a Parisian artist yesterday at the Van Nuys, where he is registered.

"Wherever I have been in this country, I have had to observe the same thing, an overdress of women, no matter what their positions in life. The girls in the department stores vie with the patrons who come in and spend large sums for their clothes. The girls in the factories must ape the girls in the stores or copy from the freak creations that appear on the stage.

"The result is an overdressed majority of femininity, clothed at any cost, frequently even at the cost of virtue and honor."

While he talked he waxed more vehement in his assertion and then pointed out a girl who was really dressed appropriately, and whose quiet costume was far more sensible than that of a frilled and laced gown to work in.

Miss Rosina Long, the operator of one of the telephone boards at the hotel, was the girl. "Her very simplicity of attire produces a charm that would be obviated by an abundance of superfluous decorations and by the addition of a great wad of false hair, which really is one of the abominations of the present day," said the artist.

"Some of the manners of hair dressing that are to be found in this country are really awful. These things they call rats, puffs, curls and other things are usually out of place, unsanitary and a sensible woman, save in absolute case of necessity because of lack of hair, should never use them."

Artist Millette, who has made a reputation as a miniature painter and also of the form divine, declared that Miss Long had the face of Mona Lisa, a perfect oval, well placed teeth showing with every smile, eyes in proper place, and a well-balanced nose. Her figure he also declared of the proper proportions for a perfect model, but this did not cause the operator to leave her position immediately and seek that sort of employment. "I think I prefer the seclusion of a telephone booth to the publicity of a model for an art school or even in the private atelier of an artist," she declared.

"As for Mr. Millette's ideas of dress, I can only say that I have always disliked frivolous clothes and that the simple style of caring for my hair happens to be one of the easiest and quickest and, therefore, most suited to my convenience."

Her beauty is native to California, her birthplace being Santa Paula, and she gives credit to an outdoor life for any of the physical charms which she may possess.

NO IMMUNITY OFFERED.

District Attorney Refuses to Compromise With Alleged Smugglers. Hearings Set for This Week.

The expected interview between Assistant United States Attorney Archbald and William Gerald, one of the alleged smugglers captured with the Starlight last week at San Clemente Island, did not take place yesterday. Gerald says that he has no confession to make and the District Attorney has no intention of granting him immunity in return for uncorroborated evidence concerning others.

The preliminary examination of Gerald is set for Tuesday morning. He says he desires no lawyer and will do his own talking. Harry Lloyd's examination is set for tomorrow morning. He, as well as Gerald, is trying to get concessions from the government officers in exchange for information. The men have not been permitted to talk together since their arrest.

Dr. St. Martin of this city, who says he has a bill of sale of the Starlight, called at the District Attorney's office yesterday seeking to know how he is coming out if the boat is sold by the government, according to the provisions of the law. He found little in the situation to console him, although a hearing of all interested parties will be held before the craft is disposed of.

INTEREST IS TORRID.

MONROVIA, July 13.—The torrid weather of the last three days seems to have had its effect on the interest aroused by the trial of H. G. Brownfield for selling liquor illegally. The courtroom has been packed at every session.

The third venire, making in all eighty-three men examined, was exhausted this afternoon without the required number of jurors being obtained. An adjournment was taken until Tuesday morning. Judge Cassidy of Watts is presiding, no successor having been appointed for Judge West, whose resignation as City Recorder took effect last Monday.

covered. These will in turn be hunted to their death.

The Los Angeles Health Department at present has no funds with which to offer a bounty on flies but the campaign has been started notwithstanding and Health Commissioner Powers says he may ask the City Council to set aside a fund which can be used to pay bounties on the scalps of flies.

TO BE ERADICATED.

"Los Angeles is not troubled with house flies to the extent that eastern cities are, of course," said Health Commissioner Powers yesterday. "The dry climate does not help the propagation of flies as does a damper climate. However, as the house fly conveys disease and is one of the filthiest creatures in existence, we have determined to eradicate them as fast as possible. We have already started the campaign and will try by making the places where flies breed as sanitary as possible, eventually to exterminate them.

"Fruit stands, of which there are a vast number in this city, are the greatest breeders. The over-ripe fruit is an ideal and attractive place for them. We have requested the owners to keep all fruits covered with screens and not to permit any decayed fruits or vegetables to lies around. The dairies have also been instructed in this matter, and the stables where horses and mules are kept are being looked after. The campaign has just started, but we hope to keep at it until we have practically eradicated the fly and taught the public how by sanitary methods to starve out the creatures.

"We have no funds at present to offer bounties for flies killed as is done in Washington, but I think that the plan is a good one and could be adopted here with the same success that has accompanied it in the national capital."

Ulterior Motive.

WITNESSES IN WAITING.

Even the McNamaras May Be Brought Here to Testify in the Darrow Trial.

When the Darrow trial is resumed tomorrow there will be a resumption of the legal argument over the admissibility of the testimony of Tom Johnson, for a time legal advisor to Bert H. Franklin. Ford will probably make the principal argument tomorrow in support of his contention that any talk between Franklin and Johnson was between lawyer and client and therefore privileged.

The defense maintains that inasmuch as Franklin took the witness stand as an admitted accomplice, ther is ground for introducing conversations tending to show he was not telling the whole truth.

A number of witnesses are awaiting call. Lincoln Steffens will be put on to dispute testimony offered by Franklin as to a meeting at the Alexandria when Darrow is said to have told Franklin to "reach" if possible two prospective jurymen whose names appeared on a list shown Franklin.

It is also probable that the McNamaras will be brought from San Quentin to testify that overtures were in progress for them to plead at the time it is alleged by the State Darrow told Franklin to bribe Juror Lockwood. It is not certain that permission will be granted to take the prisoners out. A court order will be necessary.

GERMANY IS SUSPICIOUS.

Dissatisfied With Russia's Big Naval Budget Plan.

Girl Ruler Assumes Sovereignty Amid Enthusiasm.

Received by Crowds With Delirious Cheers.

BY MALCOM CLARKE.

[By Atlantic Cable and by Wireless from Chicago to The Times.]

BERLIN, July 13.—Germany is not at all satisfied with Russian explanations of the proposed expenditure of $800,000,000 in restoring the Muscovite navy. While the appropriation is to be spread over five years, the gigantic sum is considered in Berlin to exhibit a haste in naval preparedness inconsistent with Russian professions or desires for world peace.

An official of the Foreign Office says:

"From a military standpoint the rise of such a colossal naval power in the Baltic cannot, of course, be overlooked. From the German standpoint, however, it must be remembered that relations between the German and Russian empires have been continuously good, and appear to be based on mutual confidence. It is, indeed, within the range of possibility that they will take a still more positive form in the future. The Russian fleet is only in the first stages of its restoration. When it is completed the international situation may be such that a Russia strong at sea will be useful and desirable for Germany. No matter what the future may bring forth, we shall, as before, allow anxiety over foreign naval expansion to be 'the traditional specialty of the English.'"

PROMISES TO BE KIND.

The Grand Duchy of Luxemburg is wildly enthusiastic over its young woman ruler, Maria Adelaide, who has just attained her official majority and taken the oath of office formally assuming sovereignty. In ascending her throne Grand Duchess Maria Adelaide delivered a womanly woman's speech. She promised to be kind, benevolent and accessible, and added: "That social peace which is so ardently desired has remained up to the present an elusive ideal. Must we not pursue the work of approachment and solidarity? May we not hope that the action, slow, but sure, of the eternal laws of justice will end by giving us conciliation and appeasement?" The Grand Duchess afterwards to reign for the people and with them. The Grand Duchess afterwards drove through the streets of the city to the palace, and was received with delirious cheers.

JEWELS STOLEN.

Telegrams from Cologne report that jewels, plate, ornaments and coins valued at £25,000 have been stolen from the Castle of Torburg, on the Rhine. Among the missing valuables is a gem-studded golden chain, known as the "Kaiser Prize," and awarded triennially to the winner of the national folksong competitions.

The castle belongs to the city of Cologne, which has offered a reward for the arrest of the thieves. The burglars mounted to the second story of the castle by means of ladders, and then broke open the safe in which the gems were stored.

Lieuts. Jahnow and Rentzel. These military instructors are said to have accompanied their Turkish army pupils. In view of the peculiar policy which Germany has been following in relation to affairs in the Near East this apparent flagrant breach of neutrality has occasioned much surprise. That Italy resents the incident is certain, but is Italy strong enough to put German firm, and the Turkish officers who have used them were instructed by two well-known German airmen.

WEARS WOMEN'S CLOTHES.

Herr Ernst Mittenstedt, an actor, and formerly a locksmith, was summoned to appear at a Berlin court to answer a charge of knocking down another man in the street. When the case was called a young person dressed in a fashionable blue gown, with a charming hat trimmed with feathers, entered the dock. To the judge's astonishment this elegant individual was not a pretty girl, who came out of her turn, but the bellicose Herr Mittenstedt himself. When asked sharply why he was masquerading, the defendant said he habitually wore women's clothes, and had permission from the police to do so on the ground that he excited less attention in the garb than when dressed as a man. Evidence to this effect was given, and it was also shown that Herr Mittenstedt knows how to use his fists. As he had been provoked to the assault complained of he was discharged.

Aged Emperor Removes Ban from Nephew Who Married Pretty Commoner—Restores Him to Archducal Rank and Creates Wife a Countess—Charming Romance Has Happy Ending.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE OF THE TIMES.]

VIENNA, July 1.—Once more the proud Habsburgs have bowed the knee to King Cupid and a happy ending has come to one of the most interesting love romances of modern times.

It was in a Vienna ballroom eleven years ago that the Archduke Ferdinand Carl first met Fraulein Rosa Czuber, the beautiful and accomplished daughter of a professor at the university. It was a case of love at first sight, but all attempts to obtain the Emperor's consent to the marriage failed, for old Franz Josef had already arranged the betrothal of his nephew to a lady of the blood royal.

There was one of the angry scenes to which the Habsburgs have grown accustomed when love affairs are involved, ending with the Archduke declaring he would marry Fraulein Czuber or nobody and the Emperor reminding him that by so doing he would renounce royal rank.

Since that Ferdinand Carl has been absent from the court in disgrace. He married his charmer, adopted the name of Herr Carl Czuber-Burg and together they have lived a life of bliss and quietude in a little house on the outskirts of Lucerne.

But as the aged Emperor nears the last scene of all he is becoming anxious to make his peace with his relatives. So he has summoned the errant couple, pardoned them both, restored Ferdinand Carl to his rank and created Frau Czuber-Burg a Countess.

The greatest combination of Chinese Herbalists in the world

Some statements of who they are and what they do:

Copy of T. Leung's Certificate.

"San Francisco, Cal., Sept. 19, 1898.

"This is to certify that I, Chang Yin Tung, His Imperial Majesty's Consul-General to the port of San Francisco, am personally acquainted with Dr. Tom Leung, whose photograph is here to attached. I know Dr. Tom Leung to have been a member of the Imperial College of Medicine in Peking and to be a graduate thereof. He has been practicing his profession in this city for several years and achieved great success. He is the younger brother of Dr. T. Foo Yuen.

(Signed) CHANG YIN TUNG,
H. I. C. M.'s Consul-General.

A Few Words About the History of the Company.

The Foo and Wing Herb Company is a corporation, duly organized and existing under the laws of the State of California.

For the past sixteen years its principal place of business has been in Los Angeles. It has now made Oakland its headquarters, retaining branch offices at Los Angeles and in other cities. It is engaged in the manufacture and sale of Proprietary remedies prepared after the most approved Oriental formulas, and its remarkable success in this field makes it the geatest organization of its kind in the world.

The Best Qualified Of All.

No other Herbalists have ever been so well equipped to understand the cure of diseases of the American people as are T. Foo Yuen and T. Leung. They are graduates of the Imperial Medical College, Peking, China, and had been thoroughly versed in the medical science of their own country before coming to America.

The Elements of Superiority.

In this connection the question naturally occurs to every American who gives this subject any attention. "Are these remedies really better than our own, and, if so, why are they better?

In answer to this it may be said that the Chinese are the cleverest pharmacists in the world, that they have the most elaborate methods of preparing their remedies, that time, effort and expense are of no moment to them, if only they accomplish results.

Only the purest and best of herbs, roots, seeds, berries and flowers are used in these remedies. Some of these are very expensive. In all more than a thousand different varieties are used. The formulas are trade secrets handed down from generation to generation in the same families for centuries. No poisonous drugs whatever, no narcotics, no powerful tonics and no mineral substances are used. In fact, these remedies are such that they leave no bad effects.

The method of pulse diagnosis universally employed in China by all Eminent Physicians gives wonderfully complete results. By this method they can determine the condition of each of the vital organs and can prescribe the proper remedy to build up those that need assistance.

We Americans are looking constantly for something new in medicine. The latest fad always takes our fancy, although it may be no better than its predecessors. The Chinese, on the contrary, keep the best of what has come to them through the ages, and yet are constantly trying to improve the old ways without departing from them.

Under the laws of the State of California, in order to secure a license to practice medicine, a person must take an examination in certain specified subjects IN THE ENGLISH LANGUAGE. The great Dr. Lorenz, who operated upon the child of Mr. Armour, and who is reputed to have received $50,000.00 therefor, being a German, not speaking English, could not have done that for Mr. Armour's child in California unless he took an examination before the State Board of Medicine, in the English language. Shall we lose our families on account of language?

The True Physician and the False.

In China the profession of medicine is hereditary and is considered very honorable. The educated Chinese physician is proud of the distinction that attaches to his profession. But China is a vast empire with a crowded population, and there are never enough educated doctors to supply the wants of the people. Their services are reserved for the rich and influential. There must be unusual merit and vitality in any system of medical practice which can succeed and make a record such as this company has, for it numbers among its thousands of patrons in Southern California business men, artists, teachers, lawyers and even physicians, men and women of experience in the ways of the world, who could not easily be deceived. They have made a study of this system of medicine, they believe in it and recommend it to their friends. For many years this company has been in the same location, at 903 South Olive street, Los Angeles. Its business has steadily and naturally grown as a result of the cures that it has made and of the efforts of the friends whom the cures have brought to it.

T. Foo Yuen and T. Leung, the eminent herbalists, have published a most interesting book, which treats in a thoroughly comprehensive manner upon the sciences of Oriental Medicine, Diet and Hygiene. This is a well written and well printed book, illustrated, a model of its class.

It sets forth the principles and methods of this system in plain and concise language. It has chapters on diet and hygiene that would do credit to any publication of the sort; it contains historical chapters of great interest, and it sets forth medical theories that may seem startling at first, but impress themselves the more forcibly the more carefully they are studied. There is nothing in this volume to offend even the most fastidious. There is much of interest to the well and of incalculable value to the sick.

A Gift to the Public.

This book is well printed and bound and as large as many books that sell in the stores for 50 cents each, but is given free to any calling at their offices or sending 10 cents in postage stamps to 903 S. Olive Street, Los Angeles.

All Diseases Cured.

It would be useless to attempt in the first place to name all the diseases that are helped or cured by these remedies that are prepared and sold by this company. Acute disorders, such as colds and fevers yield very quickly to these remedies if they are taken in time. Naturally, however, the physicians of this country treat more cases of chronic and obscure disorders than are those that are acute, for most of their patients come to them only after they have tried various other promises of relief, usually in vain. No person, no matter how long he has been afflicted, nor how serious his trouble may be, need despair of relief. There is still hope for him if he is willing to investigate this system of healing with a mind free from prejudice and ready to act upon his own conviction after conclusive proof has been presented.

T. Foo Yuen and T. Leung, the most noted herbalists of the time, are with you and are anxious to meet all those who need their herbs.

English speaking attendants are always at hand to receive visitors and answer questions. Every reader of this article is invited to call at the above address and learn something more about that system of healing which is at once the most ancient and the most modern known to man.

SOCIETY REPORTER.

Contributing to the society chit-chat is now such a fad among women of wealth that the professional chroniclers are in danger of being crowded out. One of our London editors tells me he receives so many complimentary paragraphs and notes that he is seriously thinking of dispensing with the services of ladies who, like myself, make both ends more likely to break even by dipping their pens in ink. And the worst of it is that some of these amateurs are developing wonderful gift in quizzing their friends through the press. One young marchioness who brought her husband a bank balance running well up in the six figures owned up the other day to authorship of a paragraph which made one-half of London convulsed by laughter while it drove an angry hostess to tears.

EXPENSIVE TO DIE.

The saying that "it costs a lot of money to die in England, if little to live," is pointedly exemplified in the case of the late Dowager Duchess of Southerland. Her Grace left an estate valued at about $2,500,000 and the death duties total up the respectable amount of $300,000. This is doubtless very satisfactory to Mr. Lloyd George, but it is awe-inspiring for our plutocrats.

QUEEN BUYS PONY.

Tiny, the diminutive pony which made such a successful debut at the great horse show, has been purchased by the Queen of Holland for the little Princess Juliana. Tiny is very fond of kissing the ladies, a ceremony which he performs with superb gallantry and gentleness, and he shakes hands upon invitation. A little pony to match Tiny is being shipped to Holland for the use of the young Princess. The animal is so quiet and well behaved that Tiny's new owner will be able to manage him herself.

WINDSOR GARDEN PARTY.

The garden party at Windsor on July 16 will be notable for the reason that it will be largely attended by the members of the Royal Society, which that week is celebrating its 250th anniversary. It is fitting that Royalty should patronize this eminent body, inasmuch as it was first formed under the immediate auspices of the Merry Monarch, Charles II, when it was determined that weekly meetings should be held of "divers worthy persons inquisitive into natural philosophy and other parts of human learning, and particularly of what hath been called the New Philosophy or Experimental Philosophy."

CHAPERONES ELIMINATED.

There has been so pronounced a tendency lately to give freedom to young people to go about by themselves that it has produced a marked effect upon the character of the young. The old-fashioned chaperone has fallen into desuetude, and girls especially have become impatient of restraint of any kind. This slackening of the reins of authority has the strongest disapproval of Her Majesty, who believes in the safeguard provided by a kindly and sympathetic chaperone. The lead thus given has already resulted in the presence at boy and girl dances of the matron, and there is a marked diminution of the erstwhile boisterousness of these functions.

The saying that "it costs a lot of money to die in England, if little to live," is pointedly exemplified in the case of the late Dowager Duchess of Sutherland. Her Grace left an estate valued at about $2,500,000 and the death duties total up to the respectable amount of $200,000. This is doubtless very satisfactory to Mr. Lloyd George, but it is awe-inspiring for our plutocrats.

QUEEN BUYS PONY.

Tiny, the diminutive pony which made such a successful debut at the great horse show, has been purchased by the Queen of Holland for the little Princess Juliana. Tiny is very fond of kissing the ladies, a ceremony which he performs with superb gallantry and gentleness, and he shakes hoofs upon invitation. A little pony after to match Tiny is being shipped to Holland for the use of the young Princess. The animal is so quiet and well behaved that Tiny's new owner will be able to manage him herself.

WINDSOR GARDEN PARTY.

The garden party at Windsor on July 19 will be notable for the reason that it will be largely attended by the members of the Royal Society, which that week is celebrating its jubilee anniversary. It is fitting that the society should patronize this eminent body, inasmuch as it was first started under the immediate auspices of the Merry Monarch, Charles II, who it was determined that weekly meetings should be held of "divers persons curious inquisitive into natural philosophy and other parts of human learning, and particularly of what hath been called the New Philosophy or Experimental Philosophy."

CHAPERONES ELIMINATED.

There has been so pronounced a tendency lately to give freedom to young people to go about by themselves that it has produced a marked change upon the character of the times. The old-fashioned chaperone is fallen into desuetude, and girls generally have become impatient of restraint of any kind. This slackening of the reins of authority has the full approval of Her Majesty, who believes in the safeguard provided by a kindly and sympathetic chaperone. The lead thus given has been followed in the presence at Court and girl dances of the matron, with the result is a marked diminution of the somewhat boisterousness of these functions.

AMERICAN TAKES PHOTOS OF A SEETHING CRATER.

BY CLEMENT J. BARRETT.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND BY WIRELESS FROM CHICAGO TO THE TIMES.]

ROME, July 13.—A daring feat has just been successfully accomplished by Harry Vail, an American steeplejack now tramping his way around the world. A wealthy Neapolitan scientist saw Vail at work cleaning the tall spire of the cathedral at Florence and the cool hardihood of the human spider suggested an idea to him. Desiring some photographs of the heart of the crater of Vesuvius in action, he offered Vail a handsome fee and liberal expenses if he would make the descent with a camera and take pictures. Vail took him up, was lowered over the lip of the crater and secured several marvelous photographs. While Vesuvius was merely in a mild state of eruption, the danger of the descent was considerable. Vail is now looking around for more craters to conquer.

WANTS HER "TOTI."

Signora Toselli, formerly Crown Princess of Saxony and born an archduchess of Austria, is said to be seeking a reconciliation with her discarded husband, Enrico Toselli, the Florentine music teacher whom she married in London in 1907 and parted from but recently owing to "incompatibility of temper."

"We are both hot tempered," Signora Toselli says, "but none the less Enrico is a dear chap and I cannot exist without 'Toti.' " "Toti" is the youngster who was placed in the custody of the mother's parents as Toselli would not consent to his wife having possession of the child and she was equally averse to the little one growing up motherless and merely looked after by the music master. Love for their child is believed to have induced them to make up and try to get along with as few quarrels as possible.

All through her life the ex-Crown Princess of Saxony has provided continental society with abundance of gossip and sensation after sensation. When she was still in short frocks as Maria Antoinette Louise, Archduchess of Austria and daughter of the reigning Grand Duke of Tuscany, she carried on a flirtation with an impecunious army officer which resulted in the young man losing his commission and the flirtatious Princess being locked up in a convent. In the hope that marriage would tame her spirit and love of getting into mischief she was given as a bride at a very early age to the then Crown Prince of Saxony. She would have been Saxony's queen today if she had not run away with Giron, the tutor of her own children. After her elopment from Dresden her husband divorced her and she kept gossip still going as Countess di Montignoso, the title which she then assumed. Afterwards came her marriage with the talented but penniless Enrico, handsome and twenty-four to his wife's thirty-seven years and life volume fully stocked with experiences. She is still as merry as ever and her good humor breaks down social barriers which would otherwise be insuperable.

CHILDREN AID ARABS.

Little children have helped the Arab allies of the Turks in their stubborn resistance to the assaults of Italy's soldiers. M. Georges Remond gives a graphic account of how these infant infantry performed heroic service.

According to M. Remond:

"Enver Bey made arrangements for the drilling of the numerous children in the camp of Ain-al-Mansur, who are all very keen on the war. There are more than 250 children in the camp schools, and in the morning they learn to read and in the afternoon to drill. They even take part in the fighting, acting as messengers to the officers, who send them from point to point with orders or in search of information. Some of the children are not more than five or six years old, and it is wonderful," the correspondent adds, "to see them running about the fighting lines."

M. Remond gives a curious account of the death J. Stuart Smallwood. "Mr. Smallwood was an Englishman who had turned Mussulman and was known as the Lieutenant Osmond Effendi. He was madly courageous, and carried out all sorts of fool-hardy pranks, such as making tea under fire. He appears to have been actually killed in attempting to photograph the Italian fortifications by moonlight for the 'Illustration.' The nickel parts of his camera flashing in the moon rays drew the Italian fire. The evening that Osmond Effendi was reported missing the poet of the Barussa Arabs sang his praise before the entire army."

MORE POMPEII DISCOVERIES.

Many interesting facts of the life of "The Last Days of Pompeii" have been unveiled in the recently discovered "Street of Abundance." In contrast with the portion previously uncovered, which was really bare and barren of any vital information, the new addition is replete with well-preserved mural writings and pictures and several of the shops unsealed after the passing of centuries give a vivid picture of Pompeian manners and Pompeian art. One of the most valuable finds in a striking picture of Mercury, standing in a sort of temple and bearing bags of money. No doubt Mercury was as favorable to thieves 2000 years ago as St. Brigitt is to the thieves of Naples today, who never fail to pay her homage on January 6.

In the whole of Pompeii now excavated some 3000 inscriptions have been discovered on the walls of houses. Many of them were obviously written by children.

Besides a fresco of the twelve divinities and one of the visit of Cybele to Dionysus there has now been revealed the figure of a goddess on a car drawn by four elephants with tusks of enormous size and painted in a faint violet color. Further on, near the junction with the old street, is a crowned figure of Venus Pompeiana, who after the establishment of the Roman colony became the tutelary divinity of Pompeii. Cupid stands at her feet, and Fortune and Abundance holding cornucopias stands on either side.

HEIR APPARENT WILL VISIT US.

Prince of Wales Wants Date of Trip Set Ahead.

French Savant Discovers that Insects Also Write.

Tones of Ancient and Modern Violins Compared.

BY PAUL VILLIERS.

[By Atlantic Cable and by Wireless from Chicago to The Times.]

PARIS, July 13.—The Prince of Wales, who is the guest of the Marquis and Marchioness de Breteuil, has written to King George and Queen Mary urging that he be given permission to make his visit to the United States in September or October instead of deferring it until the following fall, as was previously planned. An incident which happened recently at Bevilliers is responsible for the boy prince's sudden desire to see the new world.

The Marquis and Marchioness de Breteuil are both very fond of the society of young people and the park at Bevilliers is a favorite hunting ground of lads of good family on a visit in France. The young son of an American millionaire was recently invited to make an excursion to the park by a boy friend, a nephew of one of the high officials at the British Embassy. He voted the chateau a "fine place" and was soon on the very best terms with his host and hostess, who introduced him to the British heir apparent, preserving, of course, the latter's incognito. But the millionaire's son placed the prince at sight and jollied His Royal Highness to the top of his bent. King George's son enjoyed it, made much of his American acquaintance, showed him through the gardens, and, in short, proved himself the fine, manly spirited boy he is, extracting from the lad from over the ocean a mint of information about America and Americans.

"You've got to see the States," said the American boy.

"I'm going to," said the Prince.

"Come this fall and I'll try to show you 'round."

"Thats a bargain," returned the Kings son and the two youths "shook" to seal the compact. That is why the Prince of Wales is so eager to hasten the date of his American tour.

MAIL BY WARSHIP.

As a result of the recent use of torpedo destroyers as mail carriers during the seamen's strike, economists in the chamber are now urging that permanent provision be made for the handling of mails by warships. It is contended that this service would not merely save considerable expense, but it would keep the navy busy in times of peace and help increase efficiency. The proposal is being given serious consideration.

ASTOUNDS THE FRENCH.

Prof. Paul Dupuy of the University of Lyons, has both astounded and amused French scientific circles by the contention that the art of writing is known and practised by many insects. By the aid of powerful microscopes he has produced what he avers are proofs that the honey bee duly records the particular comb where he deposits his treasure and makes notations for the benefit of other bees and thoughtless and so far unappreciative humanity.

"Education," says Prof. Dupuy, "is not confined to human beings. Many of the arts we prize most highly are applied with very perfect results by insects which we tread under foot. The more we pry into her secrets, the more wonderful is the cycle of nature, equalizing to a large extent the multiplex impulses of higher and lower planes of vitality."

MELODY OF VIOLINS.

Another popular misconception has been swept off the board; however valuable for their sentimental or artistic associations old Cremonas or Strads are not more melodious than the products of the present-day manufacturers. Tens of thousands of dollars have been squandered by enthusiasts in the purchase of instruments whose only attraction lies in authentic age.

Proof positive that the modern violin is often finer in tonal charm than the fiddles which were made and played by fingers long food for worms was given at a specially arranged contest in this city.

A number of violins were played in a dark room, and at the end of the competition a vote was taken from the numerous musical and artistic audience present, with the result that the finest violin was judged to be a Belgian instrument dated 1912; the second was a French 1911 violin, and not until the third came a Stradivarius, valued at more than £1000.

A REAL LUPIN.

A real Arsene Lupin has just been unearthed by M. Lepine. An effort was made to hush up the matter when it was found that one of the most dangerce bank swindlers in France was drawing the pay of the government as a trusted special agent, but the curiosity of Paris was aroused and had to be satisfied.

Henri Reval, 45 years of age, was a bank cashier about twenty years ago. Suspicion having been evoked that he was stealing from the bank his accounts were gone over by a special auditor. Word of the impending storm reached Revel and he decamped. He succeeded in evading arrest, vanished as a matter of fact from the eyes of the police. About eight years ago Georges Charnier applied for a place in the Surete and was appointed. He rose rapidly until most of the serious bank swindling and kindred cases were placed absolutely in his hands. He was very successful in running down criminals, several of the most intrepid lawbreakers were caught in the snares he laid. But one man, known under the name of Vinet, always escaped. Charnier swore he would get him yet. By the merest fluke a subordinate detective made the astounding discovery that Vinet and Charnier were one and the same person and both of these "doubles" the long-vanished Reval. He is now confined in prison, spending his time writing love-letters to the ladies, receiving costly flowers and sweetmeats, and penning his experiences for the Paris journals.

HOGAN ARRIVES IN POLITICS.

Famous Slangster on Parties Three and More.

"Politics an Easy Life if They Don't Catch You."

Orpheum Star Takes Whirl on Campaign Dope.

BY HOGAN.
(Bert Leslie.)

Well, say! When it comes right down to a Fuss and Fret Club, wasn't them conventions at Chicago and Baltimore the regular dispute parties?

And when Headliner Taft, playing over in Washington, heard that he was to be the party of the first part of the first party of the nation—say! He was as happy as a hack driver's conscience after operating on a passenger who's all to the Mumm's. He had Teddy beaten from cowcatcher to caboose. And all Teddy could say, out of his Bay of Oysters, was "Please lift my lid, I'm boiling."

My croak is, if they can't hold a convention nowadays without unanimously joining the Knockers' Club even before they kill the contested delegates, back to the whippoorwills, chirp to the sky, every man vote for himself, and some twin'll get elected because he looks like his brother.

Now, the big evil today is, not the high cost of living, but the cost of high living, and if I had been there to chuck in a few wails on the increased price of a successful tip to a waiter they would all have held fast going around the curves.

By a successful tip to a waiter, I mean one that wafts you a much better hat than your own.

Personally, I think Taft is all to the pansies.

And I know another fellow who thinks so.

Taft.

Hasn't he fixed is so the whole nation can slide under a Panama?

Personally, I like him well enough to speak to him any time I meet him—anywhere. If you don't, step high; you're near a puddle!

But, abas that Baltimore crew, sailing on rough waters and winding-up chair dispute with Wilson—that's all!

Before that cunning little bunch had even packed its carpet bags for Baltimore, old man Bryan was galloping at the front of the race—and, say, for a fellow that has had the fool medal pinned on him three times in succession, he should make a noise like a river, and flow on.

I was asked if I couldn't go to Baltimore.

I said I could, but that if the judge was willing I would pay my fine in yellow St. Gaudenses.

When the finish of that sockless collection of whiskered trust salesmen came at last, and they were all shouting and quarreling together over the postoffices and janitorships they were going to get, old Baltimore looked up and whispered, as she winked: "Oil up your thinking wig, for you've got another guess coming. Never count your chickens till you see how much Rockefeller you've got for the incubator lamp."

This will be a great election, and if the boys don't get too mussy in November, the whole country will make a noise like a yeast-cake and properly rise to the occasion.

If that new party of Teddy's gets a little money to pull the rough stuff it will be an all-around case of iron that tack or slow up your speedmaker—put on your chains, you're skidding.

It's hard to find many Democrats. Every person seems to be on the winning, side, but as they fight, I lean back in me dollar-thirty-down

The World-Famous Hogan,

(Bert Leslie) King of Slang, who today gives Times readers his reverse-English on the political situation.

furniture and say philosophically: "Put grease in your pan, boys, or without it the freshest fish in the world'll stick!"

How I do love election day! The poorest of us ride in automobiles then. Last election I had three millionaires showfer me to three different polling places. Money, too. And not for working; just for thinking and stamping your think. It's no sin to think. Any man can do it, too, unless his forehead's so low that when he wrinkles his brow he knocks his hat off.

You don't need to believe what you think.

Them that do believe it, never stop to think.

Or else they couldn't believe it.

And as far as I can see, all three or six parties has more stalls than a stable.

I guess I was as sorry as a school kid with a bum nigger-shooter when the dope sheet spilled it out that old Champ Clark had lost the purse in the donkey race.

I like Champ to lead in anything, and when eternal W. J. Bryan—W. J.: Western Josher—tried to slide the old saddle on his own back again, I felt like yelling: "Sand the track—you're slipping! Shine up—you're rusty!"

For that matter, the whole thing at Baltimore looked like a nut mill.

About 10,000 of 'em empty in the eaves! Empty in the eaves!

Before I'd ever slide into a convention that had as rough sledding as that I'd be a booster for an undertaking Est.

However, there's one comforting thought: The hardworking boys 'll all be happy when the Jewish flags, denominated five, ten and twenty, come floating into the campaign fund. Whistle—you're near a crossing. You're near a crossing.

On the Bowery, where I started to sprout—that's the place for elections, electors and regular campaign managers. There, when they start any such talk as made the air sick at Baltimore, it's a case of eat ice cream and give your tongue a sleigh-ride. Nobody listens, and if you insist to persist, you'll likely sweep the asphalt with your eyebrows—if the bouncer don't bust a cuspidor with you by mistake.

When I went into a booth to vote once—just once, honest—a guy what gets five medals a day for seeing that nobody else does what he's going to do after the polls is closed, says to me: "Bo,"—says he—"This is your third time on earth today, ain't it?"

"Easy, Bill," says I. "Put crepe on your nose, your brain is dead. Add up your talk. Add up your talk. You've got three figures in the wrong column and nothing to carry; throw away your ledger and get a daybook; take three trips on a merry-go-round, hold up your face for a transfer and ask the conductor to punch it—I ain't repeating on you, but the reason you remember me is that last year I was an election officer and you repeated six times on me."

And I was too much of a gentleman to even mention it to him.

Besides, if I had, he might have taken back the $11.

To sum up my opinion of politics: It's an easy life if you don't get caught at it."

The campaign managers say this is to be an honest campaign. They ought to be honest this year. They've been putting it off long enough.

I was going into the Alexandria to get some cigars the other day—would have succeeded if the guy running an oil-pipe into the basement hadn't stepped on my fingers and pulled a yell out of me—when I heard somebody say "Cancel that rave! Rub that chatter off your slate and write American!"

I thought it was a cop, but when I dared to open my eyes I saw it was none other than me old pal, Blinkey Davis, that I met last at a hotel called the San Quent Inn.

Blinkey was at one time the most prominent repeater in our ward. That was before I came.

A great guy Blinkey was. He once wrote a soldier-song, entitled, "Give Me Back the Bullet I Shot You With." He would have made money with it, except that it couldn't be played on a piano, as it always had to be sung in fortes.

"Why, hello, Hogan!" said Blinkey, limousinelike: "Wilst toss the laughing water with me at yon mahogany?"

"Make the walking stick lead on!" said I, for my Imperial was without irrigation.

"I stand great here—watch me!" boasted Blinkey, fifteen minutes later, when the house detective had ordered me away from the free lunch, "The tap-teaser thinks I'm a rich man's pup. Watch me graft two foaming Maiers!"

And then to the bartender, as familiar as a chorus girl to a stage doorkeeper who's touched her for twobits: "Say, George, can you let me have $5?"

"Certainly!" says George, so quickly and delicately that I thought I needed a battery of allenists.

He thumps the no-sale, hoists a pretty new Jerusalem pennant, and moves gracefully towards me and Blinkey. But just before Blinkey gets his hand on the green George picks up a whiskey-container, shoves it under Blinkey's nose, and says sweetly: "Put your right eye in that glass!"

Outside, while Blinkey was trying to get out of the street sweeper's cart, into which he had fallen after he jumped, I changed the subject from hospitals back to politics, just to be polite.

"Who are you going to vote for this year?" I asked.

"I don't know," said Blinkey carelessly, shaking a cobblestone out of his bangs; "what are they paying this season?"

"Blinkey," says I, "they're onto you, I think, and you've got about as much chance to vote as a steer in an Armour packing-house. Slumber on! Slumber on! Under the carpet with the rest of the dust! Get a violin and rest your chin."

He got mad.

"Any more of that rough poetry," says he, "and you and I will take a Vernon contract with Uncle Tom."

Quietness.

"Hogan," says he, presently, dragging me out of a saloon door, "I thought you was on the water wagon?"

"I was," says I, "but I got off to give my seat to a lady."

Then I kidded him about being stingy, and after I'd strung him along awhile he reached down and drew out his pocketbook. Two mice had built a nest in it.

"Blinkey," says I, "you always was unobservant. To this day I don't believe you could pick your father out of a lot o' Japs!"

"Oh, behave!" he groaned; "pull up to the sidewalk; your lights are out! Your lights are out!"

We walked along in silence for quite a spell.

"Blinkey," I opened up, feeling lonesome, "what do you really think of the outcome next November?"

"Well," he replied, after careful deliberation, "I think China'll go Democratic."

He thought, I suppose, that that would hold me.

Himeby he says, with a kind of a snicker: "And what do you guess?"

"I don't guess," says I; "I'm certain."

"You're certain?" says he. "Have ye got inside dope?"

"I sure have!" says I.

"An' what is it?" he exclaims, all breathless.

"We'll have a man for President!"

The Week.

"PINAFORE" IN REVIVAL.

FISCHER TO STAGE POPULAR OLD MASTERPIECE TODAY.

Barrymore Will Essay Role of Philippe Brideau—"Dream City" Via Kolb and Dill—"Peg o' My Heart" Continuance—Vaudeville and Coming Shows.

All aboard for "H.M.S. Pinafore," sailing Sunday afternoon, July 14, for the first time from Fischer's Lyceum dock, with an all-star crew of picked officers and manned—and womaned—by the liveliest bunch of tars and taresses that ever trod the quarterdeck or swabbed down! All aboard! Sails every night and three afternoons, including Wednesday, when a bargain sailing at two bits for the kiddies will enliven the occasion. All aboard!

And why not "Pinafore?" It is revived in the East to tremendous interest and business; it has become the rage again with the oncoming of a new generation; the popularity of the Gilbert & Sullivan masterpiece seems only to have begun, and certainly with an all-star cast such as "Pop" Fischer is able to give it, the good old ship ought to sail smoother and more delightfully than ever before.

There is a crew for you—Edgar Temple, especially signed, from the Savage forces of the past, with a reputation country wide as tenor and stage director, who will sing Ralph Rackstraw, and give Harry James the benefit of his American ideas of production, which dovetail well with James's under Gilbert & Sullivan abroad.

Texas Guinan as Josephine; Madison Smith as the captain; Bob Lett, the unctious comedian, as the admiral, Sir Joseph Porter—a wonderful selection; Charles Dudley as Dick Deadeye; Jane Urban as Hebe, and Laura Oakley as Buttercup—could a more admirable list of people be secured? Not to speak of that wonderful chorus, with the ponies as cabin boys, the show girls as sailorettes, and the men to do the real deck sweeping? And there will be a real, full-rigged man o' war on the Lyceum deck, and there will be halyards and fo'castle, and topsail-lant sails and all the rest of the rig. And they will pipe a merry lay—many of them at that—"Little Buttercup," and "When I Was a Lad," and "The Merry Maiden and the Tar," and "Farewell, My Own," and "Things Are Seldom What They Seem," and so on—man alive, but the chanteys will be numerous. It's one big show—the revival of the day, the all-star cast sailing their own barque on their own sea—pipe down the crew, cast off, all aboard!

Belasco.

For the second vehicle of his special starring engagement with the Belasco Stock Company, John Barrymore will be seen in Otis Skinner's famous success, "The Honor of the Family," commencing with the performance at the Main-street playhouse tomorrow night.

Supporting Mr. Barrymore will be found every member of the Belasco organization, while the production will be uncommonly elaborate in every detail. For the third and last play in which Mr. Barrymore will be seen here he will have the original William Hodge part in the famous comedy, "The Man from Home," which will be its first production anywhere by a stock company.

Majestic.

At the Majestic Theater tonight, Kolb and Dill, who thus far have attracted capacity audiences at every performance to the Broadway playhouse, will offer an elaborate and brilliant new version of Victor Herbert's famous musical comedy success, "Dream City."

The German funmakers have added much to the original presentation in the way of bright dialogue, new songs, brilliantly costumed chorus numbers and laughable situations, and the production is new in every detail.

Briefly "Dream City" shows the experiences of a Teutonic farmer, August Dinglebender, of Malaria Center, Long Island, who, after listening to a smooth-tongued real estate operator who wants to buy his farm and convert it into city lots, falls asleep as the auction sale is about to begin, and dreams that a modern metropolis has grown up on the spot. His dream, which takes up the major portion of the second act, is so realistic that in his new position of Mayor of the modern municipality he finds the splendor of his new career not all to his liking. Great, consequently, is his rejoicing when he awakens to find himself once again on the farm, experiencing all of the delights of rural simplicity.

As Dinglebender, Dill has one of the best roles of his entire career, while C. William Kolb has a part that fits him like a glove in "Heine Haufbrau, the village hackman and oracle of Malaria Center. The burlesque wrestling match which the tall and short comedians give in the first week is probably the funniest thing that they have ever done, while Max Dill's celebrated "hat" speech will laughingly be remembered by everyone who has ever seen the piece.

The book and lyrics are written in Edgar Smith's best style, while the music is from the melodious pen of Victor Herbert. Olga Stack, Florence Gear, Percy Bronson, Bessie Franklyn, W. H. White, Otto Schrader, and, in fact, every principal of the big Kolb & Dill company will find splendid op-

Footlight stars along our white way.

Burbank.

Laurette Taylor will commence, what is announced as positively her final week with the Burbank Stock Company, when "Peg O' My Heart" begins its eighth and last week this afternoon.

For the past three weeks the Burbank management have in all sincerity announced the "last" week of this fascinating Hartley Manners's comedy, but each time the demand for seats has been of such tremendous proportions that it was a matter of pure business to continue the run of the piece and delay the prepared production of "Barbarian," which now will not be seen in this city at all.

Last week Miss Taylor's contract with the Burbank Theater ended, and the piece was scheduled to close last night. The seventh week, however, established the biggest attendance record since the run began, while the Burbank box-office was unable to supply the demand for seats and hundreds upon hundreds were turned away.

Following the final week of "Peg O' My Heart," that popular and forceful young actor, Richard Bennett, will commence his special engagement with the Burbank company, playing his original role in Paul Armstrong's sensational play, "The Deep Purple." The sale of seats for Mr. Bennett's engagement will open at the Burbank box-office tomorrow morning.

Orpheum.

Drama and the dance will hold sway at the Orpheum the week beginning Monday matinee, when Frank Keenan and Princess Rajah will exemplify each at its best. Mr. Keenan, undoubtedly America's finest character actor, is to present a very strong play by Oliver White, "Man to Man." It is a primative sort of drama, with the paternal instinct holding sway over all else, but at the same time it is intensely human.

The action hinges on the meeting in a celebrated specialist's office of a capitalist and a laborer, each with a sick child at home, whom only the specialist can save by instant action. Both cannot have him at once; there is no chance for delay—and the battle of man to man for his services is what makes up the play.

Princess Rajah is an Egyptian girl who has studied the dance as brought to perfection in this oldest of all civilizations. She depicts in one example the death of Cleopatra, according to the tradition which holds that Egypt's queen allowed a snake to bite her when she heard of the destruction of Anthony. The dance is wild, sensuous and thrilling, and the death sublime. Another of her offerings is the Arabian chair dance, which she evolved from her long stay with the bedouins of the desert. During its wild gyrations, she holds in her teeth a heavy and cumbersome chair, but her grace of movement and her agility are in no whit hindered thereby.

Sumptuous settings and costumes and a fine company are the necessary accessories.

Salerno is the unusual juggler, and his work in this line baffles description, it all being away from the ordinary routine. The Kremka Brothers will present a comedy acrobatic act, also a novelty in athletics. The Mountain Ash Choir remains, with an entirely new programme of superb selections. Bert Leslie in his slang classic, "Horan the Painter;" Al and Fannie Steadman in piano capers, and the Ritchies, cyclists, are the others. The music and the motion views complete a fine bill of varied sort, full of delightful promise.

One of the biggest and best bills that has occupied the stage of the Empress Theater in many weeks will open at the Sullivan and Considine house tomorrow afternoon, headed with three exceptionally big features.

The feature acts on the new bill are the famous Eight Dollar Troupe, the Five Musical Nosses and Uno Bradley, all three of which have won a world-wide reputation in vaudeville and each of which have headlined bills individually all over two continents.

The Eight Dollar Troupe is recognized as one of the greatest organizations of acrobats the stage has ever known and they are returning to vaudeville via the Sullivan and Considine route after having completed a highly-successful six months' engagement at the New York Hippodrome.

Even that considerable multitude who refuse to rave over acrobatics will undoubtedly find much to applaud in the seemingly impossible feats negotiated by this organization. The uninitiated cannot but admire the finesse with which these artists perform their feats some fifteen feet in the air.

The Five Musical Nosses have one of the most picturesque musical acts that has been seen here in many a day. They term their offering "In Old Seville," their setting being decidedly Spanish, the scene being a gala day in an old Spanish city. The act has been pronounced one of the most consistent musical productions in vaudeville and will no doubt prove exceedingly popular with all lovers of the best in music.

Uno Bradley, the well-known blackface funmaker and a recent recruit to vaudeville, will be on hand to innoculate Empress audiences with the "happy bug." Bradley has a delightful and original method of putting over a monologue as bright as a crystal.

The Three Dixie Girls will also furnish one of the most enjoyable bits of the new bill with their popular melodies and individual solo numbers.

Richard Wally, a recent Sullivan and Considine importation, is said to be one of the cleverest jugglers that has come from the other side, having an offering far away from the stereotyped order of acts of this character.

Completing this splendid new bill will be Grenier and La Fose in their laughable acrobatic skitfest and the new comedy and news pictures.

Pantages.

To the vaudeville sharps little more than a plain unvarnished list of the coming week's attractions will be necessary. The feature acts are listed in the vaudeville blue books with the cachet of fame opposite each name.

The headliners are the Care Miller Family, who have recently incorporated as "The Five Columbians." The star of the organization is little Marilyn Miller who inherits all the family talents and has considerably more than a few of her own. Singing, dancing and musical specialities make up this act, which has been described by the professional journals as the most elaborate of its class ever produced. The act closes with a scenic fantasy programmed as "The Ballet of Roses."

Lew Pistel and O. H. Cushing in "The Stranded Minstrels," will be an added attraction. Pistel and Cushing need only to be named, and every lover of minstrelsy in its best aspect will look for fifteen minutes of incomparable entertainment. There are no better-liked comedians working in burnt cork than these two.

Tallman, the fancy pool expert, will attract everybody who knows how to handle a cue. Tallman is recognized everywhere for just what he claims to be. His record run at pocket billiards—108 balls—has never been equaled, and he holds many other championships. In addition to his exhibition work, Tallman will play a few matches with local experts during his stay at Pantages.

The Musical Gordon Highlanders appear in full ceremonial regalia of the Gordon clan and in addition to national music, songs and dances, offer many novelties in all three classes of entertainment.

The Bel Canto Trio reduce their harmonies to comedy terms, and make laughter the principal object of their efforts. They have serious moments, however, when the comedian forgets himself in the musician, and the result is an act that never fails to please everybody.

Charlie Hasty, the Hoosier comedian, presents a characterization of the Indiana youth that is sufficiently overdrawn to be irresistibly funny, but not so much out of perspective as to be offensive to the other natives of the State without a motte.

The Gaumont Weekly will continue to present the latest world's news in moving pictures.

Olympic.

With Joe Rivers, the worthy foe of Ad Wolgast as the big special feature, and the return of Herb Bell, the favorite Dutch comedian at the head of an almost entirely new burlesque organization at the Olympic Theater next week, that well-known playhouse will make a strong new bid for public favor.

Manager Jacobs was Johnny on the spot with the most alluring guarantee offer for the services of the popular little lightweight for the coming week, with the result that Rivers will be seen at the Olympic Theater three times daily, in a four-round bout with one of his sparring mates. There were many thousands of fight fans unable, for one reason or another, to witness the little Spanish-American boxer in his contest with Wolgast at Vernon on July 4, who will no doubt welcome the opportunity to see him work in a professional way, and the Olympic will without question be obliged to display the "S.R.O." placard more than once during the coming week.

The new attraction from a strict theatrical standpoint will be the advent of Herb Bell, termed the best laugh-producer on the western comedy stage. Mr. Bell is well-known to theater patrons of Los Angeles through his former associations here with "Pop" Fischer. He comes direct from a twenty-eight weeks' run at Winnipeg, equipped with upwards of 100 different burlesque productions, many of which are entirely new to local theater patrons.

Mr. Bell has been secured by the Olympic management as the producing head of an almost entirely new company, and will have associated with him such capable actors as J. Roy Cleis, George Ford, in leading parts, and Dave Morris, eccentric comedian. Miss Dea Loretta will assume leading feminine roles, and Miss Winnie Baldwin will be retained as soubrette.

An amusing feature of the coming week's bill will be a screaming boxing match between Messrs. Bell and Clair, while two decided novelties, "The Dixie Moon," with rare spectacular effects, and a "Jimmy Valentine" sketch will serve to round out a most attractive bill for the week.

With the advent of eastern capital into the present resources of the Olympic management, lovers of burlesque are assured of the highest class entertainment in that line from this time forward. The chorus is to be almost entirely new, and there will be an augmented orchestra.

Durbar in Kinemacolor.

"The last word in world's wonders and the most marvelous of them all," was the appreciative comment of the Duchess of Devonshire, Lady in Waiting to the Queen, when she had witnessed for the first time the remarkable Kinemacolor reproduction of the dazzling Durbar ceremonies by which George V and his royal spouse had the titles of Emperor and Empress of India, officially bestowed upon them.

Since the Kinemacolor representations of the Durbar—which will be shown at the Auditorium Theater, twice daily, commencing July 15, and continuing for one week have leaped into New York popularity as a Broadway attraction in a single night to the utter amusement of the entire theatrical world.

In absolute violation of all tradition and precedent, Charles Urban, the inventor of this wonderful process of natural color photography, which is "Nature's own necromancy," and Dr. H. J. Brock, managing director of the Kinemacolor Company of America, leased outright for a period of eight weeks the famous New York Theater, in the heart of the theater and "Lobster Palace" district and which for years had been the home of the biggest and best of Klaw & Erlanger attractions, at a cost of $2500 weekly.

Here they installed a handsome and costly oriental stage setting and a symphony orchestra to lend atmosphere to the presentation. The result was beyond their most sanguine expectations for the public and press, with popular accord, acclaimed the Kinemacolor Durbar pictures the most bewildering beautiful and marvelously magical composite of color, motion and atmosphere ever revealed to the human eye.

It is safe to say that a comparatively small number of those fortunate enough to have witnessed the inspiring ceremonial, covering a period of several days, obtained nearly as good a view or as close up idea of what transpired as the Kinemacolor Durbar pictures present—to have it would have been impossible for a mortal man to have done so, unless he had been possessed of eight pairs of eyes and other supernatural faculties.

The programme of the Kinemacolor Durbar pictures here will include the following: The royal visit to Bombay; preparing for the Durbar; the arrival of the King and Queen; the State entry into Delhi; rehearsing the Calcutta pageant; the grand coronation Durbar at Delhi; the King's camp and the reception by the Indian princes; the State garden party; the polo tournament at Delhi; the elephant stockade; preparing the royal elephants for the pageant; scenes in the Durbar camp and the grand review by the Mine-Emperor of 50,000 troops of British and native regiments, the most thrilling scene of the Durbar.

Adolphus.

"The Substitutes," featuring Joe Mendel and Mollie Carter, will be the attraction at the Adolphus commencing next Monday night. The scene is laid in the cafe of a hotel, and the plot is said to teem with funny situations.

The cast supporting Mendel and Carter includes Eddie Harris, Walter Spencer, Arthur Harrison, Ben Douglas, Frances White and Ben Mendel. Several features will be introduced. Walter Spencer will sing "The Three Things I Love," while Eddie Harris, eccentric comedian, will sing the character Italian song, "Creators."

"Pop" Fischer's Scheme.

As a change in his line of summer entertainment, "Pop" Fischer is thinking of putting upon the Lyceum stage, in August, some tabloid versions of the rattling old Weber & Field comedies, with our old friends Race & Cady, as the stars.

He would probably open with a piece new to local audiences, John Brusie's "I. O. U."

However, the August-September line of entertainment at Fischer's is still a matter under discussion.

STORY OF "LOUISIANA LOU"

No prettier story has ever been told in musical comedy that that selected by Addison Burkhardt and Frederick Donaghey, the authors of "Louisiana Lou," for that play, which was the 1911-12 all-season production at the La Salle Opera-house, Chicago, and which will be seen here by Manager Ashley's original company at the Mason Opera-house week commencing Monday night, July 22.

The story has to do with the search for matrimonial happiness of a foundling, the character of the title, Jacob Lidoffski, a Jewish immigrant, had, on arriving in the country, sought New Orleans as a place to make a fortune, but had was not with him until he picked up a little girl in a bundle one night, and, having no home of his own, took her to Mrs. Konkarney, the good-hearted wife of his friend and pal—Roderick Konkarney, another immigrant, who had obtained a job on the street cars wherewith to support his wife and little son. From that night, luck changed for Lidoffski and Konkarney; and at the opening of the play we find them the "bosses," political and in business, of New Orleans.

Louisiana-Lou (Lidoffski has named her that because of the initials "L. L." on a locket chained about the baby's neck,) is home from her school, and is in a week or so to be married to Jack Konkarney, son of Roderick—by an agreement entered into between the two men soon after Louisa-Lou was found. Meanwhile, Konkarney, a widower, has married again, and his big son has fallen in love with Della Fair, the pretty young sister of the second Mrs. Konkarney. Nixon Holmes, Judy's pal and business partner, has been in Paris on a visit; met Louisa there and fallen in love with her. Nixon, she says nothing of his affection for anybody, for the reason that he supposes that Jack's heart is Lou's, and he does not care to enter into rivalry with his chum.

The play concerns itself with the way the four young lovers outwit the scheming old man—a task in which they are aided by Jacob Wise, Lou's chaperone, and by incidents that spring up in the course of the plot.

Hubby Could Do It.

[Houston Post:] "Madam, this story will fairly take your breath away."

"I don't need it, but you'd better call on my husband and show it to him."

"You think he will purchase a dollar down and——"

I am quite sure he will look over it as a long-felt want. He has worn gloves and coffee and orange peel and he has yet to find something that will take his breath so far away that you can feel me when he comes home after having had to work late at the office.

Affairs of

EVERY day society circle diminishing as name after name is added to the summer exodus list.

One of the happiest of the departing ones is Miss Margaret D[aniels], daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W[illiam] Swift Daniel of this city, who is spending a month with Col. and Mrs. [James] A. Irons of the Twentieth Infantry, now stationed at Ft. Douglas, U[tah].

Col. Irons was, until recently, military attache to the American Embassy in Tokyo, Japan, for three years. His recent promotion as commanding officer at Ft. Douglas, is a matter of last month's history. Mrs. Irons was formerly Miss Florence Parr[ish] of Los Angeles, and one of our most beauties, and the Ironses have been close friends of the Daniels for many years. Dainty Miss Margaret is therefore having a most joyous time at army station as may well be imagined. She arrived at the end of last week and has already "captured the post" with her attractive charm of manner.

Over at Catalina Island another sweet maiden of the younger set is likewise having a sumptuous time. Miss Marjorie Tufts, whose parents have taken a villa on the island for the summer.

Miss Agnes Goudge, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert J. Goudge, who graduated last month, is also the recipient of much feting up at Ventura, where she is visiting her grandmother and uncles.

Mr. and Mrs. C. S. Byington and their daughter have been making a long stay at the Hotel Virginia, Long Beach, where, by the way, Capt. and Mrs. Randolph Huntington Miner are expected later in the month, and last letters to friends from Mr. and Mrs. E. N. Wright of Pasadena, who are touring Europe, tell of many delightful of the English golf courses.

Society Interested.

Of all romances which cast their charm over every bright season, society is never more interested than when the little god's sharp arrow have pierced the hearts of those who friendship has matured in a long and sunny acquaintance. The engagement of Miss Gertrude Meicser of Phoenix, Ariz., to Gus. L. Summerfield of Los Angeles, both well known to society in California and Arizona, which was announced yesterday, comes as the flower of such a romance begun in early childhood.

Miss Meicser is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Meicser, her father being one of the foremost merchants in Arizona. Summerfield is the son of Mr. and Mrs. I. Summerfield, No. 427 Manhattan place. Although a young man, he already has fine business connections, and is a Shriner. He is an only son and the bride-to-be is an only daughter. The two families have enjoyed a ripe friendship for many years, and after Miss Meicser's graduation at Ferry Hall, Ill., members of both families celebrated the event by a journey around the world which lasted for a year and a half. The date of the marriage is yet to be announced.

Parties to Be Given.

Mr. and Mrs. Forest George Arnold, the latter formerly Miss Mabel Wiles of this city, with their small son, Forest George Arnold, Jr., are guests of Mr. and Mrs. S. F. Wiles of this city. In honor of the visitors, Dr. and Mrs. Ray Cowan will give a "rag party" at their home, No. 243 Ardmore avenue, this week. Later a trip to Catalina will be enjoyed.

At Alexandria.

Mrs. Robert Brouchman of San Francisco is domiciled at Hotel Alexandria, where she will pass the summer.

In San Francisco.

Mrs. Mathew S. Robertson, Mrs. Erasmus Wilson and Mrs. William Irving Hollingsworth have been passing several weeks in San Francisco. They were guests at a smart dinner party given by Mrs. Nicholai Betts, and later the theater was enjoyed.

Dana Hall Reunion.

A luncheon at the California Club was enjoyed yesterday by graduates from Dana Hall, Wellesley College. Dark blue, the school colors, were used in decorating, bachelor buttons carrying out the effect. Covers were arranged for Mrs. Fred Flint, Mrs. A. C. Davidson, Miss Helene McVay, Miss Laura McVay, Miss Beatrice Burnham, Miss Blanche Davenport, Miss Louise Roberts, Miss Virginia Newhall, Miss Charlotte Cowles, Miss Elizabeth Colt, Miss Margaret Scott, Miss Louise Brown, Miss Fanny Thompson and Miss Louise Lockwood.

Surprise Dinner.

William Noble was the victim of a surprise dinner party given by Mrs. Noble Wednesday evening at their home, No. 214 East Twenty-third street, the occasion being his sixty-fourth birthday anniversary. Pink enchantress carnations graced the center of the table and the electrolier overhead was covered with ferns. Harmonizing cards marked covers for Mr. and Mrs. William Noble, Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Noble, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Hardy, Mr. and Mrs. Morton Kirby, Miss Lois Cook, Miss Vera Noble, Miss Emma Noble, Miss Laura Kirby and Clarence Kirby.

Eastern Guests.

Mrs. Chandler Weaver and her daughter, Miss Florence Weaver of Fox Chase, Philadelphia, arrived Thursday, and are spending a few days at the Lankershim Hotel.

Woodlawn Whist Club.

Members of the Woodlawn Whist Club were delightfully entertained Tuesday evening by Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Peatrs, No. 165 Thirty-sixth place. A profusion of white roses and hydrangeas were used in the rooms where the card tables were arranged and the dainty refreshments served. Following the games, prizes were awarded to Mrs. Josep Chambers, Miss Shipley, Messrs. Bogle and Alton. Members present were Judge and Mrs. Chambers, Mr. and Mrs. William Garnet, Mr. and Mrs. John C. Alton, Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Talbot, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest G. Taylor, Mr. and Mrs. C. Remmel, Mr. and Mrs. James Shaw, Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Fox, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Fife, Mr. and Mrs. P. B. Speers, Miss Kate Garnett, Miss Bert Shipley, and Messrs. P. A. Goodwin and F. E. Bonis.

From Yosemite.

Mr. and Mrs. E. T. Cherer of North New Hampshire street, have returned from a delightful trip through the Yosemite.

Much Feted.

Miss Agnes Barnwell, who is betrothed to Arthur Sauders, and whose wedding will occur the 24th, inst., is being much feted these days. A charming affair was the miscellaneous shower given recently by Miss Jane Lamb and Miss Hazel Gates at the home of the latter, No. 961 Manhattan place. Back from Yosemite.

Mr. and Mrs. E. T. Cherer of North Hampshire street, have returned from a delightful trip through the Yosemite.

Much Feted.

Miss Agnes Barnwell, who is betrothed to Arthur Saunders, and whose wedding will occur the 24th, inst., is being much feted these days. A charming affair was the miscellaneous shower given recently by Miss Jane Hawk and Miss Hazel Gates at the home of the latter, No. 961 Manhattan place. A profusion of white Shasta daisies were used in the living-rooms, while deep red carnations enlivened the table where refreshments were served, following an afternoon of sewing for the bride-elect. The shower was presented to the guest of honor in a handsome basket.

Miss Jane Hawk also entertained with an informal afternoon for Miss Barnwell at her home, No. 1822 Santa Cruz street. This affair was also a miscellaneous shower and the afternoon spent in sewing for the guest of honor. Included were Mrs. George Tait, Miss Lucy Howell, Miss Jane Lamb, Miss Hazel Gates, Mrs. Charles Northrup, Mrs. John McCarty, Mrs. Aubrey Austin, Miss Ethel Davenport, Miss Laura Swigart, Mrs. Allen Vent, Mrs. Harold Baker and Miss Gertrude Hawk.

Mrs. Forest George Arnold,

Of San Francisco, who is the guest of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. S. F. Wiles of this city. Mrs. Arnold will be remembered as Miss Mabel Wiles. In honor of the popular visitor her sister, Mrs. James Ray Cowan, will give a dancing party this week at her home on Ardmore avenue.

At Newport Beach.

Mr. and Mrs. L. Senn are entertaining Mr. and Mrs. George Werdin and little son, of South Pasadena, for the week end in their cottage at Newport Beach.

Genial Host.

Paul Adams was the genial host at Levy's Tuesday evening in honor of visiting musicians who were attending the musical convention in session in this city this week. Included were Mr. and Mrs. L. Birmingham, Miss Alma Birmingham, and C. L. Seeger of San Francisco and Miss Lois Cook.

To the Yosemite.

Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Pierce and two children, of Glendale, have gone to the Yosemite for a two weeks' outing.

Laurette Taylor Honored.

One of the smart affairs of the current week was the bridge luncheon given by Mrs. Alice T. Anderson, No. 1626 Shatto street, Thursday, honoring Miss Laurette Taylor. A profusion of pink and white sweet peas and enchantress carnations were used in an artistic decoration through the rooms given over to the affair, and tables were arranged for twenty-six. Between the hours of four and five, Mrs. Anderson entertained with a reception for Miss Taylor, when twenty more guests were included.

The same evening Mrs. Anderson complimented J. Hartley Manners with a dinner of twelve covers.

Delightful Trip.

Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Swanfeldt and Miss Edla Swanfeldt, of Michigan and State streets, and Mrs. Andrew Swanfeldt and son, Howard, No. 321 Harvard boulevard, will leave today for a two weeks' trip through the Yosemite. From there, they will go so San Francisco and Santa Barbara, and return home by way of the Grand Canyon. They expect to be away six weeks.

Safe Arrival.

A cable has been received by friends in this city from Paris announcing the safe arrival in that city of Judge and Mrs. J. W. Hendrick, E. W. Hendrick, Mrs. George Wiley Wells, Mrs. J. Ross Foster, Mrs. Egelhoff Rundel, Miss Dorothy Rundel, Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Edwards, Mr. and Mrs. Willoughby Rodman and J. D. Gaylord. They are all in the best of health, having already visited Japan, Korea, Manchuria, China, Java, Siam, Burmah, Ceylon, Egypt. They were present at the Coronation, Durbar, India.

Recent Wedding.

The wedding of Miss Fannie E. Heney of No. 1031 West Thirty-fifth place, and William J. Evans of Toronto, Can., took place in this city Wednesday. Rev. Charles Edward Locke, of the First Methodist Episcopal Church, read the service.

Another Wedding.

Announcement is made of the marriage of Ernest Burrow and Miss Gladys Falconer, which was solemnized at the home of Mrs. N. Manhein of No. 955 Mariposa avenue. Rev. J. M. Schaefle, pastor of the Pico Heights' Congregational Church was asked to officiate. At the conclusion of a tour through Southern California Mr. Burrow will take his bride to Goldfield, Nev., to reside.

Annual Picnic.

Members of the Tuesday morning Club held their first annual picnic in the Arroyo Seco Tuesday. They have moved into their new home at Santa Monica avenue and flower street.

Popular Visitors.

Rev. and Mrs. A. C. Smither and son, Chester, and Mrs. S. E. Clough of St. Louis, are in Los Angeles for the summer and are at Hotel Alvarado. Mrs. Smither has just returned from the biennial in San Francisco.

Guest of Daughter.

Miss Margaret Daniel,

Of this city, who left recently to visit Col. and Mrs. James A. Irons at Fort Douglas. Col. Irons has just returned from Japan, where he was military attache to the American embassy at Tokio.

SOCIETY.

She carried a bouquet of bride's roses with a valley lily shower. Her sister, Mrs. Richard Earl Brown, assisted as matron and wore a pink crepe meteor and carried an arm cluster of Cecile Bruners. Mr. Brown was best man. Rev. Russell Phratt was the officiating clergyman and the service was read before a Mission altar banked with pink peas and ferns, this same arrangement appearing in each room. At the conclusion of a four-weeks' outing at Lake Tahoe Mr. and Mrs. Garber will return to Los Angeles.

Picnic Party.

Young women of the Xi Chapter of the Zeta Tau Alpha Fraternity of the University of Southern California enjoyed a picnic at Eagle Rock Canyon Tuesday afternoon. The good time was planned in honor of Miss Lillian Short of Nu Chapter and Miss Myrtle Hurt, both of Springfield, Mo., who are guests of Miss Belle Shetlon of No. 629 Bixel street. The pleasant party was shared by Miss Maida Wellborn, Miss Eva Summers, Miss Alma Squires, Miss Grace Bowden, Miss Sarah Patten, Miss Mildred Wheeler, Miss Ethel Underwood, Miss Helen Kallwoda, Miss Agnes Clark, Miss Pauline Fredenburg, Miss Isadore Robson, Miss Beulah Baird, Miss Mary Poggi, Miss Mary Chaffee, Miss Grace Stevenson and Miss Grace Willett.

Miss Jackson a Bride.

Miss Bertha May Jackson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Jackson of No. 1209 East Thirty-sixth street, was a Thursday brideg. Her wedding to Stanley E. Denton was solemnized at the home of her parents. She was attired in white voile and lace fashioned over messaline and wore a brooch which was born by her mother and grandmother on their wedding days. Rev. J. C. Hay spoke the service and immediately after Mr. and Mrs. Denton left for a honeymoon trip.

Tea at Alexandria.

Mrs. Menze Williams of No. 1343 Central avenue, North Glendale, was hostess at a tea party at the Alexandria Thursday at which time announcement was made of the engagement of her daughter, Miss Emma, to Harry W. Peterson. The wedding will take place the middle of September. Miss Williams is a clever musician, having recently graduated from the musical department of the University of Southern California. She is a member of the Delta Delta Chapter of the Alpha Chi Omega and the Do, Re, Me Club of this city. Mr. Peterson is well known in club and society circles.

The guests were Mrs. L. R. Garrett,

Mrs. Clara Sevenon Clarke,

In whose honor Mrs. Eleanor A. Wolfe of Harvard boulevard entertained last evening with a reception. Mrs. Clarke has just returned from an extended visit in Italy and Germany.

4000 Yards
Dress Silks
$1.50---$1.25 and $1.00 Qualities . . . . . 50c Yd.

A Jobber's Season-End Clean-Up

A promient New York jobber closed out to us his season-end lot of novelty Dress Silks at a figure that lets us pass them on at away less than half value—at the ridiculous price of fifty cents a yard. We'll not try to describe them or to even name the various styles. Enough to say they are desirable in style and coloring and represent values the like of which we've not seen or heard of before.

The major portion of them are Taffetas, Messalines and Peau de Cygnes. Hundreds of checks, stripes and figures, suitable for gowns, costumes, dresses, waists, coats, linings, petticoats and every other use. Colors range from the most delicate to the fashionable dark shades. The great majority of these Silks are regular $1.25 and $1.50 values, with a few that would sell ordinarily at $1.00. Sale starts promptly at 9 o'clock, tomorrow 50c

Final Clearance of Tailored Suits
$20.00
Former Prices $32.50 to $60.00
Sizes For Women and Misses

In our determination to dispose of this remaining lot of Tailored Suits, cost, former selling price or value have had no influence whatever. Orders have been given to SELL THEM, to clear the way for the fall stock. That they may be cleaned up surely, entirely and quickly, we have given them this absurdly small price. There are only sixty or seventy in the lot, so we warn you to be prompt if you would get the biggest bargains.

There are plain tailored styles in all the best materials and colors; Shepherd Check Norfolks, or plain tailored; demi-tailored models of Plain or Changeable Taffeta and a host of other new and seasonable models. All have been received within the past two months and measure up to the well known Blackstone standard in every particular. Choice, Monday, $20.00.

A JULY SALE OF AUTUMN RUGS

May sound paradoxical to say we are selling Autumn Rugs in July, but it's a fact nevertheless. This is how it so happens:

We bought 350 American Oriental Rugs for September delivery, which, through some error or misunderstanding, were shipped 60 days ahead of time. They have just arrived, but we are not ready for them. So we've been given price concessions to justify us in closing out the entire lot at bargain prices.

The Rugs in question are high-class in every particular—as truly Oriental in design and coloring as any American-made Rugs could be—exact reproductions of the real Turkish Rugs. There's a style, a color and a size for any room in the house—in any house, bungalow or mansion. Here is a hint of the savings—350 to pick from.

$32.50 Rugs, 11.3x12 ft., at	$27.50	$22.50 Rugs, 8.3x10.6 ft., at	$18.50	$10.00 Rugs, 54x78-inch	$6.95	$2.50 Rugs, 27x60-inch	$1.95 maiden-hair fern. Allison Baker acted as best man for Mr. Walberg. Mrs. Harry Cain of Los Angeles played the wedding march.

The bridal party stood in front of the fireplace, which was massed with pink sweet peas and quantities of maiden-hair fern. On either side potted plants and shrubbery were effectively arranged. Festoons of asparagus plumosus fern formed a canopy overhead, from which was suspended a floral bell of pink sweet peas and held pink rose petals. Just as the happy couple were pronounced man and wife a pink ribbon was pulled and they were showered with rose petals. Mr. and Mrs. Walberg left immediately for a week-end stay at Catalina, after which they will make a six months' tour of the United States. Mr. Walberg is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Walberg of No. 1412 Vista street.

Farewell Party.

Mr. and Mrs. Louis Dreyfus, who are to leave the latter part of this month for Europe where they will stay a year, were the complimented guests at a farewell party given by Mr. and Mrs. L. J. Selby of No. 343 Occidental boulevard Wednesday evening. A yellow and green color scheme was carried out by combining coreopsis and calliopsis and asparagus fern. A stage was placed in the large living room and a musical entertainment was presented by Frau Schoeman-Honk and all the little Honks', a musical coterie of this city in a frolic, "As (we) Like It." The programme was as follows: Deutchland Uber Alles, Folk Song, Whole Honk family; Over in Germany, by Freda A. Peycke, Fraulein Meh Coon Honk, Ragtime Honk; Ach Wie Ist's Moglich, Dann, Folk Song, Fraulein Pickey Honk; Am Rothen Sarafan, Folk Song, Whole Honk Family; Kinder Sinfornii by B. Romberg Op. 82, Allegro Maestoso, Minuete, Adargo, Lamentiblio, and Rondo, Fraulein Schoeman-Honk, 1st Violin, Earring Honk; 2nd Violin Ragtime Honk; 'Cello, Skinflint Honk; Wachtal, Meh Coon Honk; Nachtkal, Busy Bee Honk; Cuckoo, Just Sicker Honk; Schnarri, Toili Pus Honk; Triangle, Fraulein Honk; Piano, Pie Kie Honk. Miss Peycke also gave three of her own compositions during the evening. This was followed by a Dutch luncheon at which toasts were sung to the honorees. About seventy-five guests enjoyed the evening.

On Alaskan Trip.

Mr. and Mrs. Georg McIntyre, No. 327 South Alvarado street, have gone to Alaska and will be away one month.

Evening of Bridge.

Unique invitations on which was a head of an Indian inviting guests to his wigwam were sent out by Mrs. Roy Ballagh and her sister, Mrs. Frances Webb, for Thursday evening at the home of the latter, No. 234 Harvard boulevard. Upon entering the house the guests found same turned into an Indian Wigwam, with Frances Webb, the daughter of the hostess dressed to represent Pocahontas. Pepper boughs, field flowers, cat-tails and golden-rod gave the home an out-of-door appearance. Bridge was the pleasure of the evening and prizes were won by Mrs. Daniels and Mrs. C. Ballagh and Messrs. Le Roy and Daniels. Elaborate refreshments were served. Those enjoying the hospitality of the evening were Mr. and Mrs. Joseph M. Le Roy, Mr. and Mrs. George Jefferies Major, Mr. and Mrs. Courtney Ballagh, Mr. and Mrs. James Ballagh, Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Hedrick, Mr. and Mrs. F. W. Freugaling, Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Brent, Mr. and Mrs. Le Roy Daniels, Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Heyler, Dr. Evans Jenkins, E. J. Pennypacker and A. Francher.

Home Guest.

Mrs. J. M. Brown of Evanston, Ill., and her daughter Kathryn, are the house guests of her brother and wife, Mr. and Mrs. William H. Harrison, No. 327 Kingsley Drive. Mrs. Brown was formerly Miss Grace Harison of this city.

Dancing Party.

Miss Helen Mattern, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Mattern, charmingly entertained with a dancing party in the lobby of Hotel Stratford, last evening. The reception rooms were bright with deep red carnations and potted palms and ferns. An orchestra furnished delightful music for dancing, and light refreshments were served. Present were Miss Ethel Sutor, Miss Helen Simpson, Miss Cecile Tuppin, Miss Gertrude Johnson, Miss Randaline Shaw, Miss C. Averal, Miss Leah Kirkman and Messrs. Harold Mosher, Rex Hubbell Robert Freeman, Russel Greppin Walter Shaw, Ralph Buryain, Mr. McCray and Mr. Mason.

Tahoe Outing.

Mr. and Mrs. Stanley McClung, No. 1059 La Salle, are enjoying the pleasure of a trip to Lake Tahoe.

Party and Dinner.

J. C. Morin of San Francisco, who is at the Alexandria for a few weeks, entertained with a box-party at the Majestic in compliment to his sister Miss Ethel Morin. Later dinner was served at the Country Club.

To Wed In Portland.

Miss Florence C. Frankland, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John G. Frankland of No. 4303 Halidale avenue, will leave today for Portland Ore., where she will become the bride Wednesday of J. R. Davies.

OUT-OF-TOWN-SOCIETY.

Pasadena.

SOCIAL gaiety in Pasadena last week was confined almost exclusively to small and informal functions, one of the most noteworthy being the salmagundi party given Monday evening by Dr. and Mrs. J. Tyler Parker complimentary to their niece, Miss Mary Hibbard of New York, who is a guest at their home on East California street. The verandas and lawn were illuminated with Japanese lanterns and the living-room, where tables were provided for various games, was decorated with corcopsis. Among those present were Mr. and Mrs. J. Tyler Parker, Jr., Misses Anna Mary Felkner, Miriam Wood, Fannie Crawford, Mabel Newell, Lorilla Lewis, Vivian Webster, Bowers, Hazel Beecher, Leonta Ong, Marguerite Foster, Lena Muller, Violet Dale, Helen Parker, Edna Magnuson, Messrs. George Gray, Brune Fassell, Bert Taylor, Guy Harris, Ray Bronson, Guy Embree, Henry Biedebach, Kenneth Newell, George Doty, Will Holtz, Tilstoi Magnusen, Irvine Gross, Vernon Kenney, Sam England and George Taylor.

Mrs. William St. John Ranney was the hostess Tuesday at a small auction bridge party given at her home on Palmetto drive in honor of her sister, Mrs. Herzog, who is her house guest for the summer. Garden flowers adorned the rooms where the card tables were arranged and refreshments were served at the card tables after the game, several friends coming in for tea. Prizes were awarded at each table, the winners being Mmes. Herbert T. Fuller, Joseph D. Condit, C. B. Hall and Miss Auten. Others present were Mmes. A. S. Halsted, Walter H. Lutz, S. M. Hamilton, Thomas Campbell, Frederick Terrell, Volney Craig, Lawrence Macomber, Markhoff, J. S. MacDonnell, Misses Marjorie Sinclair, Grace Clark, Pauline Lutz.

Mrs. Albert C. Calkins of Palm street entertained Tuesday afternoon with a tea arranged in honor of her house guests, Mrs. W. O. Pringle and Miss Rose Judson of Chicago. Matilija poppies and Shasta daisies formed a pretty decoration about the rooms and the tea table was adorned with daisies. Assisting the hostess were Mmes. R. B. Ashley, A. F. Gartz, Charles Noble, S. J. Parsons, W. L. Jones of Los Angeles, Misses Stella and Louise Noble and Misses Blanche and Alberta Calkins. There were about seventy guests present.

Society has been pleasantly stirred over the announcement which came last week from Mrs. John W. Hugus, who is spending the summer in Italy, that she is to be married in Paris in October to an Italian army captain whom she has known several years and met when abroad some years ago. Mrs. Hugus was formerly Miss Blanche Bolt, daughter of Frank C. Bolt. Mrs. Hugus does not expect to return to America before her marriage.

The date for the marriage of Miss Alice Coleman and Ernest Batchelder has been set for Tuesday, July 30, and the wedding will be at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Coleman, South Madison avenue. It will be characterized by simplicity, and only close friends and relatives will be present.

Mrs. R. H. Fiske of North Los Robles avenue entertained the members of the Optimo Club Monday evening with five hundred. The card tables were arranged in the patio, which was attractive with flowering shrubs and hanging baskets, and illuminated with electric lights. Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Hall and Mrs. Hubbard of Los Angeles were special guests of honor, and others present were Mr. and Mrs. Hayes B. Westhaver, Mr. and Mrs. L. K. Brandenburg, Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Hilton, Mr. and Mrs. William Loud, Mr. and Mrs. Fred McLaren, Mr. and Mrs. Bert Lewis, Mmes. M. L. Hamblett, E. W. Chambers, S. C. Flemming, Mr. and Mrs. I. G. Wilson, Miss Mary Landis, Messrs. Oakey, W. B. Edwards, George Paine and Prof. Chamberlain.

Mrs. A. T. Welles of Altadena was the hostess Wednesday afternoon at a pleasant party arranged in honor of her niece and house guest, Miss Amelia Barton. Sunflowers decorated the rooms, where tables were provided for games and a trip through a realm of post cards. Among the guests were Misses Blanche and Alberta Calkins, Marion Brown, Elizabeth Platt, Katherine Wright, Louise Sullivan, Louise Up de Graff, Elizabeth Tower, Alverda Holland, Louise Mansar, Edith and Jean Egbert, Helen Mullaly, Helen Marie Neilson, Wilma Peterson, Isabel Scherer and Frances Wright.

Mr. and Mrs. Kenyon Warren gave an out-of-door evening fete at their home on North Orange Grove avenue Tuesday evening when their grounds were illuminated with Japanese lanterns and tables were spread under the trees for a picnic supper. An impromptu programme of readings and music was given by some of the guests, of whom there were about seventy-five present.

The wedding of Miss Margaret Mahan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Mahan of Chicago, whose winter home is in Pasadena, and Phillip Senour of Oakland avenue was an affair of social interest Wednesday, although characterized by extreme simplicity. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Leslie E. Learned at the home of the bride's parents on South Marengo avenue in the presence of relatives and friends to the number of twenty. Miss Adelaide Mahan, sister of the bride, was the only attendant, and Mr. Van Patten acted as best man. The bride wore an exquisite gown of white satin and a chaplet of orange flowers in her hair. After the ceremony breakfast was served at small tables. Mr. and Mrs. Senour are enjoying a short wedding journey and will make their home for the present in Riverside.

Mrs. F. W. Sperow of North Vernon avenue entertained the Sunset Card Club Monday evening, the guests of honor being Mr. and Mrs. Knight Hester, who have recently returned from their honeymoon journey. Others present were Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Bye, Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Hogan, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Hill, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Burns, Mr. and Mrs. A. K. Bye, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Mason, Misses Neil and Gragam and Ralph Van Hove.

Miss Erma Lengtat, whose marriage to Ernest Thrall occurs July 16, was the recipient of a pleasant shower of pretty gifts at an informal afternoon party arranged in her honor by Mrs. A. A. Thrall at her home on North Catalina avenue Tuesday afternoon. There were twenty friends of the bride-elect present.

Mrs. C. W. Dobbins of Garfield avenue with her grandson, Emert Lowe, has gone to her summer chalet at Squirrel Inn for a protracted stay.

Noteworthy among social functions was the reception given Wednesday afternoon by Mrs. Clara Bryant Heywood at her home on Galena avenue, in honor of Mrs. Percy V. Pennybacker, recently elected president of the Federation of Women's Clubs, and Mrs. Henry Fall of Texas. Several distinguished women of Los Angeles, with Mrs. Calvin Hartwell and Mrs. Robert R. Meredith, assisted in receiving, and a large number of prominent clubwomen were present.

Mr. and Mrs. E. Bartlett Shidler of Oak Knoll, with their house guest, Mrs. Millard Tyree of Cincinnati, are spending a few days at the Glenwood Inn, Riverside.

Mr. and Mrs. George C. Cary and daughter, Miss Margaret Cary, are at Balboa for the month of July.

Mr. and Mrs. William St. John Ranney, and daughter, Miss Helen Ranney, and Mrs. Herzog, Mrs. Ranney's sister, who is their house guest, leave tomorrow for Long Beach, where they have taken a cottage for two months.

Mrs. W. E. Edward of East Washington street, with her son, Donald Edward, and her mother, Mrs. Baldwin, left, last week, for Portland, Or., where they will spend the summer visiting relatives.

Mrs. C. G. Titcomb of South Madison avenue entertained, Thursday afternoon, with an informal tea arranged in honor of her house guest, Mrs. E. H. Loyhed of Minnesota. Assisting in receiving were Mrs. Charles A. Dibble and Miss Eleanor Miller. There were thirty present, most of the guests being former St. Paul and Minneapolis women.

Mrs. Samuel Lockwood of South Madison avenue was the hostess, Wednesday, at a small porch party, which was enjoyed by Mmes. C. P. Harris, Ernest H. Lockwood, J. N. Sherry, Garrett Newkirk, J. E. Carpenter, R. B. Ashley, I. N. Smith, B. M. Brewster and Drows.

Miss Eleanor Bissell entertained, Thursdy afternoon, at her home in Prospect Square in honor of her house guest, Miss Emilie de Rochemont of Springfield, Mass. Hydrangs were used in decorating the rooms and Shasta daisies adorned the tea table, where Mrs. F. Bruce Wetherby and Miss Jessie Sabin presided over the tea cups. Assisting about the rooms were Misses Mida Webb, May Sawyer, Florence Harper, Corrine Harbert, Lulu Conger and Jessie Hinman. There were forty guests present.

Mrs. George Morrison is entertaining, for a week-end party, a number of girls at her summer cabin in Arroyo Seco. The party includes Misses Gladys Rowe, Florence Cary, Sarah Morrison, Hazel Jones, Martha Duell, Eleanor Loring, Hazel Bolton, Mildred Johnson, Helen Herd, Beth Giesen, Amy Giezen, Emily Neighbor, Anna Cross and Evelyn Leet.

Dr. and Mrs. Arthur A. Libby of South Orange Grove avenue left Thursday for the East and will spend the next three months in Canada.

Misses Blanche and Alberta Calkins entertained at the home of their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Albert C. Calkins, Altadena, Thursday evening, with an informal dance, given in honor of Robert and Edward Pringle, their house guests. There were thirty young people present.

South Pasadena.

MRS. William Bebbe of Granada street entertained about 150 guests Friday afternoon with a reception, the affair being complimentary to her mother, Mrs. David Ingle, her house guest from the East, also her sister, Mrs. Kirk Mitchell. Receiving with the hostess were her two guests of honor and other unbonneted ladies were Mrs. E. Stevenson, Mrs. L. Stong, Miss Stong, Mrs. A. Carpenter and Mrs. Samuel Kennedy. Decorations for the affair were especially artistic. The drawing-room where the receiving party stood was beautiful with hydrangeas and ferns, while in the closed patio where refreshments were served, an outdoor scene was represented. Lattice work on the walls was covered with ferns, out of which butterflies were peeping. Hanging from the ceiling were baskets of pansies and fern baskets, in which were bird's nests and butterflies. At one end was a rock pile covered with ferns, also a fountain in which were gold fish. The tea table was covered with a handsome Cluny luncheon set, the centerpiece for which was a low bowl of pansies and other features of its decorations were yellow-shaded candelabra, and cut-glass dishes filled with bon-bons. Presiding at the antique silver coffee and tea urns were Mrs. Stevenson and Mrs. Carpenter. An enjoyable feature of the afternoon was the musical programme presented during the reception hours from 4 to 6.

Mr. and Mrs. George Bantel of Oneonta and their daughter, Margaret, have taken a cottage at Ocean Park for the summer.

The Misses Ruth and Helen List, who are removing to Los Angeles, were the honorees at a luncheon Monday, given by Miss Esther Kite, at her home, No. 1417 Rollins street. Covers were laid for Miss Helen List, Miss Ruth List, Miss Lois Baker, Miss Nellie Hansen, Miss Adele Axtman, Miss Isabelle Scott and the hostess. Following the luncheon a delightful musical programme was enjoyed.

Mrs. Caroline Adams of Palm avenue has as her house guests her son and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Adams of Mexico. They will remain here about one week, and then go to Oregon to visit other relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. Marcus L. Godfrey and their two children, No. 1510 Monterey road, have taken a cottage at Ocean Park for six weeks.

The members of the Beati Hora Club were entertained for the week end by Mrs. Wilbur J. Filley, in her cottage at Balboa. The pleasures of the seaside town were enjoyed and included were Mrs. Martin McQuigg of Altadena, Mrs. I. L. Spencer, Mrs. J. C. Pierce, Mrs. P. A. Lord, Mrs. Charles Gates, Mrs. Henry Kehler and Mrs. William Council.

A happy birthday entertainment in honor of Grandma Wilcox on her 80th birthday, was given by her relatives at the home of Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Wilcox, No. 1512 Rollins street. It was a turkey dinner spread under a large oak tree, and covers were laid for twenty-six. A large birthday cake graced the center, and extending from this in the center of the long table were pink and white sweet peas. The guest of honor talked of early days and among other interesting events, told of traveling on the first steam car ever run in the United States. She was the recipient of many birthday cards, flowers and presents. Music was also enjoyed and presents were Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Clark, Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Burson and Miss Rena Burson of Los Angeles, Mr. and Mrs. P. L. Boheim and family and Miss Jennie Burson of Santa Ana, Mr. and Mrs. Taylor Wilcox, Mr. and Mrs. J. Steinbaugh and William Steinbaugh of Alhambra, Mr. and Mrs. J. Ambler and Guy and Herman Ambler of Whittier, and Mrs. George H. Wilcox, Mrs. M. Jarboe and Ralph Wilcox.

Mr. and Mrs. George Patterson, No. 1707 Oak street, have gone to Coalinga to spend a month.

Dr. and Mrs. Maurice Crow entertained the members of the Monterey Chautauqua Circle with a picnic supper at Griffith Park yesterday afternoon, seven automobiles carrying the guests. Steaks were broiled on the charcoal, ovens provided and a most delicious supper served. Miss Bradley, teacher of elocution and expression of Mills College, was present at a special guest, and gave several delightful readings. Several toasts were given, and Dr. Crow then proposed one to the leader, who has made a wonderful success, Bert Mull. Included were: Dr. and Mrs. E. L. Godfrey, Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur J. Filley, Mr. and Mrs. Bert Mull, Dr. and Mrs. Maurice Crow, Miss Marie Crow, Miss Bradley of Oakland, Mrs. Alice Coles and Mrs. J. C. Pierce.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Gortner, No. 1963 La France avenue, left Thursday for Venice, where they will occupy their cottage until October. Their house guests, Hon. and Mrs. Mark Thompson, of Las Cruces, N. M., have gone to the same place where they have taken apartments for the summer.

Dr. J. C. Paine has returned from Webster City, Iowa, where he went to claim as his bride Miss Alta Kathryn Green. They will be at home to their friends at No. 1624 Lyndon street after August 1. Mrs. Paine was the only daughter of Mrs. Alice E. Green, and leaves a host of warm friends in Webster City, where she has lived all her life. She is a graduate of Chicago University, and it was while attending that institution that she met Dr. Paine.

Mrs. Ernest Sutton and little daughter and son, No. 1625 Oak street, have gone to Pinecrest, above Squirrel Inn, in the San Bernardino Mountains, where she has taken a cabin for a month.

Shasta daisies and maiden-hair fern with harmonizing place cards characterized the luncheon given Tuesday afternoon by Mrs. Brymer Jones, at her home, corner of Monterey road and Fremont avenue. Covers were laid for Mrs. J. C. King, Miss Ann Murray, Mrs. G. W. Bell, Mrs. T. L. Thompson, Mrs. G. G. Sanford, Mrs. D. L. Baker and the hostess.

Mrs. William Boothby of Philadelphia, Pa., and Mrs. Samuel Bodine of Cedartown, Ga., who have been the guests of Mrs. George Patterson and Mrs. Mary Stringfellow, No. 1707 Oak street, for the past two months, have returned home.

The members of the class of the Methodist Church left Tuesday on their annual outing at Camp Baldwin upon the San Gabriel River. Class life will be maintained for two days. Those going were Miss Mabel Patterson, Miss Lois Baker, Mrs. Preston Hall, Miss Edna Stonebraker, Miss Hazel Gilles, Miss Jane Thompson, Miss

THE pretty bridge luncheon given by Mrs. Carl F. Schader and Mrs. George Dryden in the new banquet balcony at the Casino, Tuesday afternoon, was among the important social events of the week. Decorations were in keeping with the seashore idea, pink and white sweet peas being plentifully used around a miniature ship in the center of the table. Mirrors were used to picture the sea on the table. Leading from the masts of the ship to the table corners were streamers of sweet peas. The guests were: Miss Emma Kramer of Little Rock, Ark., guest of Mrs. Schader; Mrs. J. S. Stotler, Mrs. W. N. Porter, Mrs. Fred H. Taft, Mrs. C. J. Schader, Mrs. Robert Bunsay, Mrs. Charles F. Santa Paula.

ONE of the prettiest pre-nuptial affairs of the season was a miscellaneous shower given by Mrs. D. D. De Nure in honor of Miss Celia Hall Saturday afternoon. In each room a different color scheme prevailed. The hall was laden with red coreopsis, the living-room with Matilija poppies and ferns, and in the dining-room potted plants and pink sweet peas added to the splendor. Cards were enjoyed during the afternoon, the prize being won by Miss Roma Hall. The bride-elect was the recipient of a number of pretty gifts. Those present were: Miss Alice Butcher, Miss Nellie Bornig, Miss Ruth Drown, Miss Bernice Hall, Miss Geraldine Laufman, Miss Roma Hall, Miss Eleanor Crone, Miss Evelena Nowak, Miss Hazel Clayton, Miss Ada Youngkin, Miss Esther Cummings, Miss Helen Harrison, Miss Margaret Smith, Miss Cecelia Henderson, Miss Sue Ramsour, Miss Florence Phelphs, Miss Margaret Briggs, Miss Elisabeth De Line, Mrs. L. L. Clayton, Mrs. Walter De Nure and Mrs. Charles Deegan.

Miss Hazel Clayton and Miss Leta Nicely are spending a few weeks in the Yosemite.

The ladies of the Current Events Club have entered upon a work which has been agitated for some time and that is the organization of a humane society.

Mrs. Lucy E. Keene, accompanied by her daughter, Miss Helen Keene, will leave Monday for an extended trip through the Eastern States. They will go As the Canadian Pacific and visit in St. Paul, Chicago, Niagara, Boston and Belfast, Me. They will be accompanied as far as Portland, Me., by Mrs. M. G. Demarest, her daughter, Lucile, and her mother, Mrs. Campbell, who will remain indefinitely in New Brunswick.

Mrs. C. C. Bestor and daughter, Miss Nettie, of Saugus, are the guests of Mrs. Alice Bestor at her home on Grevillea avenue.

Eagle Rock.

ONE of the happiest events given by the O.F.F. Club was the party given Saturday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Young. About forty young ladies and gentlemen participated. On their arrival they were given slips of paper with their names written on and cut in two, and these had to be matched to get their partners, then they had to unwind many strings, which had been run in every place imaginable. This caused them to get acquainted and made much merriment, and at the end of these strings were found the place-cards for the game, hearts, which was a game of spelling. Miss Suzette Spangler gave two very beautiful piano numbers and Mrs. Young gave readings during the evening.

The second one of the delightful summer teas, which have been given by the Parent-Teachers' Association, was given Wednesday at the home of Mrs. W. E. Werden. A very interesting programme was given by the children. A character-song in costume, "The Four Countries," was given by Miss Muriel Gardner, representing America, in the costume of the Goddess of Liberty; Louanna McNary, representing Great Britain; Amber Young, Ireland, and Marjorie Brink, Germany. Gloria Goss recited "The Runaway Boy" and "Naughty Claude" in a very pleasing manner. The music rendered was by a new orchestra, composed of Thelma Stanton and Fred Flack, violins, and Frances and Bertha Werden, piano.

Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Ireland of Kansas City, Mo., well-known evangelists of Southern California, are enjoying their vacation in this city.

The Misses Swan of Sycamore avenue entertained the following friends from Los Angeles, Sunday: Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Freeman, Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Hendrickson and son, Leslie, and C. Tilson.

Mr. and Mrs. Frederick A. Miller entertained on the Fourth of July with a picnic luncheon in their yard at their home on Sycamore avenue. The guests were: Mrs. Robert Ingram, sons, Robert and Roy, and daughter, Miss Elsie, and Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Miller.

Mrs. L. C. Finley was the hostess at a delightful little dinner party given Sunday at her home on Eagle Rock avenue. The guests were: Miss Tillie Thompson of Los Angeles, Miss Cecile Finley of Ocean Park and Miss Erna Roloff of La Prada Park.

Mrs. C. B. Castcel of Sycamore avenue is entertaining her sister, Miss Eva Dickerson, and her daughters, the Misses Olive and Ethel Dickerson of Quide Rock, Neb.

Next Monday Dr. G. E. Cox, wife and son, will go on a camping trip near Bakersfield.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Gerard of Meridan, Ct., are visiting Miss S. A. Cooper at her home on West Sycamore avenue. They expect to locate in California. Mrs. J. R. Lowe and children and Miss Ellen Galpin are enjoying a several-weeks' outing at Balboa.

Hollywood.

LAST Friday evening a smart bridge and five hundred party was given by George L. Eastman of Wilcox avenue to the members of the Friday Afternoon Bridge Club and their husbands, in the pastors of the Hollywood School for Girls. The rooms were tastefully decorated with pink roses and hydrangeas, grouped with quantities of fern. Prizes for bridge whist went to Mrs. Frank Kent Gallaway and Guy Barton Hinckley, while Mrs. Albert R. Walker and Harold Gorham received the prizes for five hundred. Dainty refreshments were served at 11 o'clock. The invited guests were Mrs. George L. Eastman, Sr., Mr. and Mrs. George G. Greenwood, Dr. and Mrs. Walter E. Deering, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Kent Gallaway, Dr. and Mrs. J. R. Alcorn, Mr. and Mrs. James Irsfeld, Mr. and Mrs. W. B. H. Kisner, Mr. and Mrs. Harold W. Gorham, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Parker, Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Schloesser, Mr. and Mrs. Hugh H. Beggs, Dr. and Mrs. A. B. Leaveile and Miss Margaret Eastman.

Lillian Helen Schloesser entertained a number of guests with a tea party last Wednesday afternoon at the home of her grandparents, Dr. and Mrs. A. G. R. Schloesser of Argyle street. The children present with their mothers and grandmothers were Ardel Leaveile, Dorothy Kirchhofer, Jassie Gorham, Virginia Purg, Eleanor Walker, Norman Alcorn, Paul Eastman, George Gorham, James Irsfeld, William Morgan, Horace M. Pherson, William Palmer and Eugene Parker. The children old enough played games out in the patio. Dainty refreshments were served about 4:30 o'clock.

Mrs. Terrill W. Fletcher of San Francisco entertained a few friends with a delightful afternoon Friday at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Sandison of Franklin avenue, where she has been a guest for the past two weeks. Pepper boughs and Shasta daisies effected appropriate house decorations. The young ladies brought their embroidery and a very pleasant afternoon was spent in sewing, conversation and music. About 5 o'clock a dainty lunch was served. Those present were Mesdames E. W. Sanderson, Edward N. Klarquist, George Curtis Mansfield, E. Jeffrey Gilleas, Ernest Clyde Learock, E. Paul Gray, Terrill W. Fletcher, Misses Edna Sanderson, Beatrice Chambers, Mabelle Lewis and Miss Maybell Sullivan of Toledo, O.

Alfred Wilkie was honored with a jolly surprise party given by the members of the Dramatic Club of the Church of the Blessed Sacrament last Saturday evening at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Albert L. Wilkie of No. 1781 Orlando street. A very pleasant evening was spent in music and dancing. Later Mrs. Wilkie served delicious refreshments.

Mrs. Albert E. Holmes of Pine drive gave a charming morning bridge, followed by a luncheon, in honor of Miss Louise Kimball of Kansas City, last Wednesday. The decorations and appointments were carried out in a red, white and blue scheme, suggestive of Fourth of July. A delicious luncheon was served at the card tables. Among those present were: Mmes. C. F. Edwards, J. H. Moulton, E. C. Gates, Fred Parker, E. H. Gaylord, Andrew Strong, C. H. Sharp, Everett Leaner of Los Angeles, Irving Bigger and Luther Firey of Kansas City, Miss Everts and Miss Burford.

Mrs. N. W. Stowell of No. 131 Sycamore entertained the members of the Ladies' Thimble Club at her home last Friday afternoon. Dainty refreshments were served after a most enjoyable afternoon.

Miss Margaret Sullivan gave a pretty luncheon recently at Ye Bungalow Tea Rooms in honor of Mrs. F. R. Pitner of Los Angeles, and Miss Theresa Fredericks of San Francisco. The centerpiece was a handsome group of pink sweet peas and fern. Hand-painted cards marked places for Mrs. Don Porter, Mrs. A. C. Hinckley of Berkeley, Mrs. Sam Porter, Mrs. Charles S. Mann, Mrs. Foster M. Price, Mrs. F. Coker of Los Angeles, Miss Katheryne Sullivan, the guest of honor and the hostess. During the afternoon cards were enjoyed.

Mrs. R. P. McJohnston, Mrs. Fannie Williams and Mrs. F. I. Wilson have returned from a northern trip, where they attended the biennial at San Francisco and spent several days enjoying the delights of Yosemite Valley.

Mr. and Mrs. L. Frank Baum will leave Monday for Chicago, where they will visit until September or October. They will be joined by their son, Kenneth, in August.

The Five Hundred Club were charmingly entertained at luncheon recently by Mrs. Charles S. Mann at her home in Laurel Canyon. Red and white carnations and flags were used to carry out the Fourth of July idea. Guest prizes went to Mrs. Ellis —Quantity! Yes, so great that we didn't jump to buy it, even at the strikingly low prices at which it was first offered to us.

—No, sir-ree—we were looking at it from your standpoint and ours — we knew what merchandising 81,363 yards of Wash Goods meant—the congestion it would create in the receiving room—and among other stocks—the handicap it would put upon service—especially in the present crowded condition of space.

—We hesitated—but over everything else glowed brilliantly "The Opportunity." "If we could buy the Wash Goods—at a price we decided upon—we could sell it at savings that would simply be irresistible."

—We made the offer—it was laughed at—we held firm—we knew what we knew, and that it would have to be a big, quick sale or none at all—then it was accepted.

—And now the Opportunity is Ready for Southern California Women—A sale that will go down in history for its values and its magnetism—will start in Bullock's Basement Store, Monday—at 9 in the morning—

Covina.

"LITTLE JAUNTS INTO BIG PLACES" was the title of a lecture by Dr. C. D. Williamson, held last Friday night in the building of the Monday Afternoon Club, closing a series of lectures that have been of more than usual interest. The lectures have been held under the direction of the Civics Committee of the club. The lecturer has delighted audiences with talks on the Yellowstone Park, Grand Canyon of the Colorado and the Yosemite.

Next Thursday is Covina Day in the women's missionary study classes that the churches of Los Angeles will hold all during the coming week. The Covina women will leave in a body on the 9:17 electric car, and will go to the First Methodist Church, in Los Angeles, where the classes are held.

Mrs. C. Fred Aschenbrenner has returned from a stay of two weeks at Coronado.

Mrs. Ada L. Reckard left this week to visit her daughter, Mrs. Lorin Huffman, in North Dakota. She will return in October.

Robert Parson, who has been the guest of his sister, Mrs. William Oxton, for several months, has returned to his home in Fort Dodge, Iowa.

Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Purcell are entertaining relatives, Mrs. Wharton and two children, from Colorado Springs.

Mrs. Andrew Banta returned a few days ago from a visit of two months to her parents in Butland, Mo.

Mrs. Frank M. Chapman, Sr., with daughter, Grace, have been spending a week in the Yosemite, and are now at Lake Tahoe.

Mrs. Robert B. Smith entertained about fifty members of the Embroidery Club this week, and the day was spent in picnicking beneath the trees of the home on Bonita avenue.

The home of Mr. and Mrs. F. W. Whittenbrock was the scene of a very pleasant surprise on Wednesday evening, when the neighbors gathered to celebrate Mr. Wittenbrock's birthday.

Mr. and Mrs. C. T. Blanchard had gathered about them the members of their family last Sunday, in honor of Mr. Blanchard's birthday. A birthday cake with eighty candles on it was a feature of the dinner.

New Tuberculosis Remedy Based on Medical Discovery

To say that a remedy acts in accordance with the latest discoveries of Consumption is a serious statement, but it is made by the proprietors of a medicine that has been the means of saving many a life in this and other homes, and is prescribed by many physicians in the treatment of Consumption.

Any diet that helps to build up the nourishment is the right one, but in addition to proper food, a number of Consumptives have found that [illegible] is the best medicine to use in connection with the food, as it helps digestion, and thus helps to improve the blood. Alterative is a word that means a change of this disease which has been considered fatal in a large majority of cases, but it has been proved by many that it is a positive cure.

"Questions and answers" pamphlet sent free upon request. Cut out this paragraph and say whether you have Consumption or not. I was then treated by a physician of this man's Alterative, which has been improved, and which is now of double strength, and I am entirely cured.

(Signed) Alberti

Eckman's Alterative contains Hypophosphites, Guaiacol, Wild Cherry Bark, Marrubium, Lung Tonic, Stillingia, Blood Purifier, Iodide of Potash, and other blood and habit-forming drugs. Sold by Owl Drug Company and druggists everywhere. Ask for Eckman's Alterative and write to Eckman Laboratory, Philadelphia, Pa., for additional testimonials.

The second of the series of teas given by the visiting Nurses' Association, was held at the home of Mrs. C. H. Reed, Sr., on Greystone avenue, Friday afternoon from 3 until 6 o'clock. The object of the meetings is

To Look and Feel Bright In Hot Weather

(From The Woman Beautiful)

This is the season when she who would have a roseleaf complexion, lily-white neck and hands, should turn her thoughts to mercolized wax, the firm friend of the summer girl. Nothing so effectually overcomes the soiling effects of sun, wind, dust and dirt. The wax literally absorbs the scorched, discolored, withered or coarsened cuticle, bringing forth a brand new skin, clear, soft and girlishly beautiful. It also unclogs the pores, removing blackheads and increasing the skin's breathing capacity. An ounce of mercolized wax, obtainable at any drug store, applied hightly like cold cream, and washed off mornings, will gradually improve the worst complexion.

When depressed by the heat and you want to freshen up for the evening, bathe the face in a lotion made by dissolving an ounce of powdered saxolite in a half pint witch hazel. You'll find this more refreshing than an hour's rest. It also smooths out fine lines, affecting even the deeper wrinkles.

TERRIBLE ITCHING AND BORNING

Very Sore Leg for Some Twenty Years. Obliged to Lie in Bed. In Spots Raw as Beef. Cuticura Soap and Ointment Cured.

1766 West 46th Ave., Denver, Colo.—"I had a very sore leg. It troubled me for some twenty years and finally broke out to a running sore with much fever and terrible itching and burning. It burned and itched so badly I could not rest day or night and was obliged to lie in bed. The sores were in spots just as raw as a piece of beef. I used medicine yet it wouldn't heal. Seeing the advertisement for Cuticura Soap and Ointment I immediately wrote for some. The immediate cure was more remarkable than I can describe. I was completely cured." (Signed) Mrs. Curry Brown, April 11, 1912.

DANDRUFF AND FALLING HAIR

Cured by Cuticura Soap and Ointment.

3821 Hoorer St., Los Angeles, Cal.—"After using Cuticura Soap and Ointment for two months for a very bad case of dandruff and falling hair I was entirely cured. My hair came out gradually. As a last resort I tried Cuticura Soap and Ointment. New hair seemed to come in almost immediately. Now my hair is thick, glossy and luxurious." (Signed) Mrs. C. M. Saner, Mar. 18, 1912.

Cuticura Soap and Cuticura Ointment are sold throughout the world. Liberal sample of each mailed free, with 32-p. Skin Book. Address post-card "Cuticura, Dept. T, Boston."

OCCASIONALLY we are asked why we refrain from advertising Prices. We always answer that quoting prices means nothing, unless the quality of the article itself is realized.

In the selection of a Diamond, or a Pearl Necklace, or a Cut Glass Bowl, or a Watch, or a Silver Service, or of innumerable other articles, we have always maintained that Price is secondary. It must be justified and within reason, of course. Its significance ends there.

Is there satisfaction in purchasing a "specially priced" Gem that is bound to later disappoint you? Or a Silver Set whose real Worth you may eventually have cause to doubt? Can a watch at a "tempting figure" carry the all-important Guarantee of Reliability?

We believe that Patrons of a Jewelry House of High Character invariably place Quality before Price. Quality lives, Price is forgotten—unless the Inferiority of the Article subsequently provokes you. Possibly you have experienced this. It should determine you to cause to this House of unquestioned Values for your next purchase.

We Always Welcome a Comparison of Values

Cards have been received here announcing the marriage of Miss Nelle L. LaBarre and John A. Mitchell of Pasadena, on the Fourth of July. They will reside at No. 272 Grant street, Pasadena. The bride is a former Redlands girl, being a daughter of John L. LaBarre. She attended the local schools and removed to Pasadena several years ago, when other members of the family took up their abode there.

A trio of Redlands women are contemplating a hiking trip with considerable pleasure. They are talking of going up to Oak Glen, taking along a burro to carry their camping impedimenta. They will stop as often as they please and have set no time for the length of their outing. Mrs. May Willis, one of the company, owns up to being 64 years of age; the others, Mrs. J. S. Riggs and Mrs. Eva Dewey, are younger.

Glendale.

CUPID has been busy in Glendale during the past week, this time six of this city's young people falling victims to his darts. Miss Ethel Tucker, formerly of St. Louis, and Norman F. Evans were married, the ceremony taking place at Hollywood, Rev. Welch, pastor of the East Hollywood M. E. Church, officiating. Mr. and Mrs. Evans leave August 1 for a short honeymoon trip, after which they will take up their residence at this place. Miss Mable A. Marvin, daughter of Elder C. F. Marvin of the Glendale Sanatorium, was married to Robert McKeag, the ceremony taking place in the dining-room of the sanatorium, Elder Sartee, formerly a teacher of the young people at Loma Linda, performing the ceremony. Two hundred friends of the young people were present. Mr. and Mrs. McKeag are graduates of Loma Linda school, and will leave at once for Hawaii, where they will take up the sanatorium work. At the home of Mrs. Anna L. Smith of Riverdale drive, Miss Hazel Dawes and Rufus R. Strode were united in marriage. The ceremony was performed by Rev. O. H. L. Mason, pastor of the Presbyterian Church of Long Beach. Mr. and Mrs. Gus Murphy of Long Beach were the attendants. The young couple left at once for Artesia, where they will make their home.

SULPHURRO

(READ THE BOOKLET)

MEDICINE PROVES BOON TO VETERANS OF THE CIVIL WAR

Introduced in Maine Soldiers' Home and Relieves Defenders of the Country.

Precious Remedy Among the Old Soldiers.

Maine Soldiers' Home.
The C. M. C. Stewart Sulphur Co.,
Seattle, Wash.:

Gentlemen: By the time the druggists have Sulphurro here for sale I will have it well introduced into the Home. Those who have used it think there is nothing like it.

We had one comrade here who was so used up with rheumatism he could hardly walk. I let him have some Sulphurro and I never saw such a change in a man as there is in him. He would not be without it.

I suffered with rheumatism so badly before I began taking Sulphurro I could not put on my coat without help. Now the pain is all gone. Yours truly, (Signed) A. H. ARNOLD.

Seattle, Wash., July 13.

It is a pleasure to receive such word from a defender of the country in the days when it was greatest in danger. He and his comrades in distant Maine will long be grateful for the coming of Sulphurro among them to allay their sufferings and bring them health again.

Every day sees Sulphurro accomplishing more for humanity. Like waves upon a body of water, its beneficent influence is spreading farther and farther away. Sulphurro at all druggists; bottles 50 cents and $1.00. Send for free booklet to the C. M. Stewart Sulphurro Co., 71 Columbia St., Seattle.

HERE IS PROOF!

Read this letter carefully. The Southern California Home Builders is recognized as one of the strongest and largest home construction concerns in America. The fact that this strong organization has decided to put No Ice Refrigerators in every home they build for the next three years is a triumph for the manufacturers of this great Utility. This additional order for 600 No Ice Refrigerators means that our present facilities are more than ever swamped—it is imperative that the new factory be built immediately.

SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA HOME BUILDERS

LOS ANGELES OFFICES 410 WEST SIXTH STREET — SAN DIEGO OFFICES 1034 SIXTH STREET

Los Angeles, July 10th, 1912.

No Ice Refrigerator Co.,
424 S. Broadway
Los Angeles
Gentlemen:-

Enclosed we hand you orders and shipping instructions for the first three on our contract for six hundred No Ice Refrigerators.

These refrigerators, as you will note, are to go to Coronado Island and are not a part of the seventy-nine refrigerators on which we will commence to call for delivery within a few days.

These latter are for our 33rd Street tract, Los Angeles.

We also expect to call for five refrigerators to be shipped to Venice, and thirty-four more to be shipped to San Diego.

These are all to be No. 1. size.

Please acknowledge and also say how much notice you must have before making deliveries.

Very truly yours,

SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA HOME BUILDERS.

Vice-Pres.

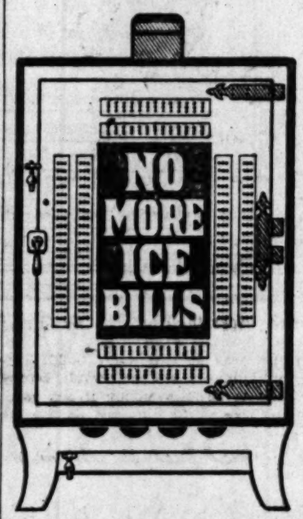
You Could Ask No More Convincing Evidence That the

No Ice Refrigerator

Is a REAL Utility—That Must Soon Become Part of Every Modern Home

We predict that it will be but a matter of months before every builder, every architect and every home owner will include the No Ice Refrigerator in their specifications. This Utility belongs to the people—and we want the people to get the benefit. You are, indeed, a fortunate individual in being able to subscribe for this stock now—in a little while it will be impossible to obtain it at any price.

Shares $100 Each



Just consider what the No Ice Refrigerator means to humanity. It means that household ice bills will soon be a thing of the past. This is an article that saves money and does something better than it is now being done—and that means great profits for investors.

Please remember that the No Ice Refrigerator is not an experiment—it stands today absolutely perfect—doing its work better than ice-consuming refrigerators ever could do.

There has been a strong and steady demand for No Ice Refrigerator Company shares. We are selling this stock to a class of investors who realise that here at last is a genuine investment of real merit—an opportunity to participate in the kind of profits that came to the manufacturers of the sewing machine, the telephone and other real Utilities.

You can buy these shares, either for cash or on installment payments of $10 or more monthly. There is no interest charge on deferred payments.

ONE of the happiest events of the past week was the gathering of more than fifty friends and neighbors at "Colwell," the foothill home of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Carter, on Thursday afternoon and evening. A note of patriotism was evidenced in the display of flags, and the merry company, after being cordially welcomed by Mr. and Mrs. Carter and their charming family, spent the afternoon in social circles on the porch and in the garden, while the younger set enjoyed tennis or swimming in the pool. A 5 o'clock supper was served al fresco, and the repast was enlivened by the telling of gay tales and stories apropos. The evening was spent with music and games.

Wednesday Rev. and Mrs. Milliken, Mr. and Mrs. Strambough, Mr. nd Mrs. C. A. Shrode and Mr. and Mrs. William Beardslee formed a happy automobile party, who enjoyed an outing at Long Beach.

The closing game of a season of delightful meetings, held by the ladies and gentlemen of the Buena Vista Whist Club, was enjoyed Thursday evening at the ranch home of Mr. and Mrs. E. S. Hulme, on South Buena Vista avenue. Beautiful pink and green decorations prevailed in the large living-room, where Mr. and Mrs. Hulme received, and, after a social hour, the guests adjourned to the cardroom, where, later in the evening, supper was served. Those invited included Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Radabaugh, Mr. and Mrs. W. K. Shaw, Mr. and Mrs. J. Allen Munro, Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Ryder, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Church, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Story Hulme, Mr. and Mrs. E. D. Northup, Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Sarwine, Mr. and Mrs. William Beardslee, Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Shrode, Mmes. Ludie Cross, Alice Lewis Castello and the Misses Edith Morgan and Aileen Northup.

Among the members of the Hillside Tennis Club who attended the tournament and social events at the Country Club at Beverly Hills were the Misses Alice Scott, Eva Young and Marjorie Maddock and Messrs. Will Bacon and Gerald Young. Miss Scott won the woman's championship for the meet and gained the cup as her trophy. Young and Bacon's brilliant playing also attracted much attention.

The thirty-five ladies of the Duarte Reading Circle were entertained Tuesday afternoon between the hours of two and five by Mrs. Andrew Ryder at her handsome new home on Buena Vista avenue. The hostess was assisted in receiving by her daughter, Mrs. Freeland H. Hunter, in rooms gay with huge pink hydrangeas and masses of Shasta daisies and greenery. The programme was provided by Mmes. R. O. Blain and Frank Carter during the social hour, which Astonishing!

A Waist Surprise at $2.50

—A very special purchase makes possible this paragraph—

—Hundreds of fairly tantalizing waists—in such a variety of exquisite styles—each one seems prettier than the one before—every one is underprice—
—Blouses of Marquisette—of Crepe—Batiste and Lingerie—High neck, long or ¾ sleeve styles. Some of them with hand-embroidered fronts—others bewilderingly rich, embellished with the daintiest of lace and tucks—
—Every waist this waist specialist had left—came to us at a saving. No woman should miss the opportunity, at $2.50.
—Then there are bewitching new styles in Silk Shirts for $3.50. They should be priced—but, just see them Monday. You'll recognize their unusualness at once.

Newest of All New Hats

—The Velours—straight from the Boulevards and Fashion's Promenades they come to Bullock's first. As all new Hats have the habit of coming—

—Soft as finest fur—as pretty and becoming. Those crush shapes that women love so well. Just put one on and it's beautiful—capable of so many variations—no wonder women of Paris and New York have gone quite wild over them—
—Lustrous effects in softest summer shades of rose, lavendar, blue, tan, reseda, red, gold, white or black—six styles—8 or 9 colors in each style—$12.50, $13.75 and $15.00. Don't fail to see them at Bullock's, Monday.

It's the "Le Robespierre"

—The very newest—most chic of new neckwear creations—It's in "Black and White"—

—Because black and white is the vogue. You should see the new Neckwear being shown now at Bullock's—an almost bewildering display of Fashions that are newer than any others that California has seen. Fresh from the Ateliers of the Fairies who wave the magic wand—
—There are Robespierre collars in black satin, with jabots of net and lace; new high collar effects with opening at throat, finished with frilling at bottom; tailored pique stocks, with black turnovers; bows and button effects. A remarkable range that every woman should see on Monday.

—But you will have to wait till you see the beauty of the Dresses themselves to realize their unusualness—$12.50, $15.00 and $25.00.

—Three prices—every one of which is the symbol for values extraordinary—enough to warrant a big advertisement of their own. Dozens of Dresses concerned—from plain tailored to most elaborate styles, of Linen, Ratine, Lingerie and other cool midsummer materials. Dresses that were designed to grace the most select stocks of the country—[and whose sisters may now be found scattered far and wide through the best stores of the United States at regular prices]—are to be sold much under the prices they were made to sell for—

—Our buyer's recent eastern trip was so singularly opportune—The purchases he made were so brilliantly unusual—from the standpoint of character, style, individuality and before all, economy—They should stand out so strongly from among the range of usual values, that without newspaper announcement of any sort, they should create a period of unusual selling—and with these simple statements—coupled to the lure of the illustrations above—they should gather such selling force as to bring throngs and throngs of women to see them—
—For all that women wish to know in the case of value like these, is that they are here—and this advertisement will spread the news.

At $12.50

followed tea, and needlework was the diversion.

Among the Duarte folk who are away on midsummer outings are Capt. W. W. Bacon and A. T. Bixin, who are at Crystal Lake; Miss Venola Marquis at Ocean Park, Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Wilson and daughter at San Diego, Mr. and Mrs. Godfrey Storrs and family at Santa Monica, Joseph Fowler and Thomas Glenny at Merced and Messrs. W. K. Shaw, C. H. Sarwine, G. A. Kinsman and C. H. Sheldon in Riverside county.

Fish Canyon, Duarte's favorite picnic ground, has recently been the scene of several happy gatherings. Tuesday evening about thirty young people from the Christian Church made a pilgrimage there in an improvised tallyho and enjoyed a campfire supper, with after-dinner songs and speeches. The ride home through the orange groves of Duarte was one of the jolly features of an event replete with happy surprises.

Saturday evening Mrs. C. Henry Sarwine entertained in the Garden of Oakleigh with a pleasant lawn supper party, complimentary to the young ladies of the Philathea Circle, who had as their guests of honor Miss Ruth Thompson of Las Cruces, N. M., Miss Abigail Clark, who recently returned from Hawaii, and Miss Clarine Norton of Kansas City. The lawn and shady recesses under the giant oaks were prettily lighted, and after a chicken supper the young ladies spent an enjoyable evening with the honorees and their hostess.

ON Saturday Mrs. J. H. Anderson and her sister, Miss M. Neel of Los Angeles, gave a luncheon at the home of Mrs. Anderson, to a number of old Illinois friends. Those present were: Mesdames B. R. Owens of Garvanza, Berkeley of Edendale, Currier of Los Angeles, and Miss Cora Watkins of Silent Park.

On Wednesday, Mrs. Robert E. Smith entertained the Embroidery Club with a picnic at her ranch-home. Fifty ladies were present.

On Tuesday, the Sunday school of the Presbyterian Church held its annual picnic at Fish Canyon.

Miss Bessie Barker left on Saturday for Sultana, Cal., to spend a month with her friend, Mrs. C. S. Tout.

Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Gordon of Los Angeles are spending a few days with their father, Capt. John T. Gordon.

On Thursday evening, a large number of friends of Mr. and Mrs. William J. Cudmore, who were recently married, gathered at their house on Dalton avenue and surprised them with a miscellaneous shower.

Miss Frances Cheatham of Los Angeles spent a few days this week with her friend, Mrs. Hugh R. Bierboger.

On Monday evening, the anniversary of the birthday of Mrs. J. W. Calvert, Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Smith, Mr and Mrs. C. D. Griffiths, Mr and Mrs. R. F. Blankenship, and Miss Blankenship, prepared a picnic dinner in a eucalyptus grove on San Gabriel avenue, to which they invited Mrs. Calvert and her family.

Mrs. J. T. Gordon is spending a few weeks the guest of old Minnesota friends in and around San Francisco. While there, she will attend a series of lectures being given at the summer school of the University of California by her old-time friend, Prof. Marin L. Sanford of the University of Minnesota.

Mrs. O. N. Raney and Mrs. Leffler, of Los Angeles, are visiting the family of their son and grandson, Harry B. Raney.

Miss Blankenship, of Glendora, is the guest of Mrs. C. L. Smith.

Mr. and Mrs. Morgan J. Pierce spent a few days this week at their San Gabriel Canyon home, "The Oaks."

On Saturday evening, Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Barnhard entertained about twenty of their friends at cards.

Miss Elizabeth Robinson is spending a few days with friends in Mojave.

ACTIVE WOMEN.

Mrs. Carrie Chapman Catt, president of the International Suffrage Convention, will have completed a tour of the world in October, having made no less than 1000 suffrage speeches on the journey. It is said that she paid all the expenses of her own trip.

Miss Constance F. Gordon-Cumming, the famous traveler and author, who recently celebrated her seventy-fifth anniversary, spends much of her time working for the mission to the Chinese blind and illiterate. She began traveling in 1863, and was the first white woman to make any attempt at exploration among the Himalayas. For twelve years she journeyed, visiting many countries of the globe. Her home is at Chieff, Scotland.

Frau Marie F. Knapp, after a service of more than thirty-one years, has retired from her position as professor of German in Smith College.

Mrs. Mary Hartman, 65 years old, a resident of Benbow City, Mo., mowed two acres of timothy hay with a scythe. Mrs. Hartman not only can swing a scythe, but she can handle a pitchfork and lift large bundles of hay up in the frame where it is being stacked.

Mrs. Wilson Woodrow, author of "Sally Salt," has a great deal of trouble explaining her name, which is so similar to that of a prominent politician. Her husband is a cousin of the Governor of New Jersey.

Mrs. Lillian Glenner Scher, who entered the McKinley High School, Chicago, at the age of 22, has just graduated, and will become a student in the University of Chicago next fall. The High School course was finished in three years and a half. At the age of 11 she was forced to leave school and earn her own living, and at 16 she was married. Determining to complete her education, she waited four years before the opportunity came, and then took up sixth grade work. Three grades were finished in four months. While attending school she did her own housework and made her own clothes.

Miss Florence McArdle, a senior at Boston University, is in charge of the girls' department of the students' employment bureau. This year about 100 women students have been supplied with work. Boston University was one of the first colleges to realize the value of an employment bureau for its students.

THE UNCHLOROFORMED.

Mrs. Susan Look Avery of Louisville, Ky., 95 years old, is the oldest suffragette and one of the most remarkable women of her years in the world. Recently she was asked to say something about the cause of woman's suffrage. "I quit talking about suffrage seventy-five years ago and went to work for it," she said, with a smile.

Mrs. Elizabeth Harris, 98 years old, of Salem, Me., has just completed the embroidery of a bureau scarf of fancy scroll work one and a quarter yards long and twelve inches wide, and it is said to be an excellent piece of work. Mrs. Harris still does considerable work about her home and cares for her own room. She is a great reader and seldom has to use spectacles.

Germany's oldest poet, Herr Heinrich Zeise, has just celebrated his ninety-seventh birthday in Altona. Although he has become deaf and blind, Zeise's poetical gifts have not been seriously impaired, and he still dictates lengthy poems to his grandchildren.

Henry Smallwood, aged 91, formerly employed as a chairmaker of High Wycombe, near London, Eng., has 152 descendants living, including ninety-three grandchildren and seven great-great-grandchildren. He has a brother aged 92 and a sister aged 80

Newark, N. J., has a book agent who has reached the century mark. He is George Clinton Paine, 100 years old on July 9, last. In the Oranges, Montclair and Newark Mr. Paine and his stout hickory stick are a familiar sight.

Henry Weddle, an early settler of Johnson county, Kansas, at the age of 91 still swings the scythe. Recently, on several occasions he has carried this old-time farm implement on his back out to his great pasture and cut a wagonload of hay just for the fun of it. Mr. Wedd owns a farm worth more than $100,000. He raises cattle and hogs and always accompanies the shipments to the Kansas City market. There he goes about pens and buys feeders and ships them out to his farm.

Canon Gadenne, a French parish priest in the Pas de Calais, celebrated his one hundred and sixth birthday by partaking of a six-course dinner with Monsignor Delaunaire, coadjutor of Cambrai, who is bordering on his ninetieth year. The canon is probably the most wonderful centenarian alive. He says mass daily at 6 a.m., enjoys a bottle of wine and visits the sick of his parish.

HER HANDS AND ARMS MADE MARVELOUSLY BEAUTIFUL IN A SINGLE NIGHT.

Free Prescription Did It.

Grace Benson says: "Had anyone told me such wonderful results could be accomplished so quickly, I postively would not have believed it. My arms and hands were covered with freckles; my neck was dark and wrinkled from the use of high collars; my hands were tanned and the knuckles red.

"All these defects were removed by one application of a free prescription, which I am pleased to give to anyone. It's just as simple as it is effective. Go to any drug store and a one-ounce bottle of Kuiux Compound. Pour the entire bottle of get an empty two-ounce bottle and one-quarter ounce of witch hazel and fill with water. Prepare this prescription at your own home, then you know you are getting it right. Apply night and morning.

"It makes the skin soft and beautiful, no matter how rough and ungainly your hands and arms are. One application will astonish you. I have given this prescription to thousands of women and they are all just as enthusiastic as I am. Try it on your neck and shoulders and you will be agreeably surprised."

PECULIAR PEOPLE.

Miss Burnham, a school teacher in a Grand Isle (Vt.) school, lost her watch in a snowdrift in the schoolyard last fall and was unable to find it. Last week the snowdrift melted away and the teacher found her watch, undamaged except for a broken crystal.

David J. Winder, a Chicago cobbler, found diamonds valued at $5000 in the toe of a shoe he was about to repair. They belonged to a wealthy woman, to whose maid they were returned. The maid attempted to thrust a $5 bill into the hands of the cobbler, but he waved it aside, with the comment: "I'll be satisfied with being honest."

Mr. and Mrs. George Carter started on their honeymoon from Croton Lake, twelve years ago. They got back recently. They went West, intending to return in a month, but liked Spokane, Wash., so well that Carter took up chemistry and they remained there.

Samuel Newell, trustee of Fairview township, Stafford county, Kansas, has found a way to abolish mudholes in the public roads. There was a stretch of road in the township that was impassable most of the time on account of mudholes. Newell placed a lot of dynamite in the roads and the explosion loosened up the subsoil, causing the water to disappear. This road is now reported to be as smooth as a paved street.

Thirty-seven years of railway service without a serious accident was the unique record of John Fellows, a Chicago engineer, which was suddenly broken when his locomotive overturned, killing him instantly. Among his fellow-employees the victim was known as "the engineer who never had an accident."

Fred Englehard of St. Louis bought a little willow table from a peddler about six months ago and placed it in his parlor. Monday morning, when Mrs. Englehard was cleaning the room she noticed that the legs of the table had begun to sprout. She called her husband's attention to it, and he took the table out and set it in a tub of water. The sprouts are growing rapidly, and Mr. Englehard says he expects the table will soon be covered with leaves.

Miss Dorothy B. Durkee of Worcester on looking over some shoes which she was about to take to be repaired, discovered imbedded in the sole of one of them a diamond worth about $100. Miss Durkee intends to wear the diamond set in a ring.

Gladness.

Unto my gladness then I cried:
"I will not be denied!
Answer me now; and tell me why
Thou dost not fail, as a broken star
Out of the dark where such things are,
And where such bright things die.
How canst thou, with thy fountain dance
Shatter clear sight with radiance?—
How canst thou reach and soar, and fling,
Over my heart's dark shuddering,
Unearthly lights on everything?
What dost thou see? What dost thou know?"
My gladness said to me, bowed low,
"Gladness I am: created so."

"And dare'st thou, in my mortal veins
Sing, with the spring's descending rains?
While in this hour, and momently,
Forth of myself I look, and see
Torn treasure of my heart's desire;
And human glories in the mire,
That should make glad some paradise!—
The childhood strewn in foulest place,
The girlhood, plundered of its grace;
The eyelids shut upon spent eyes
That never looked upon thy face!
Answer me, thou, if answer be!"

My gladness said to me:
"Weep if thou wilt; yea, weep, and doubt.
I may not let the sun go out."
Then to my gladness still I cried:
"And how canst thou abide?—
Here, where my listening heart must hark
These sorrows rising from the dark
Where still they starve, and strive and die,
Who bear each heaviest penalty
Of humanhood—nor grasp, nor guess,
The garment's hem of happiness!—
The spear-wound throbbing in my song,
It throbs more bitterly than wrong,—
It burns more wildly than despair,—
The will to share,
The will to share!
Little I knew—the blindfold I,—
Joy would become like agony,—
Like arrows of the sun in me!

I hold thee here. I have thee now—
And I am human. But what art thou!"
My gladness answered me:
Wayfarer, wilt thou understand?—
Follow me on. And keep my hand."

Miss Carolyn Black of Cincinnati, who has been teaching in the agricultural department of the University of New Hampshire, has made discoveries in regard to the protection of potatoes during growth, which is said to be of great valu

OVER THE SEA.

Prof. F. Omori of Tokio, has invented a seismograph that seems to be a wonder. "It is capable," we are told, "of registering the velocity of all seismic shocks two hundred fold. It is arranged to give a complete record of every particular of an earthquake movement which may occur in any part of the world."

Mrs. Cheape of Worcestershire, England, was for a good many years the only woman master of the hounds in the British Isles. This season there are 21. Three are masters of foxhounds, twelve of harriers and six of beagles.

Mrs. Despard's plan for a "hatless brigade" in England, for the boycotting of milliners till suffrage is granted, has encountered the opposition of the church. One ecclesiastic is quoted as saying that whatever her views on suffrage, "a woman must certainly have her head covered in church or the church wardens would refuse her admission."

In fair weather, on long voyages, Princess Patricia of Connaught is busy on deck, painting or doing some simple handicraft. Much of this work finds its way later to charity bazaars, whose proceeds it materially helps. On a brief yachting trip she viewed a gorgeous sunset; to let such opportunity go unimproved was out of the question. Her color box was there, but brushes had been forgotten. Not a moment could be lost if her sketch would be completed. Calling excitedly for the doctor, he came running. "Your brushes, quick, please—the kind you paint people's throats with." And so the situation was saved.

There is continued rejoicing among progressive Frenchwomen because of the appointment of Mademoiselle Edmee Chandon as assistant astronomer at the observatory of Paris. Mlle. Chandon is the first Frenchwoman who has ever been appointed to the position of official astronomer.

Emil Sauer, on whom the French government has just conferred the Legion of Honor, is the first German pianist who has ever been so distinguished.

The Essex (England) Agricultural Society has awarded a long-service premium in husbandry to James Foster, aged 85, who has been employed at New House farm for seventy-two years.

Miss Diamond Hardinge, daughter of Lord Hardinge, viceroy of India, is the youngest girl who has ever served the Queen of England as maid of honor. She is only 12 years old, and while she is attending school will be called several times a year to attend the Queen, who is very fond of the little girl.

Viscount Tajiri of Japan, recently decorated by the Emperor with the second highest order, likes to dress in khaki, and goes about the streets in the garb of a poor man. He is president of the audit board and a member of the faculty of the Imperial University. In rain or snow he goes to his classes on foot, though he might easily own a costly equipage. He is the author of many books on economics and finance, and is regarded as one of the best authorities in Japan on these subjects.

Wakao Ippei, the wealthiest man in the province of Yamanashi, Japan, did not learn to read until he was 60 years of age, nor had he up to that time begun to accumulate his present great fortune. At one time he was a ragpicker. His first real business venture was the purchase of crystal balls, which sold at a good profit. After reaching the age of 60 he engaged a tutor in Chinese, classics, etc., study he pursued until his death a year. He is now 88.

Ruptured People— Try This for Relief and Cure

Here is something you can try sixty days without having to risk a single cent of your money.

Something which has cured—in the last twenty-four years—thousands of ruptured people—

Something so strengthening to the ruptured parts that you can work right along while being cured—

If you don't find yourself getting better after trying a Cluthe Truss or Cluthe Automatic Massager—

If you don't think it's doing you a lot of good—making a new man of you—

Then we don't want a penny.

Try It 60 Days at Our Risk.

This is more than a truss—more than merely a device to hold your rupture in place.

For your protection we guarantee in writing that a Cluthe Truss will keep your rupture from coming out—when you are working, exercising, taking a bath (this truss is waterproof)—every minute of the day. If a 60 days' trial doesn't prove it, the truss won't cost you a cent.

You see this truss—unlike all others—is self-adjusting, self-regulating.

The support it gives automatically increases when there is any sudden movement or strain—as in working—so no strain can force your rupture out.

And, in addition, a Cluthe Truss provides the only way ever discovered for overcoming the weakness which is the real cause of rupture.

While relieving the weak ruptured parts of all strain, this Truss is constantly strengthening the ruptured parts.

Does that by automatically massaging them—this healing massage does for these parts what exercise does for a weak arm—restores their lost strength—in many cases makes them so strong that a truss is no longer needed.

Curing Begins at Once

This massage is so beneficial that nearly all feel better and stronger—get immediate relief—after trying this truss.

So beneficial that a Cluthe Truss has cured some of the worst cases on record—

Among them men and women 50 to 70 years old, who had been ruptured from 25 to 50 years.

Cured many of them after everything else, including operation, had failed to do any good whatever.

Our Expense If It Fails

You are making the whole test. If you let any doubts or past disappointments keep you from finding out what a Cluthe Truss can do for you.

Remember that we ask you to risk no chances—

We'll make a truss according to your case and send it to you and allow you a sixty days' trial to prove that it will cure your rupture—that it will put an end to the trouble you've been letting bad and worse your condition. If the trial fails to do this, we'll be the losers, not you.

Get World's Greatest Rupture Book Free

So that you can judge for yourself what we want to send you a free book we have written—a cloth-bound book of 150 pages—which physicians who have read it say is the greatest book ever written on Rupture.

It sums up all we have learned about rupture in forty years of experience—in the case of over 250,000 cases. It deals with rupture in all its forms and stages—explains the principles of operations—exposes the worthlessness of many and the equally worthless methods of many others quarreling under such names as "appliance," "method," "system."

It puts you on guard against being misled by others on things that can't stand a close test.

And it tells all about the Cluthe Truss—how little it costs—how it avoids the expense on account of its remarkable success—how thousands have found this truss the only comfortable and reliable way to wear a truss—no leg-straps—never gives you a sore spot—no elastic band to stretch—no buckles to get out of order—no leg-straps—never gives you a sore spot—no elastic band to stretch—no buckles to get out of order—no springs to make sore at the hips—no pads to chafe—no steel springs to make sore at the hips—no pads to chafe—no steel springs to make sore at the hips—no pads to chafe—no steel

Our Expense If It Fails

You are making the mistake of your life you let any doubts or past disappoint-nts keep you from finding out what a Cluthe n do for you.

Remember that we ask you to take no chance—

We'll make a truss especially to fit you and send it to you and allow you a full trial to prove that it will hold you in ease—that it will pull as and to the exact spot where you've heretofore had and need support, and under conditions, if the trial fails to prove this, we'll be the losers, not you.

The World's Greatest Rupture Remedy

Now that you can judge for yourself we want to send you a free book we have written—a cloth-bound book of sixty pages with physicians who have read it say it's the best book ever written on Rupture.

In it we sum up all we have learned about Rupture in forty years of day-after-day experience—in the successful treatment of over 600 cases. It deals with rupture in all its forms and stages—explains the mechanical principles—exposes the worthless methods—describes the equally worthless appliances—tells of the cheating under such names as "appliance,"
"method," "system," "plastron," "elastic" and the like—puts you on guard against throwing away your money on things that can't stand a fair test—and tells all about the Cluthe truss and it tells all about it, costs—how it ends rupture—and why a little over a little it costs—how it ends rupture—and why a little it costs—how it ends rupture—and why a little

WOMEN'S WORK, WOMEN'S CLUBS

BY SYDNEY FORD.

Miss Margaret Henderson,
One of the Y.W.C.A. chaperons at Switzer's Falls, where a summer camp for girls has been established.

TOMORROW morning bright and early, on the 7 o'clock car, twenty young women in picturesque khaki bloomers and middy blouses, with gunny sacks slung over their shoulders will depart from the Pacific Electric station en route to Switzer's Falls and the joys of camp life under the sycamores. 'Tis the second installment of Y.W.C.A. girls bound for the association camp. The first went up last week—the juniors—a party of the happiest little women you ever saw, chaperoned by Miss Margaret Henderson and Miss Sue Barnwell of the Y.W.C.A., secretarial force.

And the messages that have come down from that camp—and the calls for elastic—are something appalling.

"I fell in the stream and tore my bloomers and broke my garters," writes one, "if there are any extra black bloomers floating around the Y.W., send 'em up quick—and, oh! we are longing for elastic—yards of it—we saw two snakes and a l-o-n-g lizard. P.S. Don't forget the garters."

An important adjunct of the camp is "Auntie," the chef, a delightful colored cook whom Miss Barnwell unearthed and who is proving about the most popular one in camp owing to her toothsome dishes. "Auntie" cheerfully turned flapjacks for fourteen, but when the number of her happy family increased to twice that number, "Auntie" balked on the flapjack practice and substituted "cohn bread" which literally melts in your mouth.

The pioneer party last week met with several adventures en route to camp. When about half way up the arroyo, "Jack," the burro, in spite of his load of 100 pounds of suit cases and bundles, turned frisky and showed signs of retreat to civilized centers.

"Just tie him to that tree, Auntie, while I go back and hustle up those girls—they're lagging down in the canyon," directed the chaperone as she turned back on the trail.

"Auntie" grew a trifle pale at the prospect of being left alone, and her teeth began to chatter. "Say, honey," she quavered, "you doan 'spose, do you, that there's any bandits in dese yere mountings?"

Arrived at camp, Jack was relieved of his burden and one of the chaperones who had cheerfully shouldered her share of baggage in the shape of a gunny sack supposed to be full of gymnasium suits, was amazed at her own muscle when she discovered that the sack contained instead, one meat grinder, ten books, 1000 paper plates, two pairs of shoes, eight roller towels, a basket full of sewing materials and a big roll of raffia. She has more respect for her muscle than ever before.

Miss Margaret Henderson distinguished herself on Friday by walking the thirteen miles from camp to Pasadena as she was in a hurry and the stage didn't come down till 6 o'clock p.m. She reached Pasadena at 4:30 o'clock—in time to send up fresh vegetables to camp on the stage. The trip didn't feaze her a bit. She declared that the only thing she regretted was a fish line as she saw five fine speckled trout sporting in the stream as she crossed and recrossed the arroyo. There are no less than thirty-eight crossings 'twixt Pasadena and the camp.

The camp will be open for several weeks and on application at association headquarters girls can secure accommodations at this ideal spot at small expenditure as it is designed as a vacation resort for self-supporting girls.

A Veteran Educator.

Prof. Maria L. Sanford, of the University of Minnesota, will be the speaker at the Women's City Club tomorrow. She is a veteran in the educational field having been engaged in teaching for half a century.

Restoring the Home of "Little Women."

The Concord Woman's Club of New England has done a valiant thing in deciding the fate of Orchard House, the home of Louisa M. Alcott, and likewise of those famous "Little Women," Meg, Beth, Jo and Amy, familiar to all juvenile and adult readers of the best in fiction. The Woman's Club has bought the old brown house under the elms at Concord, and is restoring it as nearly as possible to the state in which it was when the Alcott family filled it with philosophy, private theatricals and household joys, in the language of the Spectator in the Outlook, who has recently paid a visit to the place, and who declares that the singularity of its plan beggars description.

The clubwomen turned loose a corps of carpenters with instructions to restore the old mansion exactly as it was, and 2500 people came before the house was ready, just to see the bare rooms with the carpenters in them. There are such crowds who pay pilgrimages to this shrine that it requires a committee of clubwomen constantly on hand to show them about.

When a house has a large set of hall-stairs coming calmly down one side of its dining-room, anything else may be expected, comments the Spectator. In explanation of this freak of architectural plans, one of the committee women says that Mr. Alcott bought two old houses which were on the place. One was 200 years old, much older than the other, as one can see by the broad boards in the floors, and other oddities. He put the two houses together, turning the back one sideways—this accounts for the queer position of the stairway in the dining-room which was only one of the by-products that enlivened the architectural result. Such a double-headed house of course has no plan, and is therefore delightfully unconventional—as were the "Little Women" who lived in it.

The Concord Club women hope in time to reassemble the Alcott furnishings and belongings which have been scattered far and wide. Miss Alcott's favorite nephew—one of the "Little Men"—has undertaken the task of reproducing Miss Alcott's room just as he remembers it.

May Alcott—the "Amy" of the book, has left her sign manual all over the house in the shape of graceful sketches and drawings, mostly of a classic turn. In her room the pretty paper with the blue band, which "Little Women" tells about, has been restored. Under the window in this room which faced the dawn, Amy drew a spirited cartoon of Guido's "Aurora," and nymphs, and heroes look out from every panel in the walls, while Thorwaldsen's "Night" and "Morning" look across at each other from opposite sides. Heavy sheets of glass have been placed over these precious reproductions to prevent vandals from taking off bits as souvenirs.

She Revolutionized School System.

Dr. Cornelia B. Du Bey, who was the attendant physician at the bedside of the late Mrs. Sarah Platt Decker, during her recent fatal illness in San Francisco, is a Dutch physician who revolutionized the school system of Chicago, says the Woman's National Weekly, and did a great deal to keep the children of the packing-house and factory districts in school. When she found a high board fence around the factory grounds and the gate locked, she gathered up her skirts, which are not of the hobble kind by any means, and climbed over the fence. She got into the factory and found the children at work and proved her case by her own evidence.

Prominent Women Speak.

An exceptional programme was enjoyed by the women of the First Congregational Church at their monthly missionary meeting last Thursday when three women prominent in the work were present and gave addresses.

There was Mrs. S. E. Hurlbut, treasurer of the Woman's Board of Missions of the Interior, which has its headquarters in Chicago and handles practically $200,000 a year. Mrs. Hurlbut resides in Evanston and was in Los Angeles some two years ago on her return from a tour around the world inspecting missions. Her address was listened to with great interest.

Then there was her sister, Miss Lucy Walker, president of the Wisconsin branch of the mission board. She stands at the head of the Wisconsin work and travels from one end of the State to the other in the interest of missions.

Mrs. Baker, missionary and minister in the Hawaiian Islands, was the third speaker. Eight years ago, in company with her son, a graduate of the Yale Theological School, she went out to what has been called "the loneliest spot in all the world"—a height on the Island of Hawaii, the largest of the group, being twice the area of all the other islands. There is a population of 60,000 edging the coast of this volcanic island where the native Hawaiians live in the most primitive fashion. This watchtower on the lonely height, established there eight years ago by Mrs. Baker and her son, is now a thriving little village and the center of a parish that reaches for miles out into the surrounding country. Every alternate Sabbath Mrs. Baker preaches while her son holds service in another part of his parish.

Mrs. H. G. Brainerd led the meeting in the absence of the president, Mrs. Mary Porter Haines, who is in the East.

Called Home by Death.

Harriet Bishop Waters, editor of the General Federation Bulletin, who has been stopping at the home of her aunt, Mrs. Frank Wise, No. 1030 Ingraham street, en route from the biennial to her home in Troy, N. Y., received a telegram on Friday announcing the sudden death of her mother. Mrs. Waters started for home immediately after.

Miss Sayre to Return.

There is great rejoicing in Y.W.C.A. circles over the return of Miss Ludema Sayre from Washington, D. C., where she has been most successfully engaged in association work for the past few years. Miss Sayre returns to act as extension secretary here, the present scretary, Miss Sue Barnwell, leaving the end of this month for New York, where she will enter the national training school. Before going East, Miss Sayre served as assistant extension secretary under Miss Neva Chappell. She has done a wonderful work in Washington, as secretary of the Y.W.C.A. there, and has built a girls' clubhouse in a suburb of the national capital that is a model of its kind. Miss Sayre will arrive here the last week in July.

Fortunes From Cookstoves.

Under the above caption, Bertha H. Smith of Los Angeles has a readable article in the current issue of The Housekeeper concerning some California women who have run the gauntlet from pin money to prosperity right in their own kitchens over their own cookstoves.

There's Mrs. Elizabeth S. Taylor of Santa Ana, who began business by selling canned fruit to friends who liked the way she put it up. These friends were back in Indiana, but they had tasted her canned fruits and preserves and had heard of the wonders of California fruit, and were willing to pay the freight. The first year Mrs. Taylor did her work on a California cookstove; the next she had to get another stove and hire several women to help and she shipped a whole carload of canned fruit back to the Hoosier State. The work grew and grew, until today this Santa Ana woman is at the head of a business that amounts to $100,000 a year, and the Taylor kitchen has evolved into a big factory and the fruit is shipped to every State in the Union, and across the ocean to foreign countries.

Then there's Mrs. E. A. Ingham of Lamanda Park, who has worked up a business in jelly making amounting to three or four thousand a year. She began by supplying a Los Angeles grocer. Mrs. Louise Cary Smith of Pomona is another woman who has made fame and fortune with her unfermented grape juice.

As the man said who patented a collar button clasp, our fortune is right under our nose or chin if we can only see and grasp it.

Women Go to Mission Fields.

Three young women from Southern California—Miss Grace Barstow of Bakersfield, Miss Jean Loomis of Pasadena and Miss Ida Isham of Los Angeles—are going out this fall as missionaries under the jurisdiction of the Pacific branch of Women's Foreign Missions of the Methodist Church.

Miss Loomis, who has lived twenty-five years in Southern California, gives up a $1500-a-year position in the Pasadena High School to accept at half that salary a place in the girls' High School in Nanking, China. "I go cheerfully," she says, "to help in the uplift of the 'little sisters' of China.

Miss Barstow, who is a teacher in the Bakersfield High School, goes to Chile in South America, and Miss Isham, who is a graduate of the State University at Berkeley, and a teacher in U.S.C., goes to India, where only one woman in 7000 can read. Her work will be in the girls' High School at Bangalore, where are 200 girls with but one teacher. In California the same number of students keep a corps of thirteen teachers busy.

These three young women were formally introduced at the quarterly meeting of the Pacific branch at Santa Monica last Wednesday, and received an ovation from the large number of women present from all over Southern California. Mrs. S. F. Johnson, corresponding secretary of the branch, reported from her recent visit to the general conference in Minneapolis that eighty-eight missionaries were asked for from the twenty-nine foreign conferences, and forty-one were accepted and appointed, three of that number being the young women above-mentioned. Many missionaries were present at the meeting at Santa Monica. Mrs. William F. Rice, for sixteen years a missionary in South America, spoke of her work in Argentina and Santiago; Miss Winifred Spalding told of her work among the Filippino girls, and Mrs. N. M. Felt, who has had charge of the girls in Jubbulpore, India, for fifteen years, gave an interesting account of what is being done for India's daughters in the 600 schools with their 14,000 students. Mrs. Z. L. Parmelee, treasurer of the Pacific branch, reported $18,100 raised during the last quarter. A new auxiliary has been formed in Honolulu with thirty-five members.

A feature of the afternoon session was the address of Miss Jennie V. Hughes, who returns to her work in Kiukiang, China, next month. She held the crowded church spellbound by her eloquent plea for China—that great empire in which Bishop Bashford, resident bishop for the past eight years, declares there is now an opportunity for Christian work not seen since the days of the reformation. As Miss Hughes outlined the present civil and religious liberty of this new republic she thrilled her audience. She told of the official meeting presided over by Sun Yat Sen, the first President, when, at the close of a business session, he arose and announced himself a Christian and asked how many of those officials present would stand with him for a Christian government, and two-thirds stood on their feet. No liver of missionaries were lost and no property destroyed directly through the revolution. When the edict went forth that the schools must be closed for the safety of the teachers the Christian Chinese students went voluntarily into the far interior and taught the gospel they had learned with great results for good. Recently in one of the large cities there was a great revival and on a certain Sabbath day so many came for baptism that it was impossible to perform the religious rite for the adults, exclusive of the babies and children, throughout a continual service from morning till night. Among the candidates for baptism were two women who had walked two days and nights to reach the place and receive the sacred rites. They arrived too late for the services of the first day and, together with a large number of others, were baptised on the following day.

Miss Hughes declared that China is on the eve of the greatest Christian development and uplift ever experienced. Other missionaries present were Mrs. Stuart, who, with her late husband, spent twenty-five years in Shanghai and has now come to Los Angeles to reside and educate her six children, two of whom are students in U.S.C.; Mrs. Thornberg of Manila, Mrs. McComb of South America, Mrs. Withey of Africa and Miss Soper of Japan.

Plymouth Congregational Women.

The women of Plymouth Congregational Church held an all-day session last Thursday, when their missionary and aid society rounded out the year's work and adjourned till September. For the past four months these women have been studying the awakening of India, and Mrs. Elsie Tanner, in her review, comprehensively went over the ground of the text-book.

Mrs. C. R. Sucher gave an interesting account of the native students in her review of current events which is a regular [illegible] ture, spoke of the Pa[illegible] ciety, in which so many Los Angeles women are interested. MISS YAW AT SUMMER HOME.

LARK ELLEN RANCH SHELTERS HOST OF PROTEGES.

Artistic Treasures Which Glorified the Old Farmhouse Collected from All Over the World—Oranges and Mountains Keep Her from Profitable East.

BY JULIAN JOHNSON.

Ellen Beach Yaw, home for the summer in the orange-guarded paradise at Covina, is going out in a concert tour next autumn under the management of one J. B. Priaulx of New York City.

Meantime, she has just refused an offer of big money and expenses, to go clear across the continent to sing one concert at Ocean Grove, which wants her every summer. "The mountains and the afternoon sea breeze, and my home, which I'm not a very much, are calling me, and I'm going to stay here," said Miss Yaw the other afternoon, an afternoon which finely exampled the sea breeze and the mountains and the home.

Miss Yaw's home, about a minute as the fox-terrier trots, from red-tiled Lark Ellen station, on the electric line, is a palace in little. When she and her husband, the late Vere Goldthwaite, purchased the place, it was a prosaic farmhouse. They brought in the unlimited treasures of imagination, the artistic wealth of the late Lady Meux of London, Mr. Goldthwaite's library and pickings from places and people everywhere, in the line of furnishings and ornamentation, until the rambling-rooms and wide screened porches boast about everything one could ask, from an inlaid desk that once stood in the chamber of Louis XV to a manuscript score by Sir Arthur Sullivan.

But Miss Yaw, with the originality which has always characterized her, has turned over her house to an assorted lot of promising young Italian villa up the road.

That half dozen young girls Miss Yaw is bringing up in the musical way they should go are having the time of their young lives in the chalet of melody. A pony and a pony cart bring the prima donna down the lane at all hours of the day, and, since the pony is said not to shy at the moon and is entirely familiar with stars, at a good many hours of the even.

So it goes, for a delightful July and a happy August, undoubtedly.

This is the season of La Siesta at Lark Ellen ranch, but it is a very cheerful and productive siesta at that.

MISS YAW AT SUMMER HOME.

LARK ELLEN RANCH SHELTERS HOST OF PROTEGES.

Artistic Treasures Which Glorified the Old Farmhouse Collected from All Over the World—Oranges and Mountains Keep Her from Profitable Rest.

BY JULIAN JOHNSON.

Miss Beach Yaw, home for the summer in the orange-guarded paradise at Covina, is going out in a contract next autumn under the management of one J. B. Priaulx of New York City.

Somehow, she has just refused an offer of big money and expenses to go clear across the continent to sing a concert at Ocean Grove, which she does every summer. "The mountains and the afternoon sea breeze and my home, which I'm not a very much, are calling me, and I'm going to stay here," said Miss Yaw the other afternoon, an afternoon which finely exampled the sea breeze and the mountains and the home.

Miss Yaw's home, about a minute on the fast-carrier trots, from red-tiled Lark Ellen station, on the electric line, is a palace in little. When she and her husband, the late Vere Goodwin, purchased the place, it was a picturesque farmhouse. They have put in the unlimited treasures of travel, the artistic wealth of the late Lady Meux of London, Mr. Goodwin's library and pickings from palaces and people everywhere, all this line of furnishings and ornamentation, until the rambling-rooms and wide, screened porches boast everything one could ask, from a school desk that once stood in the manor of Louis XV to a manuscript score by Arthur Sullivan.

Miss Yaw, with the originality that has always characterized her, has built over her house to an assortment lot of promising young singers, and lives at her sister's love-ly little villa up the road.

The half dozen young girls Miss Yaw is bringing up in the musical way they should go are having the time of their lives in the chalet of melody. A pony and a pony cart bring them down the lane at all hours of the day, and, since the pony does not fly at the moon and is very familiar with stars, at a good hour of the even.

It is a delightful July and early August, undoubtedly. This is the season of La Siesta at the ranch, but it is a very busy and productive siesta at that.

Artist's Success.

Miss Bertha Amet, the dramatic soprano who is attracting attention by her remarkable voice and the magnetic charm of personality, sang a group of songs at a small gathering of music lovers and critics at Steinway Hall Monday evening. The songs are the compositions of Genevra Farnell-Bond, who is related to Mrs. Farnell-Bond. Mrs. Farnell-Bond, recently from New York, is rather expects to make her home in beautiful land of roses.

Miss Amet, while a native of California, has studied abroad for a number of years. She was a personal friend of Madam Gadski, through whose influence she was induced to study under Gadski's own teacher, Frau Anna Schroeder-Chaloupka. Some time before this Madam Amet won a vocal scholarship in the conservatory in Chicago, strictly on the merits of her voice, since at that time she had neither means nor influence.

Mrs. Farnell-Bond has written an opera peculiarly fitted to Madam Amet's intense personality and temperamental interpretation and something is likely to be, "sprung" upon the public of a startling and highly attractive nature in the line of high-class opera comique, judging from the intense and melodic quality of Mrs. Bond's ballads.

Classic Event.

Following is the programme of Mme. Phoebe Ara White's musicale:

"Your Voice" (Denza,) Miss Genevra Ryerson; "Little Karen" (Heise,) "Cradle Song" (Brahms,) Miss Eva Denison; "All for You" (Guy d'Hardelot) "Swallows" (Cowen,) Mrs. C. O. Mershon; recitation and aria from "Jeptha" (Handel,) "If I Were a Rose" (Hemelberg,) Miss Lorena Grover; "My Mother Bids Me Bind My Hair" (Hayds,) "An Open Secret" (Woodman,) Miss Ruth Patton; "My Laddie" "(Allitsen,) "White Throat" (Aspinall,) Miss Lulu Harris; "Lungi Dal Caro Bene" (Secell,) "Hindoo Song" (Bemberg,) Miss Dorothy Dukes; "Slave Song" (Dee Riego,) "Villanelle" (Del Acqua,) Mrs. R. C. Owens.

"As You Like It."

Under the clear skies of Saturday, July 27, in the beautiful Garfield Park of South Pasadena, where 2000 persons assembled to celebrate the Fourth of July, or in the new Mission Theater at San Gabriel, or at some other equally desirable place, the Women's Improvement Club of South Pasadena will inaugurate the coming season by one or two performances of "As You Like It."

The programme will be in the hands of the "Egan Woodland Players" and the music of the play will be interpreted by a double quartette under the direction of Thomas Taylor Drill.

Every woman's club within a near radius, all Chambers of Commerce and educational institutes will be invited to co-operate in making this initial offering by the Bard of Avon one of the greatest successes possible.

Seating accommodation will be arranged for 4000 people and the detailed business arrangements will be in the hands of Ernest and Joseph Shipman, who will represent the Egan players, and the Woman's Improvement Club.

Special excursion rates will be arranged on all Pacific Electric lines and, if sufficient enthusiasm is manifested from the start, it will insure an evening performance also, when a thousand artistically-placed colored and shaded electric lights will throw a brilliancy over the players and the natural stage.

The talent offered under the personal direction of Frank C. Egan is composed of the pick of his past and present players and graduates, and no play of Shakespeare is more adaptable to the personalities of the brilliant student or finished performer than this pastoral masterpiece.

Egan Summer Course.

For the benefit of the student body of Los Angeles and vicinity who cannot avail themselves of the regular season's dramatic course at the Egan School, there has been arranged, for the first time in the history of the Egan institute, a special summer preparatory course of six weeks at a summer scale of costs, commencing on July 15.

This course will include class tuition in dancing, fencing, singing, and all branches of elocution and the drama.

The entire faculty of the Egan school will have charge of the diversified studies, and no better short-term opportunity has ever been offered to students of singing or the drama.

Such an opportunity for generalizing and laying a foundation for special work to follow later has never before been placed within the reach of the aspirant for advancement and, although the work covers a full four hours each day for four days of each week, yet, if desired, arrangements may be made in addition for private lessons in any department and under choice of instructors.

The capacity for enrollment is limited. Therefore names will be filed in the order of their applications, and those too late for acceptance will be given first refusal of the fall term opening.

Particulars can be had in person by applying at the school, top of the Majestic Theater building, and inquiring for the general manager, Ernest Shipman.

SCIENTISTS.

Capt. E. R. Johnson, assistant Chief of Engineers, U.S.A., has been engaged by the government of South Australia to make a full investigation regarding the building of locks and storage works on the Murray River, in South Australia. He is working in connection with Graham Stewart, the engineer-in-chief.

Count Lieut. Soliani of the Italian army asserts that he has discovered a way of preventing the puncturing of pneumatic tires. He has divided the present tire into three small ones, placed inside the wheel so as to be protected by the rim, which is of strong unpuncturable material. The three pneumatics act exactly as do those now in use, suffer neither from heat nor puncturing and wear indefinitely. The military authorities have examined the new method and declare it perfect, and just as speedy and comfortable as the old.

Fournier Dalbe, a French inventor, declares he can make light audible. He has invented what he calls an otophone. A London newspaper man, who was invited to test the instrument, says he could distinctly hear through its highly sensitive receivers a rasping sound made by electric light.

Col. William C. Gorgas of the United States Army has been awarded the American medicine gold medal for his work in ridding the canal zone on the Isthmus of Panama of yellow fever and malaria.

Wolf-Burckhardt, a Swedish scientist, announces that he has discovered a new process for improving quartz glass. The new product is known as "svloxyd" and is especially suited to the manufacture of pipes, tubes, receptacles, flasks and other instruments used in chemistry. Most of the articles used for such purposes have been made of platinum. The new process consists of adding to the raw quartz solution of oxides of zircon, titanium and other metals difficult to fuse. The resulting mixture gives a transparent, glassy substance which melts at a temperature of 1750 degrees centigrade. The advantage claimed for this material is that its strength is 20 to 50 per cent. greater than "quartz glass," tested by bending, and 10 to 30 per cent. more tested by pressure.

IN THE LIMELIGHT.

Augustus Eddy of Chicago, father of Spencer Eddy, the diplomatist, has, at the age of 80, taken up painting in a serious manner, and is already gaining recognition for his work in France. He is busy with landscapes and portraits, and is the youngest man of his age in Paris.

Many Copeland, 44 years of age, and blind from early childhood, has been a successful engineer for years, in the neighborhood of Tionesta, Pa. He runs a steam engine operating a pump in the oil fields, and has never had a serious accident. Gas engines he knows even better, and can take apart and put them together without any assistance. During his leisure hours Copeland studies mensuration by a method peculiar to himself.

Col. George W. Goethals, in charge of the Panama Canal work, received the honorary degree of doctor of laws at the annual commencement of Yale University, in recognition of his services in the Canal Zone.

Roy Walworth, one of the graduates at Western Reserve College, in Cleveland, this year, earned his way through the entire five years' course by working as a fireman on the railroad. Walworth lived in Ashtabula. Every morning he donned his overalls, placed his books in the engine cab and shoveled coal on an accommodation train all the way to Cleveland. Then he took off his overalls and went to school.

Brig.-Gen. Clarence R. Edwards, who has been military representative of the commission of the San Francisco Exposition, has returned from the European trip and says he has dined with thirteen Kings and Emperors in the pursuit of representation at the exposition.

Alfred I. Seligman, who was killed in an automobile accident in New York, was the youngest of the noted brothers who, as bankers, are among the best-known financiers in the world. He did not have so strong a business bent as the others of the family. Consequently he retired from finance several years ago and devoted most of his time to sculpture. He achieved remarkable success in the artistic field.

CHURCHMEN.

Rev. Alva Huddleston has resigned his pulpit of the Friends' Church at Hemlock and donned the blue uniform of the police of Kokomo, Ind. He says he is making a rule to preach the gospel to the men he is called upon to arrest. The duties of the new job, he believes, enable him to reach a class of men he cannot otherwise induce to listen to him.

Rev. Antoinette Blackwell, D. D., the first woman to be ordained a minister, and now in her eighty-eighth year, has sailed for Panama and a month's trip in the West Indies. At 78, Mrs. Blackwell went, unaccompanied by relatives or friends, to Palestine and brought back a bottle of water from the Jordan to baptize her grandsons. She is the only survivor of the speakers at the first national woman's rights convention.

Rev. Arthur Wilson, a Unitarian clergyman, of Newburgh, N. Y., advocates three R's for Sunday—"religious recreation and rest. Go to church in the morning and in the afternoon go to the countryside. See a baseball game, play tennis or go fishing. In the evening rest, read and get acquainted with your family."

First an actor, then a preacher, is the rather unusual record of Percy Major Vincent Binnington, a member of the senior class of the Episcopal General Theological Seminary, Chelsea Square, New York.

Mr. Binnington appeared for several years in light opera in London, where he was born and reared. He also wrote a few plays. Since entering the seminary he has done considerable in the way of assisting churches in dramatics. He is a member of the Episcopal Diocese of Brooklyn, and he will become curate at Christ Episcopal Church, that borough.

Develop Your Bust in 15 Days

A Full Firm Bust is Worth More to a Woman than Beauty

I don't care how thin you are, how old you are, how fallen and flaccid are the lines of your figure, or how flat your chest is, I can give you a full, firm, youthful bust quickly, that will be the envy of your fellow-women and will give you the allurements of a perfect womanhood that will be irresistible. They say there is nothing new under the sun, but I have perfected a treatment that I want to share with my sisters.

What it did for me it can and will do for you, and I now offer it to you. Others offer to build up your figure with drugs, greasy skin foods, creams, dieting, massage and expensive instruments and services. I have done away with all these injurious methods and have given a legion of women a luxuriant natural development by a treatment never before offered the public. No massaging, nothing to take, nothing to wear.

Why be skinny, scrawny, flat and unattractive? I claim to be the highest priced artist's model in the United States, and what I did for myself I do for you.

I don't care what your age may be, I ask only that you be at least sixteen and not an invalid, and I will undertake to develop your bust in two weeks. All I ask is five or ten minutes of your time every day.

Write to Me Today for My Treatment | Develop Bust New Way

It will only cost you a penny for a postcard and I will mail you this wonderful information in a plain cover so that no one will know your secret.

Don't let a false pride and silly sense of shame keep you from enjoying to the full the charms you should have to be a perfect specimen of womanhood. Let me help you. Your communication shall be held in absolute confidence and secrecy. Write me today.

MEDICINE IN EUROPE.

MEDICAL EDUCATION IN EUROPE. Bulletin No. 6. The Carnegie Foundation for the Advancement of Teaching. By Abraham Flexner, with an introduction by Henry S. Pritchett.

IN A COUNTRY—and more especially in a State—where the medical profession has been combatted at every step by mental healers, anti-pathologists, neuropaths, osteopaths, fruitarians, and Emmanuel Movers, it would be well for us to turn our attention for a moment this morning upon the subject of medical education. In spite of all the opposition of the medical-freedomists, the anti-vivisectionists, and other sincerely but faultily educated people, the science of medicine still goes on. Disease after disease is giving way to the discoveries of such men as Flexner, Koch, Pasteur, Jenner and Carrel. The spectacle today of this great army of contra-scientists, who would take medical science out of the hands of men who have given their life to its study and put it again where it was in the dark ages, on a basis of priest-craft, superstition and demonology, is one against which the intelligence revolts.

No one denies that the medical fraternity itself is in sorry need of change—especially in America. It has not been properly restricted. Vice and crime and incompetency have crept into it. But for these errors and shortcomings it is unfair to condemn the science itself, and with it all chances for the public health. Medical science has heretofore been too isolated a profession. It has attempted to exist detached from the community. But nearly every month sees a new sign in the tendency toward the amalgamation of medicine and the community. The public health has become as large a factor in the science as individual health. Only last year, Harvard inaugurated a new degree—Doctor of Public Health.

In his introduction to Bulletin No. 6 of the Carnegie Foundation for the Advancement of Teaching, President Pritchett does not close his eyes to the unfavorable conditions in American medical institutions. In June, 1910, the Carnegie Foundation published a report on the medical education of the United States and Canada. The report not only dealt with the medical schools of the United States and Canada, but also attempted to analyze the problem of medical education. The bulletin was intended, among other things, for the specific use of medical schools in these two countries, describing and discussing in detail the conditions prevailing in each of the hundred and fifty medical schools then existing in the United States and Canada. Much adverse criticism was to be found in this bulletin. In fact, not only Dr. Abraham Flexner, the editor of the bulletin, but others of the broader-minded men in the profession recognized and admitted the truth of many of the adverse criticisms against medical science which are used by the medical freedomists and quacks in their effort to do away with medical experimentation, and make it possible to undermine public and private health by giving undue power into the hands of medical and psychotherapeutical sects.

In the present book, President Pritchett is quite as severe with American medical conditions as are many of the most ardent opponents of the science. He says that scandals in medical education exist in America alone, and further states that in no foreign country is a medical school to be found whose students do not learn anatomy in the dissecting room and disease by the study of sick people. It seems that it has remained for the United States and Canada to confer annually the degree of doctor of medicine upon, and to admit to practice, hundreds who have learned anatomy wholly from quiz-compends, and whose acquaintance with diseases is derived wholly from the study of text-books. These scandalous and outrageous conditions are less widespread today than a decade ago; but in Boston, New York, Chicago, St. Louis and San Francisco, pseudo-medical schools which make a pretense at training doctors, are without adequate clinical facilities. No European country tolerates an educational farce of this description. Abroad, every medical school is adequately equipped with clinical resources under competent and complete control. President Pritchett says that if the lowest terms on which a medical school can exist abroad were applied to America, three-fourths of our existing medical schools would be closed at once; and he adds that the remaining one-fourth would be easily and entirely adequate to our needs. We know that these managers of feeble medical enterprises pretend that they are making sacrifices for the public good. But this hypocrisy does only damage to the public interest. America is the only civilized country in the world which in this day permits such enterprises to impose upon the public.

This condition of affairs, of course, is used by the followers of Munyon and Pinkham, of Eddy and Cagliostro, of Janet and Lombroso, as a wedge to pry the whole profession of medicine over the precipice and out of existence. On the other hand, this condition of affairs is looked upon by the better-class physicians as a call to reason. They see the necessity for a more strict regulation of medical research, for more difficult requirements before turning the young M.D.'s loose upon the public.

This new bulletin from the Carnegie Foundation describes conditions as they now exist in the different countries of Europe, and draws attention to both their strong and their weak points. Perfection is found nowhere, but all European countries make a definite educational requirement for entrance upon medical examination, and permit no schools to teach medicine without the essential laboratory facilities and abundant clinical opportunities. The report, after tracing briefly the historical development of the modern medical school in Europe, first discusses the distribution of physicians, showing that in any civilized country it is not necessary to make cheap and poor physicians in order that the country may have physicians enough. Every nation that supplies good secondary school facilities has more physicians than it needs, at a high level of professional training. The arguments on this point in the former bulletin are thus enforced by European conditions.

In spite of serious defects, which are frankly pointed out, the author finds medical education in Germany still leading the world, both because the medical sciences are highly developed in the laboratories and institutes of the German universities, and because the clinical teachers in the German universities are university professors appointed on the basis of scientific eminence, and not, as often in America, local physicians who happen to be teachers of medicine besides. The German universities, moreover, absolutely control the hospitals in which their clinical teaching is given. These hospitals are not always the property of the universities, but may be municipal and private hospitals in which the university appoints the hospital staff, which thus becomes the clinical faculty of the university. In Great Britain and France, conditions are in some respects even more favorable to the student, for there students are more freely admitted to hospital wards as clerks and dressers, a practice which is being introduced in the United States wherever hospitals make favorable arrangements with university faculties.

A startling contrast between American and European conditions is pointed out in the amount of clinical material available for teaching. Nowhere in Europe is medical education carried on by any institution without abundant clinical material. Even in the small German university towns like Tuebingen, with only 15,000 inhabitants, clinics of 600 or 800 beds are to be found. The way in which these hospitals have been so highly developed in out-of-the-way places is fully described in a chapter on the financial aspects of medical education. In respect to the curriculum, the report holds that a training in scientific medicine cannot be given on hard-and-fast lines.

Perhaps the most important part of the report deals with examinations. The American State board examination is almost altogether written, in consequence of which medical schools lacking laboratories and clinical facilities can by hard drilling prepare their students to pass. The commercial establishments in Chicago, San Francisco, Memphis and even institutions like the medical departments of Dartmouth College and the University of Vermont, with very scanty clinical facilities, can live in America because State board and hospital examinations are so largely written. In Great Britain and Germany the qualifying examinations are pre-eminently practical. In order to pass in anatomy, students must actually dissect; in order to pass in medicine and surgery, they must make a diagnosis on people actually sick, and indicate the lines of treatment to be pursued. It is clear that examinations of this character automatically suppress schools that do not possess good teaching facilities.

It is sometimes claimed that the high standard of European medical education has caused many who cannot meet this standard to become quacks. Quacks do abound in Germany, but the report points out that this is due simply to legislation which permits indiscriminate medical freedom. With practically no restrictions anyone may prescribe and sell medicine in Germany. The prevalence of quackery is not due to the high educational standard, for quacks are most common in large cities, which are most overcrowded with properly-trained physicians.

Medical sects, such as homeopaths, eclectics, osteopaths, etc., are practically unknown in Europe. The laws recognize only one type of qualified physician, and although a properly qualified physician may call himself a homeopathist, an eclectic, or anything else he pleases, there is no inducement to do so, where the sectarian enjoys no special privileges. The report maintains that medical sects have developed in America because sectarian medicine can be practiced on lower terms than scientific medicine. Brief final chapters deal with postgraduate instruction and the medical education of women.

While the subject of medicine is on the boards, let us briefly see what, for instance, are the bitter projectiles of criticism aimed at the medical fraternity. First, I should say, incompetency; second, unscrupulousness, both in the administration of medicine and in surgery; third, a lack of uniformity in prices which make it possible for a certain class of doctors to sue the estates of deceased patients for enormous sums. Thus, briefly there are three counts against the profession; one on the ground of equipment, the second on the ground of unscrupulousness and the third on the ground of finance. It is interesting to note ha hese three counts are of necessity arbitrary and amenable to legislation.

By way of demonstrating this point, I offer he following suggsions for laws regulating the practice of medicine. For them I claim no originality —in fact, I believe several of them have already been put up to different State Legislatures—but I offer them merely for what they are worth:

First, a law raising the standard of medical degrees— requiring eighteen months or two years interne work before complete matriculation for practice, and making the course five years instead of four, with adequate clinical facilities during each year.

Second, a law requiring that doctors be re-examined and compelled to pass a State board every seven or eight years

Third, a law demanding that all prescriptions be written in plain, understandable English, and that all medicines be labelled in plain understandable English.

Fourth, a law providing that in every damage suit for malpractice, or death on the operating table, the whole burden of proof shall be upon the officiating surgeon.

Fifth, a law requiring a Coroner's inquest into every death in a hospital.

Sixth, a law making it impossible for any doctor to enforce payment or fees from the estate of a deceased male patient.

To these laws, many doctors will offer objections. And yet, should they come out unanimously for them, nothing would so shock the benign medical freedomists or give the medical profession a firmer footing.

But against the first law suggested above would stand the doctors who believe that the enemies of medicine can be overcome by numbers.

The second law, the majority of doctors would probably oppose on a purely selfish basis, although no less an authority than Rudolph Virchow once advocated it.

The third law would do more, perhaps, than any other in freeing the profession from the medieval buncombe and magical element which still lurks within it. Doctors love their dog-Latin, and would battle against the abolition of it on sentimental grounds.

The next two proposed laws would do much toward discouraging reckless and unnecessary operations by high-class men, and would so unnerve the less competent members of the profession that they would eventually, perhaps, give up operating, or study over-time on surgical pathology. In any event, surgery would cease to be mere butchery, and the Coroner's inquest would stay many a scalpel.

The last law speaks for itself.

These reforms suggested themselves almost automatically on reading Dr. Abraham Flexner's report. And, perhaps, they would suggest themselves to others who might read it. I, therefore, wish to recommend it, without drawing any distinction as to who should or who should not read it. Fruitarians and Metchnikoff sauerkrautists, electics and osteopaths, bacteriologists and N. D.s, laymen and scientists alike will find here material of vital interest to the individual and the community. This report of 350 pages will be sent to anyone who makes request to the Carnegie Foundation for the Advancement of Teaching. The bulletin is No. 6, and the address of the publication is No. 576 Fifth avenue, New York City.

WESTERN ROMANCE.

OVER THE PASS. By Frederic Palmer. Scribner's, New York.

FREDERIC PALMER'S "Over the Pass" is a good, old-fashioned melodrama of the western plains. The cowboys and the bad men of the West have been worn fairly threadbare by writers of all degrees; but enough romance has been overlooked on the prairies for Palmer to grab and turn into a hotfooted and fulfilling novel. His hero, however, is not a Westerner, but a well-bred and wealthy son of New York who has sought the plains and mountains of the far West for his health. In fact, he looks like a toy cowboy—one of Hal Reid's heroes. When he talks of death and fighting and danger, one is apt to snicker—for these things seem a pose with him. His adventures while returning over the pass are many and varied, the two extremes probably being typified in Pete Leddy, a bad man of the old school, with six notches on his gun-handle, and Mary Ewold, the fascinating daughter of a scholarly settler of Little Rivers. Jack has difficulties with both Mary and Leddy—though of an entirely different nature. But in the end he is successful in his dealings with both. He gets both—but not in the same manner.

The Doge, Mary's father, is a character which cannot be overlooked in this story. In fact, so far as I am personally concerned, he interests me far more than any of the others. He is a gentleman of culture who years agone lost his fortune and went West to recoup it. The Doge had lived long in Italy. He knows pictures and books, and some of the spirit of the renaissance has gotten into his blood. Of course, it was unlikely that he had formerly been the enemy of young Jack Wingfield's father—but it was necessary to have some obstacle stand in the way of Jack's and Mary's love affair. So what was simpler? In Palmer's skillful telling of this part of the story, we almost lose sight of the fact that it was an utterly incredible coincidence, and one manages to work up considerable interest in the barrier which this interparental enmity throws up between the lovers.

There is plenty of action, meteorology, clash and color and bang to this romantic yarn. However, it has not so much plot as the average Western thriller; but confrast is added to the story by the shifting of the scene from Little Rivers to New York and then back again. The threads of the story are well-gathered together and tied, and for those who like rip-snorting melodrama, written in a dashing journalistic manner, "Over the Pass" will prove an entertaining and diverting find.

BIBLE IN RHYME.

THE PROVERBS OF SOLOMON. In verse. By Rev. Isidore Myers, B.A. Block Publishing Company, New York.

RABBI MYERS'S "Proverbs of Solomon" is a translation from the original Massoretic text. Its charm and its special value rest in the fact that it presents the book of Proverbs in its true form, as a poetic production expressed in accordance with a perfect system of versification. Rabbi Myers's translation, following the original metrical form, is the first of the kind to be offered the English-reading public. It retains not only the metre and the form of the original, but is moreover remarkable for its close literal adherence to the text; and this is rendered the more noteworthy by reason of the fact that the author has put his English verse into rhyme.

To students of the Bible, and to those familiar with the accepted English form of the Book of Proverbs as contained in the scriptures, this metrical translation will appeal with special interest. Reference to chapter and verse accompanies each page and couplet, so that the making of comparisons is made an easy task for any reader. The failure of the King James translators to render this book into metrical English or to follow the form of the original text, has denied to millions of readers an appreciation of the full beauty of this contribution to the wisdom literature of the Hebrews. The revised version of the Bible does present it in its original versual form of distichs, but no attempt is made to follow the metrical construction, so that the reader even here is not made aware of the rhythmic beauty of the book. To one, therefore, who would know the book as it was written, this translation of Rabbi Myers's is at once a joy and a revelation.

For the most part the verse is iambic pentameter, that most stately and effective of all verse forms, and peculiarly appropriate to the treatment of philosophical ideas. The following couplets, chosen at random, exemplify the style and character of the book:

"Man's folly doth subvert his way,
and yet
Against the Lord his heart presumes to fret.

Who pitieth the poor lends to the Lord;
And pay for his good deeds will He accord.

He that from Wisdom's way astray is led
Shall rest in the assembly of the dead.

Dwell rather in a desert free from strife
Than with a fretful and contentious wife.

Choose rather a good name than wealth untold;
Prefer good grace to silver and to gold.

The rich and poor together meet on earth:
'Tis God that made them all and gave them birth."

CLAIMS OF SOCIALISM.

APPLIED SOCIALISM. By John Spargo. B. W. Huebsch, New York.

WILL the socialistic state confiscate private property? Does it intend to destroy the family, the home? How will labor be compensated? If by wages, what will be the adjustment under Socialism? Will there be an unemployment problem? Can genius thrive, and what will be the incentive to effort? The public is justified in demanding definite statements as to the proposed application of the doctrine if its advocates should triumph. John Spargo, a Marxian, answers our questions and speculates on a state in which equality of opportunity exists.

Applied Socialism, Spargo says, is the concrete expression of Socialist principles and the realization of Socialistic ideals in the policy of the State. Believing in evolution, he foresees the extinction of the present "capitalist" system and the inheritance of its economic structure by the co-operative comonwealth. Under the new order the people as a whole will receive the benefits which now accrue to the slender but powerful minority.

It is to be expected that this new book will draw fire within the Socialist party as well as from the non-Socialists. No authoritative statement made in recent years presents a more definite stand on the big questions involved than this. From the writer's point of view, society is fighting with its back to the wall. How powerful the aggressor has become may be discovered by studying the war map which "Applied Socialism" provides.

Whether the reader accepts the faith it preaches or does not, he will find the book a stimulus to thought.

BOOK NEWS.

Among the early fall publications of McBride, Nast & Co. will be "Reclaiming the Old House," a book for the layman on remodeling, by Charles E. Hooper; "Gardening Indoors and Under Glass," by F. F. Rockwell; "Furniture Designs — Chippendale, Heppelwhite and Sheraton," with an introduction by Arthur Hayden; "Dyes and Dyeing," a hand-book for the craftsman in an art whose possibilities have not yet been realized, by Charles E. Pellew, and "A Book of Distinctive Interiors." There will also be four additional volumes in the "House and Garden Making" series: "Making a Garden With Hotbed and Coldframe;" "Making a Fireplace;" "Making Built-in Bookcases, Shelves and Seats," and "Making a Bulb Garden."

Messrs. Henry Holt & Co. are having to print another edition of Miss Sarah F. Woodruff's translation of Vamba's "The Prince and His Ants." This nature book for the young—which has been highly commended by no less an authority than Prof. Vernon L. Kellogg—has just been adopted by the Michigan State Reading Circle.

The spread of the "Safe-and-Sane-Fourth" idea through the country is greatly increasing the demand for pageants, which fact Messrs. Henry Holt & Co. are finding very pleasantly indicated in the call for Miss Constance D'Arcy Mackay's "Patriotic Plays and Pageants." The author is a past mistress of such productions, and the city of Boston has just chosen for their Fourth her "Pageant of Patriots" from this book, thirteen social settlements of Boston and vicinity having given the same pageant on Decoration Day, and the Federation of Women's Clubs of the same city having given it on Bunker Hill Day. The author might almost begin to worry as to whether she might not have to supply "souvenirs" for the next performance. Miss Mackay has just recently most successfully put through a pageant in which the town of Schenectady and the Union College united.

Mrs. Mary Austin, author of "The Arrow Maker" and "Christ in Italy," has lately completed a novel entitled "A Woman of Genius," which will be published in August.

The publication of Prof. Earl Barnes's study of "Woman in Modern Society" has been postponed so as to permit "The Atlantic Monthly" to use three chapters. The book will be published in August

"Their Yesterdays" is the title of Harold Bell Wright's forthcoming novel, to appear in September. It is described as "the story of a man and woman, and what they found in their days that were gone."

A volume on Robert Toombs by Prof. Ulrich B. Phillips, and one on Ulysses S. Grant, by Hon. Franklin S. Edmonds, are announced as immediately forthcoming in the "American Crisis Biographies."

The recent death of Maj. Archibald Butt on the "Titanic" gives especial interest to his book, "Both Sides of the Shield," a romance of a northern newspaper correspondent on special duty in the South, just published.

The novel by Graham Moffat based on his successful play, "Bunty Pulls the Strings," is well under way, and will probably appear before the end of the year. Mr. Moffat made a flying visit to America not long ago in connection with his new one-act play called "The Concealed Bed."

WITH THE AUTHORS.

Will H. Harben, the novelist, has left New York on his annual pilgrimage to his old home in Dalton, Ga., where he will pass the summer. While on his vacation, Mr. Harben will be engaged in gathering material for a new novel which, like Abner Daniel, Pole Baker, Ann Boyd, and the rest, will be distinctly a story of the Georgian life that he portrays so well.

Basil King, the author, has just started on an extended trip through the United States and Canada, with his objective point in the region about Vancouver, B. C. Before leaving, Mr. King stated that his itinerary was not definitely fixed, and that he should probably ramble at will for several months wherever inclination led him. It is probable that as a result of his trip there will come forth a new novel of the Northwest.

Henry S. Harrison, author of "Queed," has well on the way toward completion a new novel, to be published either in the coming autumn or early next year.

The young English poet, Alfred Noyes, is to visit this country probably on a lecture tour. He had planned to come two or three months ago, but was prevented by illness.

Mrs. Amelia E. Barr, the well-known novelist, has lately been celebrating her eighty-first birthday, yet she is still a hard worker, and is able to spend eight or nine hours a day at her writing.

Algot Lange, author of "In the Amazon Jungle," recently published, has been chosen to head the South American expedition now being organized by the Museum of Pennsylvania University.

Robert W. Chambers, the novelist, is a keen sportsman as well as a good naturalist. He knows the woods thoroughly, is a good shot and an ardent fisherman. Every spring, for days at a time, he buries himself in the woods, wading the streams and casting for the elusive trout, instead of for ideas concerning Japonette and Valerie West.

Robert Alexander Watson, the author of "Happy Hawkins" and other popular novels, has taken up his residence in Detroit after a leisurely and romantic wedding journey in the open spaces of the great West, and is hard at work on a new novel to be published early in the fall. The new book is said to be another "Happy Hawkins" story.

Rex Beach is now on one of his transcontinental trips. He left New York recently after correcting proofs of the novel he has been at work upon the last year, and is taking a long journey for the purpose of gathering material and verifying facts from actual life for a new novel, which may be located in "The Silver Horde" or "The Spoilers" country.

While people from all parts of the United States are summering in the picturesque Massachusetts island town of Nantucket, Mary E. Waller will be busy at work on her new novel, to be called "A Cry in the Wilderness." Unlike "The Woodcarver of 'Lympus" and "Sanna of the Island Town," Miss Waller's new book will have Canadian characters and scenes, as well as American.

Miss L. M. Montgomery, the Canadian author, whose latest book, "Chronicles of Avonlea," has just appeared, describes her painstaking way of writing as follows: "My stories are all thought out before I set them on paper. I write out the first chapter of a book, criticise it, twist and turn it a bit. Then I write my second chapter. Immediately after this is finished, I start back again at the first chapter and polish this up along with the new chapter. With the third, fourth and even the eighteenth chapter I work in just the same way, going over each and every chapter I have written as many times as a new one is added. So you see that when I had completed the thirty-eight chapters in my 'Anne of Green Gables,' the first chapter had been edited at least thirty-nine times, and perhaps a few more."

LITERARY GOSSIP.

Jeffery Farnol, having completed the writing of "The Amateur Gentleman," which is now appearing serially, previous to book publication early in 1913, is now in America arranging for the dramatization of "The Broad Highway." C. E. Brock, an English illustrator of unusual skill and intelligence, has been commissioned to prepare the drawings for an illustrated edition of "The Broad Highway."

There are few men as well-equipped to write interesting and instructive stories as Brand Whitlock, the Mayor of Toledo. Mr. Whitlock was for years an active newspaper writer, serving as a general reporter, political correspondent and special writer. Then he studied law and engaged in its practice for several years before he entered politics. This broad experience is apparent in his latest book, "The Fall Guy."

In Charles Johnston's new book, "Why the World Laughs," the following story is given as a typical example of American humor. The scene is laid in the wild and woolly West. A mustang has been stolen, and swift Nemesis has descended in the form of Manila hemp. The time has come to break the news to the family of the deceased. The leader of the deputation knocks at the door of the bereaved homestead, asking, "Does Widow Smith live here?" A stout and cheerful person answers, "I'm Mrs. Smith, but I ain't no widow." The deputation answers: "Bet you a dollar you are! But you've got the laugh on us, just the same, for we find we've lynched the wrong man."

Gen. Homer Lea, whose new book, "The Day of the Saxon," is just published, and Archibald Colquhoun, author of "China in Transformation," have reached, from different starting-points, some similar conclusions. Both —American and Englishman — see certain grave dangers to the Saxon race in Russia's slow but unchecked advance toward the sphere of Indian interest, and in the immigration of Asiatic people into Australia.

At a dinner at which J. Henry Harper, author of "The House of Harper," once gave to William Black, the English novelist, William Cullen Bryan, responding to a toast on poetry, remarked that though the novelist had laid society under great obligations, the poet must not be forgotten, since it was to him that we are indebted for some of our labor-saving devices. "What," he asked in his gravest manner, "would be more useful, more winning, more worthy of being remembered than that immortal sont"—here the audience waited in breathless silence—"beginning, 'Thirty days hath September?'"

Lieut. Arthur A. Clappe, whose "The Wind Band and Its Instruments" Messrs. Henry Holt & Co. recently published, has been appointed one of a board of five to consider the condition of military music in the army. The other members of the board associated with Lieut. Clappe are Lieut.-Col. Mills, the chairman of the board; Dr. Frank Damrosch, and Capts. Madden and Payne. While in England there is a Royal Military School of Music, which has a close supervision of all the bands of the regular army, there is no similar institution as yet in the United States; but many hope that the report of this commission may eventually lead to the creation of one.

J. D. Beresford.

Author of "The Early History of Jacob Stahl" and "A Candidate for Truth" Attempts Ambitious Trilogy.

It is a rather ambitious undertaking in these days for a new author to start his career with a trilogy of novels. The old days of three deckers have passed and it has been nearly twenty years since Henryk Sienkiewicz penned his famous trilogy of Polish romances. More recently, Arnold Bennett, after having established a foothold with "The Old Wives' Tale," essayed the "Clayhanger" trio of books. Now, along comes a novice named J. D. Beresford—even his publishers only know the initials of his given names—with the avowed purpose of unfolding the life history—laying bare his soul, some call it—of a "frail, but human young man" named Jacob Stahl.

It was a year ago that the first book called "The Early History of Jacob Stahl" appeared in both England and America, but while one English critic commended it as a psychological masterpiece, and another asserted that the initial volume left him "thirsting for more," American readers were slow to respond. This, too, despite the fact that the American reviewers generally indorsed the opinions of their English brethren.

As depicted by Beresford, the character of Jacob Stahl appeared unstable. He had inherited physical weaknesses, and developed moral weaknesses in a most natural manner. The story of his "early history" closed with Jacob divorced from his wife after an entanglement with a duchess.

Twelve months have elapsed and in the second book of the trilogy, just issued, called, "A Candidate for Truth," Jacob Stahl's ways are still wobbly, although improving. After an experience with Cecil Barker, Vicar of St. Mark's termed "fisher of men and gambler in souls," Jacob resists temptation until he meets Betty, whose chief recommendation is that she can cook. She at least deserves fidelity, but it remains for the third volume, which will doubtlessly be forthcoming another year, to round out Jacob's busy life.

All that is known of J. D. Beresford may be summed up as follows: Mr. Beresford is the son of an English country parson. He was articled to a country architect at seventeen, and afterward worked at his profession in London. It was not until three years ago that he began writing for a livelihood. He has served as a reviewer on the staff of the Westminster Gazette, the Literary World, and The Academy.

BOOKS RECENTLY RECEIVED.

[Town Topics:] "Once a Friend, Always a Friend." By Theodore Roosevelt, author of "Me," "Teeth That Threaten," "The Lookout of the Outlook," etc.

An absorbing tale of a man's loyalty to a friend to whom he had made a promise, even though the keeping of this promise interfered materially with his own ambition. Delightful summer fiction.

"Notable Nuisances." By the Pankhurst family, author of "Shaping of Statesmen."

Few writers are more capable of handling this subject than these authors. They have for a number of years been giving the nuisance question their closest attention and have made themselves authorities on it. Largely autobiographical.

"Marriage: A Mistake." By Lillian Russel, part author of "Dorothy Russel."

A serious treatise on a serious subject by a serious woman, whose mission in life is to be serious.

"Betrayed." By William Tell, author of "Teddy and the Harmony Trust."

A pitiful little story of a Presidential candidate who was betrayed by a dentally decorated villain, who sold his friendship and support for a mess of pottage.

"Camels' and Needles' Eyes." By John D. Rockefeller, author of "The Oil Can," "How to Rebate," and other Sunday-school works.

A little brochure, designed for poor but honest young men of Sunday-school tendencies.

"Icebergs I Have Met." By J. Bruce Ismay, author in part of "The Titanic Disaster."

A travel adventure of such gruesome horror that its perusal cannot be recommended to the general public.

They Were Almost All Boys

NO MORE astounding truth was ever brought home to the world than the fact that almost half the soldiers in the Civil War was made up of boys.

Why, more than a million of the Boys in Blue were not over 19; more than 800,000 only 17 years or less; there were 100,000 who were not more than 15.

In the Confederate ranks, also, there were thousands upon thousands of boys—because every male over 15 was expected to serve in the army.

Of the price that was paid, or the mere boys who paid the price; of the truth of that terrible struggle between the North and South, we knew almost nothing until the discovery of the

Brady Civil War Photographs

Issued In 16 Superb Sections

One Each Week for Only 10 Cents and the Coupon

Secure Them Through The Los Angeles Times

Turn from page to page in any section of this wonderful work—scan the faces in the long-lost War Photographs and you can see for yourself the many mere boys among the soldiers.

Some of these boys you see marching, digging trenches, doing camp-work and laboring at the guns on the firing line. Others are beating drums, carrying water, or at games and pastimes. Pitiful to behold, are those pictures that show us shattered youth in the hospitals; budding manhood in the prisons; a life cut short on the battlefield.

In these pictures of Brady's we also see the first boy generals, their smooth faces already set with responsibility; we see George Dewey as a busy lieutenant of a Mississippi gunboat; we see pictures of six future presidents of the United States when they were smooth-faced Civil War soldiers.

You owe it to yourself, you owe it to your children, to present them with these Brady War Photographs, complete with Elson's newly written history, entitled,

"The Civil War Through The Camera"

Nothing is better for your boy than to read and learn about the many famous men who took some part in that great conflict. Among those whose photographs were taken by Brady and his followers, and the history of each, are the following:

—Grant in camp and on the march—always unassuming, always simple, always great;
—Sherman on his war-horse, contemplating his March to the Sea;
—Sheridan as he looked on his immortal ride with "Winchester only twenty miles away";
—Cowan at the head of his battery, riding to battle;
—Golden-haired, dare-devil Custer in the joy of his youth;
—"Daring Dave" Farragut on the "Hartford's" deck after "damning the torpedoes" of Mobile Bay;
—McClellan holding his last interview with the martyr Commander-in-Chief—Abraham Lincoln;
—Jefferson Davis, the Confederate President, in his riding suit when captured;
—Stonewall Jackson just before his last "flanking" march and his mortal wound;
—"Jeb" Stuart, the gallant knight, with his famous plumes;
—Admiral Semmes just escaped from the sinking "Alabama";
—Pickett, leader of the Confederacy's "high-tide" at Gettysburg; and —Lee, the idol of the Confederacy, with sword and sash, at the height of his fame in '63—"Every inch a soldier."

An Educational Work That Fascinates The Young Folks

Boys and girls, whether they "like history" or not, will study every picture, every page in this remarkable work. So fascinating is the facing of the pages of text with photographs of the very persons, places and times described, that the child reads on and on, glad to learn about the strange and exciting scenes, the soldiers and their guns, the ladies with their queer crinolines, the statesmen with their high hats, the dashing horses, the towering cities of war, the pawing cannon—until more education has been absorbed in "evenings at home" than months of study at school could bring from the old-fashioned books.

From "The Problem."

Not from a vain or shallow thought
His awful Jove young Phidias wrought;
Never from lips of cunning fell
The thrilling Delphic oracle;
Out from the heart of nature rolled
The burdens of the Bible old;
The litanies of nations came,
Like the volcano's tongue of flame,
Up from the burning core below,
The canticles of love and woe.
The hand that rounded Peter's dome,
And groined the aisles of Christian Rome,
Wrought in a sad sincerity,
Himself from God he could not free;
He builded better than he knew,
The conscious stone to beauty grew.

Pinecrest Studies.

Those indefatigable students and interpreters of the landscape beauties of Southern California, the two Wachtels, have just returned from a few weeks of diligent research at Pinecrest, among the highest heights of the San Bernardino Mountains. From this sun-kissed altitude they had a glorious view of one of the world's most wonderful panoramas—the great Mojave Desert, the splendid range of the San Bernardino mountains, with San Jacinto and San Gorgonio in the distance, and with the San Bernardino Valley below.

Incidentally, of course, they painted all these glories, but only as a background for pine trees. For their joyous little motor car had gallantly climbed the dizzy heights that the painters might study the pines at Pinecrest—not the symmetrical and commonplace pines of commercial art, but the pines that appeal to the painter—the old veterans of nature's combats, sprawling, crooked, distorted, beautiful in their splendid sinewy strength. The Wachtels found them on the mountaintops, and loved them at once.

The alert painter is always on the lookout for something "different." The Wachtels came upon it in the pines of the San Bernardino Mountains, and quickly made such good use of their discovery that the sketches they brought back with them are among the very best they have hitherto made. One from the brush of Marion Kavanaugh Wachtel is truly masterly. The pine, carefully and swiftly studied in broad, free strokes, is placed against a mere strip of blue sky that has been laid in with one sweep of the hand. The tree's rocky foundation has been neglected entirely, yet all out of doors appears in the sketch—you feel height, depth, magnificent distance, with all the winds of heaven blowing about.

I found each painter working on a picture when I called the other day—the one in oils, the other in water colors. They seem to be never idle, there is always a picture in progress. I suggested "Nature's Garden" as an appropriate title for the one by Elmer Wachtel, and he cheerfully acknowledged my intelligence. It is a study of wild buckwheat seen in the Cajon Pass, and truly looks like a beautiful garden planned with the loose largeness of Mother Nature, whose designs are always worth close inspection. She seldom makes mistakes. There are rich and vivid greens in the picture, tawny reaches of bloom, and beyond them the blue and purple of the sky and mountains.

Mrs. Wachtel's picture, just begun, was at once named "The Lonely Pine" by me, and the title was accepted. It promises to be one of her finest efforts. The grizzled tree stands among rocks and surveys the valley dreaming far below. It is the pine of the sketch I mentioned a minute ago, the monarch of the mountains.

These are the notable beginnings of an exhibition the Wachtels will have in the fall. It will be held downtown, and will be a continuous show. It will be awaited with interest and pleasure—and also with some impatience, for the work of the Wachtels makes a strong appeal to all lovers of California and of art.

The Salon Once More.

I have already written several times and at some length, on the Salon of the South, now in progress in the Blanchard gallery. Last week I began to review the new pictures shown. Only a few remain for notice, canvases by C. Harry Allis, Lillian Drain, Detlef Sammann, Fannie E. Duvall and Jean Mannheim.

Miss Duvall exhibits a still life of much colorful beauty and cleverness, "Japanese Persimmons." Behind a bunch of the vivid fruit and a vase, are hung some brightly flowered silk draperies. There is great harmony in the picture, vitality of intention and execution. Miss Drain's little canvas, "In Chinatown," is one of the best from her brush. It is done simply and directly, and in characteristic color—rich browns and reds. The man seated in a doorway is alert and alive, even though he is motionless. Characteristic, too, is C. Harry Allis's "French Poplars and a Stream," a harmony of rich browns, yellows and reds laid in with many careful touches. Allis paints, now and again, like some of the fine old Dutch landscapists from whom he is descended.

Detlef Sammann's search for sunlight and air, for life and vibration in landscape, is richly rewarded in "Mountains Aglow" and "Sunlight and Shadow," his two fresh contributions to the present exhibition. The first has a beautifully drawn tree in the foreground, a tree whose nearer branches are cleverly foreshortened. The arroyo, lying in afternoon shadow, is subdued, yet full of color. The picture is impeccable in drawing and values. Its only fault, it seems to me, is that the sky doesn't vibrate. It hasn't the life of the rest of the picture. Skies, indeed, are this painter's weakest point—I might say his only weak point. They suggest paint too strongly. A charming effect is found in "Sunlight and Shadow." The outdoor feeling is finely kept. The grass in shadow is vividly green. Well drawn sycamores in yellow leaf appear on the left.

Jean Mannheim shows two of his brilliantly painted studies of figures. They have this artist's usual suavity of color, his usual pliant brush work. The one is a portrait of a young girl painted indoors, the face thoughtful and serious, one hand and arm extended along a balustrade. In the other picture we have the same charming young girl seated out in a sunny garden, the face seen in profile. Effects of sunlight and atmosphere are, of course, delightfully suggested, and the picture is also full of tender sentiment.

The Salon of the South is open to the general public, free of charge, through the summer months. William Swift Danlell is conducting it. Occasionally talks on art by well-known painters are given in the gallery, last week there was an enjoyable musicale, when a famous baritone sang.

A Private Collection.

F. Max Kuehnrich, who has lived in Los Angeles for many years, is about to make a sojourn of some duration in Munich. Throughout an active life of business, Mr. Kuehnrich found time to minister to the ideality in his nature, and his collection of paintings and prints is a very interesting one. It will be disposed of from the Kanst gallery, No. 642 South Spring street. As tomorrow is the last day on which it may be seen at the gallery, I would urge all lovers of art to take opportunity by the forelock. I can assure them they will not be disappointed.

A few pieces of porcelain statuary, every one of them lovely, are found in the collection, and over fifty autographed portraits of celebrities, many of them exceedingly rare. Perhaps the most unique and interesting part of the exhibition are the 1400 Seemann color prints, exact copies, in little, of the rarest paintings to be found in the great galleries of Europe. A study of these is an art education in itself. I wish they might become the property of the public schools of Los Angeles.

There are fifteen paintings in the collection. A few of them are huge canvases, two being by "painting professors" of Germany—"Valley of the Isar," by Joseph Wenglein, was painted thirty miles from Munich, where the Isar is still "rolling rapidly;" this has an exceptionally fine sky. "Hayfield," by Hugo Muhlig of Dusseldorf, is a delightful outdoor effect, full of sunlight and air.

A notable portrait is that by Albert Lynch, a young girl in red painted with this artist's characteristic refinement of drawing. Von Bodenhausen's "Julia" is also very lovely, and Herbert Horwit's "June Roses," loosely painted and pastel-like in effect. The pose and the flesh tones are exceptionally beautiful in Reni Avigdor's portrait of a girl in black. Adolph Echtler's two madonnas are finely painted, the "Mater Dolorosa" being striking in pose and deeply religious in feeling, while the "Madonna and Child" has more prettiness of color and pose.

George Debereiner has been showing a collection of recent Dutch pictures in an adjoining gallery for the past few weeks. In the Kuehnrich collection are two portrait studies by him, both painted in an earlier manner, and both good. "Henrietta" is a woman in a black veil, "Princess Chic" is a girl with a red cloak and red hat.

William Schoyer has a home interior, "Afternoon Coffee," painted with dexterity and amazing cleverness, and C. Marschouw, a studio interior with fine effects of light and shade.

Among the beautiful color prints shown are: "Mountain Landscape," Alexandre Calame; "Harvest," Adolf Lier; "Hannele," Kaulbach; "Spring," Boecklin; "Oaks in Storm," Calame; "Lady in Black," Schattenstein; "Dutch Interior," Memling; "Girl in Blue Gown," Peter Leslie.

International Studio.

An especially interesting feature of the International Studio for July is the article on "Some Modern Illuminations," by Baroness Rosenkrantz, with twenty illustrations, many of them in brilliantly colored facsimile. Other articles profusely and beautifully illustrated are "The Spring Exhibition in Vienna," by A. S. Lovetus, and "The Royal Academy Exhibition of 1912."

Under the caption "A Painter of Naval Actions," James Barnes gives an appreciation of the work of Carlton T. Chapman, while T. Martin Wood writes of "The Paintings of Wilfrid G. von Glehn." Each of these papers is accompanied by ten reproductions of paintings, two from Von Glehn being in colors.

Studio Talk, Reviews and Notices, etc., are as full as usual, and the people of The Lay Figure discuss "The Possibilities of Hictorical Painting." Says the critic: "The historical painter has not merely to amuse his contemporaries; he has to interest the art-lovers in the future. His picture must not be an ephemeral thing, but a permanent addition to the art of the world, and it must have all the qualities which make for permanence."

ART NOTES.

Nell Brooker Mayhew is preparing for an early exhibition of her pictures.

The water color landscapes of Helen Balfour may still be seen in the Royar gallery, No. 744 South Hill street. They will be withdrawn at the end of this week.

An interesting exhibition of Dutch pictures, still in progress at Kanst's, No. 642 South Spring street, is that of George Debereiner.

For the past few weeks recent pictures by Jules Pages have been shown in the Steckel gallery, No. 336½ South Broadway. They are still on view.

A Paris gardener, Victor Desprats, whose ambitions had outgrown the small plot of ground at his disposal, hit upon the idea of planting mushrooms in the square yard or so of earth left beneath the gratings which cover the roots of the trees in the Place de la Republique, in the heart of Paris. He put his project into execution and by dint of a careful tending and watering, is now reaping a crop of from twelve to twenty pounds of mushrooms a week.

PERSONAL— THE WORLD'S GREATEST PSYCHIC. OTHERS MAY COME AND GO BEAR IN MIND STANLEY is here to stay for all time. HIS $2 READINGS FOR SHORT TIME, 50c—50c—50c—50c—50c. Don't call after time expires and expect same prices. Between Second and Third streets, Near Angels' Flight. 347 S. Hill st. 347. BEFORE YOU GO INTO ANYTHING OF IMPORTANCE OR UNDERTAKE ANYTHING SERIOUS —IN BUSINESS, OR LOVE, OR MARRIAGE, OR BEFORE YOU MAKE ANY CHANGE — YOU SHOULD CONSULT THE MASTER MIND OF PSYCHICS. ALWAYS CONSULT THE BEST. IT IS THE CHEAPEST IN THE END. IT IS BETTER TO CONSULT NO PSYCHIC THAN ONE WHO IS NOT ABLE TO HELP YOU. A foolish weakling only will pay for a reading that gives no benefit. Stop and think. DON'T STRUGGLE WITH A BURDEN YOU CAN DIVIDE. A TROUBLED MIND BEGETS A MORBID CONSCIENCE. SYMPATHY, CONSOLATION AND TIMELY ADVICE HEAL THE WORST OF WOUNDS. BE ADVISED AND RELIEVED OF ANXIETY. Realizing that this city has been overrun with pretenders, and that many of its best citizens are anxious to visit a genuine psychic, Mr. Stanley's many years' residence with his large clientage should be proof enough of his ability. He has met every advertised promise, and wishes to not be measured by any other standard than his own. If you contemplate consulting a psychic several things should be taken into consideration—ABILITY, the HONESTY of methods, the FAIRNESS of dealings, the HIGHER degree of work, the ACCURACY of each prediction, the COMMON SENSE used with it, the INTEREST taken in each case, the RESPECT shown to each caller, the fact of SECRECY in consultation, the FEE charged for services. BYRON L. STANLEY IS A DOUBLE GUARANTEE. He has the indorsements of hundreds of the most noted men and women of America. He deems them of little value, since he stands alone upon the merits of his work. Any person who can believe their own eyes and ears cannot help but know that he is a man of high ability and indisputable power excelled by no man on earth in this line. He was born with a strange and remarkable power—power not meant to gratify the idle curious, but to direct, advise and help men and women who are in trouble and suspense concerning the every-day affairs of life. OFFICE HOURS 10 TO 1:30. DAILY AND SUNDAY. REMEMBER NAME AND NUMBER. BYRON L. STANLEY, 347—SOUTH HILL STREET—347 BETWEEN SECOND AND THIRD STS. NEAR ANGELS' FLIGHT.

PERSONAL— PROF. C. IRVIN ALTHOUSE, NOTED PALMIST AND ASTROLOGER OF NATIONAL FAME AND REPUTATION. REMOVED TO THE NEW STUDIO PARLORS, 532½ S. BROADWAY. A RESIDENT OF LOS ANGELES 22 YEARS. PROF. ALTHOUSE is an experienced practitioner in the science of modern ASTROLOGY, by which he has made many REMARKABLE PREDICTIONS. The horoscope shows the powerful influence of the planets in all affairs of life. It shows diseases, deaths, love and marriage, financial affairs, talents, environments, about children, relatives, when and where to travel, what to seek or to avoid, when in danger of losses, troubles, etc., etc., also your good periods coming—giving dates of these events for the future. PROF. ALTHOUSE read E. H. Sothern, Nat Goodwin, Mary Mannering, Gadski, Admiral Schley, David Starr Jordan, ex-Gov. Pardee, ex-Senator Clark, Gen. Chaffee, Edison Sousa, Modjeska, Julia Marlowe, Anna Held, Jefferson, Capt. Hobson, Lillian Russell, Calve, Admiral Evans, H. E. Huntington, De Wolf Hopper, Maxine Elliott. PROF. ALTHOUSE'S SKILLED WORK with his trained judgment must in no wise be classed with that of other readers. Therefore do not waste your money on the idiotic advice and warning of HUMBUG astrologers, almists, psychics—those doing dishonest work. PROF. ALTHOUSE is an expert PALMIST and WITH EACH PALM READING gives he an ASTROLOGICAL READING. DR. J. A. LARSEN writes: "I want to say that your reading was the most satisfactory thing I have ever had in my life. I know a great deal about these sciences and I consider your work as the most THOROUGH and reliable of any reader in the United States." PROF. ALTHOUSE'S wonderful proficiency in the casting of HOROSCOPES and hand reading has brought him a LARGE AND SUCCESSFUL PRACTICE. The most private confidences are reposed in him, and his advice is sought in the most difficult and critical circumstances. Personal attention. Strict privacy. HIGHEST GRADE OF WORK that skill and many years of experience can produce. Therefore HIGH-CLASS PATRONAGE SOLICITED. Daily and evening; Sunday, 10 to 2. STUDIO PARLORS, 532½ S. BROADWAY.

DAYS FOR TRIP WITH HIS LIFE

N DIEGO YOUTH "BORROWS CAR FOR A JOY RIDE.

peeding Through the Darkness in the Early Morning Over a Dangerous Road the Machine Plunges Over a Fifty-foot Bluff and the Driver Is Instantly Killed.

BY DIRECT WIRE TO THIS TIMES.

SAN DIEGO, July 13.—[Exclusive dispatch.] Tearing through the darkness and over a dangerous road at 3:30 o'clock this morning, Ward Hewitt, driving an automobile occupied by another youth and two girls failed to make a sharp curve in the highway at the end of the Ocean Beach boulevard, a short distance north of the Pollock, and the machine plunged through a board fence and over a fifty-foot embankment.

Hewitt was killed outright, and the two girls, Laura Fulton and Ruth Burton, were injured, but not seriously. Frank Karruth, third member of the party was thrown clear of the wreck and was not hurt. That all were not killed is considered remarkable. The automobile belonged to the Packard Auto Rental Company, from which Hewitt was employed as chauffeur. According to the manager of the company the youth, who had been forbidden to drive any of the cars, took the machine from the garage without his employer's knowledge and was on a joy-ride when the accident happened. His head was crushed by the frame work of the wind shield and bits of glass penetrated his skull. The young women are at Agnew Sanitarium suffering from severe bruises but it will recover.

Hewitt, who was a messenger boy before he went to work for the company, was 24 years of age. He is in the service of a local express company.

ON FEDERAL CHARGE.

Charged in an indictment voted by the Federal grand jury at Los Angeles with setting fires or causing fires to be started on the Cleveland forest reserve, E. S. Babcock, president of the Los Angeles and San Diego Railway, a suburban line, and one of the wealthiest men in San Diego, was arrested this morning by a Deputy United States Marshal. He gave bonds in the sum of $2500, to appear before the Federal court in Los Angeles for trial.

The indictment is the result of a crush and timber fire on San Miguel mountain east of San Diego. It is charged Babcock ordered ranch hands to burn the brush on his ranch at the base of the mountain and that the fire get beyond control and enter the reserve. The evidence was laid before the grand jury as a result of investigation made by Forestry bureau operatives.

SONAMBULISM.

Investigation by the police has revealed that the disappearance of articles valued at more than $100 are reported to the officers as a robber, one due to the activity of the victim while walking in her sleep. It is bargrined were the woman and her husband that the couple begged the police to keep the case secret.

ON PROBATION.

Walter E. Carroll, confessed to arsonist, through the intercession of his wife and the refusal of his wife to prosecute, was released on probation under a two years' sentence in Judge T. L. Lewis's court today. Mrs. Carroll, No. 1, formerly was Miss Minnie Fritz of Van Buren, Ark., and her successor, whom Carroll married May 30, last, is Pearl Smith of San Diego. He and his former wife have become reconciled.

MUNICIPAL HARBOR.

The City Council today decided definitely upon a municipal harbor administration, which shall be under the head of Harbor Master, Engineer and Secretary, Engineer E. E. Capps will be the responsible head of the administration unless present plans be changed and the city auditing department will receive and disburse harbor funds.

TWO WOMEN PINCHED.

Held Under Grand Larceny Charge on Advices From San Francisco Admit Giving Fictitious Names.

Acting on telegraphic instructions received from the Chief of Police of San Francisco, two young women giving their names as Ready Hall and Hildva Gordon were arrested at the Arcade Depot last night just as they stepped from the train.

According to information received by the police, the prisoners are wanted on a charge of grand larceny, having allegedly a large amount of money from a prominent business man of the bay city.

As the two suspects descended from the car they were approached by detectives Jones and Erven and told that they were under arrest. Both flatly denying the allegation that they were high-class thieves, the latter woman asserted that her name was Miss Mabel Ford, an actress on her way to join her company in this city. Her companion said her name was Mrs. Mabel Rose, but she could give no satisfactory reason for being in the city, they were both taken to the Boyle Heights station and locked up.

Later the women said that they had given wrong names, but that they had stolen any money they will be held until an officer arrives from San Francisco.

FACT AND COMMENT.

"I have all the respect in the world for the Los Angeles Realty Board and fully appreciate the good work that has been accomplished by that organization," writes a friend of the Fact and Comment man, "but I think the board has laid itself open to criticism in not making a campaign against billboards a feature of its fight for a cleaner and more presentable city. I am a property owner and possess a number of vacant lots in different parts of Los Angeles. These I cleaned of weeds immediately after the realty board began its fight for the anti-weed ordinance.

"Now what makes me weary is the fact that at least a dozen agents, all members of the board, insist upon defacing such of my lots as I have offered for sale with real estate signboards. My lots are free from weeds, it is true, but the signboards are almost as bad, so far as appearances go. When I protested against the signs every agent assured me that everyone else permitted it and that it was quite the thing to do. Well, next week those signs go if I never sell a single lot as the result of it. In defacing the vacant property of the city with signs, as they do, the realty men are guilty of an inconsistency which I happen to know, is the subject of considerable comment. If the board members are so keen for a presentable city let them practice what they preach."

Amen to This.

Amen to the above! That letter expresses the sentiments of the Fact and Comment man to the dot. Why, indeed, should the weeds be attacked by the law and the signboards left untouched? No one can maintain, surely, that the painted signs with which thousands upon thousands of lots in this city fairly bristle have any ornamental value. In its unquestionably sincere efforts to beautify Los Angeles the realty board is most certainly overlooking a fault which is rather uncomfortably near home.

The sign board is a relic of a past in which business completely crowded out all esthetic considerations; it does not belong in a modern metropolis like Los Angeles. The very belief that it is efficacious as an advertising medium is archaic. If no signs appeared on any lot just as much realty would change hands. It is the competitive idea that multiplies the signs—the broker who sees another man's sign displayed immediately fancies that the other fellow is on the edge on him in some way and proceeds to stick up a painted atrocity of his own.

And just a word about the weeds: Where are the "cops" of yesterday who started out so boldly to enforce the brand new anti-weed ordinance? The weeds themselves are still much in evidence and, so far as the writer has been able to ascertain, no one is suffering any penalty for his infraction of the law. The growth on some of the cities in otherwise beautiful districts of Los Angeles, may, without exaggeration, be described as luxurious. If the new anti-weed law really possesses the kind of steam-roller effectiveness which its originators claim for it, isn't it about time that the machinery was oiled up and set in motion?

Still in Lead.

Los Angeles has reaffirmed its right to be called the liveliest of all American cities by duplicating its record of the past three years as to supremacy in construction activity. Only New York, Chicago and Philadelphia, of three cities of the million class, and hence not to be fairly compared with this city, led Los Angeles in the country for new buildings from January 1 to July 1, inclusively, according to the American Contractor of Chicago.

New York City headed the list for the six months in question with a grand total of $116,378,638, showing a gain of 24 per cent. over the corresponding period of 1911. Chicago was second with $40,893,500, gaining 9 per cent., and Philadelphia, third, with $19,349,205, losing 15 per cent. Los Angeles, with $14,714,274 building valuation shows a gain of 27 per cent. Detroit, the big, hustling city of the Middle West, was rather uncomfortably close upon our heels with a valuation of $14,387,200, and boasted a gain of 43 per cent.

San Francisco followed Detroit with $12,428,275 which is 12 per cent. better than the figure of 1911. St. Louis gained 15 per cent. and had the quite creditable total of $11,888,503. Portland upheld the honors of the Northwest by claiming eighth place with a valuation of $8,798,267, a figure, which, though 8 per cent. less than that of the previous year, yet was sufficiently large to put the Pacific Coast city ahead of Cleveland, Buffalo, Kansas City, Milwaukee, Minneapolis, Newark, Pittsburgh, and other larger cities in the East and Middle West. Seattle picked up 22 per cent., with a valuation of $4,852,990.

July promises to materially increase the lead of Los Angeles over Detroit, and other large cities of the country, as approximately $1,500,000 has already been added to the half-year total since the first of this month, the aggregate up to Friday evening being $16,185,306. This splendid total will have been raised to approximately $18,000,000 by August 1, if the present rate of activity is maintained.

It was a strange freak of chance which gave Washington, D. C., place above Los Angeles in the valuation total for the month of June, when this city eclipsed all its own past performances and might logically have been expected to retain the position of fourth place in the national column which it ordinarily boasts. Washington is usually not in the running and undoubtedly its great total of over $4,000,000 for the single month is to be accounted for by the issuance of one or more permits for great Federal buildings. As it was, Los Angeles pressed closely upon Philadelphia for fourth place in valuation and actually eclipsed every other city in the country excepting New York and Philadelphia in the number of permits taken out for the month of June.

NORMAL PLANS STARTED.

Group of Nine Buildings to Be Erected on State's New Campus at Vermont and Monroe Avenues.

Architects Allison & Allison of this city have been officially commissioned by the trustees of the State Normal School to prepare plans for the group of buildings that is to be erected at the site recently purchased by the State on Vermont avenue, between Monroe and Willowbrook avenues. Preliminary studies have been made for nine buildings and estimates are being made for different kinds of construction. No definite type of construction will be decided upon until it is known just how much money will be available from the sale of the present Normal site at Fifth street and Grand avenue.

The structures planned for the new Normal group are a main building, science building, library, fine arts building, domestic science building, training school, manual arts building, gymnasium and power plant. Large athletic grounds and tennis courts are also provided for. The administration building will have a frontage of 328 feet and will contain an auditorium seating 1600. It is expected that work will be started on the group in the fall.

WOLBROOK PARK SALES.

The following sales are reported in Walbrook Park: E. C. Robinson, 50x149 feet, $1800; Agnes Beaber, 50x148 feet, $2000; Curt Waldenfolds, 50x149 feet, $1800, and George M. Pardee, 50x148 feet, $1400. Pardee and Robinson expect to build on their lots at once. F. E. Corey is preparing plans for a house on the same tract. The prospect of the early creation of Silver Lake parkway has greatly stimulated activity in its vicinity, especially in Walbrook Park and Mabery Heights.

Fireproof Hostelry for Figueroa Near Sixth.

Fine Hotel, Construction of Which Is Now Assured.

Two-hundred-thousand-dollar improvement to be erected as result of week's record lease, concluded on Friday between Mrs. Hattie M. Morris, as lessor and owner, and Mrs. L. M. Lynch of Chicago, as lessee.

PINE TREE STATE ASSOCIATION.

The Pine Tree State Association of Los Angeles will issue, about the first of September, "The First Official Directory of Maine," which will be of interest to everybody, and particularly to all people who were born in Main or have lived there at some period of their lives.

The book will contain about 150 pages, fifty of which will be devoted to the directory, which will be one of the most valuable features of the publication, from the fact that it will contain the name, Maine home and present address of every transplanted person from the Pine Tree State, thus enabling their friends to locate them easily and quickly. A sketch of Maine, covering perhaps fifteen pages, will portray its scenic attractions inland and on the rockbound coast, which for gradeur and beauty are not to be exceeded in this country or any other. Mention will be made of its people, its lumber interests, potato industry, etc. There will also be several half-tone illustrations of the lakes, rivers and trout streams of the good old State. In addition to the above, there will be photographs of prominent men and women, professional, business and retired, who were either born in Maine, have lived there some time, or have married into Maine families, and are now residents of Southern California; and in connection with the photographs, there will be published 200-word biographies of each person. Several pages have been devoted to "In Memoriam" sketches by people who prefer to immortalize their friends rather than to be represented themselves. Miss Helen B. Trask is preparing the work.

TENTH AND FIGUEROA.

Estate Transfers Close-in Corner to Capitalist Who Will Improve Site with Modern Four-story Hotel.

A site with a frontage of sixty feet on Tenth street by 105 feet on Figueroa street, and at the southwest corner of these thoroughfares, was transferred yesterday by the Finch Estate to A. Bernheim, formerly president of Anderson & Chanslor. W. B. Merwin & Co. represented both parties to the transaction. The consideration is given at $45,000.

Bernheim will remove the small buildings now on the site and will erect a four-story steel frame hotel on the corner. This structure will be thoroughly modern and will contain sixty rooms, with five stores on the ground floor. Plans for the improvement are now being prepared by Morgan, Walls & Morgan.

VALLEY TRACTS ON MARKET.

Two San Fernando Valley tracts are now being put on the market by the Patton and Longley Company. One is a 414-acre piece purchased from the Mission Land Company and situated near to the electric car line that is being built from Van Nuys to San Fernando. The property is now being improved. The other tract was bought from George Platt, president of the Los Angeles Creamery Company, and consists of 240 acres lying to the south and east of Van Nuys. This holding is being offered in one, two and five-acre pieces.

PLANNING PARISH SCHOOLS.

Local Architect Commissioned to Draw Designs for Two Roman Catholic Educational Institutions.

Plans are being drawn by Albert C. Martin of this city for a two-story and basement brick parochial school to be erected on West Adams street near Vermont avenue for the Roman Catholic Bishop of Los Angeles and Monterey. The building will be 120x80 feet in size, and thoroughly equipped. The school will serve the St. Agnes parish, of which the Rev. Father Clement Malone is rector.

Working drawings for a two-story frame parochial school building to be erected in Manchester Heights are being prepared by the same architect. The structure will contain four classrooms on the ground floor, and a hall above.

PLAN FINE APARTMENTS.

A six-story and basement fireproof hotel and apartment-building on West Eighth street is projected by the new Conservative Investment Company. The new building will be built directly at the rear of the Golden apartments on West Seventh street, now owned by this company, and will have a frontage of 260 feet. The company owns nearly a half acre block of property in this location. The property, which now comprises the Golden and Park apartments, has a frontage of 200 feet on Eighth street and 265 feet on Seventh street. It is 700 feet deep from Seventh to Eighth and contains one of the largest private apartment-house parks in the city. The Park apartments, in the center of the property, are of frame construction, and will eventually be torn down when the park scheme for the site is worked out, and the new apartments on Eighth street have been finished.

CHURCH CONTRACT LET.

The contract for the construction of the new house of worship of the West Adams Methodist Episcopal Church at West Adams and La Salle streets has been awarded to the Richards-Neustadt Company. The cost of the church, exclusive of furnishings and art glass windows, will be $28,000. The auditorium of the structure will have a seating capacity of 600. A perspective of the church, from plans drawn by the architects, John C. Austin and W. C. Pennell, was recently published in The Times.

BARBECUE AND "JINKS."

The second annual barbecue and "jinks" of the Association of Credit Men of Building Material Dealers of this city will be held at Santa Monica Canyon next Saturday. The members will leave Hotel Hollenbeck at 12:15 o'clock by automobile. In addition to the barbecue a programme of sports has been arranged.

Another One.

FINE HOTEL FOR SOUTH FIGUEROA

Lease Just Signed Makes the Project Certain.

Building to be Seven Stories High and Fireproof.

Outlay to Approximate Three Hundred Thousand.

The most noteworthy lease granted in this city during the past week was that taken by Mrs. L. M. Lynch of Chicago on a seven-story reinforced concrete family hotel to be erected by Mrs. Hattie M. Morris on the east side of Figueroa street, adjoining the nine-story hotel now nearing completion for Carroll W. Gates at Sixth and Figueroa. The deal involves a ten-year tenure of the property and a total rental consideration of approximately $192,000. The improvement itself will cost about $200,000.

In the transaction Mrs. Morris was represented by Burns & Harris, with Robert Marsh & Co., and Mrs. Lynch by Arthur S. Hyman. Plans for the building were started by the architect, A. Relf, in March, as previously reported in The Times, and it had been the intention of the owner to proceed at once with the construction of the building, regardless of whether a tenant was secured. At the instance of the lessee several minor changes are to be made in the original plans.

The building contemplated will have a frontage of fifty-two feet on Figueroa street by a depth of 156 feet, and will extend to Lebanon street at the rear. The site is valued at $50,000 by its owner and the total amount represented in the deal just concluded, including the value of the lot, the investment in the building, the leasing consideration and the cost of the expensive furnishings that are to be installed by the lessee is given at approximately $400,000.

The hotel will be of the class "A" fireproof type and thoroughly modern. It will be handsomely faced with cream-colored glazed brick and terra cotta. The entrance will be protected by an ornamental bronze marquise. By the placing of two wide courts at the side, every room will be given an outside exposure.

The lobby will be finished in marble and mahogany, as will also the mezzanine floor. Each of the 150 rooms will be provided with a private, tile-finished bath. The dining-room will be located in the basement and will be finished in the Dutch style. A large ballroom and roof garden will be features.

Mrs. Morris, the lessor of the improvement, is the owner of the Florence apartments, immediately adjoining the site on the south. The new hostelry is to be known as the Illinois Hotel.

Sixth and Figueroa is coming to be quite a hotel center. In addition to the hotel for Gates and that for Mrs. Morris, there will soon be erected at the southwest corner of the thoroughfares in question a hostelry of ten or more stories in height, the property of John Parkinson, who on Wednesday paid Robert Marsh and F. H. Edwards $130,000 for that site. Only a short distance away, on Orange street just west of Figueroa, a nine-story apartment hotel is nearing completion for F. O. Engstrum.

BUYS SOUTH MAIN SITE.

Orange Groves Involved in Deal for Local Business Property. Agents Report Large Sale List.

The K. Lundeen Company reports sales since July 1 as follows: Fifty-foot lot on Main street, near Seventh, improved with a one-story brick building, known as Nos. 734-36-38 South Main street, to H. H. Ford by George E. Hart, $140,000. W. J. Dunn & Co., of Redlands assisted in the deal. H. H. Ford to George E. Hart, two orange groves in the University Heights section, Redlands, one containing thirty acres and the other four acres, $60,000.

George Cunningham to W. J. McMillan, 260 feet on Naud street, running through to Wise street, improved with six houses, $45,000. McMillan, as partial payment, deeded to Cunningham 225 acres of land near Ventura county, valued at $25,000.

Z. L. Parmelee to S. N. Dutcher, six houses on Alta Vista street, Hollywood, each lot having a frontage of fifty feet by a depth of 172 feet, together with a nine-room house on Raymond avenue, Pasadena; lot 64x169 feet, total consideration, $37,000. A. Struthers of Pasadena, to a local investor, 48x150 feet, improved with a six-room cottage, at No. 2506 West Pico street, $15,000. R. A. Hannah to C. E. Davenport, property at Mariposa and Lyfort streets, Huntington Park, lot 53x133 feet, with nine-room residence, $7500.

S. N. Dutcher to Z. L. Parmelee, 50x150 feet on Temple street, with piece on the rear 30x60 feet, improved with cottages, and a four-flat building, $35,000. Jacob Rifkin to John Quick, 100x146 feet on Thirty-ninth and McKinley, with two flats of ten rooms each. As partial payment Quick deeds to Rifkin eighty-seven acres in Tulare county at the price of $8000, paying the difference in cash. C. E. Davenport to R. H. Hannah, lot in the S. R. Lanterman tract at La Canada, containing five acres, improved with houses and different varieties of fruits, $7500.

TAKES LONG-TERM LEASE.

Site on West Sixth Secured for Fifty Years by Capitalist Who Will Erect Substantial Improvement.

Leon R. Conklin, formerly with Bryan & Bradford, now operating with the Valley Realty Company of Alhambra, reports the leasing for fifty years to William L. Bfenkiron of the property at No. 523 West Sixth street for Dr. E. W. Minney and Gettie E. Finch, the total consideration being given at $162,000.

The lessors are to erect a building to cost not less than $25,000 within five years.

OUR idea of a home is one both PRACTICAL and ARTISTIC. By careful thought we manage to instill certain INDIVIDUALITY in each home.

It quite frequently happens that the PROSPECTIVE BUILDER'S IDEAS and PURSE do not correspond. In such cases our PRACTICAL knowledge comes to the rescue, and often where others have hopelessly FAILED, WE SUCCEED.

We build homes from the modern five-room cottage, at $900, to the most elaborate dwelling. It rests with the INDIVIDUAL, entirely, what his home will cost. By concentrating our PURCHASING POWER, combined with our PRACTICAL knowledge, and being in a position to DISCOUNT our BILLS, we can, for a given quality of work, discount our competitors' prices.

We build either by contracts on a fixed fee of 10 per cent. of estimated cost of work, or on our own lots in Los Angeles, Redondo and San Pedro, on easy terms.

We make no additional charges for our Architectural services, if we build, or if we fail to satisfy you both as to price and design.

NEW SWISS CHALET BUNGALOW.
Just Finished.
—$7000—

One of the most attractive Swiss chalet bungalow in the Wilshire district on St. Andrews Place. Good sized lot, hardwood floors throughout; in fact, it is strictly up-to-date in every way. This house has a beautiful living room and dining room finished in fine woods. There is also a den, full cabinet kitchen, good size bedrooms, also two fine porches opening on a patio. Cement driveway and garage. A very good buy.

CORNER HOUSE NEAR
WILSHIRE BOULEVARD.

Are you looking for a home? If so, we can give you an exceptional opportunity to buy. It is a decided bargain that is marked down for a quick sale. This is a brand new residence and contains nine large rooms, and is well planned. Good exterior and very well built, and will stand the most thorough investigation. The very best building material having been used. The finish throughout is superb. The music room is in Peruvian mahogany. The living room in Prima Vera mahogany. The dining room red mahogany and egg-shell enamel finish. The balance of the house is finished to correspond and harmonize with the above.

This beautiful place is located just south of Wilshire Blvd., on one of the best streets, lined with elegant homes. It is on an easterly front lot that sets up high, with plenty of width, so that between the adjoining homes it is not crowded for sunshine and air.

We can talk a great deal about this home, but would prefer showing it to you and we can positively assure you that you will find it perfect and complete down to the last detail. We can now offer you this elegant home at the extremely low price of $9500.

WILTON PLACE, WILSHIRE BUNGALOW.

BUILT FOR A HOME.

$5300.

Here's one of the most artistic seven-room bungalows for the price and location that we have ever seen—Wilton place, on a high, sightly, fifty-foot lot.

This charming place has all the features of a $7500 bungalow. A great big living-room across the entire front of the house; a beautiful dining-room with French doors leading to the front porch; a bright, sunny breakfast-room; a delightful kitchen with all built-in features; two airy, dainty bedrooms, most artistically papered; a splendidly equipped bath, and a commodious cement basement. On the second floor is a most attractive room which might be used as a sleeping-room.

If you don't want to spend much money, but are in the market for a desirable and well-built bungalow in the most popular residence section of Los Angeles, this is the place. See us before it is gone.

WILSHIRE CHALET.

A SPLENDID VALUE.

$6750.

Just think of it! Here is a two-story, nine-room house, located in a fine neighborhood, where houses are selling up to $10,000.

Because this place is cheap, don't feel that the value is not there, for it is; the appointments and finish are as good as you will find in a $10,000 property. Just completed and the interior plans are unusually attractive. The rooms are of good size, with plenty of air and sunshine, big closets, etc., in fact, there isn't a badly arranged room in the house; one of the leading decorators in the city did the interior decoration, there are hardwood floors throughout, even in the kitchen and back porch, fine basement with furnace, garage with cement floor and cement walks around entire house. The lot is elevated, giving a fine view of the mountains. You could not buy a building site in this locality and duplicate the place for anything like the above figure, so you better see it with us before it is sold.

ON ONE OF THE BEST WILSHIRE STREETS.

$6000.

New, eight-room home, just completed; hardwood floors throughout; cellar, furnace—in fact, it is all ready to move into. Located on Manhattan place, high, sightly, and in the best part of the Wilshire district. This beautiful chalet was built for a home, but the owner has built an apartment in the meantime and has decided to run it. At $5500 this home is $500 under cost; the mortgage is $4000, three years; balance must be cash. Get busy! This is a real chance to pick a bargain.

MAGNOLIA SACRIFICE.

$7000.

There are two mortgages on this new, nine-room home, one of them about to be foreclosed. Here is an opportunity for you to pick up a real bargain. The lot is east front, right in the center of the Westmoreland tract, surrounded by beautiful, high-class homes; $1500 cash, balance $100 per month will handle this. Get busy—it won't last long.

CAHUENGA BOULEVARD SNAP.

$8750.

A real colonial home of nine rooms, located on Cahuenga blvd., just off Sixth, on a lot 60x170 feet; this is a real home and looks more like $12,000 than $8750. See this with us Monday. $1500 cash, balance to suit.

ON MANHATTAN PLACE.

$12,000.

You can't beat this! It's the best bargain in Wilshire, or any other district. A big, handsome home of ten rooms, with every finished convenience inside, and as beautiful a residence outside as can be found for twice the money. The downstairs woodwork is all mahogany and oak; the arrangement of the rooms is ideal for cosiness and sunshine; there isn't a flaw to be found anywhere. It's an $18,000 property—offered at the above low figure because the owner is returning East to stay. (He'll come back and kick himself for having sold it, but you'll be the gainer meanwhile!) Ask us to show this home to you at once.

MAGNIFICENT NEW HOME IN EXCLUSIVE WILSHIRE DISTRICT.

Including all the finest of carpets and beautiful draperies, especially designed to harmonize in color and materials with the finish and wall coverings in each room. This splendid property is on very high ground in the best part of the Wilshire district and a few doors off Wilshire boulevard—the boulevard on which upwards of $100,000 are being spent, making it one of the best residence boulevards in America.

The house has eleven rooms, including conservatory and extra large tiled bath, and an immense attic over the entire house. The lower floor contains an especially designed library, a most spacious living-room and inglenook, all finished in rich brown Peruvian mahogany, a large colonial dining-room in ivory white and mahogany, from which the conservatory and pergola open, and a buffet pantry and kitchen in white enamel. Upstairs are four large sleeping-rooms, numerous commodious closets, a sleeping balcony and a fine bath. The place is most complete and is artistically decorated throughout.

Priced at $13,000, the owner will sell the house, completely and magnificently furnished—in massive mahogany; will include his extensive library and all paintings, marbles, bric-a-brac, art pieces personally selected in the art centers of the world, table services in Sheffield and sterling silver, china, glassware, beautiful linens, beddings, etc.

This is an unusual opportunity to secure a completely and richly furnished home at a sacrifice. And think of the trouble you are saving yourself. Immediate possession can be given.

WILSHIRE DISTRICT HOME.

$22,500.

Mission home, located near Ardmore and Sixth, thirteen rooms and three baths—two of them tiled, on a lot 76x135 feet. The elevation of this home is about the most pleasing of any in the Wilshire section, the old Mission style being followed even to the genuine tiled roof. The lower floor is finished in selected hardwood, all hand-rubbed, and the upper floor, containing five bedchambers, two baths and sleeping porch, in exquisite egg-shell enamel. Cellar, furnace, Ruud heater and double garage complete the home. It's new, never occupied, and ready for occupancy without a day's delay. Let us show it to you. Terms may be arranged.

WEST ADAMS HEIGHTS SACRIFICE.

This beautiful twelve-room home was finished two months ago at a cost of about $30,000, and now the owner must dispose of it, as he needs the money. The mortgage is $12,500. What have you, clear, in the city or Hollywood, to offer for the equity? Hardwood finish, five bedchambers, three baths, two fully tiled, cellar, furnace Ruud heater, two-story garage with room for two machines; east front lot, 74x178. Call us for more information. It's a real chance to get a bargain. Prefer a Hollywood bungalow for the equity.

BEAUTIFUL MODERN BUNGALOW.

Owner forced to sell. At the price of $4000 the purchaser will save at least $1000 in the actual value of this property. The location and high class surroundings will explain why. Very attractive chalet exterior. Hardwood floors throughout. Two beautiful airy bedrooms, breakfast, living-room, dining-room and cabinet kitchen in white enamel. The decorations and finish of this home are only found in high class homes at very much higher prices. This property should be sold by Tuesday. We will be pleased to show you.

NEAR OXFORD AND FOURTH.

EIGHT-ROOM RESIDENCE.

$6000—$6000.

One of the new residences which include all of the latest conveniences and ideas that aid so much in housekeeping. The house shows that it was built by the owner for a home. Improved lot, 50x165, on the lower floor is the living-room, den, a library with disappearing bed, built-in writing desk and bookcases, dining-room with attractive lighting fixtures and especially designed buffet. Two bedrooms and bath on lower floor. Beautifully decorated breakfast room and cabinet kitchen, in white enamel. On second floor are two bedrooms, one with casement windows which when open makes this a delightful sleeping porch and lavatory. Hardwood floors up and down, cellar and furnace, garage, a very complete home; we assure you that the price is less than present value.

HIGH CLASS WILSHIRE HOME.

NINE-ROOM—TWO-STORY.

$8500, WORTH $12,000.

Fine two-story residence, situated in one of the best improved blocks, close to Wilshire blvd. Highly improved lot, very pleasing exterior. Beautiful entrance into large living-room, den or library, dining-room, telephone booth, breakfast-room, cabinet kitchen on lower floor. Upstairs are four bedrooms and sleeping balcony. The house was recently painted and newly decorated throughout and everything is new, the house was built about one year ago, owner has just completed a larger house and will sell this beautiful home at a price which makes it a big snap. All woodwork has a splendid finish and the decorations are choice. Perfectly arranged, cement cellar and furnace. Garage with servant's room. This is a residence that will sell quick.

FINE WEST ADAMS HOME.

MISSION CEMENT EXTERIOR.

$16,500—LOOKS LIKE $25,000.

On one of the finest residence streets in the city. The homes in this block sold or were built for not less than $20,000 to $30,000 each. This, of course, is a first-class section, cement exterior or mission type. 60-foot lot, main rooms on lower floor are finished in mahogany, oak, birch and selected grained woods. Five beautifully decorated bedrooms, sleeping porch and two splendid tile baths on second floor. Maid's room and bath on lower floor. Furnace, Ruud heater, garage and all other conveniences that complete the modern home. The mission exterior gives a home a very stylish and substantial appearance, and is truly characteristic of Southern California. The homeseeker is not often offered the rare chance of purchasing a home of this type for less than $25,000.

GRAND NORMANDIE HILL MANSION.

EXCLUSIVE HIGH CLASS.

$23,500—$23,500.

BETTER THAN SOME $40,000 HOMES.

Grand new residence, located on large grounds, on high point in Wilshire district, this grand home is the latest achievement in building and architecture; main rooms in selected hardwood and costly decorations of tapestries. Imported paper, oiled canvas walls, etc.; special lighting fixtures. Six bedrooms and three baths, including servant's quarters. The house will have to be seen to be fully appreciated. As this class of residence is very hard to properly describe in an advertisement, we wish to say that every convenience and home comfort have been planned for, and the result is certainly ideal. We consider the value of $23,500 to be considerably less than you or I could duplicate same. Autos and courteous salesmen at your service.

BUSINESS FRONTAGE.

Do you realize the increase in values? Paved street, car line and sewer.

REMEMBER VERMONT AVENUE LOTS.

Future increase in price alone worth consideration. We have 5 very pretty lots 50x150 each, on Vermont avenue, in the vicinity of 54th st., on which

WE WILL BUILD 5-ROOM BUNGALOWS.

House and lot to cost you approximately $3900.

You make us a small payment down, balance monthly.

These houses will be thoroughly up-to-date in every way, and plan to suit you.

Remember that this frontage will increase within 5 years to where the lot alone will be worth, conservatively speaking, $4000. Years ago people bought houses on Broadway and Spring; look today and see what they are worth.

Of course business frontage is not an ideal homesite, yet at the same time it is the kind of property that makes one rich. If you didn't mind living within a short distance of the street-car line and a business thoroughfare, and can afford to wait a few years for increase of property, then this is the place to buy.

The price of the lots has not been increased and we are offering them today at the same figure we did three or four years ago when the tract in which these lots are located was originally put on the market.

The syndicate owning these lots simply want to throw them on interest.

Mr. Stranger, or the man who has lived in Los Angeles for a long time, will do well to consider this property. For further particulars see

FOR SALE—

SIX-ROOM BUNGALOW,
VERMONT AVENUE.

This syndicate originally owned 468 lots between 52nd and 58th streets. We have remaining

5 LOTS ON VERMONT AVENUE.

These lots are good business lots. If you have us build you a home on one of these lots now, and hold it for a few years, you will make money. You will make money by the increase in the price of the lot.

Why does the lot increase in value?

For several reasons.

For one reason, a residence lot that eventually becomes a business lot will more than double in value.

Come in and see us and we will build you a house to suit on easy terms, on any of these lots on a small payment down.

The lots are located on Vermont avenue between 54th and 56th streets. Paved streets, sewer, gas and electricity.

FOR SALE— Houses.

TROUBLES OF A MODEST YOUNG MAN.
SACRIFICE SALE
OF ONE OF LOS ANGELES FAMOUS
SIX-ROOM BUNGALOWS.

My friend read this. It's interesting to money in your pocket. My father always said I was different from anyone else, it may be right, but at any rate I don't like suits me. Guess I am too young to settle down to home life and spend my evenings by the fireside.

At any rate, my friend, I have something there that's real money to you.

IT'S A SIX-ROOM BUNGALOW.

It troubles me and I don't like trouble, $500 BELOW THE MARKET PRICE.

This beautiful bungalow is brand new, has oak floors throughout. The house is beautifully finished. It's papered throughout. The bathroom is a dream—elegant fixtures, light fixtures, large living-room with nook, good sized bedrooms, which are light and airy and by the way, the location of the house is absolutely ideal. It's on high ground. It has beautiful surroundings and is only 16 minutes on the street car to 1st and Broadway.

LOT 50x150.

That shows I had pretty good judgment. It's not one of those small cottages, but there's plenty of room. You can keep chickens, flowers, vegetables—in fact, it's a real home.

Would advertise the location, but that would mean a big crowd around my house and I don't want it—in fact, don't want any one there poking around my home. "Good Dog Around." A home is a sacred place to me. If you are interested and want to buy something below the market, a place that will increase in value and one that is a good investment, you had better see me, if you can't do business call at the hotel or phone me and I will give you further information.

PRICE $4250.

That sounds reasonable—in fact you will think it would be worth $4500.

TERMS: $250 CASH—BALANCE $30 MONTHLY PAYMENTS.

W. C. RAE, owner,
HOTEL BALTIMORE

FOR SALE—THE PRETTIEST AND BEST SACRIFICE SALE of up-to-date bungalow in Eagle Rock; situated on lines of a Swiss chalet, and is pretty enough on the exterior to make you want to see inside. Large rooms, windows to your heart's content, and closets; if you have enough clothes to fill them, you're in luck some; if say nothing of the linen closet containing twenty-eight drawers, and large cupboards with deep shelves. The floors, scraped and waxed throughout with the exception of oak floors in the living room, dining-rooms, and linoleum on the kitchen, kitchen and bath. You can have linoleum, too.

If you're particular about kitchens, come out and see this. Cupboards made especially for all your home preserved fruits, for canned goods, without mentioning one's cooking utensils, dishes, etc. If you like to eat in this kitchen there is room enough, yet off to one side is the breakfast nook is dog-gone expensive; I'll have it if for a sewing room because of the two windows; she believes in "right" housekeeping. That's why one side of nook is room is all windows.

Would like to tell you about the French windows opening from the dining-room to a lovely court, with cement floor; the electric a few other nice things, but this price is close to school and store. Call Sunday and see you.

Take Eagle Rock car on Spring st. and get off at Sycamore, look to the right a half block, and you've got it. Let that one street; A five-cent car fare to you. Everything to make you happy and a delight of six rooms is a rare bargain at $3500.

FREE WATER PIPED IN STEEL MAINS.

Go out at our expense and see the cream of the San Fernando Valley, located only 4½ miles from Hollywood, near the $500,000 paved boulevard and electric car line, just west of Lankershim and east of Van Nuys. Excellent soil and free water.

We have the one best buy. We know it and want you to know it. An investigation will prove what we say is true. Bear in mind—these acres are not away off somewhere, they are right here almost in the city, near car line, boulevard, schools, stores and everything really worth while.

CHICKENS.

Do you know of anything that will work harder for you all the year around? Chickens alone will make you money and pay for your acres.

Consider all that nature has done for these acres, furnishing good sandy loam soil and water, then add the improvements, paved roads, street car lines and water piped under pressure.

LISTEN TO THIS: This is the only land in the San Fernando Valley with FREE WATER piped in steel mains for irrigation and domestic use.

See these "close-in" acres before you think of putting a dollar into land anywhere else. Come to our office and go out with us.

Free excursions every two hours.

CORNER HOUSE NEAR

WILSHIRE BOULEVARD.

Are you looking for a home? If so, we can give you an exceptional opportunity to buy. It is a decided bargain that is marked down for a quick sale. This is a brand new residence and contains nine large rooms, and is well planned. Good exterior and very well built, and will stand the most thorough investigation. The very best building material having been used. The finish throughout is superb. The music room is in Peruvian mahogany. The living room in Primavera Vera mahogany. The dining room red mahogany and egg-shell enamel finish. The balance of the house is finished to correspond and harmonize with the above.

This beautiful place is located just south of Wilshire Blvd., on one of the best streets, lined with elegant homes. It is on an easterly front lot that sets up high, with plenty of width, so that between the adjoining homes it is not crowded for sunshine and air.

We can talk a great deal about this home, but would prefer showing it to you and we can positively assure you that you will find it perfect and complete down to the last detail. We can now offer you this elegant home at the extremely low price of $9500.

WILTON PLACE, WILSHIRE BUNGALOW.

BUILT FOR A HOME.

$5300.

Here's one of the most artistic seven-room bungalows for the price and location that we have ever seen—Wilton place, on a high, sightly, fifty-foot lot.

This charming place has all the features of a $7500 bungalow. A great big living-room across the entire front of the house; a beautiful dining-room with French doors leading to the front porch; a bright, sunny breakfast-room; a delightful kitchen with all built-in features; two airy, dainty bedrooms, most artistically papered; a splendidly equipped bath, and a commodious cement basement. On the second floor is a most attractive room which might be used as a sleeping-room.

If you don't want to spend much money, but are in the market for a desirable and well-built bungalow in the most popular residence section of Los Angeles, this is the place. See us before it is gone.

WILSHIRE CHALET.

A SPLENDID VALUE.

$6750.

Just think of it! Here is a two-story, nine-room house, located in a fine neighborhood, where houses are selling up to $15,000.

Because this place is cheap, don't feel that the value is not there, for it is; the appointments and finish are as good as you will find in a $10,000 property. Just completed and the interior plans are unusually attractive. The rooms are of good size, with plenty of air and sunshine, big closets, etc., in fact, there isn't a badly arranged room in the house; one of the leading decorators in the city did the interior decoration, there are hardwood floors throughout, even in the kitchen and back porch; fine basement with furnace, garage with cement floor and cement walks around entire house. The lot is elevated, giving a fine view of the mountains. You could not buy a building site in this locality and duplicate the place for anything like the above figure, so you better see it with us before it is sold.

ON ONE OF THE BEST WILSHIRE

STREETS.

$6900.

New, eight-room home, just completed; hardwood floors throughout; cellar, furnace—in fact, it is all ready to move into. Located on Manhattan place, high, sightly, and in the best part of the Wilshire district. This beautiful chalet was built for a home, but the owner has built an apartment in the meantime and has decided to run it. At $6900 this home is $800 under cost; the mortgage is $4000, three years; balance must be cash. Get busy! This is a real chance to pick a bargain.

MAGNOLIA SACRIFICE.

$7000.

There are two mortgages on this new, nine-room home, one of them about to be foreclosed. Here is an opportunity for you to pick up a real bargain. The lot is east front, right in the center of the Westmoreland tract, surrounded by beautiful, high-class homes; $1500 cash, balance $100 per month will handle this. Get busy—it won't last long.

CAHUENGA BOULEVARD SNAP.

$8750.

A real colonial home of nine rooms, located on Cahuenga blvd., just off Sixth, on a lot 60x170 feet; this is a real home and looks more like $12,000 than $8750. See this with us Monday. $1500 cash, balance to suit.

ON MANHATTAN PLACE.

$12,500.

You can't beat this! It's the best bargain in Wilshire, or any other district. A big, handsome home of ten rooms, with every finished convenience inside, and as beautiful a residence outside as can be found for twice the money. The downstairs woodwork is all mahogany and oak; the arrangement of the rooms is ideal for coziness and sunshine; there isn't a flaw to be found anywhere. It's an $18,000 property—offered at the above low figure because the owner is returning East to stay. (He'll come back and kick himself for having sold it, but you'll be the gainer meanwhile!) Ask us to show this home to you at once.

MAGNIFICENT NEW HOME IN EX-

CLUSIVE WILSHIRE DISTRICT.

$13,500.

Including all the finest of carpets and beautiful draperies, especially designed to harmonize in color and materials with the finish and wall coverings in each room. This splendid property is on very high ground in the best part of the Wilshire district and a few doors off Wilshire boulevard—the boulevard on which upwards of $100,000 are being spent, making it one of the best residence boulevards in America.

The house has eleven rooms, including conservatory and extra large tiled bath, and an immense attic over the entire house. The lower floor contains an especially designed library, a most spacious living-room and inglenook, all finished in rich brown Peruvian mahogany, a large colonial dining-room in ivory white and mahogany, from which the conservatory and pergola open, and a buffet, pantry and kitchen in white enamel. Upstairs are four large sleeping-rooms, numerous commodious closets, a sleeping balcony and a fine bath. The place is most complete and is artistically decorated throughout.

Priced at $13,000, the owner will sell the house, completely and magnificently furnished in massive mahogany; will include his extensive library and all paintings, marbles, bric-a-brac, art pieces personally selected in the art centers of the world, table services in Sheffield and sterling silver, china, glassware, beautiful linens, beddings, etc.

This is an unusual opportunity to secure a completely and richly furnished home at a sacrifice. And think of the trouble you are saving yourself. Immediate possession can be given.

WILSHIRE DISTRICT HOME.

$23,500.

Mission home, located near Ardmore and Sixth, thirteen rooms and three baths—two of them tiled, on a lot 76x135 feet. The elevation of this home is about the most pleasing of any in the Wilshire section. The old Mission style being followed even to the genuine tiled roof. The lower floor is finished in selected hardwood, all hand-rubbed, and the upper floor, containing five bedchambers, two baths and sleeping porch, in exquisite egg-shell enamel. Cellar, furnace, Ruud heater and double garage complete the home. It's new, never occupied, and ready for occupancy without a day's delay. Let us show it to you. Terms may be arranged.

WEST ADAMS HEIGHTS SACRIFICE.

This beautiful twelve-room home was finished two months ago at a cost of about $30,000, and now the owner must dispose of it, as he needs the money. The mortgage is $12,500. What have you, clear, in the city or Hollywood, to offer for the equity? Hardwood finish, five bedchambers, three baths, two fully tiled, cellar, furnace Ruud heater, two-story garage with room for two machines; east front lot, 74x178. Call us for more information. It's a real chance to get a bargain. Prefer a Hollywood bungalow for the equity.

The decorations and finish of this home are only found in high class homes at very much higher prices. This property should be sold by Tuesday. We will be pleased to show you.

NEAR OXFORD AND FOURTH.

EIGHT-ROOM RESIDENCE.

$6000—$6000.

One of the new residences which include all of the latest conveniences and ideas that aid so much in housekeeping. The house shows that it was built by the owner for a home. Improved lot, 50x160, on the lower floor is the living-room, den, a library with disappearing bed, built-in writing desk and bookcases, dining-room with attractive lighting fixtures and especially designed buffet. Two bedrooms and bath on lower floor. Beautifully decorated breakfast room and cabinet kitchen, in white enamel. On second floor are two bedrooms, one with casement windows which when open makes this a delightful sleeping porch and lavatory. Hardwood floors up and down, cellar and furnace, garage, a very complete home; we assure you that the price is less than present value.

HIGH CLASS WILSHIRE HOME.

NINE-ROOM—TWO-STORY.

$8500, WORTH $12,000.

Fine two-story residence, situated in one of the best improved blocks, close to Wilshire blvd. Highly improved lot, very pleasing exterior. Beautiful entrance into large living-room, den or library, dining-room, telephone booth, breakfast-room, cabinet kitchen on lower floor. Upstairs are four bedrooms and sleeping balcony. The house was recently painted and newly decorated throughout and everything is new, the house was built about one year ago, owner has just completed a larger house and will sell this beautiful house at a price which makes it a big snap. All woodwork has a splendid finish and the decorations are choice. Perfectly arranged, cement cellar and furnace. Garage with servant's room. This is a residence that will sell quick.

$11,000—$11,000.

BEAUTIFUL WILSHIRE RESIDENCE.

ELEVEN ROOMS.

Located in one of the best improved blocks near the famous Wilshire blvd., east front, highly improved, 60-ft. lot, owner built for a home, but now finds he cannot move to the city. Selected hardwoods used on lower floor; reception hall, living-room, library, den, breakfast room, dining-room and kitchen, on lower floor; fine lighting fixtures and select decorations; second floor consists of four bedrooms, tile bath and sleeping porch; finished in beautiful colored papers and white enamel; large unfinished attic; Pittsburgh water heater and furnace. Cement drive and garage. A splendid new home, finished the best and including all the latest conveniences; you can save a great deal by purchasing this home. Why not see this? It will sell quick.

FINE WEST ADAMS HOME.

MISSION CEMENT EXTERIOR.

$16,500—LOOKS LIKE $25,000.

On one of the finest residence streets in the city. The homes in this block sold or were built for not less than $20,000 to $30,000 each. This, of course, is a first-class section, cement exterior or mission type. 60-foot lot, main rooms on lower floor are finished in mahogany, oak, birch and selected grained woods. Five beautifully decorated bedrooms, sleeping porch and two splendid tile baths on second floor. Maid's room and bath on lower floor. Furnace, Ruud heater, garage and all other conveniences that complete the modern home. The mission exterior gives a home a very stylish and substantial appearance, and is truly characteristic of Southern California. The homeseeker is not often offered the rare chance of purchasing a home of this type for less than $25,000.

GRAND NORMANDIE HILL MANSION.

EXCLUSIVE HIGH CLASS.

$22,500—$23,500.

BETTER THAN SOME $40,000 HOMES.

Grand new residence, located on large grounds, on high point in Wilshire district, this grand home is the latest achievement in building and architecture; main rooms in selected hardwood and costly decorations of tapestries. Imported paper, oiled canvas walls, etc.; special lighting fixtures. Six bedrooms and three baths, including servant's quarters. The house will have to be seen to be fully appreciated. As this class of residence is very hard to properly describe in an advertisement, we wish to say that every convenience and home comfort have been planned for, and the result is certainly ideal. We consider the value of $23,500 to be considerably less than you or I could duplicate same. Autos and courteous salesmen at your service.

SPECIAL WILSHIRE BARGAIN.

Beautiful 10-room House.

—$11,000— —$11,000— —$11,000—

This handsome property located only one block off Wilshire blvd., east front lot. House is new and up-to-date, large stone and cement porch and Porte Cochere across front. Finished in select quarter-sawed oak and mahogany, decorations and electric fixtures selected with care. There is breakfast room, also den or library, second floor containing five sleeping rooms and two tiled baths, stairs to large attic. Furnace and garage, in fact a very complete home and we know of nothing else like it similarly located for anything like $11,000.

This beautiful modern 9-room home is located in the choicest growing part of the Wilshire section, a short distance from the boulevard. Appraiser's value was $10,000. Large cement and stone porch across front. Large reception hall, extra large living-room, dining-room and library, four large sleeping-rooms and screened sleeping porch. Attic all floored. Furnace, garage, beautiful lawn, flowers, shrubbery. Lot 60x150. Mortgage $5000. This property is $3000 under value, and is a rare chance to secure a fine home in a fine location.

MANHATTAN PLACE. BARGAIN.

—$8500— —$8500— —$8500—

This attractive 8-room house just finished and never occupied. Is worth $7500. Hardwood floors throughout, living-room, dining-room and breakfast-room all nicely decorated, complete with furnace, drive and garage; you could not save any money if you bought the lot and built the house yourself. Builder's profit has all been squeezed out, on account of needing money to finish an apartment-house.

ON BEAUTIFUL COLLEGE TRACT.

Everything that is offered on the many beautiful tracts about Los Angeles is to be found on College Tract. Do you want mountain view? There you have it, and you are ten miles nearer the ocean than you would be on the other side of the city.

College tract is an ideal location. All the houses are new and modern; every convenience is provided: Gas, electricity, sewers, telephones, postoffice, churches, assembly hall, model stores, walks, curbs, planted shade trees. No unimproved streets in College Tract. Three-minute car service. You are given FREE A 2-YEAR OPTION on and use of the adjoining lot, fenced and in lawn.

EASY PAYMENT PLAN—Make a small cash payment and the balance monthly installments, like rent, including taxes, insurance and interest.

BEAUTIFUL BUNGALOW HOMES FROM $3800 UP TO $5000.

On regular payments, never increased by taxes or interest. You know the exact demand on your purse.

ONLY ONE-TENTH CASH REQUIRED TO PURCHASE.

VERMONT AVENUE

BUSINESS FRONTAGE.

Do you realize the increase in values? Paved street, car line and sewer.

REMEMBER VERMONT AVENUE LOTS.

Future increase in price alone worth consideration. We have 5 very pretty lots 50x130 each, on Vermont avenue, in the vicinity of 50th st., on which

WE WILL BUILD 5-ROOM BUNGALOWS.

House and lot to cost you approximately $3950.

You make us a small payment down, balance monthly.

These houses will be thoroughly up-to-date in every way, and plans to suit you.

Remember that this frontage will increase within 5 years to where the lot alone will be worth, conservatively speaking, $4000.

Years ago people bought houses on Broadway and Spring; look today and see what they are worth.

Of course business frontage is not an ideal homesite, yet at the same time it is the kind of property that makes one rich. If you don't mind living within a short distance of the street car line and a business thoroughfare, and can afford to wait a few years for increase of property, then this is the place to buy.

The price of the lots has not been increased and we are offering them today at the same figure we did three or four years ago when the tract in which these lots are located was originally put on the market.

The syndicate owning these lots simply want to throw them on interest.

Mr. Stranger, or the man who has lived in Los Angeles for a long time, will do well to consider this property. For further particulars see

SIX-ROOM BUNGALOW,

VERMONT AVENUE.

This syndicate originally owned 468 lots between 52nd and 58th streets. We have remaining

5 LOTS ON VERMONT AVENUE.

These lots are good business lots. If you have us build you a home on one of these lots now, and hold it for a few years, you will make money. You will make money by the increase in the price of the lot.

Why does the lot increase in value?

For several reasons.

For one reason, a residence lot that eventually becomes a business lot will more than double in value.

Come in and see us and we will build you a house to suit on easy terms, on any of these lots on a small payment down.

The lots are located on Vermont avenue between 51th and 56th streets. Paved streets, sewer, gas and electricity.

This beautiful bungalow has oak floors throughout, beautifully finished. The bathroom is a delight, light fixtures, large hook, good sized bedrooms, and airy and by the way the house is absolutely ideal. It has beautiful surroundings, 18 minutes on the street car and Broadway.

LOT 50x170

That shows I had pretty good It's not one of those small but there's plenty of room, chickens, flowers, vegetables—in fact, a real home.

Would advertise the location, but that would mean a big crowd around my house and I don't want it—in fact, don't want any one there poking around my home, "Kicking a Dog Around." A home is a sacred place to me, if you are interested and want to buy something below the market, a place that will increase in value and one that is a good investment, you had better see me, if you see me on business call at the hotel or phone me and I will give you further information.

Beverly.

FOR SALE—
A MAGNIFICENT BUILDING SITE IN BEAUTIFUL BEVERLY HILLS, WITH 100 FEET ON BEVERLY BLVD. AT ONLY $30 PER FRONT FOOT.

An extra large and choice CORNER across the boulevard from the new $300,000 hotel, and but a few steps from the electric fountain of the park; in the very heart of the highly restricted district and best improvements in view; splendid soil; 229 ft. FRONTAGE on Crescent Drive, by 207 ft. on Sunset blvd. to 20-ft. alley; 100 ft. at rear; has sewer, gas, electricity, water and first-class street work all in and paid for—practically every city convenience with the added charm and quiet of the country.

The "Beverly Hills" car will take you direct to the S.E. Corner of Crescent and Sunset, diagonally across from where Mr. Beville is now grading a site for a fine home, and in same block with Mr. Gould's handsome new home (picture of which was in last Sunday's Times.)

Notice the nine beautiful, young pepper trees in front of this lot, and also the character of the new work on the 150-ft.-wide foothill boulevard that will be completed this summer to Hollywood.

The splendid corner, by reason of its superior location, is excellent for a first-class home or as an investment; building restrictions, $800 residence.

The price is $4000; reasonable terms, if desired.

VAN NUYS-LANKERSHIM LANDS?
This rich soil, this genial valley sun and this great location opens the road to independence. Great crops are grown absolutely without irrigation.
Van Nuys-Lankershim Lands stand head and shoulders above other districts. Why stay in the crowded, dusty city? Scores are turning towards these rich valley lands—business men, professional men planting peach, apricot and walnut orchards and selling their lands to money-making vegetables.
Orchards pay handsome returns—many averaging $250 an acre annually. Already scores of acres have been planted to sugar beets.
Now is the time to get in. The big improvements, the $500,000 boulevard and the new electric road are fast nearing completion.
$250 AN ACRE AND UP.
EASY TERMS.
In a few years close-in land will not be for sale. Now's your opportunity. A new section has just been opened. Choice 5's, 10 and 20-acre tracts close to boulevard. Do not delay.

FOR SALE—

—AT LAST—

10 2-3 acres of choice improved land located directly in line of the "city to the sea," just 4¼ miles south of Central avenue. It will be absolutely impossible to completely describe this place in writing, and when I say an "ideal home place," with everything possible for ten years of skilled hard labor and abundance of pure water can make, you will have a fair idea of California's real home.

It would cost $50 to tell you here the different kinds of fruit and vegetation now in full bearing. There are only two such places, and I own the other. The entire crop goes. The owner is sick, or it would never be for sale. This place pays 20 per cent. on the investment. $7000 cash only will give you possession. No agents, no trades; price too low.

Appropriated in bill passed by U. S. Senate to build 8 submarines.

THE L. A. SUBMARINE BOAT IS THE BEST.

"Having superintended the building of a number of submarines and being familiar with the construction and operation of them, I wish to say that the principles embodied in this boat are far superior to anything I have ever seen.

"The mechanical devices used are simple and practical and any one can see that they will work. I believe that every government will adopt this type as soon as they have seen 'L. A. SUBMARINE NO. 1' demonstrate her superiority over all other submarines. I believe that she will do more than has been claimed for her."

ROBT. FORSTER,
Supt. of Construction L. A. Submarine Boat Co.

The prospective value of the untried is based upon the industrial value of the successful.

PICK AND DRILL—
It was in the dull summer days like these when the big gold vaults of the Mohawk began to push that mine stock up—slowly at first, so slowly that the public did not recognize the impending avalanche of buying orders that was so quickly to rush the stock above the clouds. It was the magic potency of the yellow metal that awakened the people then. It is the same impelling force that soon will send the public scurrying for stock in the Pick and Drill.

JAP PENETRATES LOB NOR DESERT; EXPLORER BACK.

[A. P. CORRESPONDENCE OF THE TIMES.]

TOKIO, July 13.—An interesting explorer has just returned from the northwestern dependencies of China. He is the Rev. Zuicho Tachibana, who was sent into Chinese Turkestan, the province of Sinkiang, by Count Otani, the Lord Abbot of Honpa wanji.

Tachibana is only 21 years of age, fragilely built and almost feminine in appearance, yet since September, 1910, he has traveled in regions hitherto unexplored and passed through marvelous experiences, bringing back with him invaluable information and many treasures. This trip was not, however, Tachibana's first visit to the country, for in 1908 he passed through Mongolia and Sinkiang, and spent the year exploring Buddhist relics.

After this he accompanied Count Otani to London, and left that capital in August, 1910. His route at this time took him through Tarpanpal, in the Chinese territory of Mongolia, to Urumptsi in the north of Sinkiang. From here he crossed the desert of Bogdo-Ola and reached Turfan on November 5, 1910.

LEAVES FOR DESERT.

At this point he parted with his English servant, Hobbs, who had accompanied him and who went westward to Kutcha with heavy baggage, there to await Tachibana, who proceeded to the vast Lob Nor desert in Eastern Turkestan. For this expedition he organized a camel caravan, and reached the center of the Lob Nor desert on September 22.

Here in this desolate region, unexplored except by few, he found evidence of habitation and vegetation. He traversed the dry bed of what at one time must have been a great lake, now dead trees and unearthed huge trunks embedded deep in the sand, also pieces of ironware and tiles. Passing through the ruins of what Sven Hedin named Loulan—a fortress of days gone by—he found a frozen marsh at the foot of Lob Nor on the northern boundary of Sinkiang. Here Tachibana saw the first human being since he left Turfan. He was a hunter and on seeing Tachibana's caravan, decamped, doubtless thinking they were robbers.

TO RIVER TARIM.

Leaving Lob Nor, he proceeded eastward to the banks of the River Tarim. Here he found that there was no permanent snow range, but he discovered a number of relics, precious stones and an old book. He was unable to cross the range of Altyn Tagh, or Gold Mountains, but proceeded further westward to Washar, where he succeeded in obtaining fresh supplies of provisions and ice, and again set for Chercheu over a great stretch of sand dunes extremely difficult to travel.

Cherchen he reached on January 31, 1911, and having re-equipped he proceeded northward to Kuchar across the Tarim Desert, camping along the marsh. Here he found wild pigs and other signs of animal life, tracks of wild camel, and reached the dry bed of Usen River, a branch of the Tarim, on February 20. Their water gave out, and the party dug a well thirty-seven meters deep, where water was tapped and found to be bitter and undrinkable, but thirst drove them, and after boiling it they drank. The whole party suffered from intense pains, but were able to proceed, and after three days reached a small village, from which point Tachibana hastened forward on horseback to Kuchar to meet Hobbs.

Kuchar was reached on March 4, and, to Tachibana's great distress, he learned that Hobbs had died of smallpox in January. The body of the Englishman was sent to Kashgar.

During this trip Tachibana was unable to excavate to any great extent, but he found the deserts, the mountain ranges and the old forts full of scientific interest.

CROSSES HIGH MOUNTAINS.

From Kuchar Tachibana proceeded westward through Aksu to Kashgar, the extreme western corner of Sinkiang. Here he met the British Consul, who conducted the funeral service over Hobbs, who was the first foreigner to be buried in the province of Sinkiang. Leaving Kashgar on April 7, Tachibana proceeded southward, exploring Pami Valley, and reached Khotan, which was explored by Dr. M. A. Stein for the Indian government. The heat at this time was extreme, and Tachibana crossed Kuluen and Attola Mountain, 16,500 feet high.

Later returning to Khotan, Tachibana proceeded to Kiria, and reached the Tibetan Plateau, 15,000 feet above sea level, after various hardships. Here the cold was intense and the animals died of starvation. To escape the danger, Tachibana descended a steep path and glaciers. For five days Tachibana and his party were without food. Fortunately on the fifth day they met a hunter, who supplied them with mutton.

Hence, after recovering from this experience, Tachibana proceeded eastward toward Mongolia, along the northern base of the Altyn Tagh to the borders of Kangsu. Here the British and the Russian Consuls strongly urged him not to penetrate into China proper, because of the revolution, and he turned back, retracing his steps to Siberia again, passing through Furfan and Urumtsi to Semipalatinsk and thence through Siberia to Japan.

Count Otani, the Lord Abbot, intends sending another expedition into the same territory and may again entrust Tachibana with the leadership if the young man's physical state is sufficiently strong to face the hardship.

SALE OF BOGUS MEDICINE EXPOSED, SHOCKS BRITONS.

[A. P. CORRESPONDENCE OF THE TIMES.]

LONDON, July 13.—Startling figures regarding the sale and use of secrets proprietary medicines and nostrums have been given in the testimony of Alfred Cox, secretary of the British Medical Association, before the select committee of the House of Commons which is inquiring into the patent medicine traffic.

Dr. Cox stated that the gravest example of the injury being done in this country by extensively advertised medicines and appliances were found among people suffering from consumption, cancer and rupture. He testified that in numerous cases of these maladies worthless remedies were tried in the early stages of the disease, and when eventually a medical man or surgeon was called in he was too late to be of any service. Frauds on the public, the witness testified, were perpetrated in connection with proprietary medicines and appliances by the use of grossly exaggerated statements concerning their alleged curative properties and false statements as to the drugs used. Some of the apparatus and articles advertised were frauds pure and simple. It was estimated that in the year 1908 no less than $13,500,000, a sum sufficient to maintain 40,000 hospital beds, was spent in Great Britain on patent medicines.

Among the suggestions made by the association for the control of the evil was one based on the American pure food and drugs act, which provides that the amount and kind of each drug used in a patent preparation must be specified on the label.

CALIFORNIA COTTON.

The report of the American bureau of plant industry recommending that the Egyptian staple cotton be cultivated in Arizona and California on a commercial scale has been received here with interest by cotton importers who believe that the time will soon come when the United States will be compelled to import any more of its staple. This report was followed by the annual statement of the government of Madras on the cotton crop of the Presidency for the present year. It shows an increase of 16 per cent in the area devoted to cotton during the corresponding month of last year. The general average of the crop is higher than during the past ten years.

CATTLE DISEASED.

Following on the heels of the announcement that Argentine had raised the quarantine against English cattle because of the news that the dreaded foot and mouth disease has again become epidemic here. The raising of the embargo was followed immediately by the advent in England of a large army of Argentine stock buyers, who proved to be heavy purchasers at the royal stock show, but under the circumstances it is hardly likely that they will assume the risk of attempting to take any British cattle into the South American republic at this time.

The Board of Agriculture immediately gave orders that all the remaining animals on the affected farms were to be slaughtered and all movements of cattle within the threatened districts were prohibited. Ireland has also closed her doors to cattle from Great Britain.

LORD MAYOR OF DUBLIN WARNS SUFFRAGETTES.

BY THOMAS EMMET.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND BY WIRELESS FROM CHICAGO TO THE TIMES.]

DUBLIN, July 13.—The Lord Mayor of Dublin has replied to threats made by militant suffragettes with the announcement that if any attempt is made to "rough house" the meeting to be addressed by Premier Asquith next week the Amazons will get no quarter from the metropolitan police. If necessary, the police will use their clubs on the window-smashers and "franchise Apaches," as these suffragettes militant are called. The authorities are determined to protect the head of the British Cabinet from insult or assault while he is the guest of the Irish nation.

The premier will visit the old Irish Parliament house at College Green and in addition to the meeting at the Theater Royal, he will speak at an overflow meeting in Sackville street. It was originally intended to tender Mr. Asquith the freedom of the city of Dublin, but at his own request this idea was abandoned. The Premier expressed the opinion that as his mission to Ireland is political it is not right that political foes in the Dublin corporation should be asked to vote him a freeman and he desires to avoid friction.

COL. POE MADE BARONET.

Col. Poe, who is related to the great American poet and master of the weird, Edgar Allen Poe, has been created a baronet. Col. Poe distinguished himself in the Nile expedition, where he lost a leg in action. His wife is very wealthy, heiress of the Domville estates in Queen's county.

"WIDDY" ROUTS TEN POLICE.

One lone Irish "widdy" sufficed to hold at bay ten husky policemen, a head constable and four bailiffs sent to evict her from her farm at Grange, County Armagh. Reserves had to be rushed to the scene and surrounded by a small army of Royal Irish constabulary with carbines and fixed bayonets, this modern Joan, otherwise Rose Ann McKinley, was marched off to the Armagh jail. She was released by the local magistrate on the understanding that she refrains from "going after" the head constable, which she had threatened to do.

TO QUIT MAKING HAY.

An effort is being made to induce the Irish farmer to take a lesson from American methods, and give up making hay. Hay is a notoriously fickle crop under the weather conditions of this end of the world. Every one that has lived in the country at the critical moment knows the grim anxiety that settles on a whole country when the rain threatens the crop that feeds the stock for the winter. The question then is put: "Why make hay?"

At Foot of List.

BRITONS SURPRISED BY AMERICAN NAVY PLANS.

BY PAUL LAMBETH.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND BY WIRELESS FROM CHICAGO TO THE TIMES.]

LONDON, July 13.—Winston Churchill, himself half American, has submitted a statement to the House of Commons on relative naval expenditures by the great powers and it will doubtless delight ultra-pacifists in the United States to know that their nation lags at the bottom of the list in money spent on new construction. Here are the figures supplied by Churchill, calculated, of course, in British currency:

	1911-12	1912-13
Britain	£15,059,881	£16,447,527
Germany	11,710,859	11,637,959
France	5,876,659	6,997,582
United States	5,842,789	4,998,145

Austria-Hungary is creeping close up to the annual appropriation of the United States, Japan, Russia and Italy are all more generous in their treatment of professional estimates for naval efficiency. The attitude assumed by some of the politicians at Washington surprises many good friends of peace and the United States here. The British at least deserve credit for realizing that a nation without an adequate navy is no nation to speak of. Churchill tells the Commons the amount of money he wants, and he gets it, grudgingly enough from Chancellor Lloyd George, but ungrudgingly from the House as a whole and from the people.

OPERA FALLS FLAT.

Mythology's fount has run dry as a source of inspiration for the creators of lyric drama. Wagner reborn would hesitate before writing the "Ring."

This conclusion is pointed with painful persistency by the pathetic fate of the Hammerstein-Ellis presentation of "The Children of Don," a new opera which took the boards with all the elect of authorship by a peer of the realm (Lord Howard de Walden) and the undoubtedly superb Hammerstein stage managerial genius. Both influences together, aided by a really brilliant cast, could not put this monumental melange of mythology over the footlights and into the hearts and minds of the house. The audiences yawned through the successive acts and left bored by the Cymric cullings though breathed through very decent music of the heavy harmony sort. The operas of the future will cling closer to modern Mayfair and the brain-throbs of Broadway. We are no longer interested in dead and gone superstitions which require six-cylinder mental motors and a close acquaintance with the classics to flesh their rattling bones. Life, bubbling, pulsing life, is as essential to stage as to literary success. I doubt very much whether many of my club friends could say off the bat whether Hengist was a hero in his day or a sort of early Saxon patent medicine. We go to the playhouse to be amused, horrified or slapped bang up against a new and novel conception of things we know well and can easily understand. The preach-play, the school-play, the musty, metaphysical, mythological dug from the grave opera or drama is dead as Dante.

NEW LIQUOR PLAN.

London is to turn boulevardier and loll in the open-air cafe. Perhaps?

Sir Laurence Gomme, clerk to the London County Council, has inspired an experiment by which it is hoped to convert a considerable number of London's saloons (popularly known here as "publics") into cafes after the style of those of the gay capital. He thinks it would help the cause of temperance on the principle that when people drink in the open and under the eye of the passing throng there is less likelihood of over-indulgence.

SHARP SHOOTER.

Fifteen successive bull-eyes at 1000 yards were made by Armoury Sergeant Martin of the Highland Light Infantry, in compiling a world's record score of 222 points out of 225 at 900, 1000 and 1100 yards. At 900 yards Martin scored 74, including nine central bulls, and dropped a point with his thirteenth shot, but made amends at the 1000 yards by registering a string of fifteen bulls, including three centrals. Martin at the 1100 yards lighted with two misses and a bull, and, dropping points at the sixth and thirteenth shots, finished the last distance with 73, this giving him an aggregate of 222.

GIVES MESSAGE ON STEEPLE.

A telegraph boy named Wollaston, of Brockham, Surrey, was entrusted with a telegram addressed to the foreman of a firm of contractors, who were repairing the village church spire. When the boy arrived at the church the foreman was at the top of the scaffolding which surrounded the steeple. The lad would not part with the telegram, but ascended the scaffolding and delivered it to the man to whom it was addressed. The reply was written at an altitude of some 150 feet, and Wollaston made the descent without assistance.

ILL-USES HIS FATHER.

A small boy of 7 years and 9 months, who continually ill-uses his father, was sent to an industrial school by the Macclesfield bench on the evidence of his father.

"This is a most extraordinary case, and a very sad one," said Mr. Smale of the N.S.P.C.C. This boy of 7 years and 9 months was a child over whom the father had lost all control. The boy had only to say to his father, "Go and fetch me some beer and some cigarettes, or if you don't I will give you a jolly good thrashing, or something worse." When in bed the boy had repeatedly kicked his father to such an extent that his body was black and blue and marked by many ugly scars.

A London scientist has devised an instrument which gives the blind a "second sight" through the sense of hearing. This novel invention is called the optophone. By its use blind people can locate with their ears lamps, windows or high lights and "perceive" shadows — even trace the outlines of large and well-defined objects. It is now being shown at the Science Museum in South Kensington.

A message containing the final arrangements for the King's visit to Winchester on July 15 has been conveyed by a 18-year-old Boy Scout named Withers from Winchester to Windsor Castle for submission to His Majesty.

The boy is in the employ of the Marquis of Winchester, Lord Lieutenant of Hampshire, who, with the Mayor and Town Clerk of Winchester, prepared the plans. The only instruction the boy received was to go to Windsor Castle. He made the journey to Windsor and back the same day. At the castle he was entertained at luncheon and tea by the King and Queen.

WAX-MAKING INSECTS.

Little Workers Are About Size and Shape of Shoe Buttons and Their Product Is Used for Making Images.

[Harper's Weekly:] On the border line between China and Tibet there is a native industry which is not only novel in many respects, but involves a pilgrimage of great length each year. This industry consists in the breeding of insects that raise wax. This wax is employed in various parts of China for the making of temple images and candles.

These curious insects are about the size and shape of shoe buttons. Their most peculiar characteristic is that they do not secrete the wax in their birthplaces. Accordingly, about May each year the natives take them from the branches of the trees where they were born and convey them many miles away across the mountains. They are carried to a part of the country wherein grows the flowering ash upon which the insects delight to feed and to deposit the wax.

It is a strange procession that proceeds from the Chien-chang Valley every spring. Each porter carries two bamboo baskets fastened together with curved sticks. These fit over the shoulders, one basket being before and the other behind. The man's burden consists of gourds containing the insects, which are wrapped in leaves from the wood oil tree. The females are then almost ready to lay their eggs.

The porters set out at nightfall, for all their traveling must be done at night. The journey is about 400 miles. Upon the conclusion thereof the porter immediately goes to the "master" of the industry and delivers his burden of goods.

At once the leafy bags are tied on the branches of the ash trees, which are only five or six feet high. A blunt needle is pushed through the leaves in the bag in order that the insects may find their way out. Once they have left, they creep rapidly up to the leaves of the trees and begin to feed. In a short time they have scattered along the branches and soon the eggs are hatched and the wax is being deposited on the twigs. By September 1 the trees look as though they were covered with snow. The branches are then cut off and their coating is scraped away. The wax is heated, strained and turned into the molds.

In addition to the purpose above mentioned, this wax is also used for illumination, it serves as a polish for furniture, and it is useful in imparting a gloss to silk.

The industry is said to have been known in the thirteenth century.

Brady War Photographs

And Elson's Newly Written History

In Sixteen Superb Sections— One Each Week for Coupon and 10c

Every patriotic American home should have this magnificent and timely collection. It is a lesson in patriotism that the children will never forget, and for young and old it is a constant source of interest. Each of the sections is complete in itself, telling the story of some great battle—while the accompanying pictures, clear, distinct, beautifully printed, are marvelous, when we realize that they were taken on the battlefields of 50 years ago. Each scene or group is so clear and sharp, that often veterans look unexpectedly into the faces of old-time comrades, or perhaps it is a father or a brother whom one can find just as they looked in those heroic days.

Cut out the War Souvenir Coupon which appears regularly in this paper and bring or send it to our office with 10 cents to cover necessary expenses such as cost of material, handling, clerk hire, etc., and get your copy. Three cents extra by mail; there are no other conditions whatever. We have secured exclusive rights for our territory to distribute these long-lost Brady War Pictures, illustrating Elson's History of the Civil War, and take this method of placing the full set of 16 sections in reach of every home, no matter how limited the means.

Besides the thrilling story of the battles mentioned above, Section 5 contains the following

Long-Lost Original Brady War Photographs

Cedar Mountain — Where "Stonewall" Jackson Struck

Vienna.

NAPOLEON GRILLED BY SWEETHEART IN DIARY.

BY EMIL ANDRASSY.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND BY WIRELESS FROM CHICAGO TO THE TIMES.]

VIENNA, July 13.—A diary kept by the Arch-Duchess Marie Louise while Bonaparte was paying his court to her with French cannon and Corsican cunning has just been discovered by the imperial librarian. The contents of this little book of a princess in pawn are being closely guarded and they are said to be most interesting and amusing.

According to one story going the rounds of Vienna, Marie Louise refers to her arbitrary wooer as "a horrid, fat little man with cruel thin lips and eyes like a cat." As Napoleon really had remarkably good eyes this criticism is about as inaccurate as it is unkind. Court officials who have seen the diary say it is written in a very straggling characterless hand, showing that the second wife of the ambitious "master of Europe" was as poor a scholar as she was a politician.

HAS NAVAL AMBITION.

The Austrian dreadnought Viribus Unitis, which was launched last fall, is to be in commission by next September. Austria is now very ambitious to be a naval power and work on the building of her navy is going steadily forward, London reports to the contrary notwithstanding.

The second dreadnought of the dual monarchy, Tegetthoff, which was launched on March 15, will become a unit of the squadron at the commencement of the summer of 1912. The third dreadnought, begun at Trieste last year, and the fourth, laid down at Fiume, will be completed in November or December, 1914, and perhaps sooner. It is thus established that the Austro-Hungarian navy will have the four dreadnoughts voted in 1911 at its disposition at the end of 1914.

SOCIETY LOVE TRAGEDY.

A great sensation has been caused in society circles in Vienna by a love tragedy by which two well-known families of the aristocracy are thrown into mourning. On the arrival of a train at the South Station of Vienna the officials discovered in a first-class compartment the dead body of a young lady. Near her was lying a gentleman, evidently in a dying condition, who has since expired. From letters which were found upon them, declaring their intention eo commit suicide together, the lady was identified as Countess Alice Albarti D'Enno, and the gentleman as Baron Ladislaus Kuerthy. Inasmuch as the countess lay upon the floor of the carriage with a crucifix clasped to her breast, it was evident that her companion had first shot her and then turned the pistol upon himself. It appears that for the last three years Baron Kuerthy had been desperately in love with the countess, and had paid her fervent addresses, which, however, were rejected by the lady's family on account of the difference in the ages of the couple. Countess D'Enno was a near relative of the Countess Stephanie Lonyay, daughter of the late King Leopold II of Belgium.

BRIDE-CHOOSINGG DAY.

An Ancient Festival in Brittany Held Annually Under the Fostering Care of the Church.

[New York Times:] More than usual interest has attended the annual "Chinadec" or "Bride-choosing Day," which is one of the festivals of the old-fashioned town of St. Jean du Doigt, in Brittany.

The custom dates back to the Middle Ages, when, it is said, the laws of the church were so strict that no marriage between relatives to within the eleventh degree was permitted. The result was that young men could not find brides even in neighboring villages, and rather long journeys had to be made to find eligible girls elsewhere. It was then that the church, after an understanding with the feudal lord of the place, who had a right to a fee for each marriage, arranged a common bridal day every year after Easter, and the custom has been maintained to the present.

The day is observed as one of great religious solemnity. There is no music or band, no dance of any kind—as, in fact, dancing has always been forbidden at St. Jean du Doigt because of the story of St. John the Baptist having been ordered to be beheaded by Herod after a dance.

From one to two hundred girls attend mass in the morning, and at 3 in the afternoon they again attend vespers in the old Gothic church. They are dressed in Bretagne fashion, of all colors, and wear long embroidered shawls reaching to their feet, and carry a mass book and an umbrella. The umbrella, curiously enough, is an important factor in the transaction.

It is in the handing over of the umbrella that the "chinadec," or acceptance of the bride, consists. The girls stand in long rows on the steps of the church, or in the square in front after vespers. They are very quiet, and observe a sort of religious gravity, waiting patiently until a young man comes to choose one of them.

The young men stroll about some distance away on the walks, and seem to be rather indifferent. From time to time one of them leaves his friends and goes to the girl whom he has chosen. He salutes her ceremoniously, and speaks to her.

Then the umbrella plays an important role. If it is handed over to the young man, his proposal is accepted, and it is rare that it is not. The girl usually hesitates for a few minutes for the sake of decorum. The young man walks away to give the girl a last chance to reflect, and still retains his air of indifference.

Finally, after a few minutes of waiting, which seem to be only a traditional delay, the girl leaves the ranks and follows the young man, who then invites her to a small collation. Little by little the inns become crowded with young couples, who are thus partaking of a sort of frugal bridal repast. When night comes, the couples return to the house of the chosen bride, and a real bridal supper is then given by the parents.

The girls who have not been chosen do not seem to be disappointed. They remain about the church till dusk, and sometimes till it is perfectly dark. If their parents are kind to them, nothing is said, but it often happens that the unfortunate girls who failed to be chosen are roundly scolded when they return home without an intended husband.

PRUSSIA'S AMBER INDUSTRY.

Small Pieces of the Material Are Melted Together and Moulded Into Various Forms and Plates.

[Consular Report:] Most of the German amber is found in the waters of East and West Prussia, and the industry is a monopoly of the Prussian State. The raw material may be gathered only by authorized persons and in accordance with regulations prescribed by the Royal Amber Works at Konigsberg, in Prussia. Raw amber in pieces of two inches and more is very scarce in Germany, and the most of it is reserved for the home market. Only occasionally are a few pieces of the raw amber sold to foreign concerns. Pressed amber, which is also produced at the Royal Amber Works, is made by a secret process. Small but good pieces of amber are melted to about 150 deg. Celsius and then moulded under very high pressure into various forms and plates. The plates can be sawed, trimed and manufactured into different objects. Forms in the shape of cigar tubes and mouthpieces for pipes, etc., are exported in large quantities to the United States. The artificial amber, often called amberoid, has the appearance of amber, and the untrained can scarcely differentiate between them. The Royal Amber Works has contracts with several firms in the United States which have the exclusive sale of the products of the royal factory. Pressed amber is the product dealt in. The average price of pressed amber is about $26 a kilo (2.2 pounds.)

Beat the Saloon-keeper.

[Popular Magazine:] Miners are among the most heroic people in the world. Danger is always beside them, and they are schooled to believe that at any time they will come face to face with death. The result of this is that they are humorous in their boldness.

In one of the mines of Pennsylvania there was a cave-in which imprisoned a miner named Jack Thornton. The accident happened on Friday afternoon, and the fellow-laborers of the entombed man set to work at once to dig him out. It was not until Sunday morning, however, that they reached his prison chamber, and by this time they were wondering whether he had been suffocated or starved to death. One of them stuck his head through the aperture made by the picks of the rescuers and called out:

"Jack, are you all right?"

"All right," came the reply, and then after a pause: "What day is this?"

"Sunday," answered the friend.

"Gee," exclaimed Jack, "I'm glad of that. That was one Saturday night when those saloon-keepers didn't get my wages.

THE WEATHER.

LOCAL OFFICE, U. S. WEATHER BUREAU, Los Angeles, July 13.—[Reported by Ford A. Carpenter, Local Forecaster.] At 5 o'clock a.m. the barometer registered 29.92; at 5 p.m., 29.92. Thermometer for the corresponding hours showed 57 deg. and 73 deg. Relative humidity, 5 a.m., 92 per cent.; 5 p.m., 54 per cent. Wind, 5 a.m., west, velocity 2 miles; 5 p.m., southwest, velocity 8 miles. Highest temperature, 75 deg.; lowest, 55 deg. Barometer reduced to sea level.

WEATHER CONDITIONS.—The pressure decreased over the western half of the country and increased on the Atlantic coast. It is slightly cooler east of the Mississippi River, but the lowest temperatures reached were not sufficiently low to give decided relief. The rainfall was light and scattered; the greatest amount, .36 of an inch, fell at Green Bay, Wis. Showers occurred in the Southern States, the greatest amount of rain in that region being .73 of an inch, at New Orleans. The general decrease in pressure in the Western States may give periods of increased cloudiness in Los Angeles and vicinity, but the weather will be generally fair Sunday, without much change in temperature or the usual southerly winds.

PORT ITEMS.

The steamer Yale arrived this morning on schedule with passengers and freight for the Pacific Navigation Company, after a thorough overhauling in dry dock at San Francisco. The Yale has been having much trouble for several weeks in keeping up her schedule on account of heating the bearings on shafts. She was in dry dock several times before the trouble was finally located. It is thought that the frame of the vessel was wrenched in rough weather last winter and braces broken that presented a perfect alignment of her shafts in a rough sea. The Yale proceeded to San Diego this afternoon and will call here again tomorrow, north bound.

The Pacific Coast Company's steamer Queen also proceeded down the coast today and will sail tomorrow on the return voyage to San Francisco, via Santa Barbara.

The steamer Coronado completed the discharge of her lumber cargo today and sailed for Gray's Harbor, via San Francisco, with passengers and in ballast to reload for this port.

The schooner Robert Searles sailed for Puget Sound today in ballast to reload lumber. Another departure of the fleet of windjammers in port was the schooner Andy Mahoney for Puget Sound in ballast to reload lumber for San Francisco.

Several changes in the masters of steam schooners operated by Sudden & Christensen are being made. Capt. Martin will go to Wilmington, Del., to bring the new steamer John A. Hooper to this coast, and will be succeeded on the steamer Norwood by Capt. Knudsen, formerly on the Raymond. Capt. Jack Kittlesen, long in command of the Chehalis, will take the Raymond and Capt. McClements will hereafter command the Chehalis.

JANSS SOCIAL CLUB.

Fifty men and women employees of the Janss Investment Company last evening organized a social club that is to meet each month for recreative purposes and exchange of ideas.

The following officers were elected: President, G. S. Reynolds; vice-president, Glen MacWilliams; secretary, Miss Annette Harrington. Dancing followed, under the direction of Chairman A. H. Wilkins.

Open Branch Office.

The firm of Boardman Bros. & Co. of San Francisco has decided to open a branch office here. The Los Angeles office of the company will be at 425 Title Insurance building and under the management of William N. McKee. The latest subdivision of the firm is Orosi Farms, an orange tract in Tulare county.

QUARREL'S TOLL IS TWO LIVES.

WIFE, FLEEING FROM ENRAGED HUSBAND, SHOT DOWN.

She Threatens to Leave Him and Return to England—He Turns Revolver on Himself After Killing Her—Die Unhappily as They Had Lived, Says Friend.

Because his wife told him she was going to leave him and return to her home in London, Harry Weber, a marble layer, shot and killed the woman yesterday afternoon, and then placed the muzzle of the revolver against his left temple and blew out his brains on the stairway leading to the Roberta apartments, No. 818 South Spring street.

When the police arrived a few minutes later they found the bodies curled up together on the landing just inside the swinging doors of the stairway. The steps and side walls were covered with blood. A revolver was found tightly clasped in Weber's right hand beneath his body. Only two of the six cartridges in the cylinder had been discharged. A box of cartridges was found in the dead man's coat pocket.

Early yesterday afternoon Weber called on his wife, who conducted a manicure parlor in the Roberta apartments. He had apparently been drinking heavily and took two bottles of beer with him to the room. They drank several glasses of beer together and Weber became abusive, according to near-by roomers, and Mrs. Weber told him she was going to leave him.

A bitter quarrel ensued and Mrs. Weber telephoned to Mrs. Mabel Whitner, No. 5900 South Grand avenue, that her husband threatened to kill her. She pleaded with her to come at once and protect her life.

Mrs. Whitner arrived at her friends' apartment five minutes after the murder and suicide.

When her husband threatened her life Mrs. Weber ran to the hallway and started down stairs, with her enraged husband in pursuit. Just as she reached the swinging doors half way down, her husband fired at close range and the bullet entered her left temple, killing her instantly.

According to Mrs. Whitner, the life of the dead couple was unhappy from a few weeks after their marriage in Portland last August. She says Weber drank much and while in that condition mistreated his wife. Mrs. Weber threatened to leave him several times before. Weber, a labor-union man, laid marble on the Van Nuys building at Eighth and Spring streets. They lived in a bungalow at No. 149 West Ninetieth street. Weber was 31 years old and his wife 26. The bodies were taken to the Pierce morgue.

DIXIE LASSIES SING MELODIES.

STATELY SYCAMORES DOME TO PICNIC HOSTS.

Southern Clans Gather to Eat Fried Chicken and Wave the Bonnie Blue Flag—Western Blending of North and South Presages Magnificent Destiny, Says Lee.

Most everybody whistled or sang "Dixie" yesterday at Sycamore Park, and those who could neither whistle or sing gave full vent to their patriotism in doing heroic duty over the fried chicken and the watermelon served in abundance. It was not absolutely necessary for the 2000 persons attending the picnic of the Dixie Society to make their own music for five negro boys, who call themselves the Los Angeles entertainers, and who are importations from Southern States, flooded the park with old-time southern melodies.

After a dinner which consisted of about seven courses of fried chicken, everybody gathered around the grand stand improvised for the occasion and gazed at a blue sky through the tossing white arms and the fluttering fingers of stately sycamores while Rev. Baker P. Lee of Virginian extraction, gave a rare speech in which the names of Lee and Grant, Davis and Lincoln, were linked with equal fervor and greeted with equal applause.

Lee said that he has no sympathy with that bombastic oratory which sweepingly avers that there is no south, no north, no east and no west. Instead he is very proud that each of these sections exists and glad that every child of each separate State has a passionate fondness for the State which first nourished him. Men are better patriots, Lee said, because their hearts turn with appreciation and yearning to the States of their nativity.

Moreover, Lee sees a magnificent destiny in the western blending of the men and women of all the States. For the world he sees domination by the Anglo-Saxon and, among the Anglo-Saxons, his vision seizes upon a vast and permanent supremacy by America. This country, he declared, is to be the Moses of the race which is to lead humanity into the holy land of brotherhood. This is the promise of the race and America will insist upon its fulfillment. Because the sons of its many States are united in spirit they can establish the brotherhood of man.

In his memories of the old South Lee was very tender and the applause which greeted these reminiscenses had about it a gentleness like mellow fireside reveries. When he had spoken for half an hour he would have rested but his hearers would not let him go, and he entertained them for another half hour with a rich blending of quaint anecdotes and their philosophic application.

Gesner Williams, president of the Dixie Society, who was born in Alabama, but who lived all over the South, before he came West to encourage Los Angeles, introduced Lee and gave a good speech on his own responsibility. Miss Edith Waterhouse, daughter of Bishop R. H. Waterhouse, of the M. E. Church, South, entertained with a select reading.

Miss Mary Foy, whose father lived his younger days in Kentucky, invited all present to attend the rally which the Los Angeles county branch of the California Women's Democratic League will hold at the home of Mrs John W. Mitchell Thursday night. The league had a register on the grounds to take the names of all Democratic women and the Federation of State Clubs kept open registers for every Southern State to transfer these names to the permanent books of the society. These books comprise a remarkable local directory of all States.

Prominent among the officers and leaders of the Dixie Society present yesterday were Mrs. Drew Pruitt, Mrs. Ella Swickard, Mrs. Caruthers, Mrs. John P. Dickey, Mr. and Mrs. P. H. Bond of Santa Paula, H. B. Watkins, G. D. Ferrell, and Andrew Park. Ferrell was an editor in Tennessee for twenty years and was probably challenged to fight more duels which he never accepted than any man in his State. He invariably answered his challenger with the statement that he did not want to be in an asylum, a penitentiary, or a graveyard and he noticed that most successful duelists generally arrived at one of those three places. The picnic yesterday brought about many pleasant reunions among friends who had not met for several years.

Sycamore Park was also the scene yesterday of Sunday-school picnics from the Huntington Park and East Los Angeles Baptist churches, and from the Cypress Park Christian Church.

VETERAN'S DAUGHTER MARRIED

Father of Azusa Bride has Part of Home Decorated in Flags as Manifestation of Loyalty.

AZUSA, July 13.—Miss Mabel Hoag, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hoag, and Charles Nichols were united in marriage today at the home of the bride's parents, the ceremony being performed by Rev. Charles F. Richardson, pastor of the Presbyterian Church. The house decorations were charming, the traditional wedding bell having for a background pine boughs from the Hoag ranch in the San Gabriel Canyon. In honor the bride's father, a veteran of the Civil War, the dining-room was decorated with American flags.

The bride was attired in white silk trimmed with hand-made Duchess lace. She carried white carnations and her bridal veil was held in place by the same wreath of orange blossoms that her mother had worn at her own wedding.

Only the relatives and a few intimate friends were present. After the wedding breakfast Mr. and Mrs. Nichols left for a short honeymoon trip, after which they will return to make their home in Azusa.

The City Trustees have passed an ordinance providing for the Sunday closing of billiard and poolrooms, also that they shall close at 11 p.m. and open not earlier than 6 a.m. An ordinance intended to regulate the overcrowding of lodging-houses passed the second reading. The City Attorney was instructed to draw up an ordinance requiring the use of covered cesspools. A motor cop was employed to arrest all persons driving any vehicle over the streets at a rate faster than fifteen miles per hour. The street superintendent was requested to get into communication with the railroads to the end that the crossings be put into good condition.

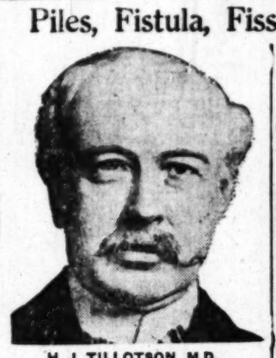
Piles, Fistula, Fissures and Hernia



H. J. TILLOTSON, M.D. (Established 31 Years.)

I publish my photograph, personally conduct my office. I am the longest established, most successful and reliable, as medical credentials and press records prove. I possess skill and experience acquired in such a way that no other can share. Experience is the safe standard by which judgment should be valued.

NO MONEY REQUIRED TO COMMENCE TREATMENT. Many patients have no confidence in their doctor because he demands pay before a cure has been effected, and there are many who have been misinformed about their condition, or through unsuccessful treatment have become skeptical and think there is no cure for them. I want an opportunity to treat such cases. It makes no difference about the financial part, as I accept pay for my services as benefits are derived, when I am satisfied the patient is reliable. I will prove my ability to cure you before asking pay for my services.

Most Time Saving, Most Natural, Most Safe. No Detention from Occupation, Family or Home. A Radical and Permanent Cure.

I invite you to come to my office. I will explain my treatment for Hernia, Piles, Fistula, Varicose Veins, Pelvic, Nervous, Blood, Kidney, Bladder and Rectal Diseases.

Piles, Fistula, Rectal Diseases.

These diseases are very common; most frequently found in persons of middle or advanced age; are exceedingly annoying, often very painful, and sometimes very dangerous, and frequently unfit one for pleasure or occupation. My treatment and successes are the result of years of experience; my treatment is kindly applied. I cure Piles without cutting. If I do not cure your Piles, Fistula and other Rectal Diseases, my treatment does not cost you anything. Gentleness in treatment comes from treating many cases. I guarantee a cure of Piles, Fistula, Ulcers and all curable Rectal Diseases.

Trusses Seldom Cure Rupture.

Disregard for existing Hernias has cost many lives. The smallest hernias are the most dangerous, because of the increased liability to strangulation. I am aware that a great deal of fraud has been practiced in connection with the alleged cure of rupture. I say positively that I cure Rupture, to stay cured. I cure with perfect safety, and entail no suffering, and do not detain you from occupation.

WRITTEN GUARANTEE.

Dr. Tillotson's written guarantee means a cure or no pay for services. I guarantee to cure certain diseases or refund every dollar you have paid me. My services cost you nothing unless I cure your Varicose Veins, Hernia, Piles, Fissures, Fistula or any disease I guarantee to cure. My terms are reasonable and no more than you are willing and able to pay.

FINANCIAL NEWS SUMMARY.

[Furnished by Logan & Bryan, Members New York and Boston Stock Exchanges, Bradbury building, Los Angeles.]

NEW YORK, July 13.—Stanley Steel report to be made public Monday will recommend the sale of all United States Steel Corporation lines.

Heavy rains reported throughout Minnesota and Dakotas.

Intimated in Washington that an appeal to the Hague may be taken to settle controversy over Panama Canal legislation.

Commercial agencies report 230 failures this week, against 179 for previous week.

Crop conditions in general on July 1 were 99.10 better than on same date last year.

Idle cars decrease 3894 in two weeks ended July 4.

Favorable crop progress improved sentiment as to futures, maintained activity in finished steel operations, better retail trade, special features of business outlook.

Twelve industrials declined .69 per cent.

Twenty active rails declined .32 per cent.

Week-end realizing and evening up of accounts served to impart a moderate degree of firmness during the last hour of today's session. The character of the buying was somewhat better than has been witnessed of late, but the same appeared to be conducted merely on the theory that the list was entitled to at least a moderate recovery after the recent sharp declines.

TIDE SETTING INWARD NOW.

Efficiency Schedule of Board of Education Stands.

Teachers May Secure Year's Vacation on Pay.

City Superintendent Explains Merit-Salary Plan.

The recent agitation among some of the teachers of the city, owing to the adoption of an additional efficiency schedule by the Board of Education, known as "salary schedule B," while involving a small percentage of the force, was sufficient to cause a feeling of surprise at the executive offices, inasmuch as it was thought to be an advance step that all good teachers would appreciate.

The salary schedule, officially known as "schedule A," is definitely fixed, providing twelve months pay for ten months' work, thus giving the same pay during the two vacation months as during the ten school months, and at a rate among the highest-paid in the United States. Until this entire schedule is revised, increasing the pay of every teacher, which is acknowledged to be a remote possibility, inasmuch as the schedule is progressive, and increases the pay of teachers with their years' of service, the new schedule "B" offered a goal to be reached as a reward for greatest efficiency. The situation was thought of sufficient importance, when objections were heard to the new departure, that City Superintendent Francis was moved to address a letter to every teacher, setting forth the benefits to the teacher and the attitude of himself in reference to his efficiency proposition, and the tide is now setting in. After expressing his regret that there should be any opposition to the proposition to increase beyond the regular scale, the salary of any teacher who seemed to merit such increase through general devotion to the work, the superintendent says:

"All of us must recognize the necessity of organization in any large undertaking. In school work this organization should be so strong and well-defined that no one would attempt to disregard it, and so broad, liberal and sane, that no one would wish to do so, for if the organization is crippled every member of it must be weakened. As a member of an organization upon whom certain large responsibilities have fallen, I earnestly desire the approval and confidence of every teacher in our system. There is but one other thing I crave more and that is the approval of my own conscience that my actions shall be prompted by right motives and my efforts directed toward the conservation of the largest and most permanent interests of the cause we all mean to serve loyally and well.

NOT AFTER POOR ONES

"My efforts in behalf of schedule B were not inspired by a desire to eliminate poor teachers, but to encourage and reward good ones. In fact, I am but incidentally interested in the poor teachers, but tremendously interested in the good ones, and believe the best way to secure them is not by eliminating the indifferent teacher, but by creating conditions that will attract and encourage the strong one. I am convinced that the constructive, rather than the destructive, policy is the only correct one in educational matters."

He then summarizes the requirements of schedule B, which are that a teacher shall first have reached the maximum salary of schedule A; have taught one or more years in the city, and shall pass the following tests with an average grade of not less than 85 per cent.: Individuality, personality, power and efficiency; devotion and earnestness; comprehension and educational vision; preparation, to consist of travel and work done in teachers' classes, reading courses, evening schools, or summer schools. The basis of rating these credits, to be 100 per cent. for two full years' additional work, and at the same ratio for shorter credits.

It will be seen by this that only those teachers who have been in the department for a sufficient number of years to secure the highest regular salary (six years) are affected by the new proposition. It therefore does not in any way affect new teachers, and may be an incentive to prevent the old teachers from resting at the top of the list, with nothing more to strive for. One of the objections urged, Mr. Francis answers as follows:

NOT A HARDSHIP.

"That Schedule B makes unreasonable demands upon teachers to qualify for it. In reply to this may I call your attention to the liberality proposed in allowing credits? It does not require a teacher to travel abroad. Travel in this country will be given equal consideration, including that done during the vacation months. A trip to the mountains, to Alaska, or to any part of the country, for educational purposes or self-improvement, will be recognized. Nor does it mean that teachers are required to go to college; it is well known to most of you that the superintendent believes there are other lines of education and improvement equally as good as college training. The Board of Education has furnished, free of cost to teachers, opportunity to do work in many lines. Those who have taken advantage of this will receive full credit. The board has also by a recent act allowed seven weeks' teaching in the vacation schools to rank with seven weeks' work during the school year. A teacher may, by taking advantage of this offer, have a year on leave, at full pay, after having taught six summers in the vacation schools. She would still have left three weeks in each year for her summer vacation—a more liberal one than is given the average professional person—and she would in turn receive one year's credit in qualifying for Schedule B. The board has thus made it possible, it seems to me, to meet the requirements for Schedule B, with but little if any sacrifice on the part of the teacher."

The superintendent takes up and answers all the objections advanced to the proposed plan, in his desire to do what he recognizes as his duty to the teachers and in his desire to have their sincere sympathy and co-operation. He then concludes as follows:

"The board has decided to postpone the operation of Schedule B until the February term. This meets with my approval, as it will offer opportunity for a more thorough and intelligent consideration of the whole proposition.

"In the discussions that may follow, every patriotic teacher will do her utmost to prevent contention, misunderstanding and conflicts in the department. Loyalty and co-operation are cardinal virtues in the teaching profession as well as in all other vocations in life. There are too many tremendously important things to be accomplished in the public schools of Los Angeles to allow the work to in any way be neutralized or crippled by misunderstandings among the workers."

JUNE RECORD MENACED.

July Right After Laurels Claimed by Month Just Ended—Valuation Total Already Million and Half.

With the issuance on Friday of a permits for the $500,000 Hollingsworth block at the southeast corner of Sixth and Hill streets, the building valuation total for the month to date was elevated to $1,471,032. From July 1 to July 12, inclusive, 567 permits were taken out. The figures for the corresponding period of last year were 371 permits and $775,943.

If the permit for the eleven-story Clark Hotel building on South Hill street is taken out during the present month, July will unquestionably eclipse the record-breaking June totals. The figures of last month are in any event in danger of being left behind. The $3,000,000 mark is practically assured, in the opinion of the building department officials.

To date, for the month, 240 permits, representing a valuation of $549,991, have been taken out for new homes alone. If this rate of home building activity is maintained, all records in this respect will be smashed.

Following is the classified report for the month to date:

"Hello, Central!"

"VERMONT, BLANK BLANK, PLEASE."

"BUSY? ALL RIGHT, GIVE US GARVANZA DOUBLE-O."

Pacific Telephone Company Puts in Two New City Exchanges and Adds Another at Long Beach. Service Keeps Growing and Operatives Are Rushed to Keep Pace.

Two new telephone exchanges were put into commission last night by the Pacific Telephone and Telegraph Company. They are to be known as Vermont office, located at Vernon and Denker avenues, and Garvanza office, located on Avenue 55, between Monte Vista and Pasadena avenues. The construction and putting into service of these offices has been made necessary by the rapid growth of the southwest and the Garvanza sections of the city.

The Vermont office is one of the best-constructed telephone buildings on the Pacific Coast. It is modern in every detail, and absolutely fireproof throughout. The basement contains the power plant with reserve power generating machinery, heating plant and storeroom. The first floor is devoted to public offices, public telephone booths, storage-battery-room and a large, well-ventilated restroom for the operators. There is also a cafeteria which is fitted up in every detail. This is an accessory to a telephone exchange, necessary only so far as it brings returns in more prompt and accurate service by making the surroundings of an operator pleasant and congenial.

The second floor contains the wire chief's workrooms and the apparatus-room, where the outside cables are connected with the cables which run to the switchboard.

The entire third floor is devoted to operating purposes. Here is located the switchboard, chief operator's and information desks. The switchboard is the latest type of a western electric multiple board. It is equipped to handle 9600 separate lines from twenty-one operators' positions.

The Vermont office will afford telephone relief to that section of Los Angeles, the growth of which has been so great in the past few years that the Pacific company has found it difficult to keep pace with it. It will also relieve present congestion in the south and west offices of the company. More than 1200 west and 1000 south numbers will be changed immediately and given the prefix "Vermont."

The new Garvanza office is similar to the Vermont exchange. It will afford relief to the present east office by absorbing 1200 subscribers who will be assigned the new prefix "Garvanza" instead of "East."

All subscribers whose numbers will be changed have already been notified of their new assignments. New directories are to be distributed tomorrow.

The Pacific company now has ten exchanges in the city. The company also put into commission last night a new exchange building and plant at Long Beach. It is designed to provide for a Long Beach population of 100,000.

GREAT PLANT MOVING.

Union Tool Company Starting for Torrance, Industrial City—Picnic Next Saturday for the Employees.

Next Saturday the Union Tool Company will give its seventh annual picnic at Redondo Beach. The rapid growth of this concern is evidenced by the comparison of the attendance at the first picnic which was held at Ocean Park and attended by about fifty employees and their friends, as against the probable attendance this year, when 400 men and their families and friends are expected.

The picnic this year will be in the nature of a farewell event—as far as Los Angeles is concerned—because of the removal of the company to the industrial town of Torrance.

The programme will be full of surprises, both for the spectators and for the winners of the events, and also for the losers. The tub race to be held in the plunge will be an exceedingly comic event.

The Union Tool Company was organized four years ago this month by the consolidation of the American Engineering and Foundry Company and the Union Tool Company, capitalized at $1,200,000.

The group of buildings occupied by this concern are of steel, representing floor space of 150,000 square feet. The new plant will have double this floor space, and in addition to oil well tools, the concern will manufacture auto trucks, auto plows and street-paving machines.

In return for faithful service rendered, the company gives to its men marked privileges and attention to individual welfare.

The disintegration of the old works on Mateo street has already commenced and by the beginning of November they will be empty.

NO JOKE THIS TIME.

Supposed Confirmed Los Angeles Bachelor Announces Wedding in East to Charming Tennessee Girl.

Rivers J. Morrell, treasurer of the the Rivers Brother Company, wholesale produce dealers of this city, surprised his Los Angeles friends yesterday by the announcement of his wedding to Miss Nancy Katherine Stouffer at her home in Chattanooga.

Morrel had always professed devotion to bachelorhood. Two years ago he made an extended eastern trip and from Washington sent home the announcement of his engagement and marriage to a society belle of that place. It was handsomely engraved and all his friends decided that he had really taken unto himself a wife. Arriving here, he gave them the laugh and told them about the joke he had perpetrated. He hadn't been married. Now his marriage is positive, according to relatives, who wired and confirmed the announcement. The affair is the outcome of an introduction to Miss Stouffer during a sojourn in Los Angeles early last winter. A charming southern girl of distinctly brunette type, she made an impression the moment she met the young bachelor.

During the days that followed, auto trips into the surrounding country, theater parties for two, and little dinners were among the various events of the programme. Mr. and Mrs. Morrell will probably make their residence at Morrell's pretty home, No. 215 West Avenue Fifty-three.

FOLLOWS ENGLISH TYPE.

Attractive New Hollywood Home Has Cement and Half-timber Exterior and Red Tile Roof.

One of the most attractive of the many fine new homes nearing completion in Hollywood is that of Henry C. Norris on the west side of Sycamore avenue, between Hollywood boulevard and Franklin avenue. The dwelling, which was planned and is being erected by the Milwaukee Building Company, is of the old English cottage type. It will cost about $12,000.

The exterior is of cement and half-timber, with rustic blue brick base and porches. The roof is of red English tile. The interior is being finished in hardwoods, the baths being in tile. The house contains eight large rooms, together with two terraced porches and one covered porch. Both the living-room and dining-room are paneled and have beamed ceilings. The upper part of the house is given over to a billiard-room and a maid's room.

The site is large and attractive and will be elaborately landscaped. As a part of the scheme a little arroyo extending through the grounds is to be bridged and made a bower of semi-tropical plants.

TO HALL OF RECORDS.

Yesterday being a half holiday, many of the occupants of offices in the Courthouse took advantage of the lull in business to move their effects to the Hall of Records. It is expected the new building will be fully occupied by September 1.

FINDS STOLEN AUTO.

Benjamin Waterfall of Sacramento, who is enjoying his vacation motoring through Southern California, making the Rose Hotel, Ocean Park, his headquarters, recovered his five-passenger Kissel Kar yesterday through the efforts of Patrolman Hook. The latter found it at Eleventh and Hill streets about daybreak. It had been abandoned by the joy-riders, who took it shortly after noon Friday as it stood in front of the Hotel Munn, Fifth and Olive streets. The machine had been run until the gasoline gave out. The joy-riders did not take any of the personal belongings of Waterfall, which were in the tonneau. Patrolman Hook at first thought he had earned $50, a reward offered for the recovery of another Kissel Kar.

ROMANCE OF YOUTH.

A romance of some months was brought to a happy consumation yesterday when Justice Summerfield tied tight the nuptial knot between Bessie Worthington, a pretty 18-year-old girl, living at No. 121 East Forty-third street and William Donaldson Jacobs, Jr., of No. 2342 East Fifth street. According to a mutual friend, the parents were adverse to a marriage at this time, so the young folks stole away and secured the license. They left for a honeymoon trip after the wedding in the justice's chambers.

GREAT PROGRESS REPORTED.

Fiscal Year Busiest in History of Glendale—Trustees Take Steps to Secure Freeholders' Charter.

GLENDALE, July 13.—That this city has made wonderful progress during the fiscal year ending June 30, is shown by the satisfactory report just issued by G. B. Woodberry, City Clerk. This report stated that during the year the receipts of the city have totaled $121,341, while the receipts for the year preceding were $39,192, showing a gain of $82,149. Disbursements during the year just past were $93,341, while during the year previous they were $41,741. These figures are exclusive of the expenditures for ornamental lights in the business section, which were raised by a special assessment totaling $10,500. Extra work in installing conduits, etc., called for an assessment of $10,500.

Definite steps were taken this week by the Glendale Trustees toward the securing of a freeholders' charter for this city, an improvement which has been under discussion for the past several years. A census was taken recently to see if the city had a population of 3500, the number necessary before the freeholders' charter can be secured. This census proved that there are 5500 residents within the city limits. Preliminary papers are now being prepared by the City Attorney and a special election will be called soon to select fifteen freeholders to frame a charter.

Preliminary work was done this week in the widening of Broadway from Glendale avenue to Everett street, when the sidewalks and curbing on the north side of the street along this entire stretch were torn up and the work of grading commenced. A deed has been given to the city by J. P. Shropshire, owner of the property, to fourteen feet of land, the street being widened from sixty to seventy-five feet. Just as soon as the improvement work is finished the widened section will be converted into business property. J. F. McIntyre is starting a $10,000 business block on the opposite side of the street from the section that is being improved, and other blocks, it is promised, will be built in this section soon.

The finishing touches are being put on the $25,000 intermediate school, located at the corner of Jackson and Third streets. At this time the auditorium chairs are being set up and lockers are being erected on the main floor. It is proposed that this building will be ready for occupancy by the opening of the next school term.

Chandler & Lawson are erecting a one-story brick building on Maryland avenue between Third and Fourth streets, to be occupied by H. E. Hall, who has leased the building for two years. At the cost of about $4000 the Valley Lumber Company has just completed a small business block on Broadway near Maryland avenue. This week this company moved into one of the rooms of the building. This same company is starting another block of six storerooms immediately adjoining the structure completed.

J. E. Peters, of the grocery firm of Kilborne & Peters, West Glendale, has purchased a lot at No. 1464 West Seventh street, upon which he will erect a residence. Col. Tom Thornton has sold his place on Central avenue, consisting of a handsome home and several lots, to a Los Angeles buyer. J. R. Lockwood has sold his recently-erected bungalow at the corner of Columbus avenue and Vine street to W. R. Ryan of Los Angeles.

STREET WORK COMPLETED.

Work on Michillinda streets and boulevards was completed this week and the last of the graders who have been encamped there for the past three months have departed. The roadways have been made to wind in and out beneath the great trees which cover the whole of the suburb, and already Michillinda is popular among autoists. Three handsome residences are in course of construction in the tract. The latest of these was begun this week when ground was broken on Bonita avenue for a $10,000 residence for J. E. Selkirk, a retired manufacturer of Detroit, Mich. The other houses, begun some time ago, are well along toward completion.

Miracles of Progress.

TREMENDOUS ACTIVITY AT CITY'S FAR-FLUNG EDGE.

Gaps Between Compact Inner Development and Outlying Districts Narrowing from Month to Month. Thousands of Home Builders Transforming Barley Fields and Pastures Into Beautiful Subdivisions.

WHEN Los Angeles in 1906 annexed the 12,000-acre "Shoe String Strip," there were those who cynically observed that the City of the Angels seemed to be obsessed with a desire to spread all over the out-of-doors. They even went so far, many of them, as to predict that this great ribbon of land, together with a lot of territory previously acquired by the annexation method, would never be built up and that the city would always present the ridiculous spectacle of boasting within its corporation limits thousands of acres that would never be adapted to anything but farming purposes.

The cynics of a few years ago laugh at their own error now, overwhelmed by the miracle of progress that has rapidly transformed Los Angeles into a great world city and swept aside one incorporation boundary after another. Today there is but little protest when some large and sparsely settled area is taken into the city, for most Angelenos are now firmly convinced that there is no limit to the expansion of Los Angeles save the mountains on the one hand and the sea on the other.

The term "outlying districts" is a variable one in this city. The annexationists have flung the incorporation lines afar time and again in every direction in the past twenty years and every addition of territory has been amply justified by the development that has followed. The gaps between the outside and inside development have always been filled with amazing rapidity, the city building not only from the inside outward, but from the outside inward.

The so-called "close-in" district has reached farther and farther from the heart of the business section as the apartment-house area has widened, and the "far out" region of one year is as likely as not comfortably within the "well-in" zone of the next year. Any article, such as the present one, which attempts to picture the development of the "outlying" districts is, therefore, pretty apt to be out of date within a very short time. The next few months will witness tremendous inroads into the barley fields at the edge of the present development upon the part

PUEBLO TO METROPOLIS.

Until 1869 the boundaries of Los Angeles were those of the old Spanish grant of the Mission fathers, and were defined as being one league each way from the Plaza. The little pueblo literally rattled around in the thirty-six square miles included in these limits, but no one was apparently worried thereat, nor was any one at all exercised when in the year in question still another quarter of

EXPOSITION PARK SQUARE.

The L. H. Mitchell and Son Company reports considerable activity in Exposition Park Square. All improvements in the tract are reported completed. Five houses are now building in the tract, one of these a bungalow for Mrs. Lufkin, costing about $3000. A two-story brick business and apartment-house is in course of construction for Ed Victor. Mrs. Louise M. Gibbs has purchased three lots, and is building on one of them a bungalow to cost $3500, while a two-story dwelling is being built by A. V. Harris. A two-story house is being built by Miss Flora Custon, and on the corner of Vermont and Fourtieth place G. W. Fourl is building a business and apartment-house of two stories. Among recent purchasers of lots in this subdivision are S. J. Anderson, Miss Hannah Lawyer, J. H. Bathrick, Mrs. L. A. Caldwell, Ray B. Koch, W. W. Bollyn, S. N. Marks, Carl A. M. Gibbs, H. D. Becker and E. Deardan.

TAKES TEN-YEAR LEASE.

Rev. Paul Branke has let the contract for a three-story apartment-house to be constructed at No. 941 Georgia street. Plans for the building were drawn by Charles W. Van der Kulen. The structure will be faced with cream-colored brick, the entrance being finished in marble. The building will contain sixty-six rooms, amusement room, lobby, sun parlor and roof garden. It has been leased for a term of ten years by J. C. Crawford, at a total rental of $53,460. The deal was made by Horace Burson of Burson & Co., hotel brokers.

DISSOLVE PARTNERSHIP.

The real estate firm of Suydam & Sullivan has been dissolved. Sullivan retains the office in the Security building formerly occupied by the company, and has organized the firm of C. J. Sullivan Company, which will specialize in selling and leasing business properties. Pressley A. C. Moore will have charge of the rental of industrial sites.

SANTA MONICA CANYON

The Ideal Homesite Offering

A combination of cool, leafy, enticing canyon and restless sea. A combination full of wonderful profit-making possibilities for the investor. A combination affording perfect sites for those home-lovers who want to live next to nature and yet close to the city. We lay special emphasis on the fact that this is a COMBINATION. We want you to consider that while there are many canyons and beaches, there's but one perfect combination of the two, and it's Santa Monica Canyon.

That's why you are getting a greater opportunity when you buy a site in this COMBINATION.

Spend a Day at the Canyon

Santa Monica Canyon means much to you. There's something besides sentiment and the appeal to your feeling as a Nature Lover. There's the practical side—the viewpoint that affects your pocketbook. It's the question of whether or not you want to accept or reject this opportunity—to double your money in a few years. The many buyers who have bought lots recently would not resell for anywhere near the price they paid, and the majority would not sell at all.

There's a reason! They know there's only a certain amount of this romantic playground and they won't let go of what they have. Are you going to sit still and let the golden chance pass by to obtain your choice of a site in this charming canyon, right at the edge of Santa Monica and a few minutes' ride to Venice? Don't procrastinate. Join the crowds buying large lots (many with giant sycamores) at

New Foods.

FLOUR AND MEAL FROM BANANAS.

FIGS ALSO MADE FROM THE SAME FRUIT.

Industry that Has Been Developed in Jamaica and Which Is Said to Be Developing Rapidly—All Banana Food Products Are Nutritious and Wholesome.

Perhaps not a great many people in this country know that both flour and meal, together with many other food products, are now being made from bananas in Jamaica Island. Such, however, is the case, according to a report which has been made to the Bureau of Industries at Washington by United States Consul Julius D. Dreher, stationed at Port Antonio.

The industry, still in its infancy, is making rapid strides, Dreher writes, and is attracting attention throughout the world, as shown by the many letters of inquiry recently received by the manufacturers from the United States, Hawaii, England, France, Germany and Austria. Less than a year ago, according to Mr. Dreher, there was but one factory of any size in Jamaica manufacturing banana figs for export. There were at the beginning of the present month five such factories in operation to capacity, a sixth company is rushing work on another plant, and several other companies have been organized, but have not yet begun actual operations.

"The original factory, which has been operating about six years at Gayle," says Mr. Dreher, "claims to have a secret process for making banana figs. A large factory at Montego Bay had its machinery made after its own designs in New York. Two other companies expect to patent their machines, which have been locally designed and manufactured. It is understood that the drying is done by hot air and that it takes 400 to 500 pounds of fruit to make 100 pounds of the figs. For a good many years experiments have been made in drying bananas, but it has been difficult to find a process for making a product that would keep well. Now that manufacturers are using a variety of machines and apparatus it is to be expected that the best process will soon be known. Although worms are never found in ripe bananas, the preserved fruit, if left exposed, attracts insects and soon becomes infested with small worms, as is the case also with other dried fruits.

"The food products manufactured are fig bananas or banana figs, cooking bananas, banana chips, flour and meal. All the factories dry or evaporate the bananas whole without the addition of sugar, and yet they are sweet and palatable, like pressed figs, which they also resemble in color. At least one factory cuts the bananas into short pieces before drying or evaporating them, thus making a product that looks much like the dried figs of commerce. It seems that it would be well, in order to make a distinction, to call the bananas cut into pieces 'banana figs,' and those treated whole 'fig bananas.' What are known as 'cooking bananas' are so thoroughly dried as to be hard, the color of these being almost white. Broken into pieces they form 'banana chips,' which, on meeting with duties, are imported to be ground into meal or flour in the country of consumption.

"In spite of the fact that the meal is said not to keep well, one factory uses an American gristmill for grinding the chips into meal. Another company has its own factory in London, to which it exports the chips, to be ground into flour and meal and made into other preparations for market. A small booklet is issued there to set forth the dietetic value ob nanana foods, as attested by British and German food experts and others; and there is added a list of products on sale, with recipes for their use, etc. These banana food products have been awarded many prizes, diplomas, and certificates of merit.

"It seems that all banana food products are wholesome and nutritious. The figs are delicious and are likely to be preferred to real figs by many persons. The fig bananas, cut into small pieces, may be used like raisins to impart an additional flavor to cakes and puddings. The chips, after being well pounded or ground in a coffee, or other hand mill, may be boiled and then used as an excellent breakfast food or for making delicious puddings. Gruel, porridge, and other preparations made from banana flour and meal, which are rich in easily soluble carbohydrates, are recommended for infants, invalids, and dyspeptics. The negro women of Jamaica use banana meal gruel as a substitute for milk for their infant children. The banana itself, is one of the most wholesome and nutritious of fruits if eaten slowly when it is perfectly ripe (that is, just before it decays,) but not when devoured only half ripe, as is often the case in the United States, which causes many persons to regard bananas as being difficult to digest.

"It seems only necessary to make the value of banana food products known in order to create a large market for them. Already they are to a considerable extent popular in Germany and Great Britain, which have been taking the bulk of the exports of such products from Jamaica. When bananas are selling at a low price, as is usually the case in this colony during the fall and winter, it is quite profitable to use them for manufacturing purposes. As the world's demand for these products increases it is to be expected that bananas will be grown extensively in districts too remote from shipping ports or railroad facilities to make their exportation practicable.

"In Jamaica several factories have already been built in such districts. In banana-producing countries far removed from large markets, like the Samoan Islands and other island groups in the Pacific Ocean, this fruit could be grown at small expense for manufacturing food products. Especially adapted to such an undertaking is Tahiti, the principal island of the Society Group, which has steamship communication with San Francisco and New Zealand and Australia, all too distant for exporting the fruit itself to advantage except in vessels built especially for that purpose. The Hawaiian Islands and the Philippines also seem to offer inviting fields for the profitable manufacture and exportation of banana food products. This consulate has received an inquiry from Honolulu with regard to this method of using bananas.

"Owing to the high price paid in Jamaica for bananas for export to the United States from March to July, inclusive, the factories either discontinue operations during these months or use mostly the small unmarketable bunches of fruit for manufacturing purposes. In order to have a continuous supply of fruit, several companies are making arrangements to grow bananas for their own use. Owing to the prevailing high price of bananas, one company could not undertake to fill a recent order for 100 tons of chips. Another company, which could not accept orders from importers in the United States last fall because its entire output was under contract for shipment to Europe, is taking steps to enlarge its factory in order that it may be in a position to meet the increasing demand. So far as can be ascertained, the combined capacity of the Jamaica factories is twelve to fifteen long tons a week, but the output may be considerably increased by next winter. The fig bananas, the chief article produced, are generally packed for export in boxes of fifty-six pounds each (one-half of a British hundredweight,) though some are put up in one-pound packages. There is no export duty on banana food products. The retail price of the figs in Jamaica is 8 to 12 cents a pound, and the export price for figs or chips is about $150 a long ton (2240 pounds.) Samples may be obtained from the factories."

Fakes and Fakers.

[Chicago Journal:] Some men are born fakers, some achieve faking and some get into politics without meaning to.

The faker is not a product of modern civilization. He is a human parasite as old as the race. But one must admit that modern life has given the faker opportunities and rewards such as were seldom proffered to him in simpler times.

The really successful faker, if not born to his trade, at least begins it early.

At school, he fakes answers.

At college, he fakes both answers and industry.

In business, he fakes values.

In politics, he fakes principles and pretends to be a friend of the people when his pockets are lined with trust money.

In literature, he fakes sentiments.

In journalism, he fakes information.

He makes money at it, and oftentimes fame. Not always; perhaps not usually; but that depends largely on himself. There is always a public ready to be fooled by the faker, if he only goes about the job with sufficient skill.

Maine's Famous "Pair Tree."

[Semiston Journal:] The high wind of June 12 destroyed the famous landmark near the Fifth Maine building, Peaks Island, known as the "Pair Tree." This tree, standing isolated on a barren point on the shore, dates back more than 150 years and has beyond the memory of any living man been an object of great interest to all islanders and visitors.

Old settlers relate that in 1869 there was a second limb growing out on the other side of the sole branch, which still survived prior to June 13, but in that year it was blown away to sea. For forty-three years the old oak has had but this one limb, which it maintained in a high degree of vigor—truly a "green" old age.

Many generations of lovers have sat under the Pair Tree (so named because of the pairing instinct of lovers in general) and have sworn undying constancy by those two symbols of the inconstant—the moon and the tides. The oldest islanders have played under its shade as children. Mariners have sighted it as a landmark. Millions of people have known and loved it.

An Apple Island.

[Westminster Gazette:] Fruit growing in Tasmania is said to be steadily expanding. It will not be long before there are 30,000 acres of apple orchards in the island and if this area only averages a yield of 100 bushels to the acre the result will be 3,000,000 bushels annually. The total acreage producing in the season just ended was 20,412, and the yield was 1,348,000 bushels of apples.

This year has been a record. Twenty-one great mail steamers have made the "apple trip" before starting home for London. The total oversea export was over 945,000 cases of apples.

May Be President.

DESCHANEL THE URBANE.

RULES CHAMBER OF DEPUTIES BY GENTLENESS.

Rowdiest Socialist Among the French Members Takes Notice When the Dude Speaker Raises a Paper Knife to Demand Silence. Predecessor Often Broke the Bell.

[Special Correspondence of The Times.]

PARIS, July 1.—Paul Deschanel at 56 is President of the Chamber of Deputies for the fifth time and is one of the most talked of men in France. The President of the Chamber of Deputies holds the same position as the Speaker of the British House of Commons or of the House of Representatives.

Far from being a Czar, he quietly holds in check one of the most unruly Houses of Representatives in the whole world. So far the calm spirit of the Academician has communicated itself to the most noisy Socialist and to the most blatant royalist. The firm hand of the masser pilot steers an even keel amid the most troubled waters of the proportionalists and anti-proportionalists.

His immediate predecessor, the late lamented Henri Brisson, used to break the bell at least once a week in his efforts to keep order. Paul Deschanel rarely uses the famous bell. He generally holds a paper knife high in the air when he wishes to impose silence. Dressed with a taste as impeccable as that of Count Boni de Castellane, when President Deschanel lifts his paper knife even Jules Coutaut, the most noisy member of the Chamber, holds his tongue. And Cooley, whose voice goes on to concert pitch when denouncing the "infamies of capital," becomes as gentle as a cooing dove when the President affably requests him not to violate the decorum of the House. In a word, the Chamber of Deputies is delighted with its President.

It would even surprise very few if Paul Deschanel were selected by the Senate and Chamber to succeed President Falliores next February at the Elysee. The men to whom France looks for Presidential timber are the presiding spirits of the Chamber of Deputies and of the Senate. When President Loubet was elected, Paul Deschanel was a candidate. Two facts militated against him. He was very young and he was very much of a dandy. Furthermore he was not then married and the French like to have a married man at the Elysee.

These drawbacks have now disappeared. Paul Deschanel is no longer a youth; his dandified air has developed into such elegance as to recall the courteous days of President Felix Faure. And he is married to one of the most accomplished young matrons in France, who would grace the Presidential receptions even as the Empress Eugenie added luster to the routs at the Tuileries. Before she married Deputy Deschanel, she was Mlle. Brice, daughter of a well-known Senator.

Paul Deschanel interests the republicans. He was born in exile, his father having been one of the many victims of Napoleon the Little's tyranny. The day of his birth, his father, who was eating in Brussels the bitter bread of the exile, ran across the street to inform two other illustrious exiles of the happy event. They were Victor Hugo and Edgar Quinet.

"He is the first-born of the proscription. Let us be his god-parents, Quinet," said Victor Hugo. So these two revered prophets of democracy were his sponsors.

Sedan finished Napoleon and his ballroom generals, and Victor Hugo, Edgar Quinet, Emile Deschanel and others who represented the best blood and brand of France, returned to their beloved Paris. Emile Deschanel resumed his chair of French literature in the College de France. In time the young Paul became a secretary in the Ministry of the Interior.

His public career began in 1885, when he was elected to the Chamber of Deputies for the district of the Eure-et-Loir. There he has sat ever since. In the Chamber Gambetta was his idol. He looked upon the great tribune as the inheritor of the principles of Victor Hugo and Edgar Quinet. During these twenty-seven years of a fine parliamentary career he has been noted for fidelity to principle and finished speaking. His sentences are clear and his phrases are cadenced.

Though the smell of the midnight oil and the stamp of the Academician is over them all, he has the art of concealing art. He is not as eloquent as either Jean Juares, the leader of the Socialists, or as the Count de Mun, the spokesman of the Catholics. Nor has he the biting sarcasm of the former Prime Minister, George Clemenceau. But he is classical to his finger tips. He speaks with full knowledge of the subjects he discusses. His reviews of foreign politics are always listened to with close attention.

Paul Deschanel is a peace-maker. He makes the most warring factions fraternize or at least respect each other's opinion.

Henri Brisson, the indefatigable champion of the Extreme Left, was a close personal friend of Deschanel's. Their political differences did not affect their personal relations, and there are few tributes on record finer than that paid by President Deschanel to his dead friend. Shortly before the latter's death the two consulted together as to the best means of bringing about internal peace for France.

Like most of the great men of his country he has written for the chief Paris newspapers and reviews and he is author of several works, one of which has been crowned by the French Academy.

PIERRE ROCHECOURT.

Paul Deschanel,
President of the French Chamber of Deputies and a possible candidate for the Presidency of the republic.

Wages No Object.

[Youth's Companion:] "Can't you get any work?" asked a woman of the tramp who had applied at the back door for food.

"Yes, ma'am," he replied. "I was offered a steady job by the man who lives down the road in that big white house."

"That's Mr. Oatseed. What was the work?"

"He wanted me to get up at 4 in the morning, milk seventeen cows, feed, water and rub down four horses, clean the stables, and then chop wood until it was time to begin the day's work."

"What did he want to pay?"

"I dunno, ma'am. I didn't stop to ask."

Ingrained Economy.

[Youth's Companion:] A rural postmaster tells this story of one of the patrons of his office, a boy of thrifty, not to say penurious, stock. When the lad comes into the post-office he will thrust his wizened face up close to the window and, in his slow, Yankee drawl, inquire most earnestly:

"Hev ye got any postal cards?"

"Yes," the postmaster replies.

"Haow much be they t'day?"

"A cent apiece."

Then the boy, screwing up his eyes in the intensity of his thought over the question he has to decide, always stops for a while to weigh the consequences. Finally, he will reply solemnly:

"Wal, I'll take one."

The Theater Nuisance.

[Cleveland Plain Dealer:] "While you are baiting the other human nuisances we encounter on the way," says a local reader, "don't forget the fellow who puts his elbow on the back of your seat at the theater and then laughs in your ear, and coughs on your neck, and treats you to flavors of the dinner he has eaten, and scatters his personal germs all over you. Of course, he doesn't stop to remember that he has no more right to share in your seat than he has a chunk out of the spotlight. I don't know what you do to him, but I can't hunch his elbow off, I turn squarely around and give him a Fitzsimmons glare. And, by Gad, even that doesn't always work! Perhaps you can suggest something more effectual."

We can't.

AT WORK ON ISLAND TRACT.

Work has been progressing rapidly during the past week on Balboa Park, the new tract on Balboa Island and. The Balboa Realty Company has a large force of men at work setting out trees and laying out walks and drives in the subdivision. Improvements on the park, when completed, will cost in the neighborhood of $5000, exclusive of the grandstand and pavilion to be built, it is said.

An Overworked Word.

[London Chronicle:] The most overworked word in the vocabulary of slang is "mug." As a noun it may mean a face, a fool or a student who prefers reading to play. As a verb its meanings are still more varied. It may mean to study hard or to strike in the face. It also means to rob or swindle, and one of actors to grimace or make faces. To mug up is also, in theatrical parlance, to make up. Finally, to mug one's self is to get drunk, the resulting condition being one of muzziness. There is more obvious sense in the last use of the word than in most of the others, for alehouses in the eighteenth century were commonly known as mughouses. The modern English equivalent of the German word which Mark Twain found it necessary to use for everything.

Santa Monica as Luxuriant in Growth as the Tropical Islands of the Sea.

Center of Perhaps Most Active Advanced Building on the Continent

Practically Every Type of Tropical Fruit and Flower Can Be Produced in the Crescent Bay City.

Equally Prolific is the Immense Building Activity Rushing It to the Most Prominent Beach City in the World.

Santa Monica Bay Realty Co., Miles & Tegnar, Proctor & Stadelman Largely Instrumental in Its Giant Development.

Paradoxical as it may seem, Santa Monica though possessing all the charms of the tropics, is at the same time undoubtedly the most progressive beach city on the globe. One would expect to find in Santa Monica, as distinctly the home of the lover of nature in all of its beauty, a certain indifference regarding development, so thoroughly characteristic of the various tropical garden spots of the world, the islands of the sea included.

Those, however who have put their shoulder to the hub of Santa Monica's progress from its start; aye, even back in the early eighties, were not so constructed. They are men whose every fiber seems to revibrate with zeal and energy, until the growth of Santa Monica has become the wonder of the continent in its herculean progress.

It would be very simple to imagine oneself in the heart of the most luxuriant tropical gardens of the Orient while in some of the sunken or other garden spots of Santa Monica, so abundantly do the strictly tropical as well as the semi-tropical fruits and flowers grow here.

Think of wandering through entire gardens of banana and bread palms, with the delicate, sweet fragrance of the flowering acacia lending its charm to the pungent odor of the over-ripe banana. Think also of glorious mirror lakes overhung with such plants as the papyrus, the eucalyptus robusta, the lotus, hemp, cane and the stately Royal Status, while in the lake grows a profusion of lilies of the Nile. Can you conceive of a more glorious spot even in the gardens of Antony's "Egypt," Cleopatra, than are these embellishments of Santa Monica?

Besides the tropical fruits and flowers, growing in the frostless regions of Santa Monica, there are also practically all other fruits and flowers known to the civilized world outside of the tropics. Oranges and lemons with their delightfully fragrant bloom, grapefruit, olives, figs, guavas, loquats and other such fruits are especially in their element here, while all of the staple fruits such as those common to the middle Western and Eastern States, reach a remarkably high state of perfection here.

REAL ESTATE AND BUILDING COMPANIES FURTHER PROGRESS.

It has been the big real estate and building firms of Santa Monica that have largely augmented its tremendous growth; among the most important of which have been Miles & Tegnar, the Santa Monica Bay Realty Company and Proctor & Stadelman, the latter of which individuals being associated with various prominent firms in Santa Monica, aside from their present consolidation.

The firm of Miles & Tegnar has been one of the pioneers of the Crescent Bay City. They have built some of the most prominent buildings and homes that are at present in Santa Monica, as managing agents for the Santa Monica Investment Company; among which is the well-known Majestic Theater on Oregon avenue, which is regarded as absolutely the finest building of its kind on the Pacific Coast.

The Miles & Tegnar firm is the one through whom the noted property now belonging to Mr. M. A. Hoover of Winnipeg, Canada, was transferred. This was originally part of the holdings of Arcadia de Baker, comprising some acreage property lying between Seventh and Fourteenth streets and Montana and Nevada avenues; and bids fair to become with the present plans mapped out for it one of the most noted properties in Santa Monica. It is known as the "College Tract."

The well-known one hundred acre property, under the name of "Green Acres" is one of the tracts which the Miles & Tegnar firm subdivided; though their attention now is principally being devoted to close-in property, such as the famous Palisades. Being the California representatives of Brown Brothers of Winnipeg, Canada, owners of a solid block of Palisades property, they are the ones to whom the settlement of so many prominent Canadians in Santa Monica is largely due, one-third of this property already having been disposed of to some of the very elite of Canada, most of whom are planning to erect their homes here this fall.

OTHER FIRMS CONTRIBUTING TO GIANT DEVELOPMENTS.

The Santa Monica Bay Home Builders are the ones to whom a big part of the development in the heart of the business center of Santa Monica can be accredited; controlling from time to time a large number of the most important city lots, adding to them whatever improvements they might require and reselling them on the "easy term" plan at unusual inducements.

This same firm, the Santa Monica Bay Home Builders, owns large acreages in such places as Van Nuys, Lankershim and prominent citrus and walnut districts throughout Southern California, which with its buildings and rentals of furnished and unfurnished apartments and cottages affords the tremendous capital necessary for the buying and improving of Santa Monica property.

1000 FEET NORTH OF MUNICIPAL PIER SOON TO GO ON THE MARKET.

One of the big things planned for the immediate future of Santa Monica is the placing on the market of the one thousand-foot property just north of the Municipal Pier. This will take place within the next ninety days, Proctor & Stadelman being the firm handling it. As the two hundred and fifty-foot tract adjoining the Municipal Pier was recently purchased by E. P. Benjamin of New York, who is planning for it an apartment-house and bath-house combined that will amount in cost to about $150,000, those familiar with this Proctor & Stadelman property are expecting an immense future for it.

The Procter & Stadelman firm also have on the market at present a number of lots immediately in front of the costly "Sunset Inn" recently constructed by Busch. Here also is where the Esplanade is now being so elaborately constructed, forty feet in width and with an open balustrade coping, finished with concrete lamp posts.

It is said that the city is contemplating making Municipal Pier a landing place for pleasure boats.

BUILDING PERMITS.

Following are the building permits for $1000 and over issued from July 9 to July 12:

North Normandie avenue; L. A. Gill, $1000.

Residences, each seven rooms, Nos. 1219, 1221 and 1225 Alexandria avenue and No. 1243 Edgemont street; Quinn C. Marbin, $8000.

Residence, five rooms, No. 3014 North Avenue; Tyler & Co., $1600.

Brick garage, No. 184 Rose street; Rose Building Company, $6000.

Dwelling, four rooms, No. 4441 Finley avenue; F. C. Barnes, $1500.

Brick warehouse, No. 722 Santa Fe avenue; Excelsior Cereal Milling Company, $3900.

Residence, nine rooms, No. 1959 Cahuenga avenue; James D. Brayton, $1800.

Flats, two stories, Nos. 2211-17 Hunter avenue; John Lindskag, $2500.

Residence, six rooms, No. 941 Gramercy place; Mrs. M. M. Symms, $1800.

Apartment-house, three stories, eight rooms, Nos. 1355-1357 Wright street; C. T. Scholz, $8500.

Residence, ten rooms, No. 2118 Harvard boulevard; R. R. Edwards Building Company, $4800.

Residence, ten rooms, No. 1729 South Wilton place; A. Z. Taft, $6500.

Two store fronts, No. 222 South Main street; Swanfeldt Tent and Awning Company, $1650.

Flats, two stories, No. 1404 Millard street; W. R. Hemmer, $5000.

Brick kiln, No. 2031 East Sixteenth street; Western Hardwood and Lumber Company, $3000.

Gas stills, heaters and cooling towers, No. 1438 Alhambra avenue; Amalgamated Oil Company, $10,000.

Apartment-house, three stories, nine rooms, No. 1250 West Fourth street; F. Q. and H. W. Stanton, $6000.

Brick factory building, No. 685 Anaheim avenue; Peerless Brick and Artificial Stone Company, $3000.

Flats, two stories, No. 137 East Fifty-first street; Charles Amols, $1800.

Flats, two stories, No. 324 West Fourth street; Mrs. J. D. Robinson, $1800.

Residence, five rooms, No. 336 West Fourth street; Harry H. Hellman, $1800.

Residence, nine rooms, No. 17 Berendo street; Francis E. Bacon, $4500.

Residence, five rooms, No. 6091 Santa Rosa; Martin D. Labaig, $1900.

Residence, six rooms, No. 125 North Hobart street; W. N. Kramer, $2000.

Residence, eleven rooms, No. 119 West Coronado street; Frank W. Wilson, $3000.

Residence, six rooms, No. 1453 West Adams street; H. G. Henry, $1500.

Brick addition to laundry, Nos. 870-874 Main avenue; White Laundry Company, $4500.

Residence, nine rooms, No. 4917 Compton avenue; James Mullen, $4000.

Brick garages, Nos. 518-522 West Mary L. Smith, $6990.

Residence, six rooms, No. 1065 West Sixty-first street; George T. Moser, $1850.

Residences, five rooms each, Nos. 773, 774, 780 and 779 East Fifty-second place; Tifal Building and Investment Company, $2000 each, total $8000.

Residence, seven rooms, No. 134 North Dillon street; Mennell & Hancock, $3000.

Residence, seven rooms, No. 748 East Forty-first street; Sophia Chapen, $1940.

Residence, six rooms, No. 909 North Normandie avenue; Ollie M. Hall, $2500.

Residence, six rooms, No. 746 Micheltorena street; George S. Hayes, $1675.

Residence, eight rooms, No. 7175 Sunset boulevard; D. W. Gault, $3750.

Residence, seven rooms, No. 1437 West Fifty-first place; William Ruoff, Jr., $1700.

Flats, two-story, No. 326 West Fifteenth street; Mrs. J. D. Robinson, $4400.

Residence, six rooms, No. 390 West Fortieth street; E. D. Seward, $2200.

Residences, six rooms each, Nos. 1034 and 1143 West Seventy-first street and Nos. 1159 and 1111 West Florence avenue; Los Angeles Investment Company, $1850, $1800, $1500 and $1650, total $6700.

Additional Valuations to Permit 7541, Apartment house, 207 N. Fremont avenue; W. F. Crier, $1700.

Residences, six rooms and five rooms, 121, 129, 137, 132 and 124 W. Eighty-third street; Southern California Home Builders, $1750, $1750, $1750, $1600 and $1600; total, $8450.

Dwelling, four rooms, 1255 Leonis street; Grace E. Frazee, $1500.

Brick Library Building, 1201 W. Forty-eighth street; $30,000.

Residence, ten rooms, 1824 S. Kingsley; Dr. P. W. Tonneson $2500.

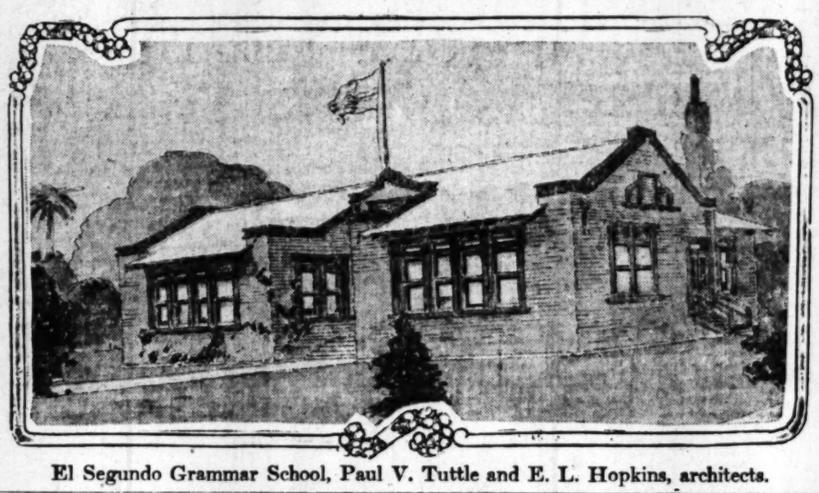
First Schoolhouse in New Standard Oil Town.



El Segundo Grammar School, Paul V. Tuttle and E. L. Hopkins, architects.

SCHOOL FOR OIL TOWN.

Plans have been completed by Paul V. Tuttle and F. L. Hopkins of this city for a four-room grammar school to be erected at the new Standard Oil town, El Segundo. The structure, which will cost about $5000, will be started at once and will be ready for occupancy by the opening of the next term. The building will be designed on craftsman lines and will be of frame construction above a concrete basement, the exterior being of rustic timber, stained yellowish brown, and trimmed with rough redwood, stained seal brown. The school, though small, will be complete in every particular.

TO ISSUE BOOKLETS. BOOST CAMPAIGN PLANNED.

VAN NUYS, July 13.—The Van Nuys Chamber of Commerce, at its regular meeting recently, took steps which will materially assist in continuing the progress being made in this new San Fernando Valley town. The Committee on Advertising and Statistics was authorizd to prepare and have printed a large number of illustrated booklets descriptive of the town and valley and showing views of the famous Van Nuys boulevard. These booklets will be widely distributed.

The organization also indorsed the project of establishing a lighting district to comprise the 47,000 acres in the Van Nuys-Lankershim tract and other adjacent territory. A petition asking for a vote on this proposition has been placed before the Board of County Supervisors and will be presented to the people at an early date. This movement looks forward to lighting the entire Van Nuys boulevard for its total length of sixteen miles, with ornamental five-light clusters, which will be a crowning feature of this popular driveway.

Building goes on actively. The new $50,000 grammar school is well under way and the substation of the Southern California Edison Company is ready for the roof. The excavation for the Pacific Electric depot is completed and work on its construction will be commenced in a few days. Many beautiful residences are being built in all parts of the townsite.

CLARKDALE ACTIVITIES.

Sales in Clarkdale on the Venice Shore Line are reported by the Guy M. Rush Company as follows: Margaret Bush, lot; Miss Merritt, lot; Robert and Eleanor Gurry, two and a half acres and a corner lot; Maude Munger Hathaway, corner lot; Nathan D. Horwitz, half-acre; Richard Muhsfelt of Prescott, Ariz., half-acre; Leo A. Weissert, corner Prospect avenue and Sixteenth street; William W. Winn, acre on Tilden avenue; Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Meltzer, three lots near Washington boulevard; William P. Losch, large lot adjoining on Huron avenue; Harry L. Sinclair, corner lot; William J. Lacey, lot on Prospect avenue; Albert T. and Walter J. Luer, two half-acres on Tilden avenue; George A. Lyon, half-acre on Tilden avenue for home, and Stephen A. Oliver, large lot on Prospect avenue.

TO VOTE BOOST TAX. TRUSTEES APPROVE LIGHTING.

HUNTINGTON BEACH, July 13.—Zimmer and Young of Los Angeles are erecting a four-suite, fourteen-room apartment-house on Eighth street, near Walnut avenue. It is to be strictly modern in every way, with disappearing beds, hot and cold water and gas. The structure will cost about $6000.

An election for the levying of a special tax to ceate a promotion and advertising fund is to be held here July 30, and the proposal will undoubtedly carry. The money will then be appropriated to the Board of Trade to be used in making the splendid advantages of this city and section better known.

A system of street lighting was approved Monday evening by the City Trustees, and in addition to the lights now available, forty more will be installed, with metal lamp posts that will add much to the appearance of the streets.

The City Engineer has been placed in charge of the street cleaning activities just instituted by the City Trustees, and not only the business streets, but the residence thoroughfares are to be kept thoroughly clean.

Plans for the splendid new reinforced concrete pier to be built at the foot of Main street will be submitted by the Raymond Concrete Pile Company this month, and the contract will be awarded as soon as possible thereafter. The pier is to cost $70,000.

PERRIS ACTIVITIES.

Development work on Perris Irrigated Farms and Orange Vista in the Perris Valley is now progressing rapidly, according to Emil Firth. A high type 125-horse-power tandem distillate engine is already installed. Firth has planted ten acres of oranges for his private use at Orange Vista. One of the most important projects is the construction of the 1,000,000-gallon reinforced concrete reservoir, which will furnish water under pressure for domestic as well as irrigation purposes. The ground is now being excavated for this reservoir. Fourteen miles of steel conduits are being laid to carry water to all sections of the Firth project.

LAGUNA WAKING UP.

The California Homes Company, which has taken hold of the development of what is termed the "orange coast," is transforming the old town of Laguna, which has slept idly in a little valley by the sea for twenty-five years, into a thriving little community. A hotel company has been organized to build the Laguna Cliff House, on a promontory overlooking the seal rocks at Laguna Cliffs, a structure which its promoters declare will cost close to $100,000. The plans are being drawn by R. C. Forsell of San Francisco. It is stated by a representative of the California Homes Company that several business houses, a pier and a lumber yard are in sight for the town.

Useful Agent.

ELECTRICITY IN RAILROAD WORK.

NEW YORK HAS WORLD'S GREATEST SWITCHING STATION.

Complex Interlocking System at the New Grand Central Terminal Where Hundreds of Signals Are Managed by a Handful of Highly Trained Experts.

[Railroad Man's Magazine:] The largest and most important switch and signal station in the world is part of the great complex system which makes up the new Grand Central terminal. This is an underground tower containing 750 levers. There are four more of these interlocking stations, all underground, but they are somewhat smaller.

Not even railroad men themselves, aside from the interlockers, have much of an idea of the wonderful system of switches and signals that has been evolved by the necessities of great terminals. All trains reach the Grand Central Terminal over the four tracks that run south from the Harlem River down Park avenue. These four tracks down Park avenue are like the handle of a tennis racquet. At Fifty-seventh street they spread out on two levels in a mesh of tracks that is as oval and almost as symmetrical as the raquet's web.

On the lower level there are twenty-two distinct tracks. The lower level is used entirely for suburban trains. On the upper level, which is devoted to through traffic, there are twenty-nine different tracks. On this level there are also sixty-two tracks for the storing of locomotives and cars that are used in making up the trains in daily use.

In the old terminal it was necessary as soon as a train was unloaded, to haul back the empty cars to the Mott Haven Junction yards, more than five miles away, for cleaning. They had to be brought back again.

In the new terminal the trains, instead of backing out, will swing around tracks that are segments of circles over to the storage tracks, where they will be made ready for their next trip. This will enable the four tracks leading into the terminal to be used by about double the number of revenue producing trains possible under the old system.

To move trains to and from these 113 tracks 423 switches and crossovers and 570 signals are used. In the early days of railroading every switch and signal had to be set by hand. Even as recently as twenty-five years ago it took an army of men in each passenger terminal to throw the switches.

Later the manual system was introduced. The switches were controlled to a great extent from towers scattered about the yard. In these towers from two to a dozen men manipulated levers by main strength.

Next came a machine with little levers in which compressed air took the place of human muscle in the shifting of the movable rails. Then electricity and compressed air were wedded for the work. Now electricity does the work alone.

Where an army of men was once needed to throw the switches of a big terminal a handful of highly-trained experts do the same thing more efficiently today. The switches and cross-overs are now manipulated from a central point, known as an interlocking station, not by the use of switch stands.

This system has made great railway terminals possible. Several hundred men would be needed to operate the switches under the old system and even then there would be impossible delays and almost inextricable confusion.

The interlocking machine is the heart of the terminal's activities. The men who manipulate it are called levermen and the one in charge is called the tower director.

In the Grand Central Terminal there are five of these interlocking stations. The first is located at Fifty-seventh street and Park avenue, where the four main tracks branch out into the network on the two levels. At this point the four tracks branch out into ten for station and yard purposes. Four of these ten tracks connect with the lower level and six with the upper level tracks. The second interlocking station is on the lower level under Park avenue and Forty-ninth street.

This is the largest interlocking machine in the world. It controls all train movements to and from this level. The tracks cover twenty-three acres of ground, some forty feet below the surface of the city's streets.

The third station is on the upper level and has a somewhat smaller machine than the one that is further under ground. It controls all switches and signals to thet main passenger, mail and baggage tracks.

The fourth station is on the upper level at Forty-eighth street between Lexington and Park avenues, and handles all storage trains. The fifth is on the lower level at Forty-third street and Depew place. It has two interlocking machines and controls all train movements around the loop tracks, making it possible to turn all trains arriving at the station by running them under the head house or main station building.

In the yard office building are the levers controlling switches, crossovers and signals. It is the largest collection in the world. It fills a long, narrow room, forty feet underground. From one end of the room to the other—136 feet in all, nearly the length of a city block—stretches a great breast-high box, on one side of which is a double row of levers.

The handles of grips of these levers are but a hand's breadth long and are placed side by side, alternately up and down. There are 750 in all, and each lever will move in any one of three positions a switch and cross-over and a signal in any one of three positions. Two men and a tower director handle them, working in eight-hour shifts.

The tower director sits at his desk about midway down this long room, facing the two levermen. Before him is a diagram of all the tracks under his control. It is traced on ground glass, and the location of every switch, crossover and station platform track is shown.

Everything is numbered, including the levers on the "piano box," as the huge interlocking machine is called. On the big ground glass map little circles of light glow brilliantly here and there for a moment and then reappear a little further along the cobweb of tracks.

The tower director watches the shifting lights and listens to the chattering telegraph instrument at his elbow, and gives directions to the levermen in a conversational tone of voice. Notwithstanding the fact that a dozen trains a minute are moving simultaneously, the calm in this underground tower is impressive.

Each track passes through a corridor of its own, so only the merest rumble reaches the interlocking room—only a dull roar now and then as some train shoots past the open windows that look out on semi-darkness.

"One-fifteen, two-sixty-four, eighty-six," remarks the tower director, and the levermen pace back and forth pulling the handles.

Above each handle a little numbered square of ground glass is suddenly illuminated. The tower director, like the captain of a football team, is giving signals.

No one appears to be the least hurried or excited, but it must be remembered that these men in the interlocking towers at the terminal are the leaders of their profession, the survival of the fittest. The keeping of this complicated mechanism requires a well-drilled mind. The certainty of the machine prevents accident, but a moment's lapse of memory or faltering of attention might mean a delay that would tangle up traffic.

The tower director at Mott Haven Junction, five miles away, calls up the director in Tower B at the terminal. The telegraph ticks a moment, telling what kind of train is coming and on what track. The Tower B man makes a note of it on the sheet in front of him as a matter of permanent record, not especially to aid his memory. A tower director in a position like his has to have the memory of a phenomenal chess player. He must be able to play a dozen games simultaneously without error, only his board are the acres of tracks and his chessmen swiftly-moving trains.

Of the four tracks in the Park-avenue tunnel two are used for southbound and two for northbound business. Sometimes, during a busy hour of the morning or afternoon, a score of trains will be moving simultaneously in opposite directions. At times the congestion in the terminal prevents the immediate selection of the track to which an incoming train is to be sent to unload its passengers, and the tower director has to keep such trains in mind until they pass Seventy-second street in the tunnel, a little more than a mile away in distance and not much more than two minutes in time.

A little disc of light glows on the ground-glass field and shows that a train is approaching, but even then the director in the big tower at Forty-ninth street cannot tell just what track he can put the train on when it reaches his territory. There are ten tracks at the mouth of the tunnel at Fifty-seventh street, and he must wait for advices from the tower director there as to which one the train will be swung onto by him.

This information comes quickly. There is no time for telegraphing with a train less than half a mile away coming at thirty miles an hour. The interlocking director at the tunnel's mouth pushes a button. It lights a little disc on the glass map which shows the number of the branch track. The tower director at Forty-ninth street sees it and presses another button, which indicates that he has understood.

He calls out a number to one of his lever men and in less than ten seconds the switches click and the signal arms fly up out in the yards.

While all this swift signalling has been going on still another mechanism has been busy. A crowd of people are standing about the bulletin board in the station awaiting the announcement of the track number on which the incoming train will arrive. The tower director's assistant at the end of the tunnel at Fifty-seventh street, as soon as it has been decided on which track to place the train, begins writing on a machine called a telautograph.

Simultaneously the man at the bulletin board sees the writing in the machine at his elbow. He tears off the slip of paper and chalks up the track number on the board. In another part of the station the man who has charge of the electric talking machines is getting the same information in the same way.

He speaks it into the transmitter of his machine, and his voice is reproduced in a score or more places at once throughout the big station, giving all who are waiting notice of where the train will arrive.

A train leaving the terminal is brought from the storage tracks by the same methods as those governing incoming trains. All regular trains are shown on the time table. Each train has a different number. Exactly one minute before the time for the train to leave the gateman on the concourse closes his gate and signals the conductor that no more passengers will be let through.

Punctually at the minute indicated on the time table the tower director at Forty-ninth street orders the lever men to set the switches and signals to give the outgoing train a clear track. The engineer sees the signals telling him to go ahead, and begins his journey.

Th men in the tower do not see the train at all. They know that it must be ready to start at its appointed time, and they make the way for it. Meanwhile the tower director at Forty-ninth street has pushed a button and indicated to the interlocking director at Fifty-seventh street that the train has started.

When special trains not on the time table are to be sent out, or the shifting of trains is to be undertaken, orders are given by the telephone. This is practically the only use made of the telephone in the moving of trains at the Grand Central terminal.

KEEPING YOUNG.

The Mind Grows So Long as the Individual Retains the Curiosity That Marked His Boyhood.

[New York Commercial:] Though a man's body attains its full growth before his twenty-fourth year, and probably earlier than that, the growth of his mind depends on himself. He can continue adding to the sum of his knowledge and his power to reason until extreme old age if he preserves his mental alertness. As long as he retains a fair measure of that curiosity about things which often makes him a nuisance when a boy, and is interested in new people, new sights, new books and the thousand and one things that are happening today, his mind continues to grow. But when a man finds that change bores him, and limits himself to one narrow round day after day he is really growing old mentally as well as physically.

This premature ageing of the brain is often self-induced. There is a class of men who make a fad of being uninterested in passing events. They will read only one paper, they will sit only in one chair, they will eat only at one table, they will vote only for one party, the name of which is the same as that as their forefathers, no matter how much its principles may have changed. Through posing at first they become "set in their ways" and then they are really old even though their years scarcely number two score. If misfortune or unavoidable change in his mode of life overtakes such a man he is, like a homeless cat, miserable for the rest of his days. Those who stay young mentally and spiritually keep in touch with new people and especially with the young, and cultivate the habit of looking with clear eyes on passing events. For them in their daily lives there are no laws of the Medes and Persians. They may wear themselves out, but they do not rust away.

An Ancient English Law.

[London Chronicle:] There was a time when most foreigners traveling to England had to visit a tailor on arriving, in order to have their buttons changed. According to a law passed in the eighteenth century, any person in England wearing buttons made of cloth, serge, drugget or frieze was liable to a fine. The foreigner wearing a coat with cloth buttons made in his own country is not fined when first charged with this breach of the law. He must, however, hasten to obtain proper buttons, or he may be arrested on the following day.

Realty and Building Activity Reported From Balboa to Bay City. Shore Cottages in Great Demand.

BALBOA, July 13.—Mrs. Hannah Beckwith has added to her holdings here by buying a piece of business property on Main street, near the pavilion, where she expects to erect a brick building in the near future.

The Newport Bay Investment Company, the founders of Balboa, report the sale of a valuable corner fronting on Main street and Bay avenue to its president, E. J. Louis. Capt. Louis is preparing plans for a three-story brick structure. It is rumored that a new bank will be started, to be in operation in the early part of 1913.

Chance & Bramwell report the sale of two lots at the corner of Central avenue and Main street to a wealthy woman residing in England, who is now en route home, but who expects to return to Balboa before Christmas. It is understood that she has given instructions to her agents to secure tenants for a building, which is to occupy the entire two lots, and which will be ready for occupancy next spring.

J. P. Greeley, secretary of the Newport Bay Investment Company, is erecting a beautiful home on his lots at Balboa. It will have all the modern conveniences.

Capt. Alfred Solano this week added another lot to his holdings here, giving him altogether six lots at Balboa, fronting on Newport Bay. It is rumored that he will build a large mission-style home covering the entire site.

There is a lively inquiry for summer homes in Bay City, and as in former years, it is expected that every cottage available will be taken. Bungalow City on the ocean front is open the year round and many of the little furnished houses are already taken.

West Newport is now being improved with street work of a high class. The work now under way runs from Thirtieth street down Lake avenue to Forty-sixth street, thence down Channel place to River avenue, Thirty-eighth and Thirty-sixth streets. A new bridge has been placed across the River Alto, which gives automobiles access to the island. It is also the intention to make a flower parking and to plant trees around the bathing pool.

Sales of lots amounting to $80,000, are reported by the Dam-Rousselle Investment Company, representing the whole of West Newport.

Poisoned by Dirty Coinage.

[London Daily Mail:] A very strange case under the workmen's compensation act was decided by Judge Smyly at Bow yesterday.

Abraham Robinson, an employee of the Gas Light and Coke Company, died from metallic poisoning contracted while collecting bronze coins from penny-in-the-slot meters. Many of the pennies had verdigris. At the inquest it was explained that he had frequently twisted his moustache ends with fingers which had handled these coins, and the poison was in that way absorbed into his system.

Judge Smyly said he must decline to make an award. At what particular time and place the man absorbed the fatal dose of poison had not been shown. Judgment for the respondents, and at their requests with costs, as the case might go to the House of Lords.

Collects Dust Raised by Autos.

[Chicago Tribune:] A British engineer has patented an apparatus which, it is claimed, will prevent the clouds of dust raised in dry weather by automobiles and other vehicles. The device, which is simple and inexpensive, collects the dust as it rises.

The dust is drawn into conduits, which are funnel shaped at the mouth and which run from the rear of the front wheels to the rear of the back wheels. These conduits are connected with a box, into which the dust is driven by the pressure of air, or this end can also be accomplished by the aid of a centrifugal fan geared to the driving shaft of the automobile. The contents of the dust box can be discharged by pulling a lever at the front of the vehicle.

EAST SIDE DEVELOPMENT.

The first of a series of eighteen bungalows built at Stephenson avenue and Indiana street, in Hollenbeck Heights, by the Braly-Janss Investment Company, was completed late in the week, each of the eighteen homes having been sold before it was finished. Work will be started day on ten more similar homes adjacent to the first series. The Braly-Janss Company also has under way room bungalows under construction at Brooklyn avenue and Indiana street.

Documentary Evidence

The reproduced clipping from an evening paper, July 3 issue, tells its own story. Over $150,000 sales through our brokerage department in the past few weeks. The commissions went to our stockholders. Just a bit of evidence to prove two points that we're always hammering at—that we are today a firmly established, well organized, ably directed, profit-producing concern, alive, aggressive, successful, and that we pay our liberal dividends out of nothing but actual net earnings, not out of stock subscriptions.

And because we're prospering so mightily, because every share of our stock is covered and a good deal more than covered by its value equivalent in solid gilt edge Los Angeles real estate, and because we have accumulated a handsome surplus of undivided profit which means an immediate increase in our dividend rate.

We Shall Raise the Price of Our Stock From $1 to $1.25 Per Share August 1st

You Can Make 25% Profit In Two Weeks' Time

There's absolutely not a shadow of a doubt but that our stock is well worth $1.25 per share right this minute. A glance at our books and balance sheet, an appraisement of our realty holdings, will prove this. And it's offered you at $1.00

And what's more by buying on the easy terms we offer you, 10 per cent. down, balance monthly, you can swing a big block on a mighty small cash investment. Come in tomorrow and talk it over. Opportunity knocks but once, don't expect it to batter down the door.

a mile was tacked on all around the future city's edges. In 1890 Los Angeles had an area of thirty-seven and a quarter square miles and a population of about 48,000.

In 1895 the beautiful Highland Park district was annexed, close to 1000 acres being added to the city in the process. Nearly twenty square miles came in the next year with the southern addition and the western addition, which included a great deal of the area of the present western and southwestern portions of the city. The year 1899 is memorable for the annexation of the University district of 1134 acres in the southwest section, and for the bringing in of Garvanza, with its 400 acres of sightly hills and valleys. Both of these latter annexations brought into the incorporation limits communities already well settled.

The annexation of the "Shoestring Strip" was a strategic move in preparation for the admission of San Pedro and Wilmington, both of which were thereby made contiguous to Los Angeles. Three years later, in 1909, the two harbor towns voted to consolidate with this city, making Los Angeles what it had long desired to be, a port of entry.

With the annexation of the 5576 acres comprising Colegrove in October, 1909, the consolidation activities shifted to the north again. In February, 1910, the city achieved its supreme triumph of annexation, barring only the acquisition of the harbor, by taking in the beautiful little city of Hollywood. Less than a month later, East Hollywood, with Griffith Park, came in, another splendid acquisition. The recent annexation of the great northeast territory, including the New York Valley section of the Eagle Rock district, Rosehill, Herman, Montecito and Mt. Washington, completes the activity of the annexationists to date.

The filling in of the vacant places that have been incorporated into the city limits in the years since the pueblo limits were defined in terms of leagues was a slow process for two decades or more, slow, that is, by present-day standards. Then came sporty, prophetic of the time which was to come, alternated with periods of calm, following miniature booms. All the while the city was gaining momentum. In the last ten years the growth of Los Angeles has surpassed even the wildest dreams of the boomers.

Today the man who would protest that the boundaries of Los Angeles were flung too far would be laughed at. Other big cities of the Coast pretend to smile, but the attitude is one born of jealousy and the inability to grasp just what is being accomplished here.

For the past three years the city building department has been issuing permits for the erection of private homes at the rate of 500 a month. For many years before this the average of home-building activity had been beyond that of all other American cities. Nowadays, the average is over 600 homes a month and is actually growing right through the summer months, a time when there is ordinarily a little drop off in building and other activities. The recent annexation of the great northeast territory, including the New York Valley section and the Eagle Rock district, Rosehill, Sycamore, Montecito and Mt. The filling in of the vacant places that have been incorporated into the city limits in the years since the pueblo days were defined in terms of leagues was a slow process for two years or more, slow, that is, by present-day standards. Then came a spurt, prophetic of the time which is to come, alternated with periods of calm following miniature booms. All the while the city was gaining momentum. Today the man who would protest that the boundaries of Los Angeles were going too far would be laughed to scorn. Other big cities of the Coast prefer to smile, but the attitude is one of jealousy and the inability to grasp just what is being accomplished

For the past three years the city building department has been issuing permits for the erection of private dwellings at the rate of 500 a month. For many years before this the average of home-building activity had been far beyond that of all other American cities. Nowadays, the average is but 600 homes a month and is rapidly growing right through the winter months, a time when there is usually a little drop off in building and other activities. In this home-building activity is the sub-stance and explanation of the miracle of the filling in of the thousands of [illegible] acres. It is the answer to the criticism that "Los Angeles is too big for its size."

ALONG THE FOOTHILLS.

Los Angeles must always regard the annexation of Hollywood as one of the best bargains a city ever made. Hollywood had paved streets, schools, churches, parks, beautiful homes and a population of 5000 when it knocked for admission. It was famous from Coast to Coast as one of the most attractive places of its size in the country, and the charm of its climate and of its foothills and flower gardens was known all over the world.

Yet, seven years ago this favored section of Los Angeles was little more than a ranch. From the time when H. J. Whitley laid out the town, Hollywood has been a marked place. Possessing in a limitless measure every natural attraction that goes to the making of a city, it has expanded and is now expanding in every direction. At the base of its foothills are being created some of the most beautiful estates in the Southwest, homes which are ranked among the show places of California.

A trip by trolley to the western edge of Hollywood will be a revelation to one who has not journeyed that way in the last year or two. All along Sunset boulevard and skirting the beautiful heights near the city's northwestern boundary, the home builders are claiming the green hillsides that of old charmed the weary traveler along the king's highway. South of the boulevard, the hills extending down to Temple street are taking on the aspect of an old residence district.

Beyond the old city limits at Vermont avenue, the break between Hollywood and the Wilshire and Westlake districts is being obliterated. With the construction of the magnificent new State Normal School at Melrose and Vermont, the erection of the splendid new High School for Girls, just above Bimini, and the transformation of the ugly Bimini slough, extending from Wilshire to Silver Lake, into the proposed Silver Lake parkway, there will be hastened a development that is already transforming the whole of this sightly, but until recently out-of-the-way, region into one of the city's most beautiful residence areas.

Hollywood and Colegrove are now indistinguishable one from the other in many places, and the latter and older place is creeping southward from month to month to meet the advance from the city proper. The filling in of the gap between the residence area bordering upon Temple street and that of Colegrove and Hollywood, it may be put down as a foregone conclusion, will be accomplished within the next three years at the outside at the rate homes are now being erected in the northwest. The creation of proper transportation facilities will reduce even this time limit. The westward trend of Hollywood is so marked that it is obvious there will soon be one continuous development to the mouth of Laurel Canyon and beyond to Sherman and the fashionable Beverly Hills district.

CROPS NEVER SECURE.

South of Temple street and just inside the city's western rim the development of the past few months has been astonishing. Hundreds of homes have been completed or started in this region since the first of the year. Southward, clear to the end of West Adams street, the hammers and trowels are ringing. A section that two years ago was actually regarded as unadaptable for development for five years to come, is today compactly built up with high-class dwellings. Crops ready to glean have time and again literally been trampled upon by the home builders, and a barley field is a waving expanse of green and a subdivision of wide streets and expensive homes in the same season.

Typical of the residence areas of the better class that have sprung from the fields in the past two years is Van Ness Avenue Square, lying between Wilshire and Third and west of Wilton place. Still west on Wilshire boulevard and extending as far northward as Temple street Windsor Square is being laid out where six months ago the meadow larks held full sway. This tract is to be one of the most exclusive in the city, and is being improved in the highest-class manner. Two of the beautiful mansions that are soon to grace the tract are now well under way.

Another subdivision of the same character is Ridgewood Park at the very edge of the northwest development. Here several large and handsome homes are well under way. Similar high-class subdivisions are being laid out south of Wilshire at the city's rim.

At the western end of Pico street the home builders have already advanced to the city limits, a number of fine and well settled tracts having been established at the very edge of things. The development along Crenshaw boulevard and in Victoria Park, Oxford Square, Westchester Place and LaFayette Square is particularly noteworthy, although there are hundreds of beautiful homes in this outlying district that are not in any of these sub-divisions. Arlington Heights has come to the front with great rapidity in recent months and the Vineyard power plant, until a year or two ago far out in the country, is now the center of an interesting and attractive community. Beyond the city limits the builders have laid out bungalow tracts at the end of both Washington and West Adams streets and this development is hastening the day when the annexationists must again get busy.

THE GREAT SOUTHWEST.

In actual number of new homes under construction the vast division of the city known by common consent as the Southwest leads all other sections by a large margin. Thousands upon thousands of acres of land as level as a floor and streaching from West Adams on the north and Main street on the east far out to the Cienega Hills and southward to and beyond Slauson avenue have been converted into beautifully improved tracts, with wide, parked streets and tree-lined avenues in a period so brief as to almost baffle belief. Wonders of transformation are being worked out in the Southwest from month to month, so active are the developers of the section.

The first large tract of the outlying Southwest, was Vermont Square, which was placed on the market only a few years ago by the Southwest Land Company, at a time when there was only one car line into the district. Upon the extension of this car line along Forty-eighth street to the city limits, at Arlington and Forty-eighth streets, the Los Angeles Investment Company opened up College Tract, where 450 homes have been built. The territory just south of Vermont Square, as far as Slauson avenue was then subdivided by many real estate firms and is now well built up. Still south from Slauson avenue along the western city limits, there have been built up two great tracts, Rodgers Park, of the Los Angeles Investment Company, where over 100 homes are now erected and the Mines tract owned by W. W. Mines and his associates, where fifty ro more bungalows are now under constructions. Adjoining the Mines Tract still another tract is being laid out by the Los Angeles Investment Company, where streets, curbs and walks are now being laid.

Just outside of the city limits, in the Southwest, is the beautiful Angelus-Mesa Tract, put on by E. A. Forrester & Company. This tract including about 450 acres of fine, elevated land, has been improved with almost 100 homes. It adjoins and lies north of Slauson, directly across from St. Mary's Academy, one of the most beautiful structures in California.

Another Southwest tract of note is the Western Terminal tract which adjoins Angelus-Mesa on the east and is built around the new car barns of the Los Angeles Railway Company on Fifty-fourth street. Here fifty homes have been built in the last six months. South of Santa Monica avenue, adjoining the city limits a large tract is being laid out by Emil Firth. Closer in dozens of lively sub-divisions might be enumerated.

THE SOUTHWARD TREND.

No other section of the city is richer with promise for the future than is the area bordering on Main street and Moneta avenue and in and around the northern end of the "Shoe String Strip. The zone of growing values has swept on and on toward the south from year to year as the public mind has grasped the significance of the opening of the harbor district to the commerce of the world. Moneta avenue especially has developed in a business way and tracts, which at the time they were laid out several years ago were the laughing stock of the realty fraternity, are today being built up with homes and flats by the hundred.

Slauson avenue, long considered the natural border line of anything like a general southward development, has been made a central thoroughfare in a promising district which sweeps far to the south beyond Manchester avenue, where it is merging with other well established communities. The once yawning gaps among the South End subdivisions are narrowing to ribbons of green meadow land.

All along the Harbor Boulevard itself, clear to the edge of the inner harbor the sub-dividers are at work creating squares of development which at no distant time promise to merge into an almost compact strip of intensively improved land extending in an unbroken line from the city to the sea. Straight south of the city, Athens-on-the-Hill, a tract of 700 high and sightly acres, bisected by the Shoe String Strip and as a consequence largely within the city limits, has been laid out as a high class sub-division with wide boulevards and good building restrictions. Other owners of the same section are planning similiar tracts and it is apparent that the better kind of development is not to be neglected between the city and the sea.

Southeastward the same building activity is to be noted, not only within but just beyond the city limits. The advance of the manufacturing interests of Los Angeles is increasingly evident throughout the industrial district, which extends through this part of Los Angeles. Factory sites are changing hands in great numbers and new manufacturing plants are going up on every hand. Some of the prettiest bungalow tracts in the citys outskirts are being laid out by the workingmen employed in this district.

EAST AND NORTHEAST.

Boyle Heights, like all of the region lying east of the river, is coming into its own this year as never before. New homes are springing up everywhere and the bungalow tracts at the city's eastern edge are attracting hundreds of investors. In no other way is the advance of the whole territory so well evidenced as in the great progress that is being made in the improvement of the East Side's educational facilities. Four modern gram-

JULY OPENS WITH RUSH.

Trading Is Brisk Throughout Porterville District.

Deal of Railway for Townsite Reported Closed.

Southland Money in Evidence in Land Market.

PORTERVILLE, July 13.—Exceeding all expectations of the real estate men, the first week of July ranks as one of the busiest of the year in land circles. The trades are equally divided among alfalfa land, orange property and city lots.

Trading in the alfalfa country took a brisk spurt this week when the definite announcement was made of the purchase of the Woodville town site by the officials of the Big Four Railroad. Although it is asserted that the Railroad Commission has not as yet passed on the application of the railroad for official confirmation of their stock and bond issues, the officials of the company are confident the necessary certificates will be forthcoming without delay and announce that construction will go ahead. As a result there has been unusual trading in alfalfa lands this week, several of the transfers being reported as closed.

Announcement of the addition of a large tract to the Gillette holdings in Strathmore, has stimulated interest in the orange land in that district and raw land cannot now be touched in that section of the foothills at under $300 per acre—and the best of the land is not to be had at that price.

One of the large deals of the past month was consummated when E. Overhalster, of Long Beach, purchased the E. E. Pollard grove in the Exeter district, paying $60,000 for the tract. There are eighty acres in the holding of which twenty are in bearing oranges. Earl Wilson, also of Long Beach, a son-in-law of the new owner, will have charge of the property. The work of developing the land is to be started without delay and Overhalster will make his home here during at least a portion of the year.

BUYS RAW LANDS.

Los Angeles capitalists, whose names are not given at this time, as they are negotiating for other property in the same district, have closed for 550 acres of raw alfalfa land in the Ducor district. The price paid for the property is said to have been $35,000 cash. The new owners, it is stated, will eventually control about 1600 acres in the district and will improve the entire holding. A small part of the tract adapted to that culture, will be put into citrus fruits.

Alfred Ragle has sold a five-acre tract of four-year-old oranges, together with fifteen acres of raw land, adapted to citrus culture, to W. A. Heeman, recently from Southern California. The price paid was $6000. The orchard is situated in the Naranjo district, from which some exceptionally fine fruit is being shipped. Heckman will plant the fifteen acres of undeveloped land next spring and expects to make his home on the property.

Mrs. Bertha Parr has purchased a forty-acre tract of alfalfa land just west of the Willow school. She is already the owner of a large dairy in the district and the new tract will be leveled for alfalfa at once.

LARGE TRACT SOLD.

S. O. Walker has purchased the 1270-acre Burrell Tract, one of the few large tracts which remain in this district and has already given the orders for a survey of the property preparatory to cutting it up into small tracts for the market. It is stated that the work of subdivision will start soon. Contracts for approximately 7000 acres of survey work on tracts which are to be placed on the market, are said to have been signed up by a Visalia engineering firm within the past month.

George Anthony, one of the well-known dairy ranchers of the Poplar district added to his holdings, a 176-acre tract of raw land this week when his was the only bid filed in closing the estate of Albert C. Pickard, the land being sold at auction. Anthony offered $9150 for the property, and this bid will stand unless refused by the court. The price is considerably below the ruling quotations for Poplar property. The ranch is familiarly known in this district as the Lumrox place.

W. L. Ross, one of the leading orange growers of the Plano district has sold to Arthur L. Harris, of Redondo, a ten-acre tract of oranges in full bearing. Harris paid $12,500 for the place. The land carries no improvements other than an irrigation system. Harris will take personal charge of the property and will make his future home here.

F. P. McCarthy, of Los Angeles, has also purchased a ten-acre tract of the Ross orchard lands, paying the same price for his property as did Harris, while the place his orchard adjoins. McCarthy expects to make his home in this city.

ANGELENO BUYS RANCH.

George Langeburg, a Porterville musician, has sold to a Los Angeles investor, whose name has not been given, a ninety-four-acre tract of raw land at the entrance to Frazier Valley. The land is heavy red adobe soil, well adapted to citrus culture. The price paid was given as $6000. It is said the new owner expects to start shortly on the improvement of the land.

Mrs. O. Liddle, owner of a large tract of alfalfa lands in the Tipton district, has sold to George Brundage, of Farmersville, a tract of eighty acres of fine property. Brundage has contracted for the development of the property with a tenant who is to take the land for a term of years.

F. H. Elliott has sold to Ira A. Campbell, a well-known San Francisco attorney, a 170-acre tract of alfalfa lands in the South Woodville district. Campbell is here at the present time contracting for the development of the entire tract. Water is to be placed on the land and the entire holding will be put in to alfalfa without loss of time. It is Campbell's intention to make of the land a dairy and fine stock ranch.

TWENTY HOMES COMPLETED.

With twenty houses completed in Southland Park tract, Fifty-second street and Western avenue, and most of those sold, with others well under way and the sidewalks laid, the Western Building and Investment Company has started many improvements for purposes of beautifying the subdivision. Lawns will be built around all of the houses and any vacant lots that may be reserved for future bungalow sites will be leveled and planted to grass. A large order for trees and shrubs has been placed and these will be set out as quickly as possible.

LARGE PERMITS ISSUED.
ENGINEER BUYS SITE.

PASADENA, July 13.—Permits for the erection of several large Pasadena residences were issued last week. Mrs. Mary Armstrong is erecting a $13,186 residence at No. 23 State street. The house is to be a ten-room, two-story structure. Other permits issued for improvements to cost $1000 or more, were:

E. S. Crocker, four-room, frame bungalow, at No. 980 South Madison avenue, $1760; W. A. Clark, seven-room, two-story, frame residence and garage, No. 669 Huntington Terrace, $8500; James H. Drake, nine-room, two-story, frame dwelling and garage, No. 640 St. John avenue, $3800; E. T. Uytlenhove, six-room, frame bungalow and garage, No. 96 North Bonnie avenue, $2500; A. L. Buel, five-room, frame bungalow, No. 184 West Washington street, $1700; Karl H. Strekle, six-room, frame bungalow, No. 1777 North Marengo avenue, $1900; Isaac H. Wolfe, four-room, frame bungalow, No. 1138 Forest avenue, $1800; Mrs. Ida J. Parkman, six-room, frame bungalow and garage, No. 494 Claremont drive, $2000.

James H. Grant, five-room, frame bungalow, No. 1125 North Michigan avenue, $2000; Charles Schoenleber, six-room, frame bungalow, No. 1318 North Catalina avenue, $1600; Mrs. Mary Deoere, addition and alterations to residence, No. 707 Cypress avenue, $1000; H. J. McCracken, two-story, ten-room, frame, plaster-exterior, residence and garage, No. 685 Canyon drive, $14,000; C. Ross, alterations and addition to one-story, frame bungalow, No. 696 West California street, $1466; J. E. Webster, story and one-half, eight-room, frame dwelling and garage, No. 700 North Mentor avenue, $3000.

The William R. Staats Company last week sold the north 150 feet of a lot on El Moleno avenue, between the estates of J. H. Henry and Frederick Weyerhauser, in Oak Knoll, to E. F. Scattergood, consulting engineer for the Los Angeles aqueduct, for a consideration of about $9000. Scattergood purchased the property for a home site.

PROSPECTS BRIGHT.
BUILDING SPURT CONTINUES.

SOUTH PASADENA, July 13.—July opened with the prospects bright for a continuance of the building activity, which has been manifest during the first half of the year. Of the 132 permits issued the past six months by Building Inspector W. H. Lowry 131 permits, amounting to $155,551, were for residences and two permits, amounting to $30,000, were for business blocks. This record shows that five new residences were started in South Pasadena every week for half of the year.

Building permits for July promise to smash all former records, as the total so far is $45,000. A permit for a two-story, ten-room house to be erected at No. 203 Oaklawn avenue, was issued to the G. Lawrence Stimson Company, which firm also took out a permit for a similar residence at No. 207 Oaklawn avenue, each to cost $15,000. The structures will have stucco exteriors, and will be beautiful in design.

A permit for a two-story flat building to be erected at No. 603 Mound avenue was taken out by John R. Gentle. Harst & Merritt took out a permit for a one-story residence at No. 1712 Bank street, to cost $2500, and Fred O'Neil, two permits, amounting to $1500 each, for residences at Fair Oaks avenue and Rollins street. Minor permits bring the total up to $45,000.

T. J. Freeman & Co. reports the following recent sales:

P. J. Dolan to Sidney Rooks of England, 50x165 feet on Magnolia street, between Fremont and Fairview avenues, improved with two five-room bungalows, reported consideration, $3000. Rooks makes this purchase as an investment, believing strongly in the future of South Pasadena.

Mrs. Rebecca R. Jones to S. N. Everett, 40x140 feet on Diamond avenue, between El Centro and Monterey road, improved with five-room California house, consideration, $3000. Everett bought this property for a home.

DOWNTOWN BLOCK SOLD.
ACREAGE SALES REPORTED.

REDLANDS, July 13.—The Wilson block on east Citrus avenue has been sold to C. C. Albright and R. J. Dunn for a consideration of $16,500. The Henry K. Goff ranch in San Timoteo Canyon has been sold to C. H. Osborne for $25,000. The ranch has a valuable water right. Forty acres are suitable to orange culture and trees will be set out soon. Osborne gave as part payment a building on Orange street.

Edward Mills has bought of Miss Mary Lewis a twenty-two and a half-acre orange grove on Wabash street in East Redlands, paying therefore $40,000. Miss Lewis took as part payment, a ten-acre grove on Sylvan boulevard, valued at $18,000. The larger piece has a water right consisting of twenty-two shares of the Crafton water and has been producing between 12,000 and 15,000 boxes of navels each year.

A. Leipsic has purchased of W. H. Frink the property at No. 607 Orange street, the price reported at $8000. The lot is 40x304 feet and has a nine-room house on it. Leipsic now has a frontage of eighty feet, having recently purchased the adjoining site.

K. C. Wells has sold to a syndicate of local people, two lots at the corner of Michigan and Glenwood streets, the consideration being given at $1000 each.

The Gibraltar Investment and Home Company has filed articles of incorporation in this county. The capital stock is placed at $2,000,000. Of this amount $7 has been subscribed by Isaiah Martin, W. J. Hennessy and F. M. Dorsey of Los Angeles; W. R. Andrews of Hermosa Beach; S. E. Field, of Redlands; C. M. Wilhite, of Glendora, and W. B. Martin of Long Beach.

AN ENVIABLE RECORD.
NEW HOME EVERY TWO DAYS.

EL SEGUNDO, July 13.—Among the baby towns of Southern California, El Segundo holds an enviable record for building activities. On July 1, this Standard Oil city was 300 days old, and had 150 first-class buildings completed and seventeen more under construction. These figures give El Segundo an average of a new building every forty-eight hours.

The El Segundo Home Builders, the principal building company of El Segundo, has increased the capital of its corporation from $50,000 to $1,000,000, in order to secure sufficient funds to carry on its expensive building operations. At the present time, this company has under construction at El Segundo ten residences which have all been sold. A number of other dwellings will be erected at once.

M. B. O'Farrell, sales-manager of the El Segundo Land and Improvement Company, reports June sales of El Segundo property at $97,000.

NEW INVESTMENT COMPANY.

The Realty Investors Company of Southern California, incorporated for $500,000, has just been formed in this city. E. W. Camp, head of the Santa Fe Railway law department; W. J. Hunsaker of Hunsaker & Britt; Eugene Overton of Chase, Overton & Lyman; A. C. Way, assistant cashier First National Bank of Los Angeles; Garfield R. Jones of Jones & Bennett; Harold Allen, cashier First National Bank of South Pasadena, and A. A. Allen are named as directors. The officers of the company are: E. W. Camp, president; W. J. Hunsaker, vice-president; A. C. Way, treasurer, and Eugene Overton, secretary. The managing agents for the corporation are Edwin G. Hart and Simpson M. Sinsabaugh, who will handle all purchases and sales and generally manage the property of the company.

HILLCREST TRANSFERS.

The John A. Vaughan Company reports sales in its Hillcrest tract as follows: Linnie B. Nichols, three lots, $4500; E. C. Dimmick, four lots, $6000; J. G. and Mary J. Kline, $1600; Margaret Mary Moon, two lots, $2800; J. G. Britt, one lot, $1600; John E. Crouch, two lots, $2150; Florence K. Smalles, two lots, $3000; R. E. Gardner, $1500; E. E. Hughes, $1500; Charles B. Gilliam, $1400; L. G. Wilson, $1500; Marjorie M. Williams, $1250; H. M. Ostrom, $1500; J. D. MacFarlane, $1500; John G. Cook, $1500; Bungalow Building and Investment company, $1400; Maud E. Weaver, $1600; Mrs. A. L. Crew, two lots, $2800; W. M. Culley, $1400; C. M. Bockoven, $850; George E. Wright, $800; Lone Star Building Company, $1100; Tennie D. Siddall, $1600; Ella G. Fish, $2100; Ella G. Fish, $1500; Alfred R. Varian, $3700; Alfred R. Varian, $3000; B. M. Crawford to F. M. Barkey, $1500; Anna P. McInnis to W. R. Flood, $1500, and E. A. Hansen, $1500.

WEST VIEW TRACT.

The Charles O. Middleton Company reports sales in its West View tract to the following buyers: F. Hernandez, $1500; H. P. Hibbard, $1350; A. Steele, $1500; E. Gilmore, $1350; J. C. Fraser, $1500; E. C. Roy, $1500; Emily M. Mitchell, $1500; Ellen J. Mitchell, $1500; Emma Darlington, $1000; Miss Isabel McFadden, $1350; Klingenberg, $2850; M. M. Wood, $1000; C. O. Middleton, Jr., $1000; J. A. Buckler, $1350; Alice H. Clute, $1650, and Stella Scott Thompson, $1500. Two of the fine homes of the tract, that of J. E. Adams on Washington boulevard, and that of Frank Sloan are now ready for occupancy. Arrangements have been completed by J. H. Willey of Hawthorne, Nev., for the erection of a $20,000 home.

THE M'CARTHY TRACTS.

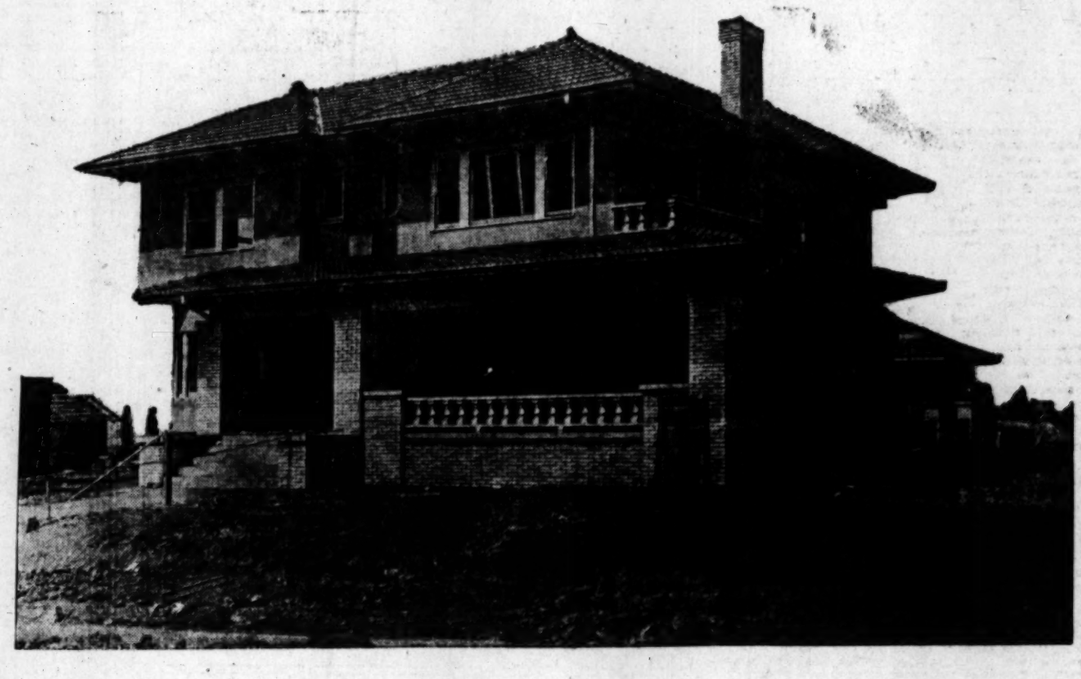
Sales in The McCarthy Company's tracts are reported as follows: Earl K. Oldham, new five-room bungalow on Seventy-third street, between Vermont avenue and Hoover street, $2200; S. E. Denton, residence lot on Seventy-fifth street, between Vermont avenue and Hoover street, $750, and home site, 100x136 feet, on Ridgewood place, near Temple street, in The McCarthy Company's New Wilton Heights tract, $3800.

WEST PICO TERRACE.

Sales in West Pico Terrace are reported by the Guy M. Rush Company as follows: John A. Mitchell, lot on Bedford street; Alfred Nelson, lot at corner Corning street and Guthrie avenue; M. Jones, lot on Shenandoah street; William L. McDivitt, lot at Geary and Victoria; Margaret G. Blackledge, lot at Guthrie and Geary; W. H. Murray, lot on Shenandoah street; Joseph F. Barrett, lot on Shenandoah; Mary E. Paine, lot on Arnas avenue; Albert [illegible] lot at Guthrie and Geary; [illegible] len, lot on Shenandoah street; C. Kingston, lot on Westmoreland; G. H. Doyle, lot on Shenandoah; C. and Martha Link, lot at Geary avenue and Shenandoah street; C. and Martha Link, lot on Shenandoah street; Wilson & Morton, lot on Shenandoah street; W. S. Bell, lot on Geary street, and S. Bell, lot at Victoria avenue and Guthrie street.

PARK APPROPRIATION.

The sum of $36,000 a year has been appropriated for the maintenance of the parks of Beverly Hills. One of the latest purchases of property in this tract is that of C. C. Pierce, of Woodville, who will erect a palatial home on a large site near the Beverly Hills Hotel. Pierce is planning his gardens, which will be typical of California, on the [illegible] arrangement of semi-tropical permits.



This Is Where You Will Want to Live

--it's Where You Can Afford to Buy

As a general thing, where homesites are offered on "easy payments," either the site is undesirable, to the average man, or it's "raw" land, outside of civilization—and by that we mean away from schools, churches, stores and other conveniences.

Only a few of us are willing to pioneer—most of us demand modern improvements, such as car service, schools, churches, stores, sidewalks, good streets, gas, electric lights, telephones, in short, we want to live where we can have the creature comforts that we have been used to.

Lots On Easy Terms

We offer you homesites in West View Heights, where you will have all these necessities and comforts, and tell you to choose a lot, not far from other lots whose owners are improving with homes costing $15,000 up, and then pay for this lot on the regulation easy terms! You will be apt to say—"It sounds too good to be true."

But will you make us prove up?

Will you take a 20-minute ride, on a Washington street car—and get off at Rimpau, and there meet our agent, who will take you around and show you, Mr. Missouri?

The choosing of a homesite is a serious proposition. You buy for a long time—and it behooves you to buy wisely and well. In West View Heights there is not a "Key" lot or a business lot in the whole subdivision, yet you will be convenient to the business center. You can buy a fine lot here for as little as $1125.00.

Men, don't plant $10,000 and $15,000 homes in the wilderness. There's a reason for their buying at West View Heights—and hereafter, there can be no reason for your not buying there—for the prices are right—also the terms.

Go see the property. See the houses started and finished. Look over the plans in the tract office.

The easy terms will move the remaining lots in a hurry. They're all big lots. Not a 40-foot lot in the tract. Only a few more will be sold on the easy payment plan.

The opportunity to buy is yours today and tomorrow. Next week may be too late. Will you act on the suggestion?

When? Today?

POINTS OF COU IN SENTENC

CENSURING Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor, in the severest terms, and including in his condemnation as scarcely less culpable, Frank Morrison and John Mitchell, Gompers's associate officials in the American Federation of Labor, Justice Wright, of the District Supreme Court of Washington, D. C., June 24, 1912, adjudged the three guilty of contempt of court in violating the order of the court in the case of the Bucks Stove and Range Company against the American Federation of Labor. Gompers was sentenced to a year and Morrison to six months in the district jail and the sentence of Mitchell was deferred. Mitchell being absent on a speaking tour, Gompers and Morrison gave $5000 bonds and will appeal to the higher courts.

It was announced that the entire District Supreme Court bench concurred in the decision. Several of Justice Wright's associates occupied the bench with him.

The proceedings were the outgrowth of an alleged violation of an injunction issued by Justice Ashley M. Gould, on December 16, 1907, and becoming effective December 23, following, restraining the American Federation of Labor and its officers from carrying on a boycott against the Bucks Stove and Range Company of St. Louis. It was charged that the three respondents ignored the court decree in public utterances, circulars, and editorials in the American Federationist, the official organ of the Federation.

The decision of June 24, 1912, was seventy-nine typewritten pages long. In summarizing his findings, the court said:

Fairly summed up, the case is this: A citizen, whose business was being unlawfully interfered with by these defendants, asked this court to enjoin them from so doing, and this court, having jurisdiction of the parties and of the subject matter, issued its injunction. That injunction the defendants refused to obey, claiming that they had a right to do what they were doing, although the point had been decided against them, and that the injunction, in forbidding them to do the things complained of, violated their constitutional right to speak freely and freely print. Acting under this claim, they openly and constantly violated the injunction and defied the court.

The case itself, in which the injunction was issued, was taken on appeal to the District Court of Appeals, where the injunction was modified in some of its terms, but otherwise affirmed and continued. Thereupon an appeal was taken to the Supreme Court of the United States, but before argument was reached, the case was settled by agreement with a new management, which had come into control of the plaintiff's affairs. In the meantime the defendants had been called upon in this court to answer for violating the injunction. They were tried, found guilty and sentenced. On appeal to the District Court of Appeals, the decision and sentence were affirmed. On appeal to the Supreme Court of the United States, it was decided that the injunction did not violate the right of free speech or of free press, as claimed by the defendants, and that they had no right to disobey it, but that the proceedings in which they had been sentenced for contempt were erroneous in form. Wherefore the case was sent back with leave to this court to renew the proceedings against them, in the form indicated by that opinion.

Immediately such proceedings were begun. The defendants have been again tried and found guilty. They have been reminded that the Supreme Court of the United States has decided that the injunction did not violate their constitutional rights, and that it was their duty to have obeyed it; and they have been called upon to say whether, in view of this decision of the highest tribunal in the land, they were prepared to acknowledge their error and assure the court that they intended to obey such orders of the court in the future. This they have steadily refused to do.

What then remains for the court? Can it omit to pass sentence without acknowledging that any defendants may with impunity refuse to obey its orders? And if its orders are not to be obeyed, why should it issue any orders? And, if it is not to issue orders, why should it continue to exist? It is plain that we must either pass sentence or admit the extinction of the office which we hold. The defendants, by acknowledging their error and assuring obedience in the future, could have relieved the court of this necessity. This, as already said, they have refused to do. The defendants are here at the court's bar to answer. They have been afforded full opportunity to hear the evidence against them and to say what, if any, reasons can exist against their punishment. Every part of their response—for they offer as defense—is measured by the words of their leader, Gompers: "The things I am charged with, I did. Go with your injunctions." There is no room for temporizing. They are ready to repeat, in equally determined fashion, the sedition of the past; all assurance to the contrary they have themselves distinctly and repeatedly refused to give. Lawless as are their teachings, they still proclaim them and still incite the ill-disposed to follow.

In the meeting out of the law's punishments, judicial tribunals are obliged by one principal concern—to make such example of offenders, in proportion to the gravity of their offense, as will serve to deter others from offending in like manner, thus establishing in advance, so far as courts can, a universal consciousness that the supremacy of law so persists the land as to restrain before those who are otherwise ready to transgress.

Where else does the history of jurisprudence show so bold, so broad, so flagrant a contempt of the judicial arm of the government as here? When before has an instance occurred where the power of established sovereignty was rendered so forceless, the law for a case was made so to fail in its effort to secure to an outraged citizen the establishment and vindication of his rights? While the court is ever cautious, ever reluctant to extend the punishment for contempt of its authority beyond the exigency already to be found in precedents, yet the court feels itself bound, at least, to the extreme which such precedents contain. That the six months imprisonment imposed for the violation of an injunction in the Bucks case (158 U. S., p. 546) was no deterrent from defying the decrees, is shown by the instance of the latest which well enough demonstrates that that penalty is insufficient to those disposed to such addition, to those disposed to such defiance, to take heed.

The contempt admitted by the least of these offenders was more pernicious and flagrant than that of Debs, in

For Contempt.

POINTS OF COURT DECISION IN SENTENCING GOMPERS.

CENSURING Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor, in the severest terms, and including in his condemnation as scarcely less culpable, Frank Morrison and John Mitchell, Gompers's associate officials in the American Federation of Labor, Justice Wright, of the District Supreme Court of Washington, D. Acting under this claim, they openly and contemptuously violated the injunction and defied the court.

The case itself, in which the injunction was issued, was taken on appeal to the District Court of Appeals, where the injunction was modified in some of its terms, but otherwise affirmed and continued. Thereupon an appeal was taken to the Supreme Court of the United States, but before argument was reached, the case was settled by agreement with a new management, which had come into control of the plaintiff's affairs. In the meantime the defendants had been called upon by this court to answer for violating the injunction. They were tried, found guilty and sentenced. Immediately such proceedings were taken. The defendants have been again tried and found guilty. They have been reminded that the Supreme Court of the United States has decided that the injunction did not violate their constitutional rights, and that it was their duty to have obeyed it; and they have been called upon to say whether, in view of this decision of the highest tribunal in the land, they were prepared to acknowledge their error and assure the court that they intended to obey such orders of the court in the future. This they have flatly refused to do.

What then remains for the court? Can it omit to pass sentence without acknowledging that any defendants may with impunity refuse to obey its orders? And if its orders are not to be obeyed, why should it issue any orders at all? And, if it is not to issue orders, why should it continue to exist? It seems plain that we must either pass sentence or admit the extinction of the power which we hold. The defendants, by acknowledging their error and assuring obedience in the future, could have relieved the court of this necessity. This, as already said, they have refused to do. Nowhere else does the history of jurisprudence show so bold, so broad, so open a contempt of the judicial power of the government as here? Nowhere has an instance occurred where the power of established authority was rendered so forceless, where the law for a case was made so powerless in its effort to secure to an outraged citizen the establishment and protection of his rights? While the court has been ever cautious, ever reluctant to extend the punishment for contempt beyond the exercise of its authority already to be found in precedent, yet the court feels itself bound in justice to the chief offender to administer to him the extreme which such established precedents contain. That is, six months imprisonment imposed for violation of an injunction in a like case (158 U. S., p. 564) which has been no deterrent from defying the court is shown by the instance of Debs, in which well enough demonstrated that that penalty is insufficient as to those disposed to such contempt as he has taken heed.

It is admitted by the least guilty of the defendants was more pernicious in its judgment than that of Debs, in that it was an open and deliberate attack upon the foundations of society and of the law, and did indeed put down the law so that it did not operate, so that it did not protect, so that it failed to secure to a citizen his rights. For the chief offender (Gompers) the duty of the court, if it be measured by its obligation to administer justice "without respect to persons," requires it, in determining an appropriate penalty, at least to parallel the penalty fixed by the good precedent of Savin's case (131 U. S., p. 267.) He endeavored to deter a witness from testifying against a defendant in a criminal trial. Although he did not succeed in corrupting the witness, he was found in contempt of court and sentenced by the United States District Court to imprisonment in jail for one year. The rightness of this decision was affirmed by the Supreme Court of the United States when his case came thither. Judged by this standard, how can a lesser punishment be inflicted here?

Illness prevented the Chief Justice from sitting at the hearing of this case. All the rest of my associates listened to the arguments and have considered the record. By them I am authorized to announce that they concur in the conclusions the court has reached, in the reasons given to support them, and in the sentence about to be imposed. The duty that devolves upon the court is not a pleasant duty. We should have been glad if a different result could have been reached without doing violence to the truth or abdicating the office that we fill; but when the law is to be vindicated, who, if not the judges of the law, are to attend to its vindication? "Who shall defend the citadel, if those who are appointed to defend shall abandon or betray it?"

STRIKERS RETURN TO WORK.

Chicago Freight Handlers Gave up Their Fight and as Many Returned as There Were Places for.

[Railway Age Gazette:] The Chicago freight handlers, who have been on strike since May 4, agreed on June 27 to an unconditional surrender, by which the railways will take back into service, by July 31, 1800 out of the 5565 employees who left their work. The places of the others have been filled, and many of those who took part in the walkout have lost their pension rights. That the strike of the shop employees of the Harriman lines, the Illinois Central and the Missouri, Kansas and Texas, last fall has been a complete failure from the standpoint of the strikers, is demonstrated by the efforts they are now making to secure a sympathetic walkout on the other western lines. Both the shop employees and the the freight handlers' strikes have caused inconveniences to the public and have cost the railways large amounts of money, but the results to the roads of their having the courage not to yield, should be well worth the cost. The present, from the standpoint of employers, is a bad time to strike. In the case of the freight handlers' strike, the settlement was effected by the intercession of the shippers, as represented by the Chicago Association of Commerce. When times were good and traffic heavy, the railways were perhaps too prone to submit to the demands of the walking delegates and grant high wages to avoid the reductions of earnings that strikes would cause. When traffic and earnings fell off, the high wages remained and operating expenses could not be reduced in proportion to the decline in earnings. Apparently some of the labor leaders had become so flushed with their success in obtaining wage advances in good times, on the simple argument of the increased cost of living to the employees, and regardless of the effect of the same cause on the railways, that they thought they could continue to get higher wages and more favorable conditions of work in bad times. But they now find the railways more disposed to fight and public sentiment less inclined to support every demand of labor. The settlement of the freight handlers' strike will enable the railways to establish at Chicago a plan of compensation based on the tonnage of freight handled instead of on hours worked. The result doubtless will be that the employees will receive higher average wages, while the railways will get a given amount of freight handled at a reduced cost instead of at an increased cost, which would have been the result if the strike had been successful.

A FOOLISH STRIKE.

Australian Street Railroad Men Quit Work Rather than Stop Wearing Union Badges While on Cars.

[Australian Mining Standard:] One would hardly have thought it possible in prosperous Australia that such a state of strike conditions could exist as that which has obtained in Brisbane, the capital of Queensland, during the last few days. Business is at a complete standstill; the place is in a state of siege; unionists are walking aimlessly about the streets; food supplies have not only been cut off, but have been allowed to become corrupt; and this condition has been brought about through the apparent desire of the Brisbane electric tramway men, acting on instructions from the local branch of the Federated Australian Tramway Employees' Union, to wear a union badge as part of their adornments when on the trams. This is a novelty in union practice in Australia (except with wharf laborers, who carry their badges in their pockets,) and is being resisted by Mr. Bandger, general manager of the Tramway Company, on the ground that it is contrary to the rules governing the working of the tramways. He has, however, agreed to have the question settled by the Arbitration Court, and to abide by the decision. The unionists wanted everything their own way—badge or nothing was their motto, and as they got nothing in the way of concessions from the general manager, they ceased work, and the members of nearly fifty unions did likewise, "as a mark of sympathy with their fellow unionists." Over a fortnight has elapsed since the first blow was struck; and during that time over 10,000 men have been endeavoring to persuade themselves that the only reasonable method of ending such a trumpery affair as wearing a badge is to stop the wheels of industry, and to check the pulse of commercial life. The aftermath of the trouble will probably convince the leaders that strikes are absolutely the worst weapons with which to end industrial troubles. There is already a rift within the lute—some of the tramway men didn't know that the plaint before the Arbitration Court was loaded with a question about the wearing of badges—and it is stated that these men are willing to return to work pending the decision of the court.

THE INSOLENT GOMPERS.

[Editorial.]

The insolent cockney, Samuel Gompers, who has for several years fastened himself like a leech upon the body of union labor and sucked its blood, will, unless he jumps his bail and seeks shelter with his "savings" in Peru, or Australia, or South Africa, probably soon have an opportunity to become an actual worker with his hands in the District of Columbia jail instead of a worker with his jawbone.

Gompers, Mitchell and Morrison some years ago ordered a boycott of the Bucks Stove and Range Company of St. Louis. The Supreme Court of the District of Columbia issued an injunction prohibiting them from continuing the boycott. They disobeyed the injunction and defied the court. For this they were cited to appear and show cause why they should not be punished for contempt of court. At the hearing they were found guilty and sentenced to imprisonment. On appeal to the District Court of Appeals the sentence was affirmed. This judgment was reversed by the Supreme Court of the United States on the technical ground that it was erroneous in form, and the case was sent back to the Supreme Court of the District of Columbia with leave to that court to renew proceedings against them in due form.

On such renewal they were reminded that the Supreme Court of the United States had decided that the injunction prohibiting their boycott of the Bucks Stove and Range Company did not violate the constitutional right of Gompers, Mitchell and Morrison to free speech and should have been obeyed. They were called upon to say whether, in view of the decision of the highest tribunal in the land, they would acknowledge their error and assure the court that they intended to obey such orders of the court in future.

Had they done so they would have escaped with a nominal fine and the incident would have been closed, for in the meantime the Bucks Stove and Range Company had passed under other management and the case had been compromised.

But so far from accepting the offered clemency and promising to abide in future by the decision of the Supreme Court of the United States, Gompers refused obedience. He said:

"I repeat, and emphasize this fact, that the doctrine that the citizen must yield obedience to every order of court, notwithstanding that order transcends inherent, natural, human rights, guaranteed by the Constitution of the country, is vicious and repugnant to liberty and human freedom, and that it is the duty, the imperative duty, to protest."

The court, still tolerant and desirous of avoiding anything like the infliction of an unnecessary or drastic punishment, replied:

"The power of the courts to punish for contempt is absolutely essential to the performance of the duties imposed upon them by law. . . . If a party can make himself a judge of the validity of orders which have been issued, and by his own acts of disobedience set them aside, then are the courts impotent, and what the Constitution now fittingly calls 'judicial power' of the United States would be a mere mockery."

Thereupon this cockney, pining for a martyrdom that would enable him to extort a fresh supply of dollars from union labor all over the land, replied: "The things I am charged with I did. Go to hell with your injunctions." Mitchell and Morrison were equally defiant and disobedient, but did not openly insult the court as Gompers did. Morrison was sentenced to six months, Mitchell to nine months and Gompers to one year's imprisonment.

The New York Times says editorially concerning the Gompers case:

"It is the opinion of Mr. Gompers that the court's view of the law and the Constitution is wrong, and that his motives are so excellent that his action is justified even if the court's law is correct. He has repeatedly declared his readiness to go to prison in defense of his conception of the right of freedom of speech. In practice this right was exemplified in this case by an order that unionists should strike against their will upon the direction of a remote central organization, and that employers should be punished by the combined boycott of two million Federationists unless they managed their affairs according to the ideas of the Federation. This is Mr. Gompers's conception of the rights of unionists. The question now is whether labor has a right to act in contempt of court and if not what is the proper punishment.

"It is becoming to take an impersonal and dispassionate view of the matter. The association of the federation and Mr. Gompers with this case is accidental and temporary, whereas the administration of the law is permanent and essential. Opinion upon the sentence of Mr. Gompers should be the same as though the contempt were that of a capitalist trust. There have been several orders of court in the case of capitalist trusts, and they all have been obeyed. If the dissolved trusts had refused to dissolve in contempt of the court's order to dissolve there would have been created a case resembling Mr. Gompers's, and he would have been the first to denounce them. He would have been right. If litigants are at liberty to disobey court orders no case ever could be decided except at the will of the litigants, which, indeed, is Mr. Gompers's position.

"Mr. Gompers thinks it an unanswerable argument against his sentence that he was required to submit to the court's order whether it was right or wrong. Those who think more of law and justice, and peace and order, than of Mr. Gompers and the federation find no hardship in this, since the order he violated was temporary, and there was a process for him to have the court's error, if any, corrected. Its error was corrected once, and will be corrected again, if it has erred again."

DRIVING OUT MORE INDUSTRIES.

UNIONIST "VICTORIES" CONTINUE IN SAN FRANCISCO.

An Important Gas Engine Company Will Move Its Plant to Seattle Because of Labor Conditions in the Bay City—Four Others Have Left the City.

[The Argonaut:] The decision of the Imperial Gas Engine Company to remove its plant from San Francisco to Seattle must be numbered among the latest "victories" of labor unionism and the closed shop. With the reasons for this change we are already sadly familiar. They have been repeated again and again as one great concern after another has closed its doors, dismissed its staff, and departed for other fields where some measure of industrial freedom is to be found and where labor unionism is less able to rule or ruin. The Imperial Gas Engine Company can not exist in San Francisco, and so it is forced to take the step to which other similar concerns will be forced unless a remedy be found, and found speedily.

The decision of the Chamber of Commerce to hold an inquiry into the reasons for these many desertions of the city need not be viewed with any very sanguine expectation. There is no mystery at all about the matter. There is no necessity for any such "thorough and exhaustive research" as we are promised. The many large concerns that have failed or deserted the city have made no secret of their reasons. On the contrary they have published them broadcast, and they have always been the same. With entire unanimity they have said that the exactions, the extortions, and the insolences of the labor unions are more than flesh and blood can stand; that they are practically a prohibition upon many forms of industrial activity, and that San Francisco is an impossible place for any form of enterprise that can be brought under the destructive sway of organized labor. This has been said again and again by those whose presence would have enriched the city and whose expulsion from the city has impoverished it. To organize a "thorough and exhaustive research" at this hour of the day seems to be one of those portentous and solemn inanities that are intended to hide the truth rather than to disclose it, to conceal the facts rather than to expose them. The causes of this slow and steady ruin of the city are as evident as the sun at noonday.

The Chamber of Commerce can make its investigation and issue its report all within the space of an hour or so if it is so minded. If it is unaware of the main facts it can ascertain them from any intelligent man in the city or it can glean them from the published complaints of manufacturers who have been driven out of San Francisco. Certainly these complaints are numerous enough and pointed enough. If the Chamber of Commerce wishes to apportion the blame it may divide it equally between the labor unions and the citizens-at-large who have been too selfish and too cowardly to utter a word of protest as one concern after another is driven into the labor-union abattoir. Furthermore it may be said that if the Chamber of Commerce wishes to be specific it can devote a paragraph or so to the daily newspapers of San Francisco, who show their acquiescence in the slaughter of the city's trade by their policy of a driveling and lying optimism and a careful suppression of every vital fact that might conceivably divert the nickel of a unionist. So far as recommendations are concerned there are, perhaps, none that the Chamber of Commerce can properly make so long as citizens in general are willing to put their throats to the knife and to join in the abject applause of the butcher. For, of course, the labor unions are not wholly to blame. It is a characteristic of human nature to take whatever is offered, and every one kicks a cur.

It is just as well to face the facts now, because soon we shall be so surrounded by facts that we must face them. It is said that four manufacturing concerns have recently left the city, and there is never any concealment of the reasons for such a course. Since the labor unions are just as arrogant as they ever were, just as insolent and oppressive, there is no reason why the drain should stop until San Francisco has become a residential city with all her old activities transferred to Seattle, Portland, and Los Angeles. A single word of concerted and determined protest should stop this ruin. The Chamber of Commerce might be able to move the necessary levers to this end if it had the courage to do so. But the promise of a "thorough and exhaustive research" is not reassuring. We have heard this before.

SHORTER WORK DAYS.

If Employers Cannot Get Any Return on Their Investment, They Will Shut Down and Remain So.

[The Square Deal:] What is one of the principal items that enters into the cost of an article? It is the overhead burden. If the eight-hour day prevails, this cost will be increased in the proportion of ten to eight. Then, you say, let capital take a smaller return. Under present conditions, is not this return getting less every year? You, Mr. Workman, who have some money saved up, are you putting it into industrial enterprises, with all their attendant risks, when safer investments offer a like return? In the face of soap box harangues and American Federation of Labor union rostrums about over-capitalization and watered stocks, it is stated on good authority that the total capitalization of all railroads in the country is less per mile than the actual cost of construction today. If this be true of railroads, an industry which the public is so fond of baiting, is it not more than apt to be true of other commercial enterprises? The manufacturer, after all, is but human; he makes no claim to being a demi-god. He is not running his plant for amusement any more than you are working for your own amusement, and when he finds that the return on his investment has fallen below what the money will bring in some manner requiring less attention to guard against loss, then his plant will be shut down and stay shut down.

Could Not Afford It.

[Omaha Bee:] The man next door was out early with the lawnmower. It was not a pleasant lawnmower. Its squeaks were compounded of howls and moans and when the man pushed it energetically it sounded like Bedlam set to ragtime.

The hour was 6 a.m.

Presently a voice came down to the mower.

"Why don't you put some oil on that infernal mower?" inquired the voice.

The man stopped the concert and looked all around. For the life of him he couldn't tell which house the voice came from.

"Because it's a borrowed one, you chortling chump," he roared back.

Labor's Unrest.

STRIKES ON AND OFF AND STRIKES COMING.

STRIKES are not in general based on any real grievance of the worker. They are chiefly brought on either by some demand, which, if granted, will increase the despotic power of the union, or rather, and more particularly, of the despots whom union labor allows to be its leaders, or by the socialistic desire to overturn all social rule and order, or to favor the socialistic aim to reduce the idler, the skulker, the inefficient and the good, honest workman (the majority) to one dead level; or to limit the output of work (as Haywood and Ettor advised in the recent strike at Lawrence, Mass.,) and to deprive the unionite worker of all inducement to exertion or to improve his condition. Strikes are generally urged by the younger members of labor unions, who suffer comparatively little, while the brunt of the inevitable distress (win or lose) falls chiefly on the wives and children of the married men.

The wage-worker is foolish, because, generally speaking, his attitude towards his own labor is suicidal, and also when, as Sir Guilford Molesworth, the eminent English industrial writer (who came from the ranks of labor,) says:

"He listens to the blandishments of Socialist agitators (Harriman and company, for instance,) who only want to make a living without work out of him. He allows a minority of interested men to tyrannize over his trade unions. He goes out on strike and lets his wife and children suffer at the bidding of his own paid officials. He thinks he can make the poor richer by making the rich poorer."

The funds of labor unions have frequently been wrongly diverted from the use of the workers, and enormous sums have been spent in strikes (not in "strike benefits," by Gompers and company, as shown in this column time and again,) in the payment of the fat salaries and fatter expense accounts of strike agitators, to stir up labor unrest, in illegal use for political purposes, in law fees of thousands of dollars each for defense of illegal action (the Gompers-Morrison-Mitchell boycott and contempt-of-court conviction case, for instance,) and in extravagant management, out of all proportion to the funds at their disposal, to say nothing of the extra $200,000 or more dragged out of union labor's wages last year by Gompers and company and used up mainly by Darrow, Harriman, Scott and company for fees to themselves in the McNamara Los Angeles dynamite cases. How much longer will decent American union labor voluntarily submit to this outrageous system of tyranny at the hands of men put in office by its votes?

The "minimum-wage" demand of the British coal miners in the recent strike was not a real worker's grievance, but merely the disguise of a Socialist conspiracy, the object of which is to ruin the coal owner and to rob him of his property. This is clearly shown by the following quotation from a Socialist pamphlet, entitled "The Miner's Next Step."

"That a continual agitation be carried on in favor of continuing the minimum wage and lessening the hours of labor, until we have extracted the whole of the employers' profits."

Is not that practically robbing the employer of his property by utterly destroying its earning value? The pamphlet goes on to explain that this can be done, after securing the minimum wage, by the miner reducing his daily output by one-half. If this tyranny on the part of the miners goes on, the owners will have to shut down their mines to avoid loss. In such case, what will the miners do then for work and wages? Their policy in this regard is suicidal. More than that, it is murderous as far as their wives and children are concerned, and they, as in all strikes and labor disputes, here as well as in Britain, are vitally concerned.

Socialism, as evidenced in strikes and other encouraged phases of labor unrest, is mainly the cause of that unemployment, distress and poverty which it falsely professes to cure. Hundreds of thousands of pauper idlers have been created by the British Socialist strikers. There is a warning for us.

Much strike terrorism is on foot by the foreign striking firemen and seamen along the water front of New York. Pedestrians are being held-up by foreigners who cannot speak English, but show that the question in their minds is, "Are you a strike-breaker?" The shop cooks went on strike in sympathy, July 4. At the same time some firemen and seamen are quitting the union and going back to work. Twelve thousand longshoremen have joined the strike. All told about 30,000 men are out, mainly for that "ignus fatus" called "recognition of the union," which "recognition" many strikers, themselves, when a strike begins to flag, are the first to ignore, by going back to work on the old terms or any terms they can get. "Recognition of the union" is for living purposes, nothing more than the "baseless fabric of a dream." Resist it forcibly and the "dream" flies away. That has been the case time and again in Los Angeles and will always be the case if employers here stand firm for industrial liberty—the liberty, the real liberty, of employers and employed alike. The sound of the hammer goes on daily in Los Angeles and wages are being earned, families being kept in comfort and homes being paid for, while strikers elsewhere are losing wages, comfort and homes. In New York the longshoremen, when asked what grievances they had for striking, answered: "We don't know. We were told to strike and we struck." Strike picketing is going vigorously on. The seamen's strike is also on in full force at Philadelphia, and other Atlantic ports. Still in those ports, as well as in New York, new men are being secured and ships cleared and loaded and got away on fairly good schedule time. In that way this seamen's and firemen's coastwise strike is defeating itself; though the union strike leaders claim that they will get out 150,000 men, all told, in the Atlantic coastwise trade. As usual, the strike was ordered and begun before the labor agreements with the companies ran out. A similar strike on the trans-Atlantic lines is threatened.

Many English clergymen are reporting to the London Times actions of violence towards innocent people by transport workers' strikes in London and elsewhere in England. Some of the strike leaders are actually issuing passports for pay. Still, as a national strike, the movement is a failure, and it is also collapsing in London. About 11,000 men are now unloading 134 shiploads of food for London. The seamen's union voted against a national strike, by 3673 to 2137, a majority against striking of 1541.

At the same time a strike of workers in the shipbuilding and repairing yards of London is apprehended. Their request for more wages (4 per cent.,) has been refused. The yards are full of work, the men are occupied steadily at good wages, and to all appearances the industry was never before so prosperous. The severest strike struggle the industry has ever suffered is expected before the summer is over.

The strike distress in London is fearful. Tea leaves are being used for tobacco. Hundreds of thousands of free meals are being given to strikers' children. Owners of tenements and small property are compelled to lose their rents, week after week, and that brings another kind of suffering. Applicants for poor law relief are by the thousand upon thousand. All this comes out of the rate-payers and causes more suffering. Shopkeepers have lost hundreds of thousands of

Don't Buy An "IF"

This little word "If" has lost many a dollar for the good American people. Some of you can afford to speculate—can afford to take chances of losing money, but most of you want the "if" eliminated. This can be done by making an investigation before buying stock in any corporation. Satisfy yourself on the following points: How long has the company been established—has it been successful?

Don't be satisfied with a few months or a year or two of success. Take a period of over five years as a standard.

If the company has been successful, have the stockholders shared in all the profits?

See how many years dividends have been paid. See if the stockholders are satisfied with the dividends that have been paid.

Find out about the officers and directors of the company. See how long they have been with the corporation. Satisfy yourself that they are reliable men.

See that the company is actually doing enough business to warrant the price asked for the shares.

Last, but not least, satisfy yourself that you can get your Money Back Without Loss

and without waiting for it. This is the most important point.

Don't take the word of one person or two persons; ask your banker, or secure a complete report from some other source that you know is reliable.

Don't think that just because a few companies have been successful for a peroid of five or ten years that all of them will be. You will find that companies established as long as THE ORIGINAL HOME BUILDERS OF LOS ANGELES are paying greater profits to the stockholders than ever before.

Shares purchased this month at $1.65 are a good investment. In fact the best we know of that are safe.

The July issue of our magazine "THE MAKER OF HOMES" is ready for distribution. It is free. Send for it now.

In order to secure the three months dividend payable August 10th, you must act quickly.

STRIKING FOR A FALSE PRINCIPLE.

EASTERN STEAMSHIP COMPANIES FOR OPEN SHOP.

Seamen's Union Attempts to Tie Up the Lines Because the Companies Propose to Say Who Shall Remain in Their Employ—No Complaint About Wages.

[New York Journal of Commerce:] The sole ground for the strike of employees of the steamship companies engaged in the coastwise trade is the refusal to sign a new contract with the Seaman's Union and the Marine Firemen's Union which would practically give the unions, instead of the companies, control over the employment of crews and engineroom men. One of the demands was that "a representative of the union shall be permitted on board every vessel to prevent the man in the engine department from signing if he is not a union man or is not in good standing." Another forbids the discharge of any union man without notifying the union delegates and permitting them to determine whether the discharge is "reasonable." The resolution of the committee of the employing companies declaring the reason for not accepting the agreements, which had "proven unsatisfactory to the owners and inconvenient to the public," said: "We cannot consider the proposed new agreements which have been presented, nor any agreement so dictatorial or which contemplates surrendering to the unions the right of the companies to employ crews from any source which seems to offer the best men."

This squarely raises the closed and open-shop issue. The representatives of the companies declared their purpose to pay the established rate of wages, of which there seemed to be no complaint, and to "treat all their employees with fairness and consideration and to carefully investigate and deal justly with any proper and reasonable complaint." While it was their purpose to engage crews for their vessels from such sources as they deemed proper, they wished it to be understood that they were "not opposed to engaging men that are members of the union, though they cannot commit themselves to engage union men exclusively." Considering that the companies own the vessels and that a large amount of capital is invested in them, and that they are responsible for the safety, not only of the vessels but of the lives and property which they carry, it cannot be denied that they should have control of the employment of crews. They can compel no man to accept service with them on their terms, or to retain it if dissatisfied, and they should not be compelled to employ any man in their service who is not satisfactory to them.

The secretary of one of the unions is quoted as saying that the strike was forced upon the men by the refusal of the companies to rescind their open shop declaration. "We did not want to strike," he said, "but the action of the companies means the end of our union if we do not go out." That depends upon the conduct of the unions. If they are so managed and their members are so competent as to make them the best men to be had, the companies could have no objection to their organization, and they could secure all the legitimate benefits. When labor unions are formed and federated together for monopoly, and try to compel everybody in their trade or occupation to join them or go without work, and to force employers to give work to nobody else, they act upon a false principle under the operation of which there can never be industrial peace.

REPORTS ON WAGES AND CONDITIONS.

Timely Bulletins from All Parts of the World.

In view of the fact that there are thousands more women in the United States engaged in the making of women's lingerie than in any other country, information as to the rates of wages, hours of labor, etc., in that industry in foreign cities, is of value, as ascertained by our consuls at the places named.

Palermo, Italy, has ten lingerie factories, employing 800 to 1000 girls. The wages paid for an eight or nine-hour day are 12 to 25 cents, and 30 to 60 cents for skilled labor. The product consists mostly of bridal outfits (corredi) showing high-class workmanship and perfect finish. The factory labor is almost exclusively young girls, while much home labor is performed by about 1500 women. This latter class of labor is paid about the same as in the factories. For example, 20 to 25 cents is paid for making a woman's plain shirt selling at $1 to $1.20, and requiring a full day's work. Lace-making is almost entirely a house industry, yielding only 16 to 20 cents average earnings per day of seven or eight hours, an average of barely 2½ cents per hour.

In Florence, Italy, the working day established by law is ten hours, and the wages obtaining are 40 to 60 cents per day for hand work and 30 to 40 cents for machine work on underwear and waists. Hand embroiderers get 40 to 50 cents and lacemakers 45 to 55 cents per day.

Leghorn, Italy, is without lingerie factories. Girls and women working for dressmakers (also called modistes) get the miserable pay of 15 to 20 cents per day for hand work on linens; the same wages are paid to machine workers on linens. Workers in cloth, hand or machine, earns 16 to 22 cents per day. In each case the working day is ten hours. Women sewing in families are paid only 30 cents a day and meals, and have to work from 8 in the morning until 8 at night. Noticing these low wages calls to mind Thomas Hood's pathetic poem, "The Song of the Shirt." In England, at shirtmaking in garrets, that song is as true today as when it was written.

Lingerie-making wages at Lyon, France:

	Per day of 10 hours, cents.
Underwear, hand work	46 to 96
Underwear, machine work	34 to 68
Blouses, hand work	46 to 96
Blouses, machine work	58 to 67
Embroidery, hand work	26 to 20
Lace, hand work (by working hard)	20 to 30
	Per week.
Embroidery, machine work	$2.86 to $5.79
Lace, machine work, men	2.86 to 4.79

Lingerie-making wages in Berlin, Germany:

Blouses, per dozen	71.4 cents to $1.14
Seamstresses on linen, (9½ hours per day)	$3.67 per week
Ditto, per day	47.4 to 83.3 cents
Male machine embroiderers, avg.	$1.48 per day
Female assistants	59.5 cents per day
Sewing machine embroiderers, females	$5.71 per week
Hand embroiderers, females, avg	$4.28 per week

Lingerie wages in Moscow, Russia:

	Per day, cents.
Seamstresses, hand work	25 to 40
Seamstresses, machine work	20 to 25
Embroiderers, hand	20 to 25
Embroiderers, machine	15 to 20
Lace workers, hand	20 to 30
Lace workers, machine	25 to 30

Machine workers' hours of work are 12 each day.

Textile factory wages at Seville, Spain:

Loom girls	25 to 30 cents per day
Bobbin girls	22 to 27 cents per day

The working day is 10 hours.

In China, seamstresses generally are paid by the piece and earn the equivalent of about 10 cents gold per day. Foreign families sometimes pay 20 cents gold per day. Chinese lace is all handmade and is produced in schools and convents.

The average wage of a Japanese seamstress for handwork on underwear or waists is 7½ to 13½ cents for 9½ hours' work. Machine operators get 6½ to 11¼ cents for the same class of work. For embroidery and lace work the pay is 8½ to 18½ cents per day, the average being 12½ cents. This is for hand work, there being no machine-made embroidery or lace of commercial consequence in Japan.

In Rotterdam, Netherlands, the female lingerie workers are paid $2 to $2.20 a week, for days of 9½ hours each. In Christiana, Norway, they get 50 cents for a ten-hour day. In Antwerp the pay is 29 to 58 cents a day.

Women's Wages in Provincial France.

	Average per day, cents.
Ironers	41¼
Dressmakers	44
White goods sewers	43
Waist makers	43
Lace makers	41
Embroiderers	47
Milliners	46

The average increase in 25 years has been 21 per cent.

The yearly 10-hour working days are (average):

Ironers	270
Dressmakers	260 to 270
Waist makers	270
Embroiderers	250 to 294
Milliners	290
Lace makers	294

American Clothing Factories.

For all kinds of women's clothing made in American factories, the census of 1910 gives the following:

Factories	4,358
Increase in five years	1,307
Capital invested	$139,301,000
Increase in five years	55,353,000
Value of product	384,752,000
Increase in five years	137,062,000
Wage earners, average	175,143
Increase in five years	38,038
Salaried employees	13,794
Increase in five years	2,771
Wage earners' pay roll	79,561,000
Increase in five years	27,356,000
Salaries	11,715,000
Increase in five years	3,305,000
Average weekly wages:
All wage earners	$ 8.01
Men, 16 years and over	12.52
Women, 16 years and over	7.85
Minors, girls and boys	3.49

There we see that the girls and boys (under 16) in American women's clothing factories earn more wages than do the adult women (and many of the men) in similar foreign factories.

The classified average weekly earnings of the 26,735 women over 16 years of age working in American women's clothing factories are:

Wages, per week.	Workers.	Per cent. of whole.
Less than $5	1,668	6.1
$5 to $6	2,344	8.6
$6 to $7	3,113	11.6
$7 to $8	3,621	13.5
$8 to $9	4,260	15.7
$9 to $10	3,383	12.6
$10 to $11	2,797	10.5
$11 to $12	1,974	7.4
$12 to $13	1,274	4.8
$13 to $15	1,155	4.3
$15 and over	601	2.2
Totals	26,735	100.0

No such showing as this can be made of the average wages paid to women workers in foreign women's clothing factories. It is eminently favorable to the American factory as against the foreign factory.

Wages in Madrid, Spain.

	Per month.
Housemaids	$ 4 to $10
Cooks	16 to 20
Butlers	16 to 20
Lackeys	15 to 20
Chauffeurs (without board and lodging)	20 to 75

Women Workers in Japan.

The Chugai Shogyo Shimbun has been investigating the question of female labor in Tokio, and announces that various economic causes are driving women to seek their occupation in fields which have hitherto been occupied solely by men. The total of the female population is 752,000, of whom 191,000 seek their livelihoods outside their own family circle. Of these maid servants number 89,000, dressmakers 26,000 and shop assists 24,200. The barmaids and hotel servants number 20,000, while teachers and professional women are 14,500. The women workers of Tokio form 30 per cent. of the total working population of the capital. Among them widows and girls, ranging in age from 15 to 60, predominate.

Leonicware Wages in Bavaria.

Gold and silver trimmings, etc., are known as "leonicware."

	Per week.
Male workers get	$5 to $6
Female workers	2 to 4
Minors (6 hours per day by law)	75c to 1

The workers number 2500—60 per cent. females.

More Pay Without Striking.

On July 1, 5000 employees of the Brooklyn Rapid Transit Company got a 5 per cent. raise of wages without striking.

Also without striking the 350 employees of the New York Stock Exchange get a general raise of wages on July 15.

SNAKES HAVE A WIRELESS.

Peculiar Instance of Communication and the Response by Another Snake at Critical Time.

[New York Sun:] Frank Corder, the well-known Cedar Grove artist and snake expert, has made a discovery recently which must be of great interest to all who study the habits of snakes. Mr. Corder's reputation for veracity and his own great knowledge of snakes prop up the story with a strength that all scientists must pay attention to. According to George Henry Smith, whose hobby it is to see that the New York newspapers do not overlook his town, Mr. Corder is the author of "Snake Hypnotism and Bird Mesmerism."

Mr. Corder looked out of his studio window the other day. The studio is planted in a large field. Near the building Mr. Corder saw a large blacksnake hypnotizing two blackbirds.

The snake had one of the birds fixed by the glitter of his eyes. The other bird appeared to waver and seemed about to break the spell. Then the snake stuck the rear end of his body up in the air and wriggled it.

Across the field Mr. Corder saw a movement in the grass. Then he saw the tail of another snake wriggling desperately in the air. The first snake wriggled some more, and then the second snake with one reassuring flirt with his tail glided through the grass to the side of the first snake and took up the work of mesmerizing the bird which had wavered under the spell which snake No. 1 had cast.

Mr. Corder figures the thing out this way: The first snake knew he couldn't hold the two birds by his divided stare, so he sent out a C.Q.D. for aid. The speedy response of the second snake after the wriggling causes Mr. Corder to think that the snakes have a wireless system of their own for communication. It was evident from the length of time consumed in the wriggling that the first snake had told the whole story to the second snake and had promised the bird in return for the aid which he asked.

Or so George Henry Smith says.

To Celebrate the Opening and Subdividing of the Famous Patton and West Ranchos

On the Great Van Nuys-Lankershim Lands

A free barbecue and special excursion will be held. Great preparations are being made to handle the big crowds that are sure to come.

For years the garden spots of the valley because of their deep, rich, moist, sub-irrigated soil, these famous ranches are now subdivided and placed on the market.

3½, 5, 10 and 15-Acre Tracts

A Wonderful Country Home Opportunity

Great fields of sugar beets, orchards and vegetables, are growing absolutely without irrigation.

Here's the cream of Southern California lands—priced low for quick sale and on easy terms.

Come and see the magnificent $500,000 boulevard, parked on each side with roses and palms; the fine electric road and the scores of handsome country homes. Think of surroundings such as these!

Come in this week and secure more information. Come Saturday and picnic with us.

HOW TO GO

Take Van Nuys-Lankershim cars at Pacific Electric Hill street depot to end of completed carline. Automobiles will meet every car and provide a beautiful ride over the boulevard to the Ranchos. Purchase tickets at Hill st. Depot—Round trip 50c. Come early.

For Autoists—Turn off Hollywood Boulevard at Hollywood Hotel. Then follow boulevard all the way.

STRIKES ON AND OFF.

pounds by bad debts caused by the strike, and there is suffering again, affecting also wholesalers. The debt collector's occupation is gone. The pitiful strike relief money (when there is any,) has to go for bare bread and that is up in price. In the face of all this (and worse,) the strike leaders, whose pay goes on, orate in Trafalgar Square and shout: "Keep up the fight, boys, even though you have to starve." What utter folly, what criminal folly, that men able to work allow themselves to be kept from the work and wages waiting for them, by such talk! When Ben Tillett, one of the strike leaders, was haranguing against Lord Devonport, the Port of London Authority, as the cause of the surrounding women and children being hungry, one of his hearers spoke the vital truth when he shouted, "Hold hard, Ben; he didn't call the strike." And there was the truth of the cause of the hunger in a nutshell—the strike agitator.

The Chicago freight-handler's strike is settled. Those strikers who refrained from violence got their jobs back. The raise of wages question is deferred for consideration later.

The recent coal strike in Great Britain caused Swansea, Wales, to lose all its tin-plate export trade with the United States, and also many important markets, especially in the Far East. Now the Swansea docks are entirely idle by reason of the transport-workers' strike.

Havre, France, is having serious strike trouble in its large shipping interests. Striking crews are being arrested for desertion under the French navigation laws.

Phillip Snowden and [illegible] Hardie, two leading labor men[illegible] of the British Parliament (Snowden is a very clever Socialist,) are opposing the British transport-workers' strike. Hardie says legislation is far more effective than strikes and that concessions forced by strikes produce lockouts or suspension of work later, especially when trade falls off. The strike-forced extra dollar is, naturally, the flighty dollar.

The threatened strike on the Pennsylvania lines, east of Pittsburgh, has been avoided by mutual concessions. That is the right way to end labor disputes and can be more easily done before a strike than after.

The Boston strikers are indulging in trolley riots. Cars are bombarded and overturned. In one day lately twenty innocent people were injured in that way.

Enlisted sailors have replaced the Panama Railroad's (owned by Uncle Sam,) striking seamen. Labor troubles must not hold back supplies for the Panama Canal nor for the workers thereon.

Strike violence and shooting continues at Perth Amboy, New Jersey. Not a point nor a cent can be gained by strikers in that way, but the contrary.

The Certainty of Dividend or Interest Return, Together With the Safety of Principal, is the True Basis of Investment.

Dividends Every 3 Months

The Mason Opera House "Home Builders" out of the multitude of similar named companies offers such an investment — Proven Absolutely

It has been in operation 4½ years and along an individual line—without speculating in real estate. It has paid Dividends every 3 months and besides has accumulated a surplus near a half million dollars. After it has declared the 18th Quarterly dividend July 31, it will have paid $622.50 in cash on every $1000 invested—an average of 14 per cent. cash return per annum. We will show you why its shares are as safe as a mortgage.

New High Record.

OUR FOUR BILLION DOLLAR FOREIGN TRADE.

BY WALTER J. BALDARD.

FOUR billion dollars was the remarkable value of the merchandise which entered and left the United States and its own island possessions in the fiscal year just closed (June 30.) This is by far the largest foreign trade ever done by us in a single year.

The value of manufactures exported was more than $1,000,000,000; and the value of non-dutiable merchandise entering this country was $1,000,000,000, says O. P. Austin, chief of our Bureau of Statistics. Of this latter $900,000,000 worth came from foreign countries and $100,000,000 worth from Hawaii and Porto Rico. Merchandise exports from the United States exclusive of those to Hawaii, Porto Rico, and Alaska, exceeded $3,-000,000,000 in value.

Of the merchandise received from foreign countries 53.5 per cent. came in free, under the present Payne tariff law, against 44.2 per cent. under the older Dingley tariff law. The Payne tariff law was sufficiently "revision downward" to permit of this increase under it of our free of duty imports.

Imports of free-of-duty merchandise never reached as much as $100,-000,000 a year prior to 1873. They reached the $200,000,000 line in 1880, the $300,000,000 line in 1892, the $500,-000,000 line in 1902, the $600,000,-000 in 1907, the $700,000,000 in 1910, and, as stated, the $900,000,000 line in 1912, with $100,000,000 more from Hawaii and Porto Rico.

Our principal free-of-duty imports this fiscal year were:

Coffee	$120,000,000
Sugar (Porto Rico, Hawaii and Philippines)	90,000,000
Fruits and nuts (cocoa)	35,000,000
Hides and skins	30,000,000
Wool and hair	100,000,000
Crude rubber	120,000,000
Tin ore	65,000,000
Tin in bars	35,000,000
Silver in ore and pigs	40,000,000
Ribbons	30,000,000
Raw cotton	20,000,000

The manufactures exported (over $1,000,000,000,) were, chiefly:

Iron and steel	$273,000,000
Copper	100,000,000
Mineral oils	100,000,000
Lumber and wood manufactures	100,000,000
Leather and its manufactures	60,000,000
Cotton goods	50,000,000

In the month of May manufactures exported had a value of $108,000,000 and formed 62 per cent. of the total exports of that month. For the full fiscal year the percentage of manufactures was 46. During the thirty-four months that the present Payne tariff has been in operation, manufactures exported have averaged $75,-000,000 a month, forming 45 per cent. of the total exports. Under the Dingley tariff law they averaged $46,000,-000 a month, or 37 per cent. Under the last Democratic tariff, the Wilson law, the monthly average was only $22,000,000, or 29 per cent. These things being so, as they are so, why disturb the present tariff?

WHAT IS SLANG?

Short Cuts Are Being Taken in the Language of Expression That Tell Story to the Initiated.

[Philadelphia Inquirer:] Dictionaries give so many definitions of slang that it isn't easy to understand just what it is. There were days, unhappily gone, when anything which was not fully authorized by Webster's or Worcester's dictionaries was not only slang, but anathema. In these days the literary sharps and professors of English literature inform us that all language is a growth and that most of the increase comes from slang. Thus we find that expressions which in our youth were considered vulgar are now firmly engrafted in the language and formally sanctioned by the dictionary. So that slang seems to be the intelligent expression of today, which is certain to become the classic of tomorrow. It is far from pleasing.

Yet one must admit that slang has a certain value, else our sporting pages would be much different. Take a citation from the account of a recent baseball game:

Baker walked, Plank sacrificed, Oldring fanned, Baker stealing third. Barry popped. No runs.

To the initiated this means a complete account of the innings, but to the outsider it is as comprehensible as an Egyptian hieroglyphic. The truth seems to be that we are taking more short cuts now than ever to express thoughts or emotions, while we are lacking that literary language which the ancients possessed. No one supposes that the common people of Athens or Rome spoke as Thucidides or Cicero wrote. Language was a fine art in those days, and the reason the so-called romance languages, descended from the Latin, differ so greatly from the classic forms is that French, Spanish, Italian, etc., are descended not from the literary language, but from the ordinary forms of speech used by the multitude.

In Shakespeare's day there were many great writers, who, most unfortunately, are largely forgotten, but the common people did not talk in Elizabethan English and many of them wouldn't have understood it. But in this day of popular education, newspaper circulation and free libraries there is no longer a set standard—not even in the dictionaries—so that any one may speak very much as he pleases.

The language is undergoing a great change, and not all of it is for the better. Grammar is no longer taught with any rigidity, and the subjunctive mood is being crowded out entirely. It remains only for those who think of language as an art to eschew slang and to try and preserve the classic forms. And they must do this in the full consciousness that their labors will be unappreciated and largely unavailing.

We should like to read the newspapers of the twenty-second century.

Longitude by Wireless.

[Youth's Companion:] Members of the staff of the Paris Observatory have lately determined the difference in longitude between Paris and Bizerta, in Tunis, by the help of wireless telegraphy. Astronomers have availed themselves of the Hertzian waves for such a purpose before, but never for so great a distance. Signals were sent at regular intervals from the Eiffel Tower and timed in Tunis and the Paris Observatory. The same procedure was followed at the wireless station in Bizerta. The astronomers were thus enabled to make exact comparisons of the clocks at the two observation stations. At the same time officers connected with the geographical service of the French army conducted similar experiments at Paris and Bizerta, employing the astrolabe to determine the local time. The results of the work of the two groups of observers were practically identical. The difference in longitude was determined as 29m. 52.506s. It was found that the wireless wave traveled the 800 miles between Paris and Bizerta in about one five-thousandth part of a second.

Didn't Know Milk.

[St. Louis Globe-Democrat:] Gov. Dix, apropos of the milk bill that he recently vetoed, said at a dinner party in Albany:

"We don't want New York's milk, you know, to return to the condition that once characterized it.

"An Albany maid once said to her mistress in those past days:

"'Madame, there's something radically wrong with this here milk. A very thick yellow scum has gathered on the top of it. I'm afraid it's spoiled.'

"'Where were you brought up?' smiled the mistress, as she regarded the rich coat of cream that had formed upon the milk over night.

"'In New York,' answered the maid.

"'I thought as much,' said the mistress, quietly."

Recognized Her Superior.

[Tit-Bits:] "I want somebody to show me where to unload this coal," said the grimy-looking man at the kitchen door.

"You needn't ask me about that," retorted the young woman. "I don't have anything to do with unloading coal. I'm the kitchen lady."

"I can't help that," he rejoined. "I'm the coal gentleman and the father of three kitchen ladies, one laundry lady and one chamber lady, and if you don't show me where to put this coal I'll call the woman of the house."

"I'll show you, sir," she humbly replied, and led the way to the coal cellar.

$100

solves the Home-Owning Problem

at Rodgers Park

Pay $100 cash down—after that $24 to $30 monthly includes principal, interest, taxes, and even insurance. This tract answers every requirement of the particular homeseekers. Located in the glorious Southwest, between Normandie and Vermont Avenues, on 5c car line, where the cement curbs and sidewalks are all in, handsome parkings abound and 2000 trees are planted.

A Two Years' Free Option on the Adjoining Lot at its present price is one of the unusual features of this tract. Water, gas, electricity, telephones, are all available—poles in rear of lots. Even the lawns are in and the shades up. There are forty 1, 1½ and 2 story homes to choose from, ranging in price from $2400 to $3000. Every home is different. Public playground, tennis court, parks.

Just a few of the features boasted by these substantially built homes: Roomy front, screen and sleeping porches, beamed ceilings, handsome fireplaces, decorated walls, cabinet kitchens, white enameled bathroom and bedrooms, built-in features, polished floors, unique hardware and lighting fixtures.

To reach Rodgers Park

Come to our office and ride out in an automobile. Or take a Manchester Avenue car on Hill Street, between Third and Eighth, to Florence Avenue; 10-minute service. Or take a Vermont Heights car on Broadway, south of Fourth, to Seventy-sixth Street. Go out today or tomorrow.

Lots Are Priced Right

for either the prudent homeseeker or the shrewd investor. Get in now while rock-bottom prices prevail and reap the reward of your foresight and the advantages of buying in a tract fathered by such a dependable company as this. Easy terms in force. Today is the time.

FIVE - - MONTHS

The only shareholders in this Company five months ago (this Wednesday) were the twenty-two Los Angeles business men who are responsible for its organization.

Subscribing $30,000 among themselves, they opened the books on that day to other investors.

Today there are TWENTY-SEVEN HUNDRED and SIXTY-EIGHT shareholders, and more than THREE HUNDRED and FIFTY THOUSAND DOLLARS of subscription.

At that time this Company did not own one foot of real estate nor have a single building contract. But it had months of preparation.

Today we have enough building, completing one house every working day, to keep us busy for one year on OUR OWN PROPERTIES in Los Angeles and San Diego.

Our policy of building a better class of house proved an immediate success. It has brought us more contracts than we can accept.

In a few days we will place on the market one of the finest 150-acre tracts in the Los Angeles district.

Our first sub-division of ranch property into ten-acre tracts is also a success. This promises to reach several thousand acres.

To sum up: In less than five months this company is not only strongly financed, but occupies a splendid position from an operating standpoint.

The secret of its success is that its shareholders take an actual living interest in the growth of their investment into something bigger.

We want more of the same kind. The more there are of us, the greater our strenth, the greater our opportunities, and the greater our profits.

It costs little to get started. $1.25 makes you a shareholder. Less than 5 cents a day pays for 100 shares. Buy more if you wish. Pay cash if convenient.

Get a copy of "The WHISPER." It is in its third edition, costs you nothing, and you will like it—for it is not at all what you might expect.

Shares $1.50

—terms, if desired

—Let us show you how hundreds of men and women are getting it by owning Shares in this Building Company. Some of our earliest Stockholders have made Profits of over 100 per cent. It is readily proved. We have jumped to the front in a manner that has admittedly amazed other Companies. We own two high class tracts of city land, one of them covered with bungalows. We have options on two more. You couldn't buy a tract of 100 acres or so, subdivide it, and take the rich Profits as yours. Combined capital CAN do it. WE DO IT. We buy big acreage, subdivide and cover it with Homes—and divide the Profits with you and hundreds like you. You can buy 10 or 2500 shares. Our Protection Fund has never failed to redeem for cash the shares of any man who wanted to reobtain his money. Our shares have already doubled in value. You will want our booklet telling you all about it. Come and get a copy—or write your name and address across this advertisement and mail it.

INQUIRIES FROM AND ANSWERS TO CORRESPONDENTS.

Gold Solvent.

LOS ANGELES, June 15.—Q.: Is there any single acid that will dissolve gold? I see it is stated that aqua regia, the mixture of hydrochloric acid with nitric acid, is the proper reagent for dissolving gold. S. T.

A.: Silicic acid is the only "single acid" that will dissolve gold, but the experiment is of laboratory interest only, for the reason that the high cost of the acid (some $4 per ounce,) makes the use thereof, for the purpose indicated, prohibitive.

Paraffine Shale.

LOS ANGELES, June 15.—Q.: In this tin box please find some shale that burns if you light it in the fire. It comes from a locality, on government ground, in eastern Utah. Does it indicate oil? Is asphalt or paraffine in the rock? Is the ground worth locating for oil? D. B. A.

A.: Glad to hear from you. The shale is named at the subheading, and paraffine can be distilled from the rock. It is not possible for us to advise you as to locating the ground for oil.

Quartz.

LOS ANGELES, June 15.—Q.: Enclosed find some samples of ore from the Chemahevis Mountain. Any information that you will give concerning the same will be thankfully received. P. J. D.

A.: Iron oxides (limonite and hematite,) yellow and red, are in the mass. The crystals in the rock are those of Gothite (hydrated peroxide of iron,) in prisms longitudinally striated, and flattened parallel to the shorter diagonal. Color red-brown, and by reflected light yellow. Of adamantine luster. Brittle. Of yellow-brown streak. Hardness 5.5. Sp. Gr., 4.4. The sample carries approximately $6 per cent. iron.

Gold Crystals.

BISBEE (Ariz.) June 15.—Q.: Will you favor an old prospector by telling about the forms which gold shows as found native? "DAN."

A.: With great pleasure. The primary form is that of the octahedron, but as you well know the metal is often found in grains, scales, and in rolled masses when obtained from "gravel." Gold crystals are generally small and imperfect, in cubes, octahedrons, and often with truncated angles or edges. Again we and crystals on the native metal in "dodecahedrons with rhombic faces, and solids with twenty-four trapezohedral faces."

Not Meteoric.

RANDSBURG, June 15.—Q.: Please find enclosed a sample that I think is from a meteorite, and found by me near this place. Will you please let me know through The Times if I am right? J. C. H.

A.: The sample very much resembles scales of oxidized matter found surrounding a meteorite, but careful analysis shows that the sample is a mixture of iron and manganese, with nickel absent.

Barium Sulphate.

SAN BERNARDINO, June 16.—Q.: Please state whether or not the enclosed sample, from a locality within ten miles of this city, is carbonate of lead, and if not kindly name it in "In the Earth." H. R. B.

Porphyritic Rock.

CRUCERO, June 16.—Q.: Under separate cover I am sending you four samples of ore, taken from a prospect in San Bernardino county, and one sample of clay from said county. Nos. 1 and 2 represent the general body of the rock in a twenty-one-foot vein. Nos. 3 and 4 are small veins running through the large vein. Will you kindly name the minerals in this rock and say if you think it would justify opening up? At present it is only a prospect. No. 5 is from a large body of clay, is it of any value? A. H.

A.: No. 1 is porphyritic rock (feldspar present.) Manganese is in the mass in forms of fern-like characters ("forest rock" of the mining boys.) Iron oxides, with traces of copper and lead are present. No. 2 is also feldspathic, and colored smaltblue with dumortierite (a silicate of aluminum.) Iron oxides and trace of copper in the mass, with traces of manganese. No. 3 quartz (calcite accompanying,) copper suphide, and iron sulphide, with copper silicate, trace of lead and silver present. No. 4 traces of lead, of antimony, iron and manganese in the mass. No. 5 is a coarse, gravelly mixture with an impure soapstone (talc) and of no commercial value. As to working further on the prospect with development, etc., naturally, without personal knowledge of the leads, ledges, walls, dips, spurs, angles and so forth, no helpful suggestions or advice could possibly be given you.

Feldspathic.

BODFISH, June 17.—Q.: Am submitting two samples in small cartridge-box. Will you kindly tell me what kind of rocks they are, and if they contain any minerals, and what minerals if any? G. N. R.

A.: No. 1 is porphyritic rock with various iron oxides. No. 2 is part of a calciferous-quartzitic boulder, with epidotic greenish coloring matter, and low per cent. of phosphoric acid.

Gypsum and Opal Silica.

LOS ANGELES, June 17.—Q.: Will you classify the seven samples I am sending you? They come from the American Boy claim, three miles west of Lee, Cal. I own the ground. Are any of the samples of commercial importance? G. P. C.

A.: No. 1 we recognize as our friend, Lee hematite. Some of this variety of iron ore "runs up into the picture values in gold" at the camp named. No. 2 is an altered trachyte (rock.) No. 3, hematite with manganese oxide. No 5, whitish-yellow crystal of gypsum. No. 5 (second sample) this is opal silica. Owing to the peculiar markings of an odd crayon which you used in "scratching" numbers on samples, some of the numbers could not be made out. Unless substances represented by the samples run well in gold and silver values, the American Boy claim would be of but little value.

Matter of Interest.

JUNCTION (Ariz.) June 18.—Q.: As you give valuable information in various matters relating to mining and minerals, I am going to join the "beggars" and ask for consideration. I enclose five samples. Is No. 1 gneiss, and when forming walls for a ledge do you consider it a mark of permanency and a good formation for minerals? No. 2 lies in granite. What minerals does it carry of value beside gold and silver? Is granite in both walls (or sides) indicative of little depth to ledge? I have a rich silver streak, in places two feet wide, which at forty-foot depth entirely vanished. It was in hard granite. Is there any probability of its return deeper? No. 3 is the wall (hanging) of a quartz fissure, which, I assure you, keeps me guessing. The foot wall seems similar to the hanging wall, though more conglomerated.

On the ledge, running first at a 45-deg. angle, I went down 100 feet, and No. 4 is some of the rock from the ledge at that depth. At this depth I came to a face and tipover of the formation. At the point of intersection there was a gouge several inches wide, which now, twenty feet down, follows the hanging wall. Ore has appeared in bunches, along down, but a permanent body fails to yet show up—what think you? Will it come in, or is there a possibility of the ledge having gone on, on the same angle as I left it, and started down? Ore chopped square off at point of intersection, and for several feet downward, in gouge, there was scarcely a piece. No. 4 is the ore on first chute, the 45-deg. ledge. No. 5 is the two kinds of ore found in going down (the blackest is the deeper) on the gouge. The trend of ledge is easterly and westerly, whereas the trend of the ledge and formation where gneiss is, is north and south, and seems more permanent, although the ledges are but 1000 feet apart. Some call that No. 3 wall rock "hornblende"—your reply will settle it. I am obligated for former information, very valuable, and hope your time will permit you to reply to these many questions. F.

A.: It is a very great pleasure to hear from you again. There are times and occasions when we are forced to "speak right out in meetin'," and those occasions often occur, as it were, when certain geologists and mining experts run afoul of the steering gear of this department.

Now, right from the shoulder of experience, let us reason together on the practical mining points and difficulties of the mining boys, when they "buck up" against a proposition as you set forth in your interesting report, and for the once we will discard the dreams of certain dreaming geologists and come down to hardpan and frozen facts.

As to gneiss (soft granite of the mining boys) we find mica-slate, limestone, biotite, the feldspars, zircon, beryl, columbite, dumortierite and other substances accompanying gneiss. In the vicinity of a number of great mines in Colorado, Montana, Utah and the mines of the Southern States we have often observed gneiss, but if we had a fissure vein with both walls gneiss, we would abandon the camp, and it may be added that there is an unjust prejudice among mining men relating to a fissure with both walls granite, but, nevertheless, there are noted mines and producers in California and Oregon with both walls granite; true some pegmatite accompanies the walls, but what is pegmatite but graphic granite. It is frequently observed that leads run north and south in silver mines and northwest and southeast in many producing gold mines.

From your very interesting report the question arises: What are the surface indications as to formations? It would appear that you are in a locality where everything in the shape of rocks is twisted and turned, topsy-turvey, and, in no true formation—even where you run into the sort of horse at 100 feet. Of course, that's the way it appears from reading your descriptive matter.

As to the return of the ledge between the granite walls at depth, the probabilities are that if you can follow stringers, and get the secret of the horse, and you are in true formation at forty-five feet depth, the lead will return and be good for probably 1000 feet depth. Why? We have found it so wherever we had both walls granite, in Colorado, Montana, Utah, California and Oregon, and that beats "book larnin'."

As to the samples: No. 1 is not strictly gneiss, lime is present, and the sample is banded with marks and minerals that probably was caused by deposition. No. 2 carries iron oxides with manganese dioxide, and one of the pieces of this sample carries a very low per cent. of vanadic acid with traces of lead; one other small piece of No. 2 is pyritic with low concentrating value in copper sulphide, iron sulphide, and traces of arsenic. No. 3 is a siliceous-talcose, and hornblendic substance, with traces of iron and manganese; lime present. No. 4, the larger sample, carries low values in lead vanadate, and the smaller sample is a mechanical mixture of iron oxides, manganese and traces of pyrite. The envelope containing No. 5 was badly twisted and broken in transit, but we are not favorably impressed with the shining "bull quartz" making up part of the sample; iron, manganese, pyrite, chalcopyrite, and lead in very low percentages we find in the mass.

Your sentence referring to "beggars" has been very carefully noted. We object to the term. The majority of the correspondents of this department are of that highest type of humanity (like yourself,) true followers of the glorious and grand old mountains of our incomparable western country.

Arsenical Pyrite.

CAMP RINCON, June 17.—Q.: I am perplexed as to the nature of the pyrite in the sample herewith enclosed. Is it white iron? Please name it for me.

Pearlstone.

LAKEVIEW (Or.) June 18.—Q.: Under separate cover I am sending you a piece of something black, which I wish you would please tell me what it is and if of any value. It not have the fracture of Gilsonite or glass, nor does it burn like coal. M. F. B.

A.: The sample is a carbonaceous variety of pearlstone and of volcanic origin. Material represented by the sample has but a nominal value, but nevertheless it would be well to prospect the locality somewhat in the hope of finding potash minerals.

Potash Present.

YUMA (Ariz.) June 18.—Q.: Samples from a point near the Colorado River in Mexico. Do they indicate potash? A. R. L.

A.: Yes. Approximately 15 per cent. potash.

No Native Gold.

LOS ANGELES, June 19.—Q.: What of these samples. See gold and copper. J. C., Jr.

A.: We cannot see any gold in the specimen even with the microscope. The sample is a resinous iron oxide, on the shale order, and in part pseudomorph after almandite (iron-alumina garnet.) Copper, trace only.

Seven Samples.

HORNBROOK, June 19.—Q.: Herewith I hand you by mail seven samples of rock or ore from the Klamath country, where I have been doing some placer work. No. 1 occurs on the north bank, scattered on the surface, but as yet I have found no lead, and it looks like magnesite to me. Is it? No. 2 is new to me, and it may be some porphyry in a form that I am not familiar with. No. 3. Is this trachyte? No. 4 I take to be iron or pitchblende. No. 5. What is it? No. 6 I take this to be lead ore. No. 7 I cannot place. B. L.

A.: Glad to hear from you. No. 1 is a gobd grade of kaolin. No. 2 is opal silica. No. 3 is a very fine grade pumice. No. 4 is high-grade chromite. No. 5 is a crystallized sample of baryte, and the crystals appear on the surface of massive baryte. No. 6 is stibnite (antimony sulphide.) No. 7 is a handsome variety of bisulphide of arsenic and worthy of the following description: Realgar (realgar rouge) occurs in prismatic crystals, in shining streaks longitudinally striated; of aurora-red color, and the crystals of the sample are semi-transparent. Of resinous luster; orange-yellow streak; yields to the nail; of uneven and conchoidal fracture; becomes negatively electrical by friction; the sample is two in hardness, and 3.5 in specific gravity. Realgar is easily fusible before the blowpipe; it is frequently supposed to be cinnabar; it burns in the open air with a blue flame; when burning it forms sulphurous acid and arsenious acid, and generally leaves a residue of an earthy nature. "Artistically prepared realgar is used as a pigment, and was employed by the ancients for the same purpose under the name of sandarach. The Chinese are said to form cups from realgar, in which they let stand lemon juice, which they afterwards use as a purgative."

Lead Molybdate.

CRESCENT (Nev.) June 19.—Q.: I am mailing you some ore that has caused more trouble and annoyance to miners of this section than any rock I ever came across. I have sent samples of the rock to assayers in New York, Chicago, and Philadelphia, and all of them report "vanadium present." Samples sent to Denver to a noted graduate of the "School of Mines" were tested and reported upon as "lead molybdate," so you can see just how I am fixed. I know the "In the Earth" editor of your great paper, and know, too, that no report could enter that department unless it had gone through a searching examination. With best wishes for the further success of The Times (if, indeed, such a success could be accomplished,) I regard it as the one great paper of the West. G. W. L.

A.: We thank you for your good wishes. As to the samples, about fifteen moons ago we, too, had difficulty on the identical mineral variety that you submit as a sample, and tested it with unsatisfactory results in Philadelphia. In company with Dr. Frank L. Hess, at the laboratory of the "United States Geological Survey," this variety of mineral, by careful analysis, proved to be wulfenite (lead molybdate,) and there is not a trace of vanadic acid in the sample. But why, blame, among others, good old Philadelphia?

CANADA'S FOREIGN TRADE.

Increased Over 14 Per Cent. During the Past Year, Largely in Agricultural Products.

[Winnipeg Saturday Post:] Canada's total trade for the past fiscal year, which ended March 31, amounted to $862,699,732, an increase of no less than $103,605,343, as compared with the preceding fiscal year. Imports totaled $547,382,582, an increase of nearly $86,000,000. Exports totaled $315,317,250, an increase of nearly $18,000,000.

The year's increase in trade, over 14 per cent., is one of the largest, if not the largest, in the history of Canada. According to present indications, the Dominion trade for the current fiscal year will run very close to the billion dollar mark. Of the total imports for the past year, $325,204,452 were dutiable goods, while $186,144,249 were free goods. The customs revenue totaled $87,548,452, an increase of $14,250,909.

Exports of domestic products for the year totaled $290,223,857, the principal items being agricultural products, $107,143,375, animals and their products, $48,210,654; mines, $41,324,516; forest, $40,892,674; manufactures, $35,836,284; fisheries, $16,704,678.

The increase in agricultural exports was approximately $24,500,000. In manufactures the increase was not quite $500,000. Fisheries exports increased by a little over $1,000,000. On the other hand there were decreases of a little over $4,000,000 in the exports of animals and their products, and nearly $5,000,000 in the exports of the forest, and $1,500,000 in mineral exports.

Gibraltar Preferred Stock Advances 10% On July 20th

There is Absolute Value Back of the 10 per cent. advance in the 8 per cent. preferred shares of this company.

The actual worth of our assets demands even a greater advance.

The properties owned today show a value of at least 12½c for every share of stock outstanding.

Steadily increasing values insure the selling of preferred stock at 15c by January 1 or a profit of 50c on the dollar invested now.

A dividend will also shortly be declared from the earnings up to date.

The great profits from the subdividing of land and the force of a great national fact—the growth of the olive industry—are back of the earnings of Gibraltar.

We not only own the largest olive nurseries in the world, but our operations combine the profits from growing the trees, with that of developing the land.

We create orchard homes and little farms and the preferred stock, besides earning big profits, can be exchanged at full market value for a home on the land.

The demand for olives and olive oil cannot be supplied, and the manufacturing plants offer to contract for crops even ten years in advance.

No company in the world is in such fortunate position to benefit from the olive industry as we are. We offer to share the profits with you.

Every foot of growing tree and every foot of land is back of constantly growing value.

If the trees owned by this company were planted 20 feet apart they would reach from Los Angeles to Boston.

They would plant 20,000 acres of land, or 2000 orchard homes of 10 acres each.

Five people to the ranch would mean a population of 10,000 and an increased valuation by statistics of $3,000,000 on 20,000 acres, over and above cost of land and improvements.

Through the combination of the trees and the land we are in position to secure these profits for all who co-operate with us.

Until July 20 we will receive subscriptions to either the 8 per cent preferred stock or common at par of 10 cents per share. You can buy for CASH or on the following Table of Monthly Payments:

$ 1.00	Monthly	Buys	200 Shares, Total Cost	$ 20
2.00	Monthly	Buys	400 Shares, Total Cost	40
5.00	Monthly	Buys	1,000 Shares, Total Cost	100
10.00	Monthly	Buys	2,000 Shares, Total Cost	200
15.00	Monthly	Buys	3,000 Shares, Total Cost	300
25.00	Monthly	Buys	5,000 Shares, Total Cost	500
50.00	Monthly	Buys	10,000 Shares, Total Cost	1,000

Make Your Dollars Earn Full Profits

Big money-makers buy first.

If you desire safety for your investment or are saving for the day when you can own a home upon the land you owe it to yourself to investigate the Gibraltar plan.

If you want your dollar to grow with the wealth of California you should let the development of land values back it up.

There is no company with a broader investment plan backed by the greatness of California's growing wealth than the Gibraltar.

The completion of the Panama Canal will cause the disappearance of the opportunities in the richer valleys back of Los Angeles, which this company is engaged in developing, subdividing and planting to olive and orange orchards from the trees we own.

The big money maker is the one who examines quickly and invests his capital at the start.

We are negotiating for good Olive and Orange land, which, by buying in the quantity of 2000 acres in one lot, we can get at $100 an acre. Trees and planting cost $125 more, and then it can be sold for $450 to $600 an acre, making profits of $450,000 to $750,000.

This shows the advantage of co-operation, as this land bought in 5, 10 or 20-acre lots would cost, for the land alone, $200 to $250 an acre, or 100 to 150 per cent. more.

This profit we can make by combining and working together on a large scale, as we all know anything can be bought cheaper in large quantities.

This company does not need your money for the realizing of present profits, but does desire your co-operation in the broader plans of land development.

The profits of any shareholder investing now will be several hundred per cent.

There is no reason why the man who thinks should lose the greater profits by buying at the later day.

In addition to the 8 per cent. guaranteed the preferred stock is unlimited in sharing all greater profits from land development.

Mines and California.

ALLEGHANY IS FORGING AHEAD.

Mines Increase Scope of Operations.

Tightner Runs Ten Stamps to Capacity.

Strikes at Depth Assure a Big Ore Supply.

(Special Correspondence of The Times.)

ALLEGHANY, (Cal.) July 11.—With the Tightner, Croesus and Bear Creek mills operating at full blast, and with the King Solomon, Rainbow, Sixteen-to-One and numerous other companies increasing their scope of operations, the Alleghany district is rapidly gathering importance as a gold producer. At the Tightner a ten-stamp mill is operating at full capacity, with practically all ore treated produced in course of development. Recent work in the lower adit workings has been particularly pleasing, and sufficient ore is reported exposed to insure the operation of the plant for years. Late advices report the vein five to eight feet wide, with values running into milling grade throughout. Occasional strikes of high-grade ore are being made. It is rumored the milling capacity of the plant is to be augmented.

The Croesus Mining Company is replacing the open water ditch with a line of wooden pipe three feet in diameter. The pipe will be protected against possible damage by snow in winter and will bring sufficient water to the mine and mill to permit activities at top speed. The twenty-stamp plant has been placed in excellent shape. Developments are progressing from the long lower adit workings. This property for years has been the largest producer in the Alleghany district.

BOLDEN BEAR BONDED.

P. H. Darrah, of Pomona, has taken a bond and option on the Golden Bear group of gravel claims, located between the Orient and Snowden Hill mines. The claims have been prospected by the owners, Mark N. Alling and W. J. Belcher, and show considerable promise. Darrah has arranged for a thorough examination of the holdings and is expected to start active work within a few weeks.

The Oasis Mining Company of Los Angeles, is installing electric power at the Kenton mine. The ten-stamp mill will be electrically operated and active production is planned for the early future. The Kenton lies in the heart of the Alleghany field and has been opened sufficiently to indicate a profitable period of activity. It is understood vigorous developments will commence as soon as the electrification of the plant has been completed.

The boom has passed in this district and the principal operating companies manifest a disposition to operate quietly. Several good properties are dormant because of lack of capital, but outside interests continue to show attention, and it is evident Alleghany is being developed into one of the merit districts of the State. Considerable Los Angeles and Pasadena capital is interested.

SUNSHINE ATTRACTS.

The Sunshine mine, High Grade district, continues to monopolize attention in that field. The McFall, Nelson and Sargent, lease reports the interception of the Sunshine vein on Block 6. Pannings show high values and arrangements are being made to develop the vein comprehensively. Pleased are the leasers with late developments that they have leased block No. 7, from the company and obtained a lease on the underground workings below the Sunshine level. The company retains the sole right to work veins occurring north and east of the adit and all upper portions of the estate. The lease is signed to sink twenty-five feet a month until the shaft has attained a depth of 300 feet. It is said the company will receive a royalty of fifty per cent. from some of the ground leased by the McFall, Nelson and Sargent people.

The company has decided to work the Schauer and Laughlin lease on its own account. This is considered one of the best blocks on the estate, the mine last week shipping a carload of high-grade quartz to the Selby smelter. Surface showings are pronounced exceptionally good. The Sunshine is owned by the Sunshine-High Grade Company, controlled by Dawson Fulton and associates of Los Angeles.

ZELLA REPORTS DISCOVERY.

A ledge of gold-bearing quartz has been intersected on the 500-foot level of the Zella mine, near Jackson. The mine shows considerable strength and the management has arranged for its immediate development. The Zella is among the oldest and largest producers in the Jackson district, but of late production has fallen off badly. The new strike is expected to materially prolong the life of the mine. Its manager, of the forty available, is Nation. W. F. Detert is manager.

MONTE CRISTO IN GRAVEL.

The Monte Cristo drift gravel property in the Downieville district, has reached the old gravel channel after a long march. The deposit was shut off by a wall of lava and at point of intersection shows good values. According to statements of parties in close touch with the owners $450,000 was extracted from this channel in a few months, before the intrusion of lava stopped production. The gravel was largely coarse, numerous nuggets being extracted. Several of the nuggets thirty ounces in weight. This was the second deposit of the kind found, the first being worked out several years previously after a lava cap had apparently ended the channel. Los Angeles people are interested.

TONOPAH BELMONT IN DEAL.

It is reported the Dreison quartz mine, near Tuolumne, has been purchased by the Tonopah Belmont Development Company. Negotiations have been under way for several months and the property has been subjected to rigid examination. The mine has a good productive record and large reserves of fair-grade quartz are said to be in sight. The veins dip 45 and carry values of about $11 a ton, according to late reports. The Dreison is located in the rich section of the mother lode.

BORDERS MAKE STRIKE.

Pannings show high values and arrangements are being made to follow the vein comprehensively. Associated are the leasers with late agreements that they have leased from No. 7, from the company and obtained a lease on the underlying workings below the Sunshine. The company retains the sole right to work veins occurring north west of the adit and all upper portions of the estate. The lease is bound to sink twenty-five feet a month until the shaft has attained a depth of 300 feet. It is said the owners will receive a royalty of fifty cents from some of the ground leased by the McFall, Nelson and Sargent people.

SYNDICATE BELMONT IN DEAL.

It is reported the Dreison quartz mine in Tuolumne, has been purchased by the Tenopah Belmont Development Company. Negotiations have been under way for several months and the property has been subjected to rigid examination. The mine has a good productive record and large reserves of fair-grade quartz are known to be in sight. The veins are said to carry values of about $6 a ton, according to late reports. The Division is located in the northern section of the mother lode.

MINERS MAKE STRIKE.

Miners after bonding the Beebe mine, $50,000, the Northern Ontario Exploration Company, Ltd., was notified of the discovery of a vein of high-grade quarts. The ledge shows exceptional strength and is expected to become a splendid producer with proper development. The Beebe adjoins the Eureka mine and is located on an extension of the famous Eureka vein. It is a comparatively new property. The bonding company is controlled by London financial interests.

SECURE THE ALPINE.

The recent acquisition of the mines and plant of the Alpine Mining Company by the Curtz Consolidated Mining Company signals the most important mining transaction of recent years in Alpine county. The new owners secure four partly developed claims, 100-ton stamp mill, aerial tramway from mines to mill, power plant and other equipment. The purchase price has been withheld, but is stated to be large.

The Alpine group adjoins the Curtz properties, with the ore carrying gold, silver and copper values. Two main ore bodies have been developed for 600 feet at depths ranging from 200 to 500 feet. The larger vein has a width of sixty feet, while the second is forty feet wide. Approximately 6000 feet of developments, in the shape of adits, shafts and drifts, have been completed. The new owners plan to increase the capacity of the power plant and to install a concentrating works at Mogul. The ore is somewhat refractory but tests prove it yields readily to concentration. Water power is obtained from the main Carson River. It is understood Southern California capital is interested.

It is reported the owners of the Standard Consolidated mine, Bodie district, are seriously considering unwatering the old workings and may incept work soon. At present a portion of the mill is running on ore from the old upper workings. The quartz averages about $14.75 a ton.

Buzzards as Health Officers.

[Our Dumb Animals:] In Florida and the southern parts of Georgia and Alabama there are flocks and flocks of turkey buzzards which have become so tame that they frequently swoop down upon the main streets of a town and perch on the ridge poles of the main buildings.

"Aren't they wild birds?" I asked in surprise.

"Yes and no," was the reply. "They have never been tamed and would not stand confinement, but they seem to know that they are protected by law, and act accordingly. There is a $20 fine for killing one, and it is rigidly enforced. You see, they are invaluable as scavengers, eating up dead animals, snakes and garbage that would soon cause sickness, especially in the swamp lands, where man's work is difficult if not impossible along this line. So these birds are called 'health officers' in the South, and are regarded as public benefactors."

PATAGONIA TO BETTER OUTPUT.

Entire Camp Manifests New Energy.

Copper Queen Opens the Old Trench Mine.

Sonora Properties Report Splendid Business.

[Special Correspondence of The Times.]

DOUGLAS (Ariz.) July 12.—George B. Lee has resigned his position as superintendent of the Copper Queen smelter at this place and Forest Rutherford, assistant superintendent, has been advanced to the higher position. Hilton H. Colly takes Mr. Rutherford's former place.

Before coming to Douglas to enter the employ of the Copper Queen, Mr. Lee was with the American Smelting and Refining Company. He says he does not expect to follow the mining business in the future. Under his direction the Copper Queen smelter has been gradually improved by the introduction of new features, till now it is regarded as one of the most complete and modern plants in the world. A reverberatory smelting plant and a McDougal roaster have just been completed.

Much activity is evident in the Patagonia district. The Three R Company, composed of Shannon people, is quite active in developing its property. This company is shipping two carloads of ore each day and in the immediate future will increase the output. The ore is high-grade, being copper glance and pyrites. About eighty men are now employed. New machinery, consisting of engines, boilers, compressors and hoists, is being installed.

IVANHOE TO OPEN.

Within a short time work will be resumed at the Ivanhoe mines, with a large force. Another that will soon be in the list of producers is the Old Trench, which is being opened up with good results by the Copper Queen people.

A carload of ore a day is shipped from the Hosey mines to the Pioneer smelter, near Tucson. The World's Fair is also making regular shipments.

Five carloads of ore have just been shipped from the Abundancia mine, in Sonora, to the Copper Queen smelter in this city. On account of the mine being two miles from a wagon road, pack animals are necessary to freight out the ore. It is impossible to get enough animals. For this reason the company is planning a narrow-gauge road that will solve the transportation problem.

O. L. Neer and associates, who recently took a bond and option on the Abundancia, are well pleased with the showing made by their property.

In the Paradise district, the Nebraska-Arizona Company, under the direction of W. K. Morrow, is sinking a shaft below the 200-foot level. A new hoist has just been installed.

The Doran-Gallegher property, in the same district, has been taken over by Chicago investors and is to be opened up at once. The new company has bought all the machinery of the old Savage mine, as well as the buildings, and will move them to the Doran-Gallegher ground.

JUNE A BIG MONTH.

June was another banner month in Northern Sonora, the exports through the port of Agua Prieta setting a new mark. The total amount of ores and bullion shipped amounted to 2,100,700 pesos. The May exports broke all records up to that time but June shows a gain of 206,600 pesos. May's gain over April was 656,300 pesos. The value of June copper exports was 1,091,200 pesos, while those of May totaled 1,098,200 pesos. Silver amounted to 616,500, that of May being 477,100. The gold values totaled 293,000 pesos, while May saw only 318,800 pesos of gold pass through. El Tigre shipped ninety-eight bars of bullion during the month, weighing 9379 pounds.

The Lampazos shipped forty sacks of sulphides, weighing 6717 pounds.

Among the new shippers are the San Pabla, Maria, El Oro, El Sonora, Rey Mineral, El Contento, Cobre Parado and Archipelago, the latter being owned by the Minneapolis Copper Company.

The output of the Cananea Consolidated Copper Company was approximately 6,000,000 pounds of copper. The Abundancia's five cars of high-grade ran all the way from 12 to 17 per cent. copper. Calumet and Sonora shipped about thirteen cars of lead and zinc concentrates and a few cars of copper concentrates.

Another shaft is to be sunk at the Cananea-Boston, located close to the Catalina No. 2 of the Calumet and Sonora Company. It will be sunk at the intersection of several strong veins that outcrop for a considerable distance.

SINKS IN PORPHYRY.

The Major Domor, four miles west of Cananea, is sinking a shaft in porphyry. At a depth of forty feet there is a pay streak twenty inches wide which gives an average value of $40 a ton. Picked samples run as high as $213. The open cut above the shaft has been run about twelve feet on the vein, which assays $15 gold, four

THE BIBLE SAYS

"Prove All Things and Hold Fast to That Which Is Good"

This Is Good Advice to Follow

When Seeking An Investment

FIRST PROVE that it is a SAFE investment.

NEXT that it is a PROFITABLE one.

THEN that the management consists of successful men who are aggressive but conservative.

FINALLY that YOU get a "Square Deal."

In Buying the Stock of the City Builders Investment Co.

At a Par Value of $1.00 Per Share

YOU REALIZE ALL THESE CONDITIONS.

You are SAFE because each dollar's worth of stock represents an equivalent value in assets.

Your money is "TURNED" several times a year at a handsome profit and the company's real estate holdings are constantly increasing in value.

IT'S OFFICERS ARE SUCCESSFUL business men who have their own money in the deal.

YOU "GET IN RIGHT" because there are no interest-bearing bonds "preferred" or "promoters'" stock that cut into the profits before YOU GET YOUR SHARE.

Let us "PROVE ALL (these) THINGS"

--Even My Advertising Man Wants to Buy at Michillinda!

My ad man frankly asked me, during our first interview, "Honestly, now, in what particular respect does Michillinda excel the other subdivisions that are now appealing to the home buyer and investor?

"Why man," I fairly yelled at him—"Michillinda's no more like the ordinary everyday subdivision than a cabbage is like a rose." "Michillinda is just one magnificent natural park—I honestly believe it's the most superbly-located living place on the North American continent. It's thronged with groves of impressive old trees—it commands an ever-changing pageant of towering mountains, and sun-flecked valleys. It's the western Garden of Eden. Talking points? Michillinda is just one vigorous exclamation point."

"Take the Glendora or Monrovia car"—I continued—"25 minutes out Huntington Drive way, through the orange groves, and beautiful suburban homeplaces, will bring you to Michillinda. Note one of your nearest neighbors, Henry E. Huntington, who, with a whole continent from which to choose, picked this spot for the site of his famous estate. Mark the splendid improvements of Michillinda, the Italian water garden and semi-tropical park marking its entrance. The hundred foot boulevard sweeping through the aisles of arching oaks, sycamores, walnut and orange trees—note that a fortune has already been expended to make it simply the last word in suburban living—note that it's surrounded by millionaires' country seats—note the proximity of fashionable Country Clubs. Mark the size of the lots—none smaller than 90x200 feet. Big villa sites priced as low as $1500."

"Guess I'll go out today—maybe I'll really like it myself," was the only comment from the man of advertising. When he returned next day, he greeted me with—"You didn't make it half strong enough, I'm going to locate there myself."

And two local real estate editors said the same thing to me only last week.

Come in and we will go out in my car. I'll promise not to bore you or coax you to buy. We'll just let Michillinda speak for itself. My hello machines are F4205 and Main 2961. And you will find either myself or some of my courteous agents in the office every day from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. Phone or write for an appointment.

News From Oil Fields.

The Oil Industry.

GAS LETS GO; RAISES HAVOC.

Murphy Well Choked by Dirt, Water and Rocks.

Explosion Heard for Radius of Six Miles.

Sorry Spectacle Presented the Morning After.

With a noise like a locomotive blowing off steam, and said to have been audible within a radius of six miles, gas in the Murphy Oil Company's well No. 6, in the Coyote Hills district near Fullerton, broke loose Wednesday night at 8 o'clock and drove out an immense volume of water which nearly filled the 1700-foot hole, as well as a deluge of stones and dirt. A storm came up, the wind blowing from the west carrying clay and mud and water to a distance of a quarter to half a mile down the canyon to the east.

The flow of gas continued with unliminished force for about nine hours and then ceased with probably even greater suddenness than it had begun. This is believed to have been due to the fact that the hole became "bridged" by a large mass of rock, thus cutting off the escape of the gas. For four hours after the blow-out occurred rocks and dirt continued to fall in quantities, some of them nearly as large as a man's head.

The trouble is thought to have arisen from the fact that, in an effort to loosen a casing which was being landed and had stuck, too much water was baled out of the well and the pressure below, becoming greater than that above, it was forced out by the gas. The driving spear used for jamming the casing in the hole had been removed, but, being near the mouth of the well when the gas commenced to issue forth, a part of it was chiseled off by the friction from the stones and dirt. The metallic parts of some of the appliances were heated by friction until they became almost white. Fortunately one of the men working in the well succeeded in turning off the lights and thus avoided further trouble.

The roof inside the derrick, above the mouth of the well, had been lifted off probably as soon as the blow-out occurred, it was discovered yesterday. Braces near the top of the frame were torn out, and three pulleys were broken. Mud was a foot and a half deep on the floor of the derrick, and six men spent nearly the whole day cleaning it out. The framework was also a mass of sticky clay, and every little while chunks of this would fall on the workmen. A large piece of C-shaped metal was wrenched from the tempest wheel. The engine which operates the well was not damaged.

The extent of the damage to the inside of the hole is not yet known, and it will probably be several days before anything definite can be learned. It is announced that in the course of a week or so operations will probably be resumed. The mud had been shoveled off the floor of the derrick late in the afternoon and it was given a thorough shower bath.

Drilling was commenced on this well March 16, and the casing which was being landed at the time of the blow-out was the third to be put into the hole. The well is in the vicinity of several good producers.

Standard Developments.

The Standard Oil Company is operating seven wells in La Habra Valley, and will prepare to begin on another as soon as the material shall arrive on the ground. Some of the wells which are being drilled have reached a depth of 4000 feet, and it is hoped that a couple will be finished in the next thirty days. The progress on the new No. 2 well of the Emery lease has been rapid, for it was begun about fifteen days after No. 1, and is now about 2400 feet deep, whereas No. 1 is said to be a little over 2300 feet deep.

The California Development Board reports that the Standard Oil Company will expend $10,000,000 enlarging its plant at Richmond, in Contra Costa county.

All Around.

The Doresby Oil Company expects to land a ten-inch casing in about a week at a depth of 2500 feet, in a well in La Habra district. The hole is being drilled at a depth of 2200 feet. It is believed a strike will be made about September, perhaps at a depth of 2900 feet, judging by present signs.

After landing the ten-inch casing, boring will be done with a standard drill, instead of with the rotary drill as at present, and this will mean slower work. The well was spudded in early in May and boring has been done through sticky shale nearly all the time, with the exception that between the 500 and 900-foot depth conglomerate was met.

The Columbia Oil Company's well No. 3 on the Orange Lease is expected to strike within a week, at a depth of about 3300 feet. It promises to be a good producer.

The Kellogg Oil Company is said to be doing a business of $100,000 or more a month, its principal work being refining. It is said that the company also holds the stock of subsidiary companies, among which are the Cosmopolitan, the Densmore-Stabler and the Los Angeles Refining Company. The Cosmopolitan is finishing well No. 3 in the Ventura district, in proven territory. It is also stated that this company pumps between fifty and eighty barrels of .32 gravity oil a day from two other wells.

The Buick Oil Company is working on wells 1 and 2 in the Midway district, trying to clean them out. This company is also preparing to begin work on No. 5, and has secured part of the lumber for the derrick. Well No. 4 is pumping, having come in on June 24 at a depth a little over 3100 feet. The average striking level in this district is said to be 3100 to 3300 feet.

SANTA PAULA FIND.

WHITE STAR GETS WELL.

It is reported that the White Star Oil Company, operating in the Little Sespe, has a 100-barrel well from No. 9. Preparations are being made to put down another well soon.

The Stockholders' well, also in the Little Sespe, has a producing well of 100 barrels.

The Romona Home Oil Company is down about 1800 feet on its well. Material is on the ground and great progress is expected soon.

A 250-barrel well of thirty-two gravity oil has been brought in on the White Star property in Fillmore at a depth of 1500 feet.

Installs Ice Plant.

The Fullerton Oil Company is making a new departure in the field, in that it does not propose going through the summer without the convenience and luxury of ice at home. Consequently it is installing its own ice plant, the work being in the hands of J. M. Hanson, who will finish the job this week. While not large, the capacity of the plant will be sufficient to supply all the daily needs on the Fullerton lease.

On the property of the Fullerton development is going ahead steadily, as is also production. Beyond the fact that in both divisions satisfactory results are being marked up daily on the charts there is nothing new.

In its valley field the Union is crowding all of its work right along. Satisfactory results are reported attendant and the busy scene carries encouragement all along the line, for there is a sure footedness and enthusiasm about the aspect of everything on this big Union lease that inspires confidence.

Meantime the Amalgamated, Standard Oil and Petroleum are showing up conditions on adjacent valley property that have the right ring for the anticipated success on the Union. In fact, as matters now stand in the proven surrounding territory, it is difficult in any way to figure out failure for the Standard. It is as much of a sure shot, this valley territory of the big company, as could well be mapped out ahead of the actual discoveries of the drill.

No. 3 well of the company is now down 2800 feet. At that depth the cement has set well and they will soon be drilling it out. The hole is believed to be right on top of the oil sand. The resumption of drilling will be undertaken with much care and be watched with a great deal of interest, for it will not take the rotary long to get into the pay stuff from the present depth.

At the No. 6 well of the company they are now changing over from the standard to the rotary outfit, having conquered the hard stuff which for a time made their going some of the hardest experienced in the valley. At the other drilling wells of the company in the valley there is nothing to report the present week beyond the continuance of excellent prospects and good work.

Coalinga.

TO TRY AGAIN IN DEVIL'S DEN.

PLUTO OUTFIT WILL RESUME OPERATIONS.

Financial Condition Now Said to Be in Shape to Push Work After Four Months of Idleness—W. K. Runs Six Strings and Plans New Drilling on Property.

[Special Correspondence of The Times.]

COALINGA, July 11.—A load of rig material and provisions will leave here Saturday morning for the Pluto well in the Devil's Den country, and upon arrival of the crew drilling will be resumed there.

The Pluto has been shut down for the past four months, but the financial condition of the company is such that the officers feel they now can push the work on to completion, and expect to have a producer within sixty days after they start.

The hole is now down to 3008 feet in a sulphur water sand, and the indications are that the drill will soon drop into the oil sand.

The W. K. is running six strings of tools, four of which are engaged on new work and the other two in cleaning out. There are two rigs up and ready to spud in as soon as a crew is available.

The American Petroleum, on its section 6 property, has three new rigs on the west property line and two more on the north line. They recently spudded in on two of these new wells.

Emory Wishon, formerly manager of the Coalinga Water and Electric Company and now assistant general manager of the San Joaquin Light and Power Company, is in Coalinga today. His power company is extending its line to the coast and surveys are now being made. William Stranahan, who succeeded Wishon as manager of the local plant, has been placed in charge of the surveying crew and now is conducting the surveying expedition through the mountains to the coast and on to Santa Maria. E. D. Farrow accompanied Wishon to Coalinga, and is being installed as manager of the local plant to succeed Stranahan.

Starting from some unknown cause last night, rig No. 47 of the Kern Trading and Oil Company, on section 25, took fire and was completely destroyed. The engine and a greater part of the machinery were not injured. The loss sustained by the fire will exceed $2000. The derrick was about one year old and stood over a pumping well.

IN THE LOST HILLS.

W. J. Wilson of Hanford is here for the purpose of purchasing a string of casing for delivery in the Lost Hills. Mr. Wilson is representing the Lost Hills Oil Company, which has been formed to push further development on the old Lost Hills Central property.

The Lost Hills Central, under poor management, succeeded in running up a pile of debts, which eventually brought on attachments that were recently satisfied by a sale of the personal property of the company by the Sheriff.

The Lost Hills Hanford Company is the owner of the effects of the Central, and it is the intention of the officials to proceed with drilling.

When the Central was shut down the drillers were down about 900 feet with the eight-inch casing, and, it is said, they had favorable indications for a well.

The Coalinga-Panama Oil Company, operating in the Belridge field, has reported a strike of oil at about 500 feet. The Belridge field is about sixteen miles southwest of the Lost Hills and is a shallow territory, the wells already drilled producing from a 450 to a 700-foot depth. Several of the wells are flowing and the production is a light oil. The Coalinga-Panama is owned by H. C. Kerr, Frank Cheney, Z. L. Phelps and Floyd Morris, George E. H. Satchell being the secretary of the company. Morris drilled the well and says it will be a good one. It was started with six-inch and finished with four and one-half.

Fullerton.

NEW WELL MAY BE A GUSHER.

Amalgamated Six Keeps Up Expectations.

Conditions in Formation Are Being Watched.

If Flow Does Not Grow Well Will be Deepened.

[Special Correspondence of The Times.]

FULLERTON, July 12.—The Amalgamated Oil Company this week brought in another producer. It is its No. 6 well and while it is at the present time making the comparatively small output of about 300 barrels a day, there are good grounds for the belief that it will greatly improve this. In fact, it will not be surprising if the six blows into the gusher class at any time.

Should it fail of material increase in production from its present depth, then the company will drop the hole to the oil sand below the present bed of blue shale from which production is now being made. This sand lies about 200 feet below the point at which the well is now bottomed.

The No. 6 is the southeast hole of the Amalgamated, not far from Petroleum No. 1. Aside from the fact that it has entered upon production, there are some very interesting conditions attendant on this well conditions which are of general importance in this part of the field as bearing upon formation. To begin with No. 6 has had no water. The gas which it struck on the night of July 3, and which began forcing a little oil into the hole, is dry. The Petroleum near by evidently passed through this gas and oil-bearing shale with its rotary outfit without knowing it. Continuing on down through it the Petroleum got into its sand and at the bottom of that into the water. The Petroleum bottomed at 3100 feet. The Amalgamated No. 6 is between 2800 and 2900 feet deep.

OFFICIALS SATISFIED.

General Manager Kammerer was down Monday to go over the situation with Superintendent Kammerdiner. Both subsequently expressed themselves as much pleased with the situation as affecting No. 6. Also they were more than ever convinced that in this formation it is the part of wisdom to finish up with the standard tools. Had they been on the rotary there is no telling whether or not they would have missed the oil-bearing shale. As it is they are finding out much of importance regarding this formation and also getting inside knowledge of value as affecting the entire valley territory.

As matters stand with No. 6, it may come in at any time with a heavy flow of oil. The gas pressure is increasing and it may be that they are separated from the oil sand proper by only a thin capping, such as was blown off by the great No. 4 well of the company when it came in with a torrent of oil last winter. At any rate they are going to leave No. 6 to its own resources for a time and see what may happen. If nothing does, the well will have the help of a little more drilling. In the meantime all hands stand ready for whatever may occur in the emergency line and precautions have been taken about the well to take care of anything that may occur.

Watch Whittier Field.

It is possible that in the next few months it may be demonstrated over in the Whittier field that the high gravity fourth sand of the Brea Canyon country is continuous on the north and is available in the Quaker field as well is in the Brea Canyon.

This surmise is made to look reasonable, and is at least in the line of early possibilities by the fact that the well known Home Oil Company of the Whittier field has been down with its No. 20 well to a depth of 3900 feet with formation prevalent that resembles that of the famous Menges well of the Birch oil in Brea Canyon.

At 3900 feet the Home had hard luck, however, losing its casing, with result that they pulled back to about 2800 feet to start over again. They are now down 2900 feet and making good headway. All familiar with the well and with the conditions found in the Menges believe that the Home is duplicating the famous Brea Canyon producer and that a little beyond the depth of 4000 feet they will bring a gusher of gravity that will set a new pace for the Whittier oil area.

A Safe Offer.

[Tit Bits:] The walking craze a few years ago gave a well-known sporting man an opportunity which he could not resist taking advantage of. He had handbills widely distributed, on which was stated:

"A Great Crosby gentleman will give $50 to the man, woman or child who first succeeds in doing the following task: To walk from the Pierhead (Liverpool) to Crosby village. There each competitor must buy a meat pie and walk round the 'Big Stone' and eat it."

About a hundred entries were received, and the walk took place on Whit Monday. Much excitement prevailed and a great cheer rose as a local pedestrian was seen leading the rest of the crowd. His meat pie was soon eaten as he walked round the stone, and he went to the judge for the $50.

"Why," exclaimed the judge, "I didn't think you could have done it. The stone seemed too hard to eat."

"What's that got to do with it?" asked the ped.

"Everything to do with it," answered the judge, "and nobody gets the $50 till they do."

McKittrick.

STANDARD NOW IN NEW FIELDS.

ENTERS M'KITTRICK-BELRIDGE TERRITORY.

Great Company Buys Section in Valuable Region—Deal Consummated at San Francisco Includes Germans on Selling Side—Presumption Is Developments Will Soon Begin.

[Special Correspondence of The Times.]

M'KITTRICK (Cal.) July 12.—The Standard Oil Company has entered the North McKittrick-Belridge country, having concluded this week the purchase of all of section 19, 28-21, with the exception of the south half of the southeast quarter. The transaction was consummated on Wednesday in Bakersfield, through a banking concern in San Francisco. The property which has thus passed into the possession of the greatest oil corporation in the world was purchased three months ago by F. Hill of Pittsburgh, Pa., from persons in Germany and the United States, and whose interests were represented by the San Francisco bank. The price paid for the property has not been made public. The land is situated near the properties of the Belridge Oil Company, and it is presumed that the Standard Oil Company will soon begin the work of development.

While the fact of the transfer has not yet become generally known, it is regarded by those best informed as to the area in which the Standard has made this investment, that it means much for this, the newest oil region in the State, and that the excellent results that have rewarded the efforts of the pioneers in the North McKittrick-Belridge field, are to be considerably augmented by the entrance of the Standard.

The drillers at work on the [illegible] owned by Fred Mannell of [illegible] field, and located on the south half of section 35, 27-20, on the North [illegible] Kittrick front, struck light oil at a depth of 470 feet, on Wednesday. The discovery is very encouraging to Mr. Mannell and his associates, and it is hoped that further exploration will result in the bringing in of a good well.

The San Francisco and McKittrick Oil Company, operating in the [illegible] Kittrick field, on Thursday began drilling well No. 19. The material for this rig had been on the ground for some time, but the commencement of work was postponed on account of other improvements on the lease, which is one of the most productive according to its size, in the field.

Preparations are being made by the Reward Oil Company to put down another derrick on its lease in the McKittrick field. The Reward, which has a number of good wells on its McKittrick district property, is now doing some development work on the North McKittrick front, where it recently purchased some land and will put up a rig.

Burns and Maxwell of McKittrick have just established camps on section 14, 29-22, and section 24, 29-21, seven miles northeast of the city, and have placed contracts for the drilling of a well on each section. They control the entire two sections, and as they are experienced oil men it is anticipated that much work will be conducted on these leases during the present year.

The Union Oil Company has started a well on section 18, 29-22, and the drill is now down several hundred feet. This company is also drilling a well on section 29, 27-21, adobe hole country and which is intended to be a thorough test of the territory.

BUYS SUNDAY GROVE.

Esther M. Teeter of Soboba through her agent, C. O. De Lano, reports the sale to a local capitalist of a twenty-acre orange and lemon grove located at Sunland, the consideration being given at $36,000. The purchaser will erect a fine home on the place.

A MOUNTAIN SUBURB.

With the territory most recently annexed to Los Angeles came in Mt. Washington, one of the most attractive and interesting suburbs boasted by an American city. In the very center of the Mt. Washington district the commanding hill bearing that name rises to a height of nearly 1000 feet above the sea. From the summit of this beautiful elevation is obtainable a view that is unsurpassed and which includes three chains of mountains, the entire city and the ocean.

The mountain itself has been laid out as a subdivision, the slopes and top being made accessible by one of the longest inclined railways in the world and which taps the regular city car service at intervals of a few minutes throughout the day. Four years ago the whole mountain was a cow pasture rented to a number of dairymen. Today the summit is crowned with beautiful homes which line the more than seven miles of streets and walks in the tract. The Mt. Washington Hotel at the very top of the mountain is one of the popular hostelries of the section. Only last month a fine grammar school of the mission type was completed by the mountaineers on a sightly knoll high above the noise and dust of the city. The whole development has been accomplished by Robert Marsh & Co., the owners of the tract, in three years.

Another annexed district which is full of promise is that known as the New York Valley and which is in reality a part of Eagle Rock Valley, characterized that region. Houses of every variety, from the simplest bungalow to the large and expensive home, are beginning to dot the hillsides at the edge of the present development. The same may be said of the sightly Elysian Heights district, which has so advanced in importance in recent months that it has been granted a special car service direct from the Hill-street depot.

BUILDING OWN CHURCH.

Twenty-seven families, comprising a congregation in the new townsite of Yorba Linda, in the Yorba Linda citrus belt, who have been without a church edifice, passed their July 4 holiday in breaking ground for a rather imposing structure, and in putting the new building under way. The congregation, all of them friends, had purchased a lot in the new town and through various donations, had obtained lumber and other building materials. While the men were busy with the excavation and, later, in raising the timbers, the women of the church were preparing a great luncheon that was served at mid-day. By night the place of worship was well under way. The twenty-seven men will continue work on the building, devoting evening hours and spare time until the work has been finished.

WEST END SALES.

The Victor G. Kleinberger Company reports the following sales in its new West Adams and Washington boulevard tract: Al G. Forrest, $650; W. W. Browne, $1025; Caroline Benton, $700; Caroline Benton, $1050; August Chevallaz, $1450; T. Griffin, $590; M. C. Connors, two lots, $850 each; Henry Laplanch, $750; Samuel B. Cohn, $875; J. L. Miller, two lots, $975 each; Annie C. Miller, $950; Andrew Falls, $590; R. S. Trenton, two lots, $700 each; Owen S. Jones, two lots, $900 each; Owen S. Jones, $1125; T. C. Bonnell, $675, and Mary L. Holmes, $1500. The street improvements in the subdivision are progressing rapidly, this week practically completing the cement work on West Adams street. Electricity is now on the property and the Kleinberger Company is making arrangements for gas. A number of the streets have been piped for water.

YUCAIPA VALLEY SALES.

Claussen Bros., selling agents for the Redlands and Yucaipe Land Company, report sales for the first ten days in July amounting to $28,375. These follow: G. R. Horton, $7400; G. E. Mullen, $3800; Roy Cook, $1675; E. P. Beasley, $3000; J. H. Cragin, $3000; G. Sangren, $3000, and J. Borthistle, $1500. All of the above-named buyers will set their land to apples of the red varieties during the coming winter. It is now estimated that more than 1000 acres will be planted to apples, cherries and pears in the new South Beach subdivision during the next planting season. Among the recent builders of homes in the valley are W. W. Robbins, G. C. Nelson, D. E. Potter, A. Von Brockman, F. Loughee and W. E. Martin.

PLANS APARTMENTS.

G. M. Lashley has sold to Esther M. Teeter two residences and a large vacant lot at the corner of Sunset boulevard and Orange street. The purchaser will soon erect a large and up-to-date apartment-house on the Sunset-boulevard corner. The consideration involved in the transfer is given at $30,000. C. O. Delong acted as agent in the deal.

ARCHBISHOP BONZANO.

Handsome Young Delegate Who Now Represents the Pope in the United States—A Great Preacher and a Learned Man, Will Doubtless Be a Cardinal and Some Day May Be the Supreme Pontiff of the Catholic Church.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE OF THE TIMES.]

WASHINGTON, July 7.—Nineteen years ago Leo XIII sent Mgr. Satolli to the United States as an ablegate, or envoy. The public schools were then being discussed by Catholic, laymen and ecclesiastics, and the church in America wanted to know the mind of the Pope on the subject.

Later Mgr. Satolli was elevated to the dignity of apostolic delegate. When he was appointed cardinal, in 1895, and went back to Rome, the Pope chose Mgr. Sebastian Martinelli to be his successor. Mgr. Diomede Falconio, once chief of the Franciscan friars, those barefooted men, pledged to chastity, poverty, obedience and ministry, succeeded Mgr. Martinelli, who like Mgr. Satolli, had been advanced to the cardinalate.

Mgr. Falconio, an Italian by birth, first came to the United States at the age of 22 as a missionary, and was admitted to the priesthood by Bishop Timon of Buffalo. He taught philosophy and theology at several seminaries of the church, and, loving liberty and free institutions, as he once told me, eagerly took the oath of allegiance at the earliest opportunity and became a citizen of this country. After a long and distinguished service in Canada and Rome, he returned to the United States as apostolic delegate.

I interviewed him at the time he took his office and found him to be a modest and agreeable man. He was slender, fair complexioned, and had gray eyes. After that, I frequently met him walking in the quarter of the city where each of us often went for physical exercise. He was nearly always alone, and, though he was seemingly lost in reflection, he never failed to see and greet an acquaintance or a friend. He was an American and proud of his citizenship and flag. I write of him in the past tense because he, too, is now a cardinal and lives in Italy. All of the apostolic delegates to the United States, therefore, since the coming of Mgr. Satolli are members of the Sacred College—princes of the church, they are called—and wear the scarlet hat, the color of which reminds them that they must shed their blood when necessary as martyrs to their faith.

Archbishop Giovanni Bonzano.

THE DUTIES OF THE DELEGATE.

So it happens that a new delegate has come to Washington from the Vatican. He is Giovanni Bonzano, Titular Archbishop of Melitene—a spare, refined man, with brown hair and eyes, and an animated and handsome face. He may be 40 years old, but whatever his age, he is a seasoned missionary and priest and learned in the laws of his church. No doubt he will be a cardinal some time. Even the papacy may be within the possibilities of his career. Leo XIII and Pius X have shown great wisdom in sending their agents to the United States. They have selected traveled men of the world, and men who spoke the language of the people.

The apostolic delegate stationed here has no diplomatic standing. He is not, as is supposed by persons unacquainted with the facts, an ambassador from the palace of the Pope to the goveriment of Washington. Indeed, he has no official relations with this country. His functions are entirely ecclesiastical. The Pope is thousands of miles away from the church in America. Disputes may arise between bishops or between priests and their bishops. Laws emanating from the Vatican may be misunderstood. Mails are fast these days, but, even so, church matters requiring decisions from the highest authority would drag were it necessary to submit certain questions and differences directly to Rome. To prevent delay and promote harmony, the Pope dispatches his own representative to this country, as he does to Germany, France, England, Canada and other nations.

As a man of business, an apostolic delegate outranks a cardinal. A cardinal's jurisdiction ends at the boundary line of his ecclesiastical province. Cardinal Gibbons is supreme in the province of Baltimore, Cardinal O'Connell in the province of Boston and Cardinal Farley in the province of New York. They are "princes" within defined principalities. When the Pope dies, all of the cardinals, seventy in number, meet at the Vatican, and from among themselves elect his successor. There are three cardinals in the United States, not including Diomede Falconio, who resides in Italy. Also, there are ninety-three dioceses, each with a bishop. The dioceses in turn constitute fourteen ecclesiastical provinces, over which there are an equal number of archbishops.

WHY THE POPE SENT HIM.

The apostolic delegate in Washington, sitting as a judge, it might be said, hears all the cases that would be sent to the Pope were the Pope without a deputy in the United States. Archbishop Bonzano, consequently, is the highest Catholic authority in this country. Pius X designated him because of his talents, learning, piety and achievements. He has specialized in missions, having served six years in China, but he is a great preacher, an accomplished writer, and has taught theology in Italian colleges. Likewise, the Pope has sent him on delicate and difficult commissions to various parts of the world.

I talked with Archbishop Bonzano in the reception-room of his fine residence on one of the best streets in this city. The mahogany chairs are upholstered in lemon-colored silk. Beautiful oil portraits of Leo XIII and Pius X are against the tinted walls. The archbishop wore the long, tight-fitting cassock of a priest, low shoes, with buckles, a large ring of oriental amethyst, set in small diamonds, and a heavy chain and cross of gold. We conversed in English, he making many graceful gestures with his hands, smiling often in a most friendly way, and answering all questions without reluctance. He had heard of that unique personage known as the American interviewer, and, I fancied, was curious to study one of them at first hand. He told me that he was born in Northern Italy, the region of the Alps, where, though he did not say so, the people, industrious farmers, stay at home, instead of emigrating to America.

"My family," the archbishop said, "were plain and honest people—democrats, I suppose you would term them. I went to school, like any other boy, and then to college, taking a classical course, as one would say in the United States. While still a young boy, I was attracted to the church. The influence that drew me toward the priesthood came from within and not from the outside," the archbishop continued, tapping the breast of his cassock with the tips of his fingers. "My mother often told me that she would thank God when I became a priest, but that she would rather have me fall dead at her feet than to see me a bad priest.

WILD EXPERIENCES IN CHINA.

"When I was 21 years old, I announced my purpose to enter the priesthood. The Catholic Church will not sanction a decision of that kind if the young man has not come of age. I spent four years studying theology, intending in the meanwhile to be a missionary. China was the field to which my superiors sent me. I set out with a light heart, but it was painful to leave my friends and relatives. Service with us in foreign countries is not for a period limited or specified. We go and likely as not will always live and finally die in the region where we began our work as young men. I imagined that China would be my future home. No thought of returning to Europe came into my head. Thus when I said farewell to my parents I felt that I should never see them again. Still I was happy and not cast down.

"We sailed, another young priest and myself, from the port of Marseilles, in France, and thirty-seven days later reached Shanghai. The journey now can be made in twenty days, going from Milan to St. Petersburg and thence across Russia and through Siberia by rail. At Shanghai we embarked on a steamer bound up the Yangtze-kiang. Three days afterward we left the steamer and went aboard a smaller boat on the way to the heart of China, many hundreds of miles distant. We made fair headway if the wind filled our sails. When the wind died down, men walked on the river bank and pulled the boat by a long rope. At places there were swift rapids and then it sometimes required 200 men to draw the boat through the swirling and fast-running current.

"And all the while, you must remember, we were in the midst of pagans. Two natives and our cook, however, were Christians or catechumen; that is, they had ceased to be heathen, but had neither been baptized nor fully instructed in the new faith they had accepted. At night the boat was tied to a tree on the bank and often just beneath a very high mountain. My friend and I were cramped for room and always uncomfortable. If it rained during the night, we could only keep dry by putting up our umbrellas. Then we were in constant danger of being attacked by robbers and assassins. It was an exciting journey, but we trusted in God and after three months of hard traveling, 'roughing it,' you Americans would say, we reached our station."

"In what countries is your church having the largest growth?"

"The statistics are not by me for a precise answer, but we are making great gains in England and Holland, and also in the United States, because of the heavy and constant immigration from Southern Europe. There are 15,000,000 Catholics in this country. Combined Protestantism outnumbers Catholicism, but we are stronger than any single denomination. Oh, certainly, we hope America will be a Catholic country in time, as we hope all countries will accept what we hold to be the true faith. And other sheep I have,' our Lord once said, 'which are not of this fold; them also I must bring, and they shall hear my voice; and there shall be one fold and one shepherd.'

THERE MUST BE LEADERSHIP.

"With a single Christian church the world over there would be co-operation, economy, and efficiency. We claim, as you know, that the Catholic Church was divinely founded. Aside from that, it is strongly and sensibly organized. Work cannot be done to the full measure without system and management. The Catholic Church has a center from which comes all authority; I mean, as you doubtless understand, the Holy Father. Its work is entirely spiritual. The work nevertheless must be done down here on earth by practical methods and over it there must be an authority inspired by the Holy Ghost. With due respect to Protestantism, I say it is without centralized leadership, and, therefore, is disorganized. Out of the duplication that now wastes the resources of Christian people, however, will ultimately come unity. There could be no misunderstanding, no difference of opinion, were all churches to accept what is taught and ordered in the Gospel."

"Higher criticism," I said, "is disturbing Protestant denominations. Is it causing any trouble in the Catholic Church?"

"No. A few men calling themselves modernists have denied certain divine truths—like the resurrection, for example—but they have been read out of the church by the Pope because they are no longer Catholics. We believe in the truth of the Bible. When there is difficulty in comprehending the truth, the Pope deliberates and prays and comes to know God's meaning. We believe that in such questions the Pope is guided by the Holy Spirit and that he alone speaks ex cathedra in matters of faith and morality. Thus we have uniformity of doctrine—not one thing here and something else over there. A priest cannot stand up before his people and deny the divinity of our Lord. His bishop would immediately oust him from the altar and parish. Were a priest, desiring notoriety, to go outside the teachings of the church he would be punished. We are not embarrassed or weakend, consequently, by higher critics or their preachments. The Catholic Church, however, does not fear reasonable or scientific criticism, because such criticism only confirms the truth."

"Do you believe the world is growing better or do you think it is growing worse?"

"That is a complicated subject. If you mean materially, my answer is yes. We are living better than at any time in history. The poor are better fed, clothed, and housed. Relatively, matching this age with those which are past, there is great prosperity everywhere. Railroads and telegraph and telephone wires make communication cheap and easy.

PAGANS ARE OFTEN MERCIFUL.

"But if your inquiry relates to spirituality, then I would hesitate to give you an answer. We say the world is kinder than it used to be. Furthermore it is more just and peaceful. I thank God it is so. But we must not confuse external man with internal man. I have known pagans who were benevolent, obliging, and merciful. Still that is not enough. Our Savior said: 'Thou shalt love the Lord thy God with all thy heart, with all thy soul, and with all thy mind.'

"What are some of the faults of the twentieth century?"

"The love of luxury is one of them. Bad books and bad newspapers is another. The press is a great uplifting force and promotes honesty, justice and liberty, but many newspapers seem to make a specialty of articles about crime. Such articles are debasing to every one, and by what is called the process of suggestion, often lead the ignorant and the weak into wrong thinking, and acting. A good man by his example sweetens life around him. A bad man does harm to others by the manner of his conduct and conversation. It is exactly the same with newspapers and books. I believe in the freedom of the press, but I also believe in the moral accountability of writers and publishers."

"Do Catholic priests have the same difficulty in getting men to attend church that is experienced by Protestant ministers?"

"You are asking me some strange questions," Archbishop Bonzano answered with a smile and a shrug of the shoulders. "It is the duty of all Catholics to be present at church—they are so taught during childhood by their mothers and their priests. We believe in shaping the minds of the young. 'Train up a child in the way he should go,' Solomon wrote, 'and when he is old he will not depart from it.' Our men, for most part, attend church if they are not working. You will see them any Sunday in any city or village, going and coming. At one church in New York as many as 5000 men, all night-workers, go to mass at 2 o'clock Sunday morning."

"Why do you oppose Socialism?"

"Because it is irreligious. Socialists say they are attempting to establish a paradise on earth. They are not interested in the life that is to come. Scoffing at things of the spirit, they dwell wholly in the present. They are anti-Christian, and in Europe practice the hideous doctrine of free love, thus striking at the home and at the very foundation of civilization. Socialism is coarsely materialistic. It destroys human character.

ATTACKS POOR MAN'S HOME.

"Catholicism protects the home and upbuilds the character. Moreover, Socialism attacks property, not alone the mills and factories of the rich, but the cottages of the poor, which were raised up by thrift, industry, and self-sacrifice. Oh, there are many reasons why the church is antagonistic to Socialism, but I have mentioned those which are fundamental and stand out above the rest."

Using the Old Pianos.

[Dundee Advertiser:] What becomes of all the old pianos? Thousands of new pianos are sold every year, the greater number to those who already have musical instruments. The salesman allows a liberal price for the old piano in trade, accepts a little cash, and takes the balance on monthly payments. Now, while he has sold one piano he has just as many on his hands as before, for he has accepted an old one. What becomes of it? He does not care to sell it to some one who has never had a piano if he can avoid it, for if the process of trading continued he would soon be following himself around in a circle, and there are no dividends in that. He must find a market for the old musical instrument. To do this, he repairs and revarnishes the old piano, boxes it, and with hundreds of others, it is shipped to South America, Africa, Asia, and other benighted portions of the world, where it is sold to the natives, who yearn for music, and whose ambition is to drum out tunes on an instrument of their own. These pianos are sold for a small amount down, and the balance in monthly, sometimes weekly, payments extended over a long period of time. In this way the dealer gets back not only the price he allows for the old piano in the first place, but the cost of repairing, boxing, and shipping, with interest added to each of the charges.

The Mammoth Cave a Park?

[Chicago Record Herald:] Kentuckians are asking the national government to buy the Mammoth Cave and make it a national park. A bill to appropriate $1,000,000 for this purpose is before the House Committee on Military Affairs, and in behalf of it several arguments have been made. Dr. McCormick, the health commissioner of the State, with the eloquence of a true son of the Blue Grass State, told the committee that the pure air of the cave could be made a boon to sufferers from many diseases and that President Garfield's life might have been saved if he had been taken to the cave.

It may be a good idea that the government should acquire the cave property, since natural wonders are of value to the whole nation, but what has become of the State rights doctrine in Kentucky? As a semi-southern State it might be expected to have within its borders at least some objectors to national control of one of its great attractions. Can it be that there are none, since their voices are not heard? Or is it possible the Kentuckians figure that the State would get the glory while the nation foots the bill under the proposed arrangement?

[Special Correspondence of The Times.]

GOLDFIELD (Nev.) July 12.—The Goldfield Merger Mining Company is now the center of interest in this district. C. O. Whittemore, president of the company, arrived from Los Angeles yesterday and is making an inspection of the property. The big shaft has reached a depth of 1200 feet, and the best of results are being obtained. Inquiries are pouring in from all points of the country concerning this property. There is something in the air that tells of big things doing shortly. With a gain of over 15 cents a share in the price of the stock within the past forty-eight hours, none of it is coming to the front. Since the new machinery was installed it has worked beautifully, and the progress being made daily in sinking the deep shaft is very gratifying to the management.

Next in importance, and even greater from the standpoint of an actual strike, is the big body of ore uncovered in the property of the Hornsilver Mining Company, about thirty miles southwest of Goldfield. This property is owned by Howard Russell of Goldfield, and development work has been in progress for some time. The ore body was penetrated two days ago and already it has been opened up for a width of eight feet. The ore is a sulphide and resembles the rich metal taken from the Goldfield Florence in the early days. Assays are now being made of the samples brought to this camp, and it is expected they will run very high. This strike will give an impetus to development on several other properties in the Hornsilver district.

PRAISES HORNSILVER.

J. K. Turner, a well-known mining engineer of Goldfield, has just returned from the Hornsilver district and expresses the conviction that it will become one of the great gold and silver producing centers of Southern Nevada. Among the companies operating there are the Zara Gold Mining Company, the Hornsilver Mining Company and the Great Western Mining Company, the latter controlled by S. H. Brady of Tonopah. Several important deals involving thousands of dollars are pending in that district.

Another recent strike was made by Fred Amigo, who is operating the Monte Cristo claim in the Tonopah Gold Mountain district for George Wingfield. A good body of shipping ore has been uncovered at a depth of only fifteen feet.

The biggest strike made in the Tonopah mining district since the famous Belmont strike was made last week in the property of the Tonopah Merger Company, in which Gov. Tasker L. Oddie is largely interested. The strike was made in the Golden Anchor shaft and proves to be greater than at first supposed. It was not until the shaft had been sunk in the vein for thirty feet that the footwall was reached, demonstrating a thickness of fourteen feet of solid ore that will average in value from $25 to $30 a ton. This is the estimate made by General Manager John G. Kirchen. Above this solid ore are sixteen feet of stringers of ore that, when sorted out, will run $14 a ton. The strike has attracted the attention of mining men throughout the country.

The fire in the town of Tonopah last Sunday, while it devastated the business portion of the town, will have no effect upon the operation of any of the mining properties of the district. The fire loss is estimated at $250,000.

TONOPAH SHIPMENTS.

The shipments from the Tonopah mines the past week were as follows: Tonopah Mining Company, 3500 tons; Belmont, 1950 tons; Montana-Tonopah, 1020 tons; Tonopah Extension, 1078 tons; West End, 750 tons; MacNamara, 469 tons; total, 8777 tons of an estimated value of $219,425.

The report of the Nevada Hills Mining Company for the month of May is very gratifying, considering the newness of the plant and the unusual charges made necessary against production for construction, depreciation of plant, interest and other items. The mill handled 3240 tons, worth $112,592.75, or $34.87 a ton. The loss in tailings was $12,357.16, leaving a net recovery of $100,635.59. The net costs were $35,821.07, leaving a net profit for the month of $64,814.

The estimate of production for June of the Consolidated Mines Company, made by Supt. J. F. Thorn, is $542,-000; expenses, $200,000; net recovery, $342,000. The June tonnage was 2000 tons in excess of any month in the past, the mill handling 32,360 tons.

The rich ore body recently discovered on the 350-foot level of the Goldfield Florence is being further developed, and is opening up a large body of milling ore, together with a good quantity of material of shipping grade. The main shaft is now down about 1130 feet, and within the past few days has penetrated a seam of quartz of excellent character.

Notwithstanding the strike that was inaugurated at the Blair property of the Pittsburgh Silver Peak Company two or three weeks ago, General Manager W. A. Bradley says the 120-stamp mill is running at full capacity and the loss of the union men is not felt. The effort to cause trouble for the company was nipped in the bud by the management.

GOOD WATER SIGNS.

A favorable indication of the nearness of the orebody to the present workings of the Silver Peak Consolidated in the Goldfield district, is the fact that a strong flow of water has been encountered on the 262-foot level, in driving toward the Mohawk. The showing in the Silver Peak workings is satisfactory and the management is greatly encouraged. While the property has so far, not produced any shipping ore, there is a vast quantity of low-grade ore at depths varying from 150 to 350 feet.

Sinking on the property of the Lone Star Consolidated is making rapid progress and the shaft has reached a depth of 250 feet. It is in dacite, the formation in which are found the richest and largest ore bodies of the district. Manager Healy regards the Lone Star as a property of excellent promise, and may decide to begin drifting for the erection of a milling plant at Klondyke have been changed, and instead of a twenty-five-ton mill

The report of the Nevada Hills Mining Company for the month of May is very gratifying, considering the expenses of the plant and the unusual charges made necessary against production for construction, depreciation of plant, interest and other items. The mill handled 3240 tons, worth $221,192.75, or $34.87 a ton. The loss in mining was $12,357.16, leaving a net recovery of $100,635.59. The net profits were $35,821.07, leaving a net profit for the month of $64,814.

Manager Healy regards the Lone Star as a property of excellent promise, and may decide to begin active work at a depth of 300 feet.

Plans for the erection of a milling plant in the Klondyke have been changed, and instead of a twenty-five-ton mill it has been decided to erect a fifty-ton plant. The Klondyke district has already produced over $100,000 net from ore shipped to distant points, and this product has varied in value from $20 a ton to $3000. Operations are now in progress at a half-dozen points in the district, and mining men of means, who can carry on development properly, are going in.

AT THE BLUE BULL.

Manager K. M. Simpson is establishing something of a record in the work of retimbering and enlarging the 400-foot shaft on the claim of the Blue Bull Mining Company. The work is being accomplished at the rate of ten feet a day. The new forty-horse-power electric hoist has been installed for two or three weeks.

The Blair Mining and Milling Company, operating in the Silver Peak district, is making progress in rehabilitating the old Blair ten-stamp mill. The company has 1000 tons of milling ore on the dumps and at least 5000 tons exposed in the stopes. The announcement that the new company will treat custom ores in its plant has had a splendid effect on the district.

Taken all in all, the Southern Nevada mining situation was never better than it is at present.

PALOS VERDES ACTIVE.

NEW CAPITAL ENTERS.

Unusual mining activity is reported to be taking place in the Palos Verdes range, Riverside county, California. The Stanchfield Gold Mining and Milling Company has closed a deal whereby a new group of mines covering 120 acres will be developed.

The properties lie thirty-five miles south of the Gray mine, the sale of which for $150,000 to eastern capitalists is being followed by the installation of a 40-stamp mill.

"Four shafts are being sunk," says J. A. Campnari, who has just returned from the camp. "The maximum depth is 135 feet. Strong ledges from two to six feet in width are being followed. Stringers are in abundance and some rich veins have been struck, giving assays of over $1000 a ton.

"The ore is free milling and promises to be high grade. Satisfactory mill tests have been made, giving nearly clean tailings and negotiations are in progress for the early installation of a stamp mill and cyanide plant on the property. Transportation facilities are adequate, the rich Palos Verdes Valley being five miles east."

J. A. Stanchfield, president of the company, has just returned from the district, and reports a bright outlook. The entire district, comprising the old Paymaster mine, the rich Picacho belt, the Red Cloud district, the old iron mine Chief, and the Virginia Dale section, is prosperous. No booms are anticipated, but steady development and production.

The discovery of the new group was due to the superstition of a Mexican mail carrier. Years ago, while covering the route between Yuma and Cherenberg, on the Colorado River, the man fancied he saw strange lights among the peaks to the west. Following his insistent claims to there being treasure in that locality, several prospectors set out for the district and found rich floats. A rush followed and the present development ensued.

Sahara's Perplexing Lake.

[The Pathfinder:] Lake Tchad, in the Sahara, has long been one of the puzzles of the geographers. It is a body of water as big as all Belgium, but it is as shallow as a fish pond. It has no visible outlet, but it must have an underground one, as its waters continue to be fresh. The natives have a tradition that it once emptied into the Nile, and the explorations of French scientists recently have confirmed this tradition somewhat.

A Marvelous Money Making Invention

"PERFECT HEATING WITH GAS"

By the Famous

RECTOR SYSTEM

The Most Wonderful Advancement in the Heating Art in the Last 50 Years. HAVE YOU SEEN IT?

You know very well a business dealing with a public necessity in universal demand which gives the best service at the lowest cost always has been and always will be a big commercial success and will make its owners rich.

The RECTOR SYSTEM can heat every home, apartment house, hotel, office building, in fact, every structure of every kind under roof in Southern California at less cost than they now pay and it will give them a service so superior to any other method of heating that no one will do without the RECTOR SYSTEM once they know its merits.

We know these claims are very strong and we only make them after the enthusiastic indorsement of the RECTOR SYSTEM by over 500 Los Angeles people who have personally seen it in operation during the past four weeks while it has been on display at our store, 314½ W. Second St. Not only is every one who has seen this system enthusiastic about it, but architects, builders and home owners have placed orders for installations which show earnings of over 7 per cent on our entire capital.

This is the actual business done our first month. Have we not a right to bank on a business of at least equal volume, if not larger, each succeeding month? This means earnings of 84 per cent a year.

The deluge of orders with which we have been swamped is the very reason why you have an opportunity to make an investment with us. Nowhere can you make an investment under such favorable conditions. There is no promotion stock; the stock you buy is treasury stock; you can purchase it at par, $10, the lowest price at which it has ever sold. The money you pay goes right into the treasury to buy material to fill orders already on hand which, as soon as filled, mean big dividends to the company. You know just what is done with your money and just how your money invested in stock of our company will earn large dividends.

Can you not see why an investment made now at the beginning, whether of a few hundred or a few thousand dollars, will return a comfortable income yearly and will increase many times in value?

We make no claims we cannot prove. The RECTOR SYSTEM can be seen in operation at our store, 314½ W. Second St., every day, and you can investigate for yourself and satisfy yourself that it is even more than we claim for it. We want you to come in. If you cannot call, in any event mail the coupon. Do not allow a 2c-stamp to stand between you and your opportunity for financial independence.

MATERIALS MAKE GAIN IN STATE.

Official Report Gives An Encouraging Increase.

Runs Two Million Dollars Above Former Year.

Some Decreases in Output Likewise Are Shown.

W. H. Storms, State Mineralogist, has issued a report on the mineral industry of California, showing that structural material produced in 1911 was valued at $17,194,057, a big gain. There was a decrease in the brick output. Cement and crushed rock showed a big increase. Limestone decreased and paving blocks were about the same as during the previous year. Production of pottery clays fell off materially.

The report follows:

"The statistics of production of structural materials in California for the year 1911 have been completed by the State Mining Bureau and show an increase of nearly $2,000,000 over the production in 1910. As usual there has been a falling off in some directions, while others show a most gratifying increase.

"Following is given the production of minerals in California for 1911 listed under the general head of 'Structural Materials':

Cement, bbls.	6,371,369	$ 9,085,625
Crushed rock, tons	6,487,223	3,610,357

"The cement and crushed-stone industries show material increase because of the large number of concrete structures being built and activity in road work, breakwater construction, etc.

DUE TO SUBSTITUTE.

"Decrease in brick output may possibly be due to some extent to the substitution of cement construction for brick. It is impossible to classify the figures for the several kinds of brick manufactured, but, taking the State totals for the past two years, the average price per thousand was 7 per cent. lower in 1911 than in 1910. Several producers remarked that their decreased production was due to falling off in price. Two or three small plants were closed entirely in 1911, and almost without exception the larger ones reported a smaller output. Overproduction in 1910 is partly accountable for the above.

"Lime also was about 7 per cent. per barrel lower in price in 1911 than in the previous year, and the output fell off in a manner exactly corresponding to the decrease in brick production. Several kilns were idle that had been previously producing.

"Production of limestone also shows a decided decrease, due in part to the curtailing of the copper industry, and the consequent lessened demand for limestone as flux.

"Production of marble was almost exactly the same as for the previous year. Sandstone increased somewhat and the granite output fell off to about the same extent.

"Paving blocks were produced to about the same number as in 1910 and brought a slightly higher price.

"Production of pottery clays fell off materially, although the opening of 1912 has seen considerable activity in the establishing of new industries along these lines, and the present year will probably show a large increase over the annual output of recent years.

"Figures on production of petroleum and the metals are in preparation and will be published as soon as completed."

NEVADA CITY MINES.

THREE STRIKES ARE MADE.

[Special Correspondence of The Times.]

NEVADA CITY (Cal.) July 10.—There is more activity in mining circles here than usual. Several rich strikes have been made here the last two weeks. Two in gravel mining and one in quartz.

The Gravel strike was made upon Grizzly Ridge by L. W. Klinker and Dr. C. B. Walsworth, both of Los Angeles, who are operating upon the south side of the Grizzly Ridge, eighteen miles north of Nevada City, which is a volcanic capping, covering up a bed, which is the same channel extending south from Bald Mountain, where $3,000,000 was taken out a few years ago. For some time it was doubted whether this channel passed through Grizzly Ridge or not, and much search has been made for the channel to the east. These men believed that it crossed this ridge, and drove a tunnel in under the lava capping for it, and at the end of the 400-foot tunnel have located the channel, which is well defined, and has a large body of rich gravel, which is now being taken out and sluiced, and is making about $5.50 per ton, and as strange as it might seem, H. S. Mourning and associates, also of Los Angeles, working about one and one-half miles to the north, upon the north side of this same ridge, cut into the same channel the same week and found about the same values in their workings at the end of a 600-foot tunnel. This has started a new activity in this part of the country and many claims are now being staked in the surrounding country. These gravel beds have been making from $2,000,000 to $5,000,000 per mile, and in the Klinker workings, above mentioned, there is about one mile of the channel.

SHIPS TO MILL.

The quartz find was between North Columbia, Cal., and the Delhi mine and just to the west of Grizzly Ridge, and was a producer of some very fine picture ore. Seventy-five tons were taken to a mill and made $20,000. Then it gave out, indicating that it was a fault, or a slide, as it was considered too large for a float, but search is now being made to find the place from which it came.

In and around Nevada City is also some activity among the mines. Several mining engineers are in the city examining various mining properties for eastern capitalists, and report has it this morning that the Texas mine and the Murchie mine, which adjoins it, have both been taken over by them for eastern men. The consideration and the terms have not been given out yet, but as these are choice properties the prices, no doubt, run well into the six figures. They have produced more than a million dollars each.

The most important deal of the past week was made by the Morgans of the Nevada City Bank, who sold the Oustomah mine, just north of Nevada City. It has 169 acres of land with a quartz vein crossing it 4000 feet in length, and about three feet wide, and has a shaft down to the 1000-foot level on the incline, and between $800,000 and $1,000,000 has been mined and milled upon this property, and the drifts have not been followed to any length on either side. As this property joins the Mountaineer and the Champion mines, so noted for their $20,000,000 production, this property is considered to be of very great value and the making of a big mine. It is equipped with a new ten-stamp mill and all other needed machinery for active mining. The property was sold to Elwood Clinker and associates of Reno, Nev., experienced mining men, who propose to operate it upon a large scale. The consideration was something like $100,000.

STAR-SPLANGLED ENGLISH.

Londoners Are Surprised at the Number of Americanisms Introduced Into Their Language.

[London Globe:] Time was—and not so very long ago, either—when the only distinctively American expression known in this country was "I guess." To say "I guess" and endeavor—not always with success—to speak it through your nose, was the recognized way of impersonating an American. It was always sure of an appreciative and understanding laugh—the laugh that indicates, "Yes, yes; I'm just as intelligent as you, and know exactly what you intend." Nowadays, we don't know why, our common speech is well flavored with trans-Atlantic idioms. Not always slang, we mean. American slang has its uses, though the only one we can think of at the moment is that it saves trouble. When one has classified one's friends and acquaintances as "the limit" and "the goods," one has been spared much labor of characterization. Otherwise the argot of the Bowery is more curious than beautiful. But we go further. "We fix things up." Instead of finishing a task we are "through with it." We do not begin, but "start in." This habit is spreading like a canker through all classes of the community—even to those conservative gentlemen, the dramatists, who name their new productions "The Glad Eye" or "Looking for Trouble." No doubt we shall be told by apologists for the habit that all the expressions we have noted are to be found in Shakespeare or Milton. That may be, but we doubt if Miss Corelli's predecessor at Stratford-on-Avon ever caused one of his heroines to be called a "lallapalooza."

OWENSMOUTH

The COMING METROPOLIS of the SAN FERNANDO VALLEY

Each Day the Clang of Steel Hammers Comes Nearer and Nearer

The electric road is fast approaching Owensmouth. Men, teams and giant construction cars are busy—hauling, grading, laying ties and rails and stringing the big electric cable.

Owensmouth waits, as a runner straining for the sound of the starting gun. Men are quietly laying the foundations of fortunes. Business men, investors and homeseekers keenly realize the wonderful opportunity this new town affords.

Now Is the Time to Buy

Residential and Business Lots $300 and $500

On Easy Terms

Get in ahead of the railway. Remember the history of other new towns. Prices are bound to increase and increase rapidly. Already a handsome bank building, block of 14 stores and many other structures are nearing completion. Trees, shrubbery and palms are being planted along streets and on the $500,000 boulevard. Everywhere is activity—and big improvements mean quick profits.

Do not delay—come and see for yourself.

Auto leaves office daily at 9 a.m. and 2 p.m. for Owensmouth, or take Van Nuys-Lankershim car at P. E. Hill St. Depot to Eighth Street and Sherman Way. The big Owensmouth auto stage meets every car.

ounces silver and 10 per cent. lead. A whim is to be installed.

Much ore is being piled on the dump, ready for shipping. A big spring has been found about 300 feet south of the main shaft, which furnishes all the water that is necessary.

Operations are to be resumed at the Cerro Gordo, forty miles south of Naozari. O. L. Neer is the manager.

ISSUES FINE REPORT.

The annual report just issued by the Greene-Cananea Company is far the best that corporation has ever put out. During 1911 the mines controlled by the company produced 44,897,465 pounds of refined copper, 1,295,297 ounces of silver and 5892 ounces of gold. The combined net income, after deducting expenditures for construction and betterments, amounted to $1,318,472.62. The average price received for copper was 12.886 cents a pound.

The total cost a pound for refined copper, after deducting the values of precious metals, was from the mines of the Cananea Consolidated Company, 9.842 cents; from the mines of the San Pedro company, 8.907 cents. The cost of mining and beneficiating a ton of ore was $5.257. The actual yield for each ton treated was 50.01 pounds, against 46.58 pounds and 44.12 pounds for the two preceding years.

Johnnie Says Grace.

[Topeka Capital:] Rev. J. R. McNab, who preaches on Sundays and edits The Scranton Gazette during the rest of the week, tells this one, the suspicion being that it was one of his own boys who was the subject of the story:

A minister's son had been naughty all morning, and as a punishment at noon he was compelled to eat at a small table in the end of the dining-room while the company were to eat at the long table.

After we were all seated and Johnnie at his little table, the minister informed him that he must return thanks at his table. This was a new task for Johnnie, but wishing to be obedient, he studied for a time and said: "Our Father which art in heaven, Thou preparest a table before me in the presence of mine enemies. Bless the food. Amen."

GLIMPSES OF SAN FRANCISCO.

[Special Correspondence of The Times.]

SAN FRANCISCO, July 13.—Mayor Rolph is down at Carmel taking a rest with the literary folk. The intellectuals rest there physically all the time, but their mental product is something enormous. The chief executive wishes a quiet time after killing a buck and being arrested for fast motoring by a thrifty country constable. Next month he will accompany the "Flying Legion" to tell the Northwest people that they must visit us in 1915.

It is painful to say it, but it really must be known that the dentists of the nation will convene here during the exposition. Three thousand will attend and their suffering patients need not come. Fair matters are rapidly assuming shape and the grand show will be ready for the teeth professionals on time.

The Supervisors are still struggling with the fact the bid for the city's bonds was the lowest received in years. Any citizen has the right to assign any cause he likes for this. Halsey & Co.'s bid of $5,542,312 for the issue of $5,300,000 will probably not be accepted. We need the money for the civic center, but we want more of it.

"The galled jade winced," the "last straw broke the camel's back," and "the worn turned" all apply to Martin Kelly, former city boss. He has daily read Abe Ruef roasting him and kept silent as long as he could. Now he breaks into print with the statement that the little martyr in San Quentin was corrupted before he ever broke into politics. It is a free country and anyone has the right to believe Kelly or Ruef.

Before long we can talk telephonically to Oakland for ten cents, but who wants to talk to Oakland at any price. It is akin to the wag who said that a camel could go for a day without a drink, but who wants to be a camel. However, if Oakland talks to us we'll listen.

The wedding of Miss Jennie Crocker next week will cost $56,000 and still the lady will not suffer from want. Invitations to the event are highly prized and as scarce as they are high. Our social set will be in financial evidence and it will not be a love set even if Malcolm Whitman, the groom, is a tennis champion.

We are still making a gallant struggle against the shorter and uglier word "Frisco." We approve of Uncle Sam's decision not to recognize seals on bonded shipments marked "Frisco." In the progressive age when everything is rush and bustle the time may come when we may have to drop San Francisco for a shorter term, but we veto the change now and at the worst we will never officially adopt "Frisco."

The Bastile fell some time ago, but the local French colony celebrates the event yearly. This year the fete will be grander than ever and it will be unique in this respect that it will be harmonious with never a suspicion of warring actions. There will be plenty of fun and all nationalities are welcome to share in it.

Vicomte Jean de Brecy, vice-president of the Souvenir Normand, an historical society of Paris, is here on a tour around the world. He says that the Normans discovered America 500 years before Columbus. We will not dispute with him because he is our guest and he may be right but we respectfully refer him to the American Indians who beat the Normans a few centuries.

Walter Abrams and Harry Smith, were arraigned in the police court on the charge of robbing E. L. Kennedy of $1400 in the Waldorf gambling club on Powell street. It is alleged that they deprived the man of jewelry valued at that amount. If they had taken it from him in a social game of poker they might not have figured as defendants in an inconvenient criminal case.

Statistics are useful. For the first time kept by the State Health Board they show that last year births in California exceeded deaths by 816. And this despite the discovery of the hookworm in our vegetable gardens.

PLUTO.

THE NERVOUS GIRL.

Little Doings That Indicate Conditions Though Otherwise Good Control Is Maintained.

[Woman's Home Companion:] "The American girl, generally speaking, is a nervous girl; the nervousness, in one form or another, seems to crop up in all classes.

"I happened to be in the train the other day with fifteen young girls who, with two chaperons, were going to New York City for a matinee. They were from one of the well-known fashionable schools on the outskirts of the city; the average fashionable boarding-school type—daughters, doubtless, of the wealthy.

"Some of them wore helmet-shaped affairs that would have frightened Launcelot himself; others appeared from certain views to be neckless, the brims of their hats literally resting on their shoulders; some seemed to have borrowed for headgear the hats or stewing kettles of Og, Gog and Magog; one had a quite flower-like beauty, seen full face, but only a huge hat crown and a little bit of chin in profile; and so on and on. Around their shoulders were draped whole foxskins, or other animal skins, with dangling claws and open or snarling mouths.

"But noticeable as was the fashion of their dress, there was something even more uniformly noticeable about them; their nervousness. It was manifested in many different ways; their voices, first of all. These were high or loud, or hurried or uncontroled, not a really fine or beautiful modulation in one of them. Their language, too, was clipped and cut and illy pronounced; and their conversation full of 'very,' 'awful,' 'perfectly stunning,' 'perfectly adorable,' 'heavenly,' etc. All this with a smattering now and then of the most execrable French, slovenly pronounced, too; and little snatches of affected laughter.

"One girl twisted her gold chain; another tapped her foot; another had a little jerky way of sitting up straight and giggling, and prefixing almost every speech with, 'Oh, girls, lemme tell you!' another bit her lips at little intervals; another had a nervous trick of frowning and then raising her eyebrows; another, as she talked, played with some bangles she wore; another would give her huge muff a little shake and then smooth it with a long stroking motion; another looked out of the window with what seemed a certain quietness, but when anyone spoke to her, she gave a little start."

THE EYESIGHT AND EFFICIENCY.

Superintendents Would Do Well to Have the Eyes of Aging Employees Carefully Examined.

[Iron Age:] A large percentage of the workmen whose efficiency decreases with middle age owe their declining earning powers to their eyes. Most persons experience a change in vision after they pass their fortieth birthday, the common trouble being an increasing tendency toward far-sightedness. In not a few manufacturing plants there is an organized inspection of eyes. In the best-developed systems the eyes of all employees are examined by a skilled specialist. The more common practice, and an effective one, is to insist upon an examination when a superintendent or foreman finds reason to suspect that something is wrong with the eyes. It is not uncommon to see a workman holding a blueprint or a piece of work far from him in order to see it better. Such a condition naturally slows up the man. Clear vision is a large asset, especially where work requiring precision is involved.

Why He Didn't Strike.

[New York Tribune:] There was a large crowd at a beer garden restaurant in upper Broadway at the dinner hour on Sunday evening. Waiters were busy serving all kinds of dishes and drinks popular in such places, with hot sausages and beer far in the lead, when a shrill whistle was heard, and waiters in the act of taking orders and others delivering steaming and foaming specialties responded to the strike signal. One of the three waiters who remained, when all the rest had gone, was asked by a woman whom he had served: "Why didn't you quit with the others?" He leaned over and whispered confidentially: "Dot's like dis. It's better for me I have the union mad at me as de old woman."

You are a voter of Los Angeles, you have voted to annex San Pedro, to make it the harbor of your city. Your national Congress, yours, mind you, has dumped millions of dollars worth of rock into the ocean and has done other millions of dollars' worth of dredging to make your harbor a world port. Your Congress has voted the money for the Panama Canal, and your nation is carrying that canal to completion. Your city, our city—Los Angeles—is putting still other millions into the improvements of her harbor. Your county is building good roads throughout the harbor district.

Now, right near your harbor, overlooking it, with a five-cent car fare to it, well above it, on the trolley line from Los Angeles to San Pedro via Gardena, lies

Harbor City

The townsite itself has created a great deal of interest because of its wonderfully strategic position. Investors, speculators, homeseekers, people who wanted industrial sites, have all of them bought property there, and in consequence it is pretty well taken up.

But directly to the south of the present Harbor City townsite and adjoining it, we have added fifty acres of half and three-quarter-acre residential plots, which should admit of profitable subdivision later.

And a home site established on one of these plots can easily be made to pay for itself. The soil is a deep, rich, sandy loam of the same character as that in our Lomita development, where home sites are proving splendid income-earners. There is plenty of water. And the property is within a short distance of San Pedro, where there is always a big demand for fresh fruit, vegetables and poultry.

These lots may be purchased now for

$700 and Up—On Easy Terms

And they form what is undoubtedly one of the best real estate buys in the vicinity of the harbor at the present time.

Real estate in this locality is increasing in value every day. With the opening of the canal—your canal, remember—property here should experience one of the greatest growths in the whole history of real estate growths.

Are you going to profit by the increases in property values which your own vote has made possible?

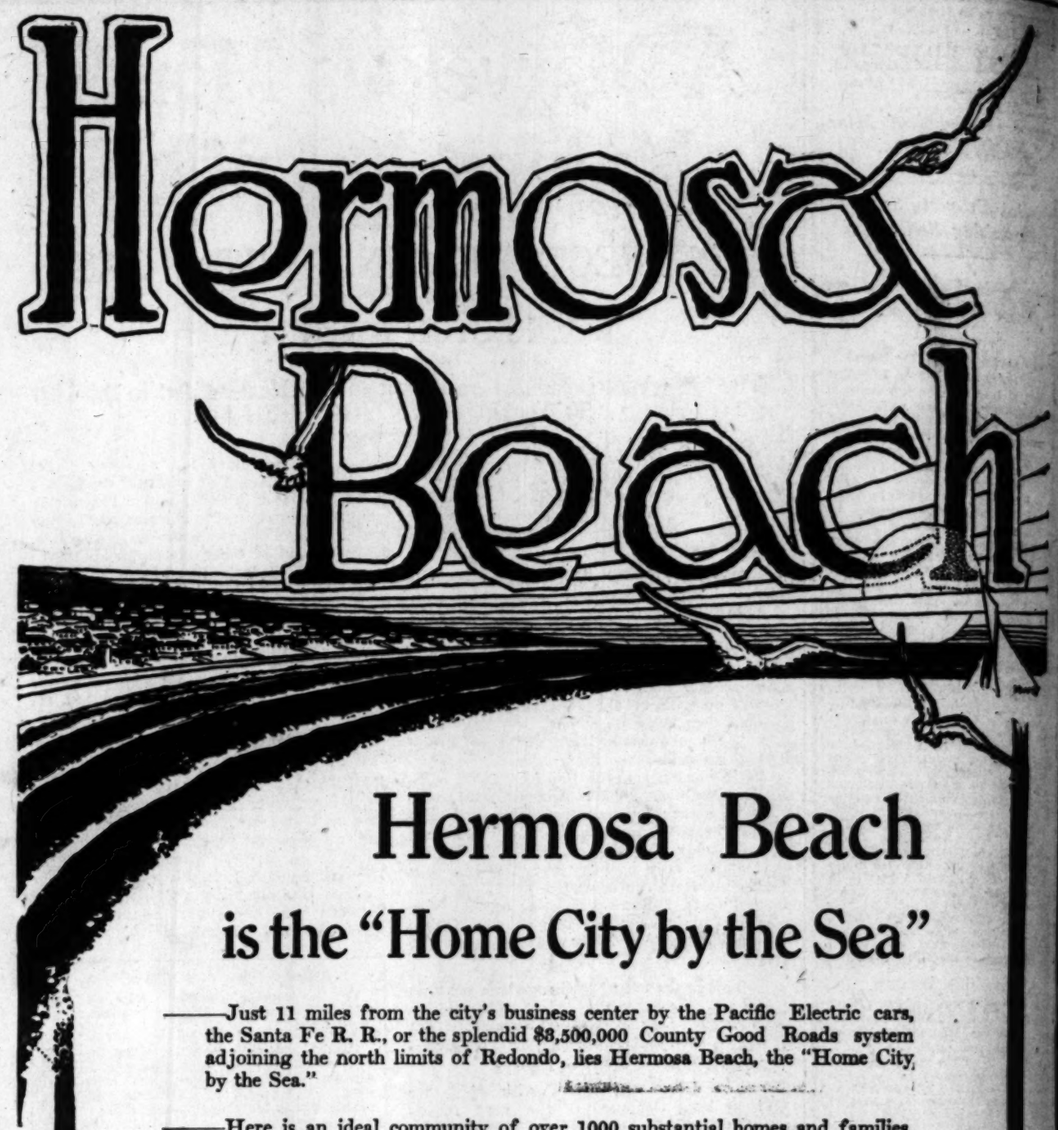
Hermosa Beach



Hermosa Beach is the "Home City by the Sea"

——Just 11 miles from the city's business center by the Pacific Electric cars, the Santa Fe R. R., or the splendid $3,500,000 County Good Roads system adjoining the north limits of Redondo, lies Hermosa Beach, the "Home City by the Sea."

——Here is an ideal community of over 1000 substantial homes and families, 17 miles of perfectly asphalted streets, schools, high school, churches, stores, hotel, etc.

——Over $540,000 has here been spent in the most modern improvements, an average of $500 on each lot. This includes a perfect septic sewer system which has been in operation for eight years and prevents any of the city's deleterious matter from flowing into the Ocean.

——Clean bathing is guaranteed at Hermosa Beach. There need be no fear of filth or its accompanying dread diseases.

——Hermosa Beach is perfectly safe. There has never been an accident from drowning. The strand shows the widest and whitest expanse of beach sand in Southern California. At low tide you can walk out 400 to 500 feet. This means safe and sanitary bathing for young and old.

——With all of these advantages and improvements now completed Hermosa Beach rightfully looks forward to just such an era of prosperity and value-rises as Ocean Park and Venice have experienced in the past. At neither of these latter resorts can you find any Ocean-front lots at less than $500 to $1000 per front foot, and lots between the Trolley-way and the Sea range at from $3200 to $3500. You buy at prices 70 per cent. less than these in Hermosa Beach.

——Small cash payments with the most liberal terms may be arranged for, and direct profits of 50 per cent. and over are assured during the next year for the wise investor at Hermosa Beach who acts without delay.

Early Interest Shown in U.S.C.'s Auto Course

Local Automobile Experts Added to College Faculty.

Above, Prof. Stanley Smith, C.E., explaining Stearns-Knight construction to Prof. A. C. Life, A.M., professor of science, who is standing below; Warren B. Bovard, business manager of the university, at the left, and H. C. Elliott, A.B., above. The lower picture shows Bert Dingley in a National, instructing H. C. Elliott, A.B., in the art of driving. Dingley will assist Profs. Smith and Boothe in the automobile course at the University of California this coming year.

College.

WOULD WIN NEW LAURELS.

Oxy's New Home to Have Fine Equipment.

Experts Praise Plans for New Campus.

Big Stadium Will Be the Main Feature.

That it is the intention of the Board of Trustees and the president of Occidental College to place that institution in the very fore-front of the western athletic world is made evident by the magnificent scale on which the athletic field and gymnasium at the new campus in Eagle Rock Valley are being planned.

While the permanent buildings are not expected to be completed for several years yet, temporary buildings are already going up in addition to the three large ones, one a dormitory and two lecture halls, which are permanent and well on their way.

The ground on which the college is located was chosen for that purpose by Myron Hunt, who is the architect in charge of the whole plant. A map of the district was placed before him and after looking over the situation, he drew a line around the portion which has been chosen.

It has been stated by experts who have looked over the plans that the college will have the most perfect set of buildings possible from every point of view. The location and the surroundings will be picturesque and artistic in the extreme as well as being wonderfully well adapted to the location of a college campus.

One of the features which is attracting a great deal of attention is the magnificent stadium and gymnasium, which are planned for the college. The stadium will be an exact reproduction in all essential details of Franklin field in Philadelphia, the wonderful athletic field of the University of Pennsylvania, which, though slightly smaller than the Harvard stadium, is considered the acme of perfection as a scene for athletic contests.

The track around the field will be of cinders and the regulation quarter-mile in length. In addition to this there will be a two-twenty straight-away course on one side of the field, the jumping pits to be inside the enclosure made by the track.

The field itself will be large enough for football, either of the American sort or the English game. There will be a large baseball diamond and all the conveniences for every kind of outdoor exercise. The field itself will perhaps be only a fine example of an athletic field, but the most noteworthy object will be the stadium, which will be on three sides of the field, the big gymnasium covering the fourth. This stadium will be of reinforced concrete and will, when finished, hold no less than 22,000 people, being the second largest in the country.

This whole plant will cover a space 750 feet in length and 440 feet in width, being made entirely of concrete with red tile roofs, exactly on the same general plan as the other buildings of the college. Of this space the gymnasium building will take up a plot at the south end.

The whole field has been laid out with a view to getting the very best results. The field runs north and south so that the prevailing winds will be at right angles to the straight-away courses. This is a new wrinkle in the way of attention to details.

The big stadium will cost, when completed, in the neighborhood of $300,000, and will be absolutely unsurpassed. The gymnasium will cost more than the field and will be one of the best-equipped in the country. It will have an exceptionally long indoor running track, a large basketball court, all of the latest gymnastic appliances, and a large swimming pool.

At the present time more than $3000 has been spent in grading and leveling the athletic field, though the AUTO COURSE LATEST IN U.S.C. CURRICULUM.

First Institution of Kind in World to Introduce Motor Car Instruction—Stanley Smith of Stearns-Knight and Earl Y. Boothe of National to Join Faculty in Fall.

BY AL G. WADDELL.

THE automobile has invaded the realms of higher education.

This does not mean that automobile racing has taken the form of an intercollegiate sport, nor does it mean that the college man and the co-ed have been persuaded to neglect their educational duties by the motor car; but it does mean that the University of Southern California has been the first institution of its kind in the world to recognize the importance of the automobile and has shown its recognition in a most convincing manner.

When the local university enters upon the thirty-third year of its existence next September, a department of automobiling will have been established, affiliated with the department of science.

Stanley Smith, C. E., Cornell University, local agent for the Stearns-Knight and Ohio Electric, and Earl Y. Boothe, A. B., University of California, president and general manager of the National Motor Car Company, have been secured by the president of the university as professors of automobile science and operation.

While this department of automobiling will be under the supervision of Prof. Nye, dean of the college of engineering, Prof. Smith and Prof. Boothe will practically follow a unique course mapped out by themselves and especially adapted to the needs of the scientific student.

Both Prof. Smith and Prof Boothe are well known local automobile men and well qualified for the places for which they have been selected on the university faculty.

In addition to a technical education, these men have had years of practical experience in their chosen profession and should not only make their lectures and demonstrations attractive and interesting, but of recognized value to the average college student.

OPEN TO "CO-EDS."

While this course comes under the head of scientific instruction and is purely an engineering course, the "co-eds" will not be barred from the classes; but rather encouraged to attend. Women are taking to the automobile more and more, and aside from the fact that credit in the motor car course will be of value when it comes time to raise the mortgage on the coveted diploma, the study of the machines will be of great interest.

The cars used in the course will be the National, Stearns-Knight and the Ohio Electric. The instruction is to cover the construction of the various models of the three lines, the operation of the parts and the science of driving. The electric will appeal especially to the co-eds," but they will also be given opportunity to master the art of driving the gasoline cars.

Prof. Smith said yesterday that Bert Dingley, the famous race driver, who is now manager of the National agency here, would be an instructor and would assist in the work. He is a mechanical expert as well as one of the greatest drivers this country has ever known, and he will be able to render valuable assistance in the proposed college course.

"Everywhere the importance of the motor car is recognized and the time is near at hand when the automobile will be a necessity instead of a lux-

BRITISH RACQUETERS DEFEAT FRENCHMEN.

[BY CABLE AND A. P. TO THE TIMES.]

LONDON, July 13.—In the continuation of the preliminary games for the Dwight F. Davis lawn tennis trophy at Folkestone today, C. P. Dixon, the British player, beat Andre H. Gobert of France in the singles, three sets to one. The score was 4-6, 6-4, 6-2 and 6-3. Dixon's victory gives Great Britain three out of five events and entitles the British players to meet the American team.

CANADIAN MARKSMAN BREAKS WORLD'S RECORD

[BY CABLE AND A. P. TO THE TIMES.]

LONDON, July 13.—Corporal Mortimer, a Canadian marksman, today scored a world's record at the 1200-yard range in the King's Norton match rifle shoot at Bisley, making seventy-three points out of a possible seventy-five with his fifteen shots. F. W. Hunter, Ulster, Ireland, tied Mortimer's score, but in the shoot-off the Canadian beat the Irishman by fourteen points to seven with his three shots.

Some Exciting.

THREE SWATS BEAT ANGELS.

Trio of Doubles Win Pretty Game for Vernon.

Twenty-eight Players Appear in the Contest.

Fielding of Burrell and Metzger Excites Fans.

BY GREY OLIVER.

Vernon, 6; Los Angeles, 3.

It is a good thing that there are no more ball players on the payrolls of Hap Hogan and Henry Berry, or they would have had a chance to show what they could not do in the baseball line yesterday.

Twenty-eight men in one game is about enough for any fan, and those not satisfied with this number might look up the telephone book and cut out several pages and run these in.

Dillon used sixteen and Hogan twelve men, and Hogan managed to win because his hired men hit the fence ball three times in the eighth. That's the only excuse, if one is needed.

Just why they had to drag about every man on either team into the game is what gets me, for only two of the "drag-ins" amounted to anything, and these were Dolly Gray and Stinson. This latter bird went in to bat for Agnew in the eighth and cracked out a two-bagger that sent two runs across, and Dolly Gray followed a moment later with another double that scored Stinson.

This was all, but it was enough. These three runs won the game.

EVERYBODY WORKS.

It was a tough game all the way, for both teams changed their pitchers and catchers once and had all kinds of substitute man batting for the regulars. Hap Hogan and Dillon yelled their heads off on the third-base coaching line trying to get runners across, and Hap got by because his men hit the ball at the right times.

Leverenz and Brackenridge were the commencers in the heaving line, but both had to be removed in the tail end of the game. Leverenz went out at the end of the sixth because he began to wobble a trifle and Brack quit at the end of the seventh when the locals made three runs and three hits off him.

Gray took Brack's place in the eighth and showed that he had the class by keeping the locals from making a hit, but Slagle, who went through the seventh and eighth, got "his" in bunches and lost a game that appeared one to have been won.

HARD ON NERVES.

It wIals a great battle for the fans to watch for there was plenty of hitting and fine fielding and the score was always close enough to keep anyone guessing. A large crowd of excited fans saw the game and cheered almost continuously. They had all they needed to yell at.

Brackenridge looked a good thing, for the locals did not bother him until the seventh. Moore and Metzger singled at the opening of the inning and Lober bunted a sacrifice which Brackenridge threw wide to Brashear at first and all the runners were safe. Core and Dillon, put in to bat for Smith and Leverenz, popped out and Howard was walked, forcing in Moore with a run. Berger beat out an infield single that scored Metzger and Lober and these were the last runs the locals could get.

Gray, who pitched the eighth and ninth innings, made the locals look like thirty cents worth of dog meat. They did not make any hits off him.

AGNEW DOUBLES.

With one out in the second, for the Tigers, Litschi walked and stuck on second, while Burrell flew to center. Agnew cracked a double high on the center fence, scoring Litschi, and Brackenridge sent a single to center that chased in Agnew.

Then Leverenz behaved himself. For the remaining four innings he was in the game.

When Slagle began, the score was 2 to 2 in favor of the Angels, but when he passed Brackenridge, hit Kane in the back with the ball and allowed a single by Hosp, one run came in that tied the score.

In the eighth, Bayless doubled to left, but was caught at third when Litschi bounced the ball in front of the plate. Berger juggled Burrell's grounder to short and both runners were safe. Then Gray and Stinson doubled to the left fence and three runs rolled in.

Litschi and Metzger were the stars in the fielding line and kept the crowd in an uproar over their fielding. However, all the players showed high class work with two ex-

TY COBB REGAINS TOP OF BATTING LIST.

[BY FEDERAL (WIRELESS) LINE TO THE TIMES.]

CHICAGO, July 13.—[Special Dispatch.] Tyrus Cobb is on top in the American League. He has passed Speaker and Jackson and is now the only slugger in that organization who is batting better than .400. He is six points ahead of that figure, and has a lead of eight points on his nearest rival, who is Speaker. The following fifteen regulars lead the league up to and including Wednesday, July 10:

"HAVE NO KICK AGAINST A.A.A.," SAYS LA CASSE.

Drivers in Santa Monica and Motordrome Races Got Prize Money and Although Records Have Not Been Allowed, Studebaker Agent Is Satisfied—Says A.A.A. Officials to Blame for Not Knowing Rules.

BY WILLIAM J. LA CASSE,
Sales Manager Studebaker Corporation, Los Angeles Branch.

George Joerimann,
Youthful race driver, who, it is reported, will drive his own car, the veteran Maxwell, in the Phoenix road race.

ASIDE from the fact that its world's records, made on the Motordrome the day following the Santa Monica road races, have not yet been recognized in a so-called official manner, the Studebaker Corporation has no interest whatsoever in the present differences the American Automobile Association has with its members on the Pacific Coast. Car drivers were paid the prize money they won in both the Santa Monica race and at the Motordrome, so as far as we are concerned everything is satisfactory.

If the A.A.A. officials in New York had known their own regulations and records, they would have known without further thought that a regular stock Studebaker-Flanders was not eligible to the race at Santa Monica in which it was entered. Its piston displacement is too small. Yet these same officials waited until the last minute before communicating with their local representatives, and everyone knows the result.

THE CORRECT DOPE.

A regular stock Studebaker-Flanders has a piston displacement of 154.8 cubic inches. The entrance conditions to the race stated that cars must have piston displacement of from 161 to 230 cubic inches. When Paul Bruske, our contest manager, discovered that our cars were too small to be eligible, he immediately substituted larger motors of a regular Studebaker thirty type, giving the cars a piston displacement of 226.2 cubic inches, well within the limits.

It is hard to understand why the Studebaker cars should be selected to bear the brunt of eastern criticism of affairs on the Coast. If I am rightly informed, the Maxwell that won the race was originally of too large a piston displacement to enter the small car race, and motors of smaller stroke and bore were substituted to meet the conditions. I am not saying this to disparage the Maxwell's clever victory, but only to show that others in the race were forced to change their mechanical equipment one way or another. Of course, everyone knows the race was for non-stock cars, so what difference did it make.

THEY GOT THE MONEY.

So far as my official connection with it is concerned, I am making no statement for the Studebaker Corporation. That it was not drawn into this controversy at all is attested by the fact that Towers and Evans, the drivers of the cars, received their prize money and were allowed to enter the races at Tacoma, where they finished first and second and lowered the world's record, which the Maxwell established when it defeated them on the Santa Monica course.

Southern California motorists are united in condemning the action of the A.A.A. board in censuring A. M. Young, Roy Hillman and E. G. Kuster in the manner which they chose. These three men have been truly representative of the sportsmanlike spirit which pervades our great Southwest. Time will show whether President Schimpf and his associates acted wisely, for indications are that the great toll they yearly exact from motorists in this section will materially decrease, and the race-loving public be amused without having to help pay for the arbitrary "sanction."

The Come Back.

MANAGER OF RACE REPLIES TO A.A.A.

A. M. YOUNG, the local Thomas agent, who managed the Santa Monica road race and the Motordrome events last May, and was outlawed by the contest board of the American Automobile Association for failing to comply with certain technical requirements, responds to the charges published in The Times last Wednesday, in the following letter:

"July 12, 1912.

"Contest Board, A.A.A.,
"No. 437 Fifth Ave.
"New York City.

"Gentlemen: I am just in receipt of a communication signed by Mr. Schimpf, your chairman, outlining the action taken by your board recently, in connection with the Santa Monica road race.

"Permit me to say that I would have been very much surprised to find that such an action had been taken, had I not been previously familiar with the attitude of your chairman in connection with this and other events, and in reviewing the situation from every standpoint, I am forced to believe that the personal feelings of your chairman are largely, if not wholly, responsible for this ruling. There are many reasons for this conclusion. Permit me to refer to a few of them.

"In the first place, I have been a very loyal supporter of A.A.A. principles, and am still in favor of a governing body (if properly controled) for various lines of sport. This fact can easily be proven by referring to previous correspondence which has passed between your former chairman, Mr. Butler, and myself.

MANAGED RACE THREE YEARS.

"It has fallen to my lot to be connected with the Santa Monica road race for the past three years, during which time there has never been a protest filed or any single act questioned in connection with any entrant or with any of the records established each year. I contend that there is no reason for any such question now; that as a promoter of the last event I did live up to the rules as laid down by your board, in every sense of the word. I have reviewed the situation carefully, to ascertain if there was any way in which I had acted contrary to these rules, and I am frank to say that I cannot find the slightest evasion.

"In drafting the entry blank for this event, it was clearly defined that piston displacement was the only qualification necessary in determining the classification under which cars were to be entered. Each event was scheduled as 'Class C' 'non-stock,' and by virtue of your rule governing entries in Class C events, there is no rule which says that the motor dimensions cannot be increased or decreased in size, as long as it does not exceed or fall short of the limitations prescribed in the entry blank. In more than one case were those changes resorted to, and yet the disbarment of Mr. Hillman and myself and the acceptance of Mr. Kuster's resignation are, in accordance with your own statement, based upon the fact that two Flanders cars were permitted to enter, contrary to a new ruling, which, by virtue of your own action, is not effective until August 1.

"It appears that, on June 25, at a regular meeting of your board, the following amendment to the 1912 contest rule was adopted, to become effective August 1, 1912:

" 'No car with a bore, stroke and piston displacement of a different size from the regularly catalogued product of a manufacturer shall be entered in any sanctioned event until its manufacturer shall have filed with the contest board on official blanks provided for the purpose by the contest board, sworn certificates giving the bore, stroke, number of cylinders, total piston displacement, horse power and year and model, name of the cars, and such cars must be officially entered, programmed and advertised in strict accordance with such registration.

" 'All other cars must be entered, programmed and advertised in strict accordance with catalogued specifications.'

RULE NOT EFFECTIVE.

"The adoption of this new ruling at this time is the best evidence that it was not effective at the time of the Santa Monica road race, and that the mistake was not discovered until the entry blanks had been approved, entrance fees filed and accepted and the date of closing entries passed. After the date has passed for closing all entries, it is not then within the power of the promoter to determine who is eligible to start. Your own rules provide that the referee is the only man in authority to pass upon matters of this kind. Consequently, your action in disqualifying me is not in accordance with the rules as laid down by your board.

"You state that my disbarrment was made under rule 18, which reads as follows:

" 'No sanction shall be granted to a promoter who shall have previously transgressed the contest rules of the American Automobile Association, or permitted their transgression at a meeting under his or its management, until such promoter shall have been restored to good standing by formal action of the contest board.'

PROMOTER HELD RESPONSIBLE.

"By virtue of this rule, the promoter seems to be held responsible for the acts of everybody, whether under his jurisdiction or not. It is evident that you put the proper construction on this rule at the time, as evidenced by your instructions to both Mr. Kuster and Mr. Hillman, who were empowered to act in accordance with your appointment and approval. That both these gentlemen acted in accordance with their best judgment and for the best interests of the event in general is beyond question. At the worst, no act could have been considered as being other than a difference of opinion as to the interpretation of the rule in question, and it certainly would appear that they were right and the rule was wrong, otherwise no reconstruction of this rule would have been necessary.

"You should realize that your authority is half constituted, and if properly concocted should not permit you to insinuate that things had been done which should not have been done, and create an impression, not only locally but to the motor world in general, that western events were not conducted in accordance with the rules meant to govern affairs of this kind.

"I consider your action in not accepting the records, clearly established, as most unfair and unsportsmanlike. The race was timed by an electrical timing device, examined and approved by the judges and submitted to the referee. Do you mean to infer that, on account of your not having witnessed these records personally, they are not to stand? Is it a fact that all the intelligence, wisdom and fairness of the officials and your local representative, in connection with this race, are being questioned? Such is the inference. We would naturally conclude that it would be necessary to have a moving picture machine on the ground to prove that this race was ever run, if everybody is going to be questioned.

SHOULD HAVE FELT HONORED.

"You should have felt highly honored to be able to be represented by a man of the ability and standing of Mr. Kuster, and it is my private opinion that if his report (which was, of necessity, voluminous,) had been carefully read and considered by each member of your board, his resignation would not have been accepted.

"It is evident to me that recommendations were made by your chairman (and perhaps his assistant) which may have been based upon personal aggrandizement rather than a desire to further the best interests of the sport. It would seem to me that the efficient conducting of affairs in connection with your board, as was evidently intended at the time of its organization, would be the most important thing to consider, in order that it would not be necessary for promoters to be called upon to defend themselves from unjust and unreasonable attacks of this kind.

"My reason for feeling that this is not brought about by reason of the personal opinions of the several members of the board is due to the fact that the eleventh-hour telegrams which were sent from headquarters, collect, were the acts of an inefficient member, rather than the composite conclusion of several members.

NOT SO BAD, AFTER ALL.

"The offense of permitting the two Flanders cars to start was apparently not so bad, after all, as these same two cars were permitted to start in the recent races at Tacoma.

"In conclusion, I wish to state that there were no post entries received; that all information asked for was furnished your local representative; that every official connected with the Santa Monica road race and Motordrome events proved his efficiency; that the disbarment of Mr. Hillman and myself was unjust and the acceptance of the resignation of Mr. Kuster decidedly unfair, as would have been the case had all of your chairman's instructions (which arrived one-half hour after the race had been started,) ordering us to prevent the Regal car from starting, been carried out. The fact that your chairman was not advised that the Regal entry was regular in every respect (in fact, it was the first one to be filed in the light car event) was due to a clerical error.

"Believing that a reconsideration of your action will be to the best interests of all concerned, I am

"Most respectfully yours,
[Signed] "A. M. YOUNG."

SPLIT CHASSIS ON EXHIBITION.

STUDEBAKERS GET HALF A CAR FROM FACTORY.

Flanders Twenty Was Sawed in Half, Every Minute Screw and Pinion in the Way Being Split. Is Being Shown at Local Sales Room of the Company.

If half a car is worth $10,000, how much is a whole one worth? The natural answer would be that a machine which had all its working parts intact would be worth twice as much, but at the Studebaker Corporation's local salesroom another answer is forthcoming.

The far-famed split chassis is the cause of all this argument. I arrived under double guard earlier in the week, and was installed by Sales Manager La Casse and his forces.

The split chassis is looked on as a most wonderful piece of machinery. When it was first exhibited, at the recent New York automobile show, it was the center of all attraction in the big garden, and the Studebaker Corporation was immediately offered $10,000 for it by Columbia University. The pedagogues wanted it for their mechanical department.

Aside from its value as an advertisement to the Studebaker Corporation, the split chassis has an educational value of no small worth. It is a complete car of the Studebaker Flanders "20" type, sawed right down the center. Each cylinder and piston is halved from top to bottom; the transmission case is only half there, only half a radiator shows, and even the splitdorf coil is divided equally, with one-half absent.

Since it has been on exhibition the split chassis has attracted more than usual attention, and old motorists who thought they knew machinery backwards, have learned much. It took several months of hard and expert work to cut the chassis so that every minute screw and pinion would be equally divided and the machine cut down its exact center, and the result proves the effort worth while.

Sales Manager La Casse has extended an invitation to the public to visit the Olive-street headquarters and view the mechanical marvel.

AUTO MAKES ALMOST IMPOSSIBLE CLIMB.

A performance which is considered a good stunt was pulled off last week by Andy McClain, driver for Senator Bill of Sacramento. He won honors for himself when he took the machine from Bishop, California, on an almost perpendicular climb of 8756 feet to Convict Lake in Inyo county. He was compelled to derrick stones and timber but was determined to take an automobile where one had never before traversed. Convict Lake is said to have taken its name from its difficult access, and according to McClain it certainly is a difficult climb for a machine to make.

Hupmobile Long-Stroke "32" Touring Car, $900
F. O. B. Detroit, including equipment of windshield, gas lamps and generator, oil lamps, tools and horn. Three speeds forward and reverse; sliding gears. Four cylinder motor, 3¼-in. bore x 5½-in. stroke. Bosch magneto; 106-inch wheelbase; 32x3½ inch tires. Color, standard Hupmobile blue. Roadster, $900.

The deeper you go into detail the greater will grow your regard:

Hupmobile

It is true of any car, of course, that the inside—not the outside — establishes its value.

But this is particularly true of the Hupmobile. It is especially true because, the moment you begin to inspect the chassis, you find workmanship uncommon at the price.

Your good opinion of the car will increase in proportion to the care with which you study its parts.

If you are not expert in engineering, it will pay you to have us indicate the fine points of Hupmobile practice.

Learn what long-stroke actually means — how much it intensifies the pulling power.

See how faithfully Mr. Nelson has followed the finest foreign practice in the ratio of bore to stroke.

If you drive the car, and see its pulling power triumph, at slow speed over sand or mud that would stall a motor of ordinary bore and stroke, you'll need no further demonstration.

But learn in advance, by studying the engine, how much additional value is incorporated in the $900 price by this long-stroke principle.

Learn to appreciate, in theory, before you prove it in practice, the economy with which this excess power is secured.

Study the oiling system—in itself a type of the highest ingenuity and efficiency — which distributes oil when, where, and as it is needed, with absolutely unfailing certainty.

Notice the advanced practice, followed in combining motor, clutch and transmission in one compact space-and weight-saving unit.

Let us explain why it is such an advantage to have the cylinders cast enbloc—how the valves (at the side) are made dust and dirt proof.

Let us tell you how the common liability to crankshaft strains is avoided by the use of three generous crankshaft bearings instead of two.

Let us tell you why Hupmobile carburetion is almost unbelievably reliable—how it insures correct mixtures at all speeds and under all loads, without resort to adjustments.

The further you go into detail, the greater will grow your respect for this truly remarkable car.

Study it, here, at first hand. Familiarize yourself with its good points.

You'll realize then what renders the price extraordinary — or, to be more precise, how great is the value you get in the Hupmobile at that price.

The Runabout's Remarkable Record

The Runabout today occupies the position it took from the very first—that of a car giving complete satisfaction and never failing service.

It created a type; and it remains now the dominant representative of that type.

Its position has been held simply because it has proved itself worthy, times without number, of the confidence of 15,000 owners in all parts of the world.

Its power plant is identical with that which recently carried a Hupmobile touring car around the world.

Mention the Hupmobile and you will hear nothing but praise for this staunch, trim car.

But these expressions will be no less interesting, because of their sincerity, than those we print below—extracts from a very few of the letters we have received from Runabout owners:—

A feature that specially appeals to me is the cheapness of upkeep.—ARTHUR K. MACK, New York.

I ran the machine more than 10,000 miles on the same tires, and have covered 250 miles on 10 gallons of gasoline.—GEORGE A. WHITING, Minneapolis.

March 22, 1912—I just want to tell you that I am driving a 1910 Hupmobile runabout with the same air that was in the tires when they left the factory in 1910.—W. D. SCHWARZ, M. D., Portland, Ind.

Last year I purchased a Runabout Hupmobile, and up to date it has cost me only 60 cents—and that was not for machinery, but for varnishing.—FRANK GRATES, Los Angeles, Cal.

I have driven a Hupmobile 20,000 miles in the last two years; drove 16,000 miles without having machine in repair shop.—DR. D. E. GARVIN, Cal.

I am now driving Hupmobile No. 21, the first to come to Cleveland. This car has been driven upwards of 20,000 miles and averages 28 miles on one gallon of gasoline. I intend to run it the third year and consider it nearly as good as new, with the exception of a coat of paint.—GEORGE W. BILLINGTON, Cleveland, Ohio.

Possessing a much larger machine, I found after I had acquired the Hupmobile Runabout, that the two automobiles cost me less to maintain than the amount I formerly paid for the large machine alone.—F. MINTO, Rome, Italy.

Car has done the work of a horse and buggy and electric runabout, both of which I sold after getting the "Hup," depending upon it all winter to get around town through the deep snow.—HAYS CADY, South Bend.

My car has been driven about 50,000 miles in the hardest sort of service, and is in good condition.—M. REYNOLDS FLOURNOY, Columbus, Ga.

LOZIER $5000

The only motor car in America which for eight years has commanded a price of $5,000—and still commands it.

Lozier innovations for 1913—Left-Hand Drive, Center Control, Double Magneto, Automatic-Level Oiling System—will eventually be features of all high-class American cars.

In the 1913 Lozier only can you get all these improvements now.

Left-Hand Drive is just one of the improvements in the Lozier, but an important one. Right-Hand Drive will soon be obsolete—very few cars will have it next year. Invest your money in a modern car.

Clevelanders Pleased With Tour of Los Angeles.

BY AL. G. WADDELL.

With the aid of the motor car the Reception Committee of the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce was able to show the beauties of the city to the Cleveland Grays in the short space of two hours last Wednesday afternoon.

The members of this famous Ohio military organization are celebrating their seventy-fifth anniversary by an extended tour across the continent and return, and they arrived in Los Angeles, 150 strong, last Wednesday afternoon, leaving early the following morning for Santa Barbara.

The problem of their entertainment was a difficult matter for the members of the Reception Committee to work out, on account of the limited time the Grays had to spend in the city. Arriving, as they did, at 3 o'clock, and being scheduled to leave on a trip to the beaches two hours later, there was hardly time for anything in the way of entertainment; but here it was that the automobile came to the rescue.

A sightseeing trip is always a source of delight to visitors, but, with less than two hours and a reception at the Chamber of Commerce arranged for, a real sight-car ride would have been out of the question, and had it not been for the automobile the boys from Cleveland would have seen little of Los Angeles.

Long before the train was due to arrive a string of automobiles lined the curb at the depot and as soon as the members of the renowned drill corps stepped from the train they were taken in hand by members of the committee and escorted to the machines.

The entire party was driven to the Chamber of Commerce, where the reception took place. After meeting the officers and viewing the exhibit they again entered the automobiles, which whirled all over the city, and in a remarkably short time the Grays were conducted to the electric depot, where with Los Angeles and grateful hearts the drivers of the cars

L. R. Carpenter of the Abbott and Detroit had one of his seven-passenger cars in service and Lynn Fox, Detroit, had detailed his sales manager, "Pete" Grimm, to the Cleveland service with a new Moon.

The automobile men were busy during the afternoon and rivaled the professional sight-seeing cars in their efforts in behalf of the visitors.

Some of the cars went over Elysian Park drive, others covered the business districts and many took to the Westlake district. The Moon was one of the busiest in the service and Grimm showed all the attractions of the city to his party, from the arroyo to Chester Place, and Washington ball park. Louis Schwaebe drove his party out Wilshire, through Westlake Park and over the west end of the city, missing nothing attractive. Carpenter's car visited Hollywood and cut over to Westlake.

The Cleveland Grays and their friends were well pleased with Los Angeles and one member of the company stated that his home town was just twenty years behind this city.

One thing that greatly impressed them all was the great number of automobiles seen on the streets and the number of women drivers of cars of every description.

KNIGHTS LEAD IN NEW ZEALAND.

FOUR SILENT AUTOS REGISTER PERFECT SCORES.

Canterbury Medal Annexed in Reliability Run in Which Twenty-four Cars Compete—Results of Foreign Tests Gratifying to Officials of Stearns Company.

Of twenty-four cars competing in the New Zealand annual reliability contest under the auspices of the Canterbury Automobile Association, four that were fitted with Knight sliding sleeve motors made non-stop perfect scores, and the winning Silent Knight made a record of 47.16 ton miles per gallon of gasoline, earning the Canerbury gold medal and Star silver trophy.

In commenting upon the above, Roy F. York, vice-president of the F. B. Stearns Company, manufacturer of Stearns-Knight cars, who recently returned to his desk after a protracted spell of dangerous illness, said:

"The record made in the New Zealand reliability contest confirms the results secured by other Knight-motored cars, particularly the performance of the Daimler-Knights in the hands of the Royal Automobile Club of Great Britain several years ago, and the splendid record made by a Minerva-Knight car in the Scottish reliability trials a year or so back. In fact the economy of the slide valve motor is becoming as apparent as the qualities of power and silence, which have long distinguished the Knight type engine."

By a combination of interests, the cities of Oshkosh, Winnebago county and Fond du Lac, Fond du Lac county (Wis.) are being connected by a new highway, which is expected to be one of the finest in the West. The road will run along the west shore of Lake Winnebago, the largest fresh water body lying wholly within one State in America. The city of Fond du Lac subscribed $2500, the county $5000 and the State $2500 to build the Fond du Lac county portion of the road, while Oshkosh and Winnebago county raised a like amount.

VANCE-CANAVAN GETS LOCAL KNOX AGENCY.

THE Knox Automobile Company of Springfield, Mass., one of the five oldest manufacturers of high-grade automobiles and trucks in the United States, has closed a contract with the Vance-Canavan Motor Company to represent it in Southern California and Arizona.

For the last few months the Vance-Canavan company has been endeavoring to secure the agency for this line of cars. Several good agencies were offered it, but after a very careful investigation, decided to close with the Knox company, and the deal was consummated and contracts signed by J. J. Canavan, representing the local firm, at the Knox factory several weeks ago.

The Knox company is one of the few that build the complete car, and are classed as manufacturers, and not assemblers. Every vital part of the Knox car—the power plant, transmission and chassis—is made in the Knox factory, and designed with the one idea of unity so that the public is offered the utmost in automobile value.

READY AUGUST FIRST.

The 1913 models will be ready for delivery August 1. The company is bringing out a new model "little six," with a 4¾x5½ motor, and 130-inch wheel base. The new model will embody the most advanced American and European ideas in approved design and construction.

The important features are a V-shaped radiator, silent chain drive cam, and magneto shaft, with option of right or left-hand steer, and it will be a car of surprising economy.

The company will continue manufacturing the four-cylinder models No. 44 and No. 45, with all of the latest and up-to-date improvements. This company is also prepared to furnish commercial automobiles to meet every business need. The trucks are offered in from two to six tons capacity, with twelve standard chassis.

The Knox line is well and favorably known in California, on account of the numerous victories of Barney Oldfield and others.

TIRE MONEY ENORMOUS.

Estimated $120,000,000 Will Be Spent This Year, Says Goodyear Manager.

It has been estimated that during the year 1912, $120,000,000 worth of tires will be sold in the United States. The statistician who made this estimate based his figures on the fact that there are in use in this country at the present time 600,000 automobiles. Allowing six tires to a machine during the year means an output for the entire country of about 4,000,000 tires. Figuring $30 to a tire will give the figures of $120,000,000 spent on tires by the motoring public, this year, in our country alone.

During the first six months of this year the Goodyear Tire and Rubber Company, who manufacture the No-rim-cut tire, placed on the market 450,000 tires, and by the end of the year the estimate of the output, given by P. W. Litchfield, the factory manager, will reach 1,000,000 tires. This, according to Litchfield, means that the Goodyear company will supply one-fourth of the country's output.

There are 85,500 motor cars registered in New York State, as compared with 84,959 last December.

WOULD OPEN THE YOSEMITE.

Autoists Have Eyes on the National Park.

If Roads Are Narrow Make Them Wider.

Demand for New Plan Is Nation-Wide.

Open the Yosemite is the call of the motorists.

The demand is being heard on all sides and if a concerted movement is started it is certain to bear fruit.

California's most beautiful park is now closed to the automobile and can be entered only on a slow-going stage. The road was once open, but was closed for fear the stage horse might become frightened at the motor cars.

"This is a progressive State," said Don Lee, the Cadillac agent for California, "and as such, one of the things for the motorists to work for is the opening of the beautiful Yosemite Valley to automobiles. Just what influence is responsible for the present condition but one thing is certain, we are making it hard for the people to see one of our grandest sights.

"If the road is too narrow, then why not make the road wider? If the horses become frightened, then let the stage company keep abreast of the times and put in an auto service.

"The majority of people who would go to the Yosemite would prefer to go in motor cars. The park is being kept for the people of the country to enjoy, then why not open it to them?

"In Europe these beauty places are not closed to the motoring public, rather the people in cars are encouraged over the mountain passes and into the natural parks."

"I did not realize until recently what the people of California are missing," said W. D. Newerf, the Miller tire agent. "I spent ten days seeing the beauties of this valley and do not hesitate proclaiming it the most wonderful scenery in the world. Open that valley to the motoring public and three times as many people will visit it next year than have been there in seasons past. The thought of leaving your car at a village and going in on a slow-moving stage which is likely as not to topple over the mountain, keeps the motorists away. Instead, the people of San Francisco tour to the northern end of the State and into Oregon. The people of California should demand that this valley be opened."

"The sentiment throughout the entire State is for the opening of the Yosemite to motor cars," said George Bentel. "California is no back number State. Even the man who does not own a motor car today hopes to have one next season, and the people are a unit in favor of opening the valley to the motor cars. Let us start the movement in Southern California and watch it spread until the demand becomes so insistent the government will have to listen to the voice and let the people enjoy what belongs to the people, and not a few stage companies."

TESTING ELECTRIC TRUCKS.

No Small Task, Declares Expert Who Puts Out Great Number of Machines.

A great amount of work is being done in the electric division of the General Motors Truck Company, of which J. M. Lansden is manager, as is evidenced by the numbers of cars which are being tested on the roads around Pontiac, Mich. The testing of an electric chassis is no small task, especially those which are to be used in commercial work. Lansden gives a vivid description of how strenuous a test the chassis is put to before it is considered perfect enough to be put to actual service.

"After the truck is assembled it is given a preliminary road test," says the general motors electric division manager. "This is done for the purpose of noticing the relationship of one part to another, and to see if the truck runs smoothly and otherwise mechanically correct. After this comes a more important test, that of ascertaining the power capacity. To make sure of this we overload our trucks 50 per cent., and with this extra weight, the truck negotiates seventy-five miles. During this period tests are also made as to the amount of power consumed, which is accomplished with precision instruments.

"Especially suitable for testing purposes is the country adjoining Pontiac, where you will find all sorts of roads and varying grades. The hills in some places are miniature mountains. Taking this country, as a whole, the conditions are ideal for strenuous all-round testing purposes. What we always propose to do is to work the truck under harder conditions than would exist if it were in actual use by its owner, and, by the time the various road and other tests are completed, we are satisfied that the machine will do the work required of it in its every-day service."

AUTO COURSE LATEST.

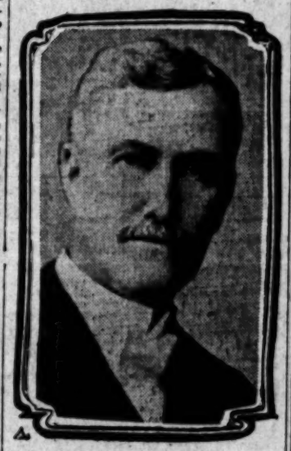
ury," said President Bovard. "I feel that our course in automobiling will not only be attractive, but will develop a general knowledge of automobiles in Southern California that will be a great factor in our commercial undertakings."

Warren B. Bovard, business manager of the institution, says that modern education embraces everything that is a means for the end of the all-around development of the man or woman and the knowledge of automobiles is certainly a factor in the shaping of all the powers of the student.

"I consider it an honor to act as one of the instructors of the automobile department of the University of Southern California," said Earle Y. Boothe of the National Motor Car Company. "The establishing of such a department is in line with the progressive policies of the California universities. This department can be made not only interesting to the students, but instructive and useful as well. I am willing to give as much time as is necessary to this work and will give the use of as many National cars as is necessary."

"To learn how a gasoline or electric vehicle is operated should result in a most attractive department at the university," said Stanley Smith, "and I consider that I have been honored to have been chosen as one of the instructors. I will place either Stearns or Ohio electrics at the disposal of the classes. We will also secure a working model of the Knight motor in order to illustrate thoroughly the operation of this newest development of the gasoline engine. My shop will be at the disposal of the students and I would suggest that regular visits be made to the machine shop, where the cars can be seen disassembled."



Dr. George F. Bovard,
President of the University of Southern California.

The interest in this new and unique course is even greater than its most ardent boosters had expected. Nor in fact is this strange for there is no topic that is the subject of more discussion today than the automobile. Of course it was expected that the "roughnecks" in the engineering and electrical departments would be interested in the work, because of the fact that they could keep in touch through this practical means with the latest mechanical inventions as shown in the latest makes of American cars. However, their zeal in the new department is rivaled by the men in the liberal arts and other courses, and from the present indications it appears that a large number of them will hasten to enroll when the Registrar's office opens in September.

As one sophomore writes, "I find so many things about my dad's car that I did not know about, that I decided to hit for an automobile school when I returned to the city. That new course will be just the thing!" Many other enthusiasts have declared themselves heartily in favor of the proposed course.

Among the most interested are a select group from one of the leading sororities who have declared themselves unqualifiedly in favor of the innovation and say that such a course will be "just dandy."

Even some of the dignified "profs" are planning on leaving their ancient lore for a few lessons in order to get the rudimentary knowledge and a little experience before trying a car of their own.

The new course is highly approved by all those who are connected with the university in an official capacity and the question as to whether there would be a demand for such instruction by the students is being answered heartily in the affirmative.

The Texas State Railroad Commission has issued an order providing that second-hand automobiles may be included in carload shipments of emigrants' movables or household goods provided they will load through side doors of cars.

Her First Lesson at Wheel of Simplex.

His New Job.

DINGLEY TO QUIT RACING.

Famous Driver to Manage National Here.

Cuts Out Speeding to Take Up New Work.

Started in Game Polishing Brass in 'Frisco.

Bert Dingley has retired from the automobile racing field, and in the future he will devote his entire time and energy to the duties which fall to him as general manager of the National Motor Company of this city.

The veteran speedway pilot has invested a goodly portion of his savings in the stock of the company, and notwithstanding the fact that his contract with Earl Y. Boothe is binding for the short period of one year only, it is reasonable to believe that Dingley's racing days are over for all time, and that hereafter the business end of the automobile industry alone will claim his attention.

With over ten years' of experience to his credit, the new manager of the National agency enters upon the duties with every assurance of success. He has taken full charge of both the salesroom and the repair shop, and has started to systematize the entire plant, according to ideas which have come from extensive travel and study of automobile conditions in this country and abroad, and it goes without saying that he is a valuable addition to the local National business corps.

Starting at the bottom, Dingley has grown up with the motor car industry. He is an acknowledged technical expert, as well as one of the foremost racing drivers of the country.

"It was back in 1902 when I started in the automobile game," said Bert, when questioned regarding his past history. "I don't believe that my life story will be of interest to anyone, but if you want to know how I got my start, it was polishing brass in a San Francisco garage, over ten years ago, and my first employer was the agent for the old one-cylinder Knox."

The embryo speed king was not content with his place as chief glitter producer for the firm, however, and soon rose to a higher position, where he had opportunity to study the machines. At this time he was with the two-cylinder Pope-Toledo agency and was really well on his way up the ladder of success.

In 1903 he made his debut as a racing driver at the wheel of a four-cylinder Pope-Toledo, on the dirt track at Agricultural Park.

The following year he went to Europe to drive a Pope-Toledo in the Gordon Bennett. Upon his return to this country he won the elimination trials in the Vanderbilt, in which five cars from each country were entered, defeating Joe Tracy in the Locomobile, by a margin of forty-seven seconds.

For a long time Dingley was with the Thomas people, joining the Chalmers forces next. He was with the Pope-Hartford for two seasons and drove the Simplex in the Santa Monica road race and the 500-mile race at Indianapolis last Memorial Day, which, by the way, is claimed to be the last race in which he will ever drive.

If the National does any racing in this section in the future, Dingley will take a personal interest in the affair and will manage the team, but he claims that he will do no driving.

Manager of United States Tire Company.

LATEST SIMPLEX MODEL WINS ADMIRATION.

OSCAR WERNER, local Simplex agent, has been one of the busiest men on Automobile Row for the last week arranging demonstrations for his 1913 model Simplex, which arrived yesterday.

In the shipment that arrived Saturday were three cars of the new model, two of which are already sold. The seven-passenger, ninety horse-power has been sold to G. M. Anderson of the Essanay Film Company, and the four-passenger, thirty-eight horse power has been ordered for J. G. Rice of San Diego.

The demonstrator which was included in the first shipment of 1913 models is a seven-passenger de luxe fifty horse-power, and has been conceded by all who have seen it that it is one of the classiest cars that has ever been shown in this country.

The demonstrator shows the de luxe body in dark green with black trimmings, an effect that is particularly pleasing and one that will retain its newness of appearance indefinitely. The upholstering is of black leather, eighteen inches in depth, which adds to the luxury and comfort of the new model. The high sides and beautiful finish add to the aristocratic appearance of the car.

Early Bird.

MULFORD FIRST TO ENTER VANDERBILT.

RALPH MULFORD, winner of last year's Vanderbilt Cup Race, is the first driver to fill an entry blank for the 1912 Vanderbilt race. The entry blanks were issued this week for the Vanderbilt race, the Pabst Trophy and Wisconsin Challenge trophy races, which will be run on the same course at Milwaukee, in September. Mulford happened to be passing through Milwaukee en route to the Tacoma races when the blanks were out and taking a pen filled in the blank with the specifications of his Knox car and signed his name as the first entrant.

The entry blanks for the International Grand Prize Race, which will be run before the other three events, have as yet not been printed, but will be issued shortly. As this is an International event it is sanctioned by the Automobile Club of America. The other races will be with the sanction of the A. A. A. All the events will be managed by the Milwaukee Automobile Dealers' Association. There will be various local and other interests during the meet.

THIRTY-FOUR LAPS.

The great American classic to be run Saturday, September 21, is to be a class "B" or non-stock event, which is open to class "C" cars of not more than 600 cubic inches of not less than 201 cubic inches piston displacement. The length of the circuit is approximately 8.725 miles and the conditions call for cars to cover this thirty-four times, making a total of 296.65 miles.

The awards for this event are as follows: Possession for one year (in accordance with the deed of gift) of the William K. Vanderbilt cup and $3000 in cash to the contestant covering the required distance in the shortest elapsed time. The winner also will receive a special donor's trophy to retain permanently. The driver of the car winning second honors will receive $2000 in gold; the third-place driver, $1000, and the fourth, $500. The entry fee for one car is $500; for two cars of the same manufacture, entered by the same person or company, $800, and three cars, $1000.

This will be the first time the race for the Pabst trophy has been run, and is open to class C non-stop cars in division 3-C, having piston displacement of 231-300 cubic inches. It will take place on Friday, September 20, and it will be necessary to make twenty-five laps of the course, making a total distance of 218.12 miles. The award of this event carries the possession of the trophy for one year and an additional prize of $2000 in cash to the winner. The second place is given $500; for third place, $250, and fourth, $125.

A great deal of interest is manifested in the "baby-car" event for the Wisconsin trophy, which will be run on the same day. In the Savannah and Indianapolis races cars of this size demonstrated their ability to attain a speed of better than ninety miles an hour and as there are so many light cars now running it is certain to be an interesting event. It will be a class C, non-stock event for cars of the 2-C category, having 161-230-cubic-inch displacement. They must cover twenty laps of the course, or a total of 175.5 miles. The prizes are the same as in the Pabst trophy race, the winner receiving $1000 in cash besides the trophy, and also a donor's cup.

Oh Joy!

CANAL WILL CUT PRICES SAYS THE TIRE DEALER.

BY JOHN S. WIESE.
Manager U. S. Tire Co.

THE completion of the Panama Canal will mean the savings of thousands of dollars monthly to the motor car trade of the Pacific Coast. Unless there is a big advance in steamship rates every business that depends upon shipments from the East for goods will reap the benefits of this great work.

Motor cars which now cross the continent by rail will come by boat and this is also true of the tire shipments. The United States Tire Company is already utilizing the water route and is sending large shipments around the Horn every month. Of course, to do this a firm must do a large volume of business. One of our latest shipments to come from the Atlantic Coast, around the Horn to San Francisco, consisted of 3000 tubes and 2000 casings. The largest other shipment was one of 275 cases of casings. This was one of the largest shipments ever unloaded in California.

If the big companies can save so much now by shipping by boat it can easily be realized what the canal will mean. It will then be possible to ship by rail to the Atlantic Coast from interior eastern points and then by boat to the Coast. No time will be lost and much money will be saved. The automobile companies have been paying millions of dollars to the railroads and incidentally the rates on motor cars have been kept right up to the top notch.

California took about 20,000 machines last year. These averaged about $75 a car, making a total of a million and a half paid by this State alone in freight charges. This does not include the immense sums paid by such firms as the United States Tire Company, the supply houses and the hundreds of tourists who ship their cars to California for the winter.

Part of this money will be saved in the future, which means that it will be kept in California. I am speaking entirely from a personal viewpoint and unless there develops some combination to keep up the water rates after the canal is opened there will be a substantial reduction in the railroad rates for motor cars and accessories.

But even with equal rates many manufacturers will favor the water route for winter shipping as the motor dealers know how shipments are often tied up by washouts and snow storms in the cold months. The water route will be open the year round and there will be little difference in the time made.

The same conditions will exist in every branch of business and every man, woman and child on the Pacific Coast will benefit from the canal. It means that we will get everything here cheaper than ever before and the consumer will profit.

Of course, to save money on boat shipments the shipments will have to be large. The United States Tire Company with all its branches on the Coast can order big advance shipments with a good idea of just what will be needed. For instance, at this time we know that in three months our demand for Nobby treads will get heavier. We know that the heaviest call for Nobbys comes for the larger sizes such as are used on limousines and large touring cars. That order can be made up in advance and shipped by boat in plenty of time to get around the Horn and be in this territory for the fall rush.

With the canal these advance orders will not be necessary, as fast time will be made.

All of which shows that we cannot overestimate the importance of the canal.

The watertown Motor Club has been organized at Watertown, Wis., with sixty members and fifty more in prospect.

ACROSS-THE-COUNTRY TRUCK AT TOLEDO.

Word received from the American Locomotive Company at Toledo, O., is to the effect that the trans-continental Alco Truck, which had passed through that city on its eighth day out, had covered a mileage of 934 miles. Although in some places the roads are bad with sand and many hills are encountered, the truck has kept up to its schedule of twelve miles an hour. Detours made necessary by the repairs of the roads will mean a total mileage during the journey of the truck of over 4000 miles.

Thus far no mechanical troubles have been experienced. The fact that this is the first delivery made by motor truck across the continent creates interest in the affair and big receptions have been given to the truck and crew at each stop. The vehicle is equipped with United States demountable tires.

NEW KIND OF CHEAP AUTO.

French Follow Principles of Motorcycle.

Little Car Sells at Price in Reach of All.

Fine for Quick Delivery as Well as Pleasure.

(Current Literature.)

Roast chicken once a week was the wish of the French peasant in bygone ages. The modern Frenchman, less modest, substitutes a motor car for the fowl. French manufacturers have responded to this demand by producing low-priced autos, based somewhat on the principle of the motorcycle. Scores of these have been manufactured at prices varying between $250 and $500. The cheap automobile of this type has been successfully imitated in England.

There have been inexpensive automobiles built on the established lines of the costlier type; but, so W. F. Bradley assures us in The Technical World, there appear to be more possibilities by working along motorcycle rather than automobile lines. Such, at any rate, has been the experience of European manufacturers, who have found it almost impossible to get below $500 on cars of the usual build, but have been able to produce four-wheeled motorcycles at half this price. A vehicle of this description costs little more than a high-grade motorcycle, the upkeep is about the same, its speed is equal to any two-wheeler, and its comfort is infinitely greater.

"It is a long, narrow, boat-like vehicle, mounted on four wire wheels, carrying its passengers in tandem fashion, with the driver at the rear, and having one single or two-cylinder air-cooled motor under cover in front. The frame, consisting of two wooden members, is narrowed in front, the sides are enclosed, the top is closed in by the gasolene tank, while the front is left open to allow a free passage for the air. A single chain running under the footboards takes the drive to a countershaft, on each extremity of which are a couple of pulleys from which power is carried to

Spirit, M

Y.M.C.A. AUTO MAKING RE

BY OWE

THEY say that the Y.M.C.A. turns out men well fitted with the spirit, mind and body assets, but last Friday afternoon I found out that they would make this triangle a square, with mechanics on the new side.

The Los Angeles Y.M.C.A. has one of the most up-to-date little automobile schools in the country and the way they put their students through the gasoline mill would do many a university proud. System is the watchword, and everything is done to the queen's taste before the final O. K. is put on by N. E. Brown, the dean of the "chug" college.

It is interesting to look over the queer faces of the various classes as they are assembled around some piece of the wagon, while one of the instructors is explaining "why." The students range from boys of 15 to men well along in years.

The course is divided into four periods covering two weeks each. The first course is a series of lectures on the engine principles and the pupils are shown how and why a gasoline engine runs. In this series of lectures the students are made to draw parts of the machine and at the close of the work, are supposed to know the relationship of the various parts of the automobile.

The second period has to do with more practical work and the theories learned in the first period of study are put into use on the five automobiles owned by the school.

THE TURNING POINT.

Brown says that this is one of the most important steps in the course and it is at this period that he can determine whether or not the student will make a good mechanic. They see the actual parts of the motor running, and can see how they are connected. You know it is an old saying, that it takes ten minutes to find a fault on a steam engine and about three hours to fix it, while in the case of the gas engine the question of time is just the converse. Brown says that he is teaching speed in finding the trouble and believes that this is one of the most important features of motor work.

In the third step, the students are allowed to work at first, but as they show a knowledge of the parts, are allowed to find and repair the trouble themselves. This is also one of the most important steps in the gasoline education, as here the student comes up against all kinds of cars, as the various makes are brought in, but gains his experience and also gives confidence, so when he is out working for himself he will not be

NEW KIND OF CHEAP AUTO.

French Follow Principles of Motorcycle.

Little Car Sells at Price in Reach of All.

Fine for Quick Delivery as Well as Pleasure.

(Current Literature.)

Roast chicken once a week was the wish of the French peasant in bygone ages. The modern Frenchman, less modest, substitutes a motor car for the fowl. French manufacturers have responded to this demand by producing low-priced autos, built somewhat on the principle of the motorcycle. Scores of these have been manufactured at prices varying between $250 and $500. The cheap automobile of this type has been successfully imitated in England.

There have been inexpensive automobiles built on the established lines of the coattler type; but, so W. F. Bradley assures us in The Technical World, there appear to be more possibilities by working along motorcycle rather than automobile lines. Such, at any rate, has been the experience of European manufacturers, who have found it almost impossible to get below $500 on cars of the usual build, but have been able to produce four-wheeled motorcycles at half this price. A vehicle of this description costs little more than a high-grade motorcycle, the upkeep is about the same, its speed is equal to any two-wheeler, and its comfort is infinitely greater.

"It is a long, narrow, boat-like vehicle, mounted on four wire wheels, carrying its passengers in tandem fashion, with the driver at the rear, and having one single or two-cylinder air-cooled motor under cover in front. The frame, consisting of two wooden members, is narrowed in front, the sides are enclosed, the top is closed in by the gasolene tank, while the front is left open to allow a free passage for the air. A single chain running under the footboards takes the drive to a countershaft, on each extremity of which are a couple of pulleys from which power is carried to the rear wheels by belts, as in a motorcycle. The two pulleys permit a quick change of gear ratio.

"There is neither clutch, gear box nor differential. The rear axle is attached to the extremity of a pair of inverted semi-elliptic springs, the front hanger of which is pivoted, thus allowing the axle to be moved forward or backward by means of a lever at the driver's right hand. It is by this means that the belt can be slackened off to disconnect the motor. At the front there is a tubular pivoting axle, with a coil spring suspension."

Any man who knows how to manage a motorcycle is at once familiar with this little car. Its use is not confined to pleasure purposes, a large number being used in France for quick delivery work. In some cases note again the economy of the French—the touring model is convertible. On week days it carries drugs and groceries; on Sundays and holidays it is transformed, by the turn of a screw, into a touring car for the family.

"It weighs complete only from 300 to 350 pounds, has an eight-horsepower, two-cylinder, air-cooled motor, chain transmission to a countershaft, and double belt drive to pulleys on the rear wheels. . . . For utility service, with calls for work over heavy roads, in snow, or amongst dense traffic, the four-wheeler has limitations. But these limitations are even more strongly felt by the motorcycle. As a little pleasure vehicle it has a remarkable future before it."

The Pennsylvania State Health Department has decided to purchase two large automobile trucks for use between Mount Alto Station and the State Tuberculosis Sanitarium. The trucks will be used for hauling coal and other supplies.

Sitting at Tandem.

The one drawback of most baby automobiles based on the principle of the motorcycle is the fact that the passengers cannot well sit side by side. Though they are seated tandem style, there is room for three persons.

Spirit, Mind, Body.

Y.M.C.A. AUTO COLLEGE MAKING REAL MECHANICS.

BY OWEN R. BIRD.

"I BET say that the Y.M.C.A. turns out men well fitted with the spirit, mind and body assets, but last Saturday afternoon I found out that they also make this triangle a square, with mechanics on the new side.

The Los Angeles Y.M.C.A. has one of the most up-to-date little automobile schools in the country and the way they put their students through the gasoline mill would do many a college ground. System is the watchword, and everything is done to the very last taste before the final O. K. is given by N. E. Brown, the dean of the "school" college.

It is interesting to look over the faces of the various classes as they are assembled around some piece of wagon, while one of the instructors is explaining "why." The students range from boys of 15 to men getting along in years.

The course is divided into four periods covering two weeks each. The first course is a series of lectures on the principles and the pupils are told how and why a gasoline engine runs. In this series of lectures blackboards are made to draw parts of the machine and at the close of the period are supposed to know the relations of the various parts of the automobile.

The second period has to do with the practical work and the theories learned in the first period of study are put into use on the five automobiles owned by the school.

THE TURNING POINT.

Brown says that this is one of the most important steps in the course as it is at this period that he can tell whether or not the student will make a good mechanic. They learn the actual parts of the motor running and can see how they are connected. You know it is an old saying that it takes ten minutes to find fault on a steam engine and about seven hours to fix it, while in the case of the gas engine the question of time is the converse. Brown says that the teaching speed in finding the trouble and believes that this is one of the most important features of motor work.

In the third step, the students are taught repair work, but are allowed to touch at first, but as they gain a knowledge of the parts, they are allowed to find and repair the troubles themselves. This is also one of the most important steps in the gasoline education, as here the student is taught all kinds of cars, as all makes are brought in, but with the experience and also gives confidence, so when he is out for himself he will not be worried when seeing a new car limping into the shop.

The fourth and last step is learning to drive and control the car on the road, but it is a remarkable fact that when these mechanics have mastered all the internal workings of the motor, the driving comes as a second nature, and all that there is to learn is the actual control of the steering wheel. One of the chief advantages of this method of learning an auto lies in the fact that when the student starts out on the fourth lap of his journey, he knows what to do, how to feed the gas and oil and if some of the thousand and one things get out of line, just when to jump in and fix her up. They give each man 100 miles of road experience.

The corps of instructors, led by Brown, are, A. E. Patterson, who has to deal with the engine and the ignition; Harry Voorhauer, Otis Gardiner and C. D. Strongren, who is instructor in the machine shop, where the various parts for the repair work are made.

It is a surprising fact that many of the auto owners are finding out what this school is doing and when something goes wrong, bring in the old buzz buggy, and get new parts made on the spot.

VENTILATING DEVICE ON PEERLESS NOVEL.

For driving in hot weather there is a device on the bodies of Peerless motor cars for 1913 which is effective in keeping the driver cool. When the progress of the body design dictated the adoption of fore-doors on motor cars the engineers foresaw that one of the difficulties to be overcome would be to keep the front compartment of the machine cool and well ventilated, for it is close enough to the engine to receive some of the heat generated there.

The designers of the Peerless cars have successfully met the problem by the use of a small hook, which holds the doors open a little more than two inches at the forward side. The doors are fastened rigidly. From the side only the closest inspection discloses the fact that the doors are slightly ajar. The speed of the car causes the doors to act in the manner of "air scoops." They shoot a constant stream of air into the compartment and result in a great increase of comfort for the passengers.

MITCHELL AGENT OFF ON YEARLY JOURNEY.

P. H. GREER, of the Greer-Robbins Company, left for his annual visit to the Mitchell-Lewis factory at Racine Thursday afternoon.

At about this time every year a meeting is held of all the Mitchell agents in the country for the purpose of discussing the Mitchell models and the campaign plans for the coming season, and to attend this meeting is the prime object of the local Mitchell agent's visit to the eastern city.

Mrs. Greer, who for the last few weeks has been visiting her old home in the East, will join her husband at Racine; and in a Mitchell "Little Six" roadster they will tour the entire State of Wisconsin. Later the car will be shipped to San Francisco and they will drive down the coast to Los Angeles.

Already Mrs. Greer, accompanied by eastern friends, has driven hundreds of miles in and about Racine with the new roadster, it having been delivered immediately upon her arrival at the Mitchell-Lewis factory. She writes that the little car has been extremely easy for her to handle on account of the flexibility of the six-cylinder motor and freedom from gear changing.

Mrs. Greer is known to be one of the most expert women drivers in Southern California and is greatly interested in six-cylinder cars, and has a special liking for roadsters. She believes that the development of six-cylinder cars will eventually make it practical for women to own cars that have heretofore been intrusted to the hands of male drivers only.

TOURERS ON TEST RUN ARE "PINCHED."

A unique experience was furnished the tourists in the first reliability contest in Maine, when the whole caravan was held up at Newport on the last day's run for speeding. The tour was over a run of 444 miles through the Pine Tree State and through the White Mountains of New Hampshire.

The entry list was large, and so much interest was taken in the affair that it was a great encouragement to the Maine motorists, and they will perhaps in the future take a more active part in automobile contests. Although many cars were heavily penalized, all finished the run and every feature was successful. One of the cars which made a perfect score was a Stoddard-Dayton, owned by H. W. Blanchard, of Portland, who laid out the route of the contest.

Foremen of the Buffalo Public Works Department have been provided with three automobiles for covering the city more thoroughly.

BIG CHIEF SHOULDER DRIVES ABBOTT-DETROIT.

BY AL G. WADDELL.

JOE SHOULDER, the great Indian athlete, hero of many a football game in the old days of Sherman Institute's gridiron glory and at one time a star on the famous Carlisle eleven, added to his accomplishments last Thursday afternoon by learning to drive a big Abbott-Detroit touring car.

L. R. Carpenter, Southern California agent for the Abbott and Dorris cars, had not seen the big Indian, who is now director of athletics and an instructor at the Sherman Institute at Riverside, since the famous 6 to 0 game between U.S.C. and the Indians at Fiesta Park, Thanksgiving Day, 1906, and he decided to pay a visit to his old friend.

Carpenter played right end on the University of Southern California eleven in the good old days, and as Shoulder played in the back field of the Indian line-up, the two met many times during the game. The memory of the big back was impressed deeply on the mind, as well as the body, of the future automobile man, and Carpenter had often wanted to get a look at the big fellow again.

Accompanied by J. E. Warren, factory representative for the Abbott Motor Company of Detroit, and A. L. Jordan, special Pacific Coast representative, the "has-been" footballist started for Riverside at an early hour last Thursday morning.

ROADS TEMPTING.

The route followed on the way out was over the Foothills boulevard. As neither of the Abbott factory men had been over the route the trip was a pleasant one, to say the least. They both expressed themselves as delighted with the scenery and the good roads, but the many slow down signs decorated with ten, fifteen and twenty figures, irritated them considerably.

While the eastern men are not advocates of reckless speeding they claim that twenty-five or thirty miles an hour should be allowed on our tempting roads.

At Riverside a drive over the little city, lunch at the Mission Inn and "Cremos" (Carpenter's favorite) brought the clock around to 1, and time to be at the Indian school.

Shoulder was found, busy with a lot of little Indians, detailing them for the afternoon's work on the grounds. He looked like a busy man, with his working clothes on, but was the same handsome chap as in the olden days.

As soon as the boys were sent out to their tasks Joe was at leisure for an hour or two, and Carpenter hustled him into the automobile for a drive. Joe, Jr., the big athlete's 1-year-old son, attracted "Papa" Jordan, and the little fellow had to be taken on the ride.

Joe and the Abbott agent talked over athletic matters for a short time and ran into a discussion of the Rugby game as compared to the old game of a few years ago.

APT PUPIL.

It was learned that Shoulder had never driven a machine, so Carpenter hit upon the idea of teaching him the art. It must be admitted that it came natural to the big fellow to handle the car and in a remarkably short time he was breaking all the speed limits in Riverside, shifting gears in rapid-fire order, taking the corners at a Tetzlaff pace and causing the occupants of the tonneau to use the mat for a "prayer rug."

Carpenter declared that the big Indian was the brightest pupil he had ever had and it was hard to believe that he had not driven a car before.

After the drive and the lesson, the party returned to Shoulder's home, where the cup won by Philip Zeyouma in the Times Modified Marathon was displayed, together with other trophies dear to the students at the Indian school.

The instructor related many funny stories of the student life of the Indian boys and explained the system employed by the government in educating the American Indian. Joe also told some interesting tales of his own school days at Carlisle, and it was hard for the party to break away and start back to Los Angeles.

The return in the Abbott was made by the Valley boulevard, thus giving the factory men an opportunity to see more of Southern California. Arriving in the city at 6 o'clock the party declared it a novel day, full of pleasure.

Art Kincaid and Joe Mansfield in Studebaker Flanders Racer.

These boys stopped to give aid to an injured crew on the race course and in addition to winning the race, won the praise of the spectators and will be rewarded by the Studebaker corporation.

Well Earned.

WILL REWARD HUMANE ACT.

Studebaker People Praise Lads Who Stopped.

Kincaid and Mansfield Had Chance to Win.

Gave First Aid to Injured and Won Anyway.

Not for winning the race in which they finished first, but for being willing to lose it that they might aid fellow-drivers in trouble, will Art Kincaid and Joe Mansfield be rewarded.

Kincaid and Mansfield are employees of the local branch of the Studebaker Corporation. On Independence Day they took a little Studebaker Flanders racing machine down to Anaheim and there competed in the series of road races arranged for the big holiday. That they or the Shannon-Velie combination, also in a Studebaker Flanders, won every race on the card, is not the point, for the drivers and their helpers proved their worth in another way.

During the running of the big race of the day, the free-for-all, Kincaid and Mansfield started as favorites. They had won the previous event in handy fashion, and the big crowd and their friends began to encourage the boys.

"Go on, you two; we're for you," was one form of encouragement they received, and the driver and his mechanician determined to win for their backers. They left the tape in a cloud of smoke, and sped around the first turn in close pursuit of the car ahead of them.

Almost at the end of the first four-mile lap, just when the motor was purring its sweetest and the machine in front was gradually coming back into the near perspective, Kincaid and Mansfield saw the car ahead of them shoot into the air, overturn and come to rest a crumpled heap of scrap, with two human forms lying still on the ground at its side.

All thought of the race was lost. The little Studebaker car was stopped as quickly as its power would allow and driver and mechanician leaped out to render first aid to their unfortunate brethren.

There was little they could do. The driver of the overturned car, Charles Batterson, was dead, and his mechanician on the Colby, Pat Seale, was unconscious. He was still alive, however, so Kincaid and Mansfield, taking the turns without a thought of danger to themselves, rushed up to the home stretch and yelled out an order for doctors and an ambulance.

The boys then went on and won the race, despite the fact that they had given three precious minutes to help their fellows in distress.

For this they will receive greater and more lasting tribute than they did for winning. Advices to L. S. Weeks, assistant manager of the local Studebaker Corporation branch, are to the effect that the big automobile concern will reward driver and mechanician with a suitable purse and a cup to each, on which will be inscribed the fact that the glory of helping is greater than the glory of winning—that a touch of humanity is more than a pressure of the victor's laurel wreath.

It is also probable that both Kincaid and Mansfield will be mentioned for honors of a more public character. Studebaker Corporation officials will endeavor to obtain a Carnegie medal for each of the boys, and will ask that they be accorded recognition in proportion to the spirit which prompted their unselfish act.

Shannon and Velie, who drove the other Studebaker Flanders car in the same race, will be accorded their share of the purse to be given by the Studebaker Corporation. The boys work together to the extent that they divide prize money won in events where all participate, and Kincaid and Mansfield have announced their intention of carrying out this tacit agreement despite the fact that the additional purse is for their own individual work, aside from their skill as racing crews.

Soft for Rube.

While the major league club owners are agitating over the practices of their players taking part in semi-pro ball on off Sundays, Rube Marquard runs up into Connecticut and appears as the stellar attraction at a ball game. Marquard pitched one inning for the Port Chester team against the Bronx Independents. Of the three men who faced him, two fanned and one went out on a pop fly. Then the Rube rushed to the clubhouse, took off his uniform and collected the day's receipts.

OUT TO THE RANGE IN GARFORD TRUCK.

BY AL G. WADDELL.

AT 9 O'CLOCK last night forty members of Co. F, Seventh Regiment left for the Eastlake rifle range in one of the Lord Motor Car Company's big five-ton Garford motor trucks. Today, the first company shoot of the season will take place under the command and supervision of Capt. Frank McReynolds, company commander.

This command has been exceptionally active of late and interest has been keen in all matters military. The popular captain has had his men in the field several times during the last few weeks and a number of interesting and attractive drills have been held on the armory floor. But today the first shoot of the rifle season has brought out more enthusiasm than anything since the field firing expedition, held last fall.

The motor truck has become almost a necessity with the military men of this section and every time something is arranged for the officers secure the use of a power wagon.

Many sensational "stunts" have been staged by the members of the local companies and the motor truck has become extremely popular with all the local organizations.

CARRIES ALL THE GOODS.

When a truck is used the entire field equipment of a company may be carried out with the men, and many forms of instruction are indulged in by the "saber carriers," which would otherwise be out of the question.

Last night, Capt. McReynolds ordered the men to take their shelter halves out with them in addition to the company range and full field kitchen equipment, and immediately upon arriving at the site selected for the camp a shelter tent drill took place which would have made even the infantrymen of the regular service sit up and take notice.

The men retired to be called at sunrise, at which time the firing was to begin. Coffee was to be served at the early hour this morning and at 7 o'clock the regular breakfast was to be served by the company cook.

After being unloaded last night the big Garford truck was driven out of the way of the camp and was used as a storehouse for ammunition and the commissary supplies.

PLANS FOR BUSY DAY.

Capt. McReynolds plans to have his men complete the regular firing by noon today and during the afternoon work out three sets of field firing problems. One will be for the sergeants of the company in command of outposts, another for the corporals in charge of patrols and still another for the privates individually.

The disappearing targets, which will be used this afternoon, have been coated with olive-drab paint, and have been concealed behind brush and trees for the purpose of testing the range-finding ability of each man in the company.

A gold watch has been put up by the captain for the highest individual score, and in each division gold stick pins will go to the winners.

At 4 o'clock it is proposed to break camp and start back to the armory in the truck.

During the afternoon some of the men will be instructed in the operation of the Garford truck by a representative of the Lord Motor Car Company. In the organization there are a number of expert automobilists and there are a great many who are interested in motor-car affairs, and these men have asked to be taught to drive the big truck.

Over the Grade.

ELECTRIC CAR ON OVERLAND TRIP.

G. R. BEACH of the California Automobile Company, and his wife, returned from Santa Barbara yesterday, where they had delivered a new Columbus Electric stanhope to Richard Dykes, a prominent citizen of the Channel City, overland, it being the first electric car to ever travel over this route.

As Volney S. Beardsley, president and general manager of the California Automobile Company, has great confidence in the Columbus Electric, and this model is noted for its long mileage, it was decided to attempt to deliver this car overland.

According to automobile measurement, the distance between Los Angeles and Santa Barbara is 103.5 miles, and as the mileage capacity of the electric under ordinary conditions, is rated at 100 miles, arrangements were made with a party at Ventura to assist the car up the East and West Casitas Mountain, a climb of several miles which taxes even the high-power gas cars.

The Columbus Electric was assisted for a distance of 12.3 miles and reached Santa Barbara on its own power, with 96.2 miles to its credit, actual mileage made on its own power.

At the Arlington Hotel, where the electric ended its long journey, the batteries were strong, and it is believed by Beach, that if run down, would have added a few more miles to the day's run.

Leaving Los Angeles at 8:20 a.m., the electric arrived at Ventura at 1 p.m. At this point, a stop of two hours was made exhibiting the first electric automobile ever seen on the streets of Ventura. The car attracted great crowds of interested admirers. It was 6:10 p.m. when the Columbus arrived at the Arlington in Santa Barbara.

This tour demonstrates beyond a doubt the practicability of the modern electric, and proves that the battery car is no longer serviceable on the city streets, alone, but with good boulevards, can be used for long pleasure tours to most any point in Southern California.

The time is not far distant when charging stations will be found in almost every small town, and touring in an electric can be enjoyed without fear of "running out." At present, there is no charging station between Los Angeles and Santa Barbara.

In commenting on his trip, the California Automobile Company's representative said, "We are all proud of the performance of the Columbus Electric. At this season of the year the roads are rough, and the performance of an electric, traveling 96.2 miles of this route is really remarkable."

With the new Rincon boulevard completed and cutting off the Casitas grade, an electric should make the run to Santa Barbara on a single charge with ease.

CARE OF TRUCK.

Some Attention Is a Requisite to Long Life—Life of Usefulness Limited Without Proper Treatment.

According to O. R. Fuller, general manager of the Pioneer Commercial Auto Company, distributors of the G.M.C. trucks, the life of a commercial vehicle depends entirely upon the care it receives, and therefore, it must not be neglected any more than a horse should be. If all owners of motor vehicles would realize the importance of this point the trucks would not depreciate so rapidly. Fuller says that next to picking the truck comes the choice of the right driver, for a great deal of the efficiency of the machine depends on him.

"You would not think of doing manual labor four or five days at a time without nourishment, and on this principle must the care of a truck be based," said Fuller. "They should not be run for a week continually without attention, but should be gone over periodically. The driver should have this habit and not be allowed to neglect it, as he probably will if he is not impressed with the importance of it, as the work the truck does proves how much care it has received.

"Giant locomotives are inspected after each run and certainly a motor truck, which is a much finer piece of mechanism, should receive as much consideration. The parts requiring lubrication must receive it. It is better to receive too much lubricant than not enough. Remember that friction not only causes a reduction of power, but the constant wear of one part working against another will cause a breakage. Avoid all these things by keeping all the fractional parts well oiled.

"One truck which I know of has been in use for over six years and is doing good work today. Proper care has brought about this long record. This also belies the statement that a truck's life of usefulness is limited, as it may from practical experience, last for a number of years if it receives the right care and treatment."

There are good, clean, bona fide reasons back of this auction sale. We are preparing for a big shipment of new 1913 cars. Specifications are in, and we must positively make room for them. Every automobile dealer naturally accumulates a number of second-hand cars during the season's business. Some of these cars have been left with us to sell, and apply the proceeds on the purchase price of a new car. We have taken others in exchange for new models. We are particularly careful in accepting only those cars which are in excellent condition. We've always refused to accept worn-out cars.

Our business in electric cars is extensive. Many owners of high-grade gasoline cars are dispensing with these vehicles and the costly chauffeurs and substituting electric cars. We find ourselves obligated to assist our patrons in disposing of their gasoline cars, and this is one of the reasons why we have the present large stock to offer. The auction will be conducted by Rhoades & Rhoades, the city's best known and most reliable auctioneers, and our instruction to them is to positively sell every car that is offered, regardless of price.

The present stock of automobiles is positively the finest lot we have ever had on hand. Never before in the history of the local automobile business has such an excellent stock of automobiles been offered at auction. This is our first auction. Heretofore we have closed out all slightly used cars at private sale—but this time, we've decided to turn the entire $15,000 stock at one stroke—and have good clean spaces for our new 1913 models.

Every car has been placed in the very "pink of condition"—and to show our faith in these sterling slightly used machines, we back every car with a GUARANTEE against defective material or workmanship for three months. We'll go even farther—every purchaser will not only get a written three months' guarantee—but also a written agreement that any time within three months (barring accident or abuse) we will take the car back at 80 per cent. of the price paid, in exchange on any new 1913 car we have for sale.

And here's still more substantial evidence of our faith in every machine offered. We offer TERMS—we are not merely after cash—we will take half cash, and accept good paper drawing 7 per cent. interest on the balance—or a 5 per cent. discount on the deferred payments will be allowed if the purchaser prefers to pay all cash.

The cars will be on exhibition at the salesrooms of Rhoades & Rhoades, one day prior to the sale, and we cordially invite all prospective bidders to call in advance. Bring along any automobile expert you desire. Rigidly inspect the car that appeals to you most, and a thorough demonstration will be given. You will then have an intimate knowledge of the condition of the car you want before bidding. The reputation of this house is of too high a character to entertain anything that savors of misrepresentation. We will conduct an honest, straight-from-the-shoulder auction. Every car listed will positively be sold to the highest bidder. The purchasers of these cars will get the best automobile bargains ever offered in Los Angeles.

These are Actual Photographs of Cars to be Sold

Winton Six Roadster

This car is in first-class condition. Equipment—demountable rims, 34x4½ tires, with one extra casing, tube, tire cover, rim and tire carrier. All tires practically new. Handsome roomy trunk on rear. Genuine Pantasote top. Slip covers. Glass front. Prest-o-lite gas tank, speedometer. Electric lights and the famous Winton self-starter.
Car is painted Winton gray. Original cost of car and equipment was $3250. Positively looks like new. Some lucky buyer will get a wonderful automobile bargain here. This is a fine high-class roadster. Come and try it out in advance.

Auburn Forty

A late fore-door model, in the very "pink of condition." Equipped with the famous 4½x5-inch Rutinber motor. 36-inch wheels with one extra tire, tube, tire cover and irons. All tires practically new. A large roomy, five-passenger, easy riding car. Top, hood, wind shield and speedometer. Painted a handsome French gray. All trimmings in nickel. Original cost was $2000. Somebody will get a snap in this.

Firestone "35"

The motor in this staunch car is a 4½x4½ cylinder cast in pairs. Self-contained oiling system, magneto and dual ignition system. 34x4-inch tires, with extra tire, tire cover, tube and irons. All tires in excellent condition. 120-inch wheel base with full platform rear springs. Annular ball bearings throughout with full floating axle. This car has fore-doors, top cover, wind shield, speedometer, Prest-o-lite gas tank and tools. Original cost was $2250. Has been newly painted a dark Brewster green.

California "30"

This was one of the finest cars ever built by the local factory. It is a 30 H. P., five-passenger model. Has Rutinber motor, Bosch magneto, 33x4-inch tires with extra tire, tube and cover. Tires brand new. Equipped with Pantasote top, wind shield, speedometer, Prest-o-lite gas tank and tools. Handsomely painted in red. Original cost, as equipped, $1850.

Some Other Handsome Models That Will Be Sacrificed Under the Hammer

Thomas Little Six, 7-Passenger has recently been thoroughly overhauled, replacing every bearing or part where the slightest wear was found. Tires are 36 inches, and all new, including two extra tires, tubes, tire covers and irons. A late fore-door model with very complete equipment, consisting of top cover, wind shield, Prest-o-lite, tank, speedometer and tools. Handsomely painted a dark Brewster green. The original cost of this car was $3200. It is a lightweight, 7-passenger car, and will, undoubtedly, be sold under the hammer at an exceptionally low figure.

Stoddard Dayton 5-Passenger Touring Car
One of the older model cars, thoroughly overhauled and now in good running condition. Equipped with Rutinber motor—4½x5, 40 H. P. This will make an excellent car for delivery purposes. We predict that this car will sell for less than the actual value of the motor and tires alone.

One Limousine Body
7-Passenger—from a Locomobile car.
This is one of the finest Limousine bodies ever constructed. Beautifully upholstered in the finest quality of goatskin. It probably cost at least $1500 to bulid.
It will make a fine body to equip on some chassis, and use the car for high-class rental business. Look out for a wonderful bargain on this body.

Columbia Electric Victoria
New batteries were installed at an expense of $240. New front wheel spindles and bearings, costing $30, and two new rear tires at a cost of $60—all this has been done within the past sixty days, placing this electric in first-class running condition. Cost new, $2000.

Baker Electric Runabout
The batteries are in thoroughly good condition, and the tires are practically new. A trim little car to use for a season, and it will then probably be worth as much or more than the price it will bring at this sale. It will, undoubtedly, go at a sacrifice figure.

Waverly Electric Stanhope
Has been equipped with new batteries within the past eight months. Tires are practically new. This vehicle will probably sell for less than its real trading value, one year from the present date. It goes to the highest bidder for what it will bring.

Columbus Electric Roadster
One of the classiest electric roadsters ever built. Equipped with 30 cells, 11 M. V. Standard Batteries. The car will show a speed of 25 miles and is good for 75 miles on a charge. This car has only been in use a few months, and is almost like new. Original cost, $2100.

Space Will Not Permit Giving a Full Description of Every Car, But Several More Cars of Equally Good Value Will Be Included in this Sale

BIG MARKET FOR AUTOS IN BRAZIL.

An interesting tour is now being made by George J. Smith of Rio de Janeiro, Brazil, in a fifty-horse-power Simplex. Smith is making the tour for the purpose of studying automobile marketing and selling conditions. He spent several days at the Simplex factory at New Brunswick. He will also visit Detroit, Indianapolis and other manufacturing centers. He is planning to hold an automobile show next year in Brazil. Smith recently made a talk before a gathering of automobile men in New York City and discussed the selling market of his own country.

"American goods are in great demand there," said Smith. "They are considered up-to-date and worthy. England, Germany and France, with Italy and Austria, have enjoyed a big trade with South America for many years. They have gone after the business on a large scale, which the American manufacturer must do if he wishes to make good with us.

The few American machines represented in South America, and the manufacturers who employ the selling methods are getting a slice of the business done.

An American motor car has made the first to cross the continent of Australia, a distance of four thousand which 1000 miles were

HOKE HITTERS HARD TO FOOL.

Harry Stewart Gives Away Trade Secrets.

The Swingers Are Easy Ones to Strike Out.

Leitmuller Tough Nut for Any Flinger to Crack.

BY GREY OLIVER.

"Who are the toughest batsmen for a pitcher to go against in this league?" I asked Harry Stewart of the Vernon team yesterday in answer to a question of mine.

"Why, the fellows who choke the bat," he replied to his own and my question.

Harry should know, for he has gone against practically all of the players in the league since the opening of the season, and had a large amount of experience with many of the league stars while pitching for the San Francisco team a year or so ago, during which time he pitched to a number of the men now on the Vernon team.

"I'll tell you why the fellow who chokes the bat, or who holds it in the middle like Kane, Mohler and others, are the worst for any pitcher in the league. They can get a short-but sharper swing at the ball, seem to place themselves better on the ground and can follow the ball better than those who take a long swing at it. When the fellow with the long swing sees a ball that he thinks he can hit he often swings at it when he does not intend to strike at it, for a very good reason that he cannot stop his bat as easily as can the one who grips it in the middle.

CHOKERS DANGEROUS.

"It is very hard to fool such fellows as Kane, Bayless and Mohler, because the 'choke hold' on the bat gives them better control of it, and they can meet the ball better. You do not find such men as these three strike out very often. We pitchers call choke hitters for they are always ready to snap at the ball from any direction. They are always set for a fast or slow ball, or practically any kind of a curve that comes near the plate and the bat is never heavy to handle.

"Now you do not think that Kane and Mohler can hit just notice the batting averages and watch how easily they drive the ball to the fence every time. I speak about these two particularly, not because they are on the Vernon team, but owing to the fact that they are good illustrations of choke hitters and are here before your eyes every day.

"These swingers like Swain and others I might mention are easier to pitch out than Kane or Bayless, because by being able to follow the ball quickly, a pitcher has more time to mix 'em up as we say. Of course when they do hit you, they usually hit hard, because they have the full benefit of a long swing in the bat and the ball is bound to move fast and true if it is hit squarely.

"Batting statesmen is easy all the time, for instance, when you strike out three times in the same game, may come back the next game and hit every ball you pitch, no matter whether the pitcher is not as good as the batsman is better.

HEITMULLER GOOD.

"Heitmuller is a good illustration of a bad man to pitch to, for he has a habit of trying to hit everything you pitch at him. He is a high ball, low, outside, fast or slow, hitter, so he is about the hardest man in the league to pitch to. At least he was easy to me.

"Berger of Oakland, seems to be a fairly good hitter on a slow curve ball, but Swain is liable to hit anything. In Sacramento I worked a slow ball on him and got away with it, but here, I tried a slow one to him and he lifted it over the fence. Berger is a good hitter and a good one and is liable to hit anything, but is considered very dangerous.

"The most successful pitcher in this league is the one who mixes his pace and changes his pace. What I mean is that no pitcher can use one style of a ball all the time to one batter and get away with it.

"Even if a pitcher starts out with a ball that has his nerve, he will get hit in instances. Still, there are some good hitters in this league who can keep the pitchers guessing. Art Kreuger of Portland, for instance. He is a natural hitter and will hit anything you pitch at him. He is the best hit and run batter I ever saw and you have to work all the time to beat him guessing.

"Getting a pitcher must have in his delivery is control, but from my point of view I think the hitters in this league keep any pitcher guessing. It is a matter of control. All of use have our bad days and from the way the scores are hitting the ball, I think that the pitchers are getting the best of it this year."

"Who are the toughest batsmen for pitchers to go against in this league?" Harry Stewart of the Vernon Tigers said yesterday in answer to a question of mine.

"Why, the fellows who choke the bat," he replied to his own and my question.

"I'll tell you why the fellow who chokes the bat, or who 'holds it in the middle' like Kane, Mohler and Berger are the worst for any pitcher in the league. They can get a shorter, quicker swing at the ball, seem to somehow see better on the ground and follow the ball better than those who take a long swing at it.

"Then the fellow with the long swing has a ball that he thinks he can hit often swings at it when he does not intend to strike at it, for the very good reason that he cannot hit but as easily as can the one who grips it in the middle.

Take Krueger of Portland, for instance. He is a natural hitter and will hit anything you pitch at him, but he is the best hit and run batter and the most you have to work a little time to beat him guessing.

"Then a pitcher must have in addition to control, but from my experience I think the hitters in this league like any pitcher guessing. They are not afraid. All of use have had bad days and from the way we are hitting the ball, I think the pitchers are getting better of this year."

Ain't It a Shame.

BALL PLAYERS NOTHING BUT MISTREATED SLAVES.

'At Least that Was Mr. Blue's Idea of the Tyranny of the Baseball Trust Even as He Hopped and Zigzagged Across the Street to Avoid Being Hit by Their Autos on Way to Game.

BY KARL D. PANCAKE.

MR. LUGUBRIOUS BLUE looked more depressed than even his usual wont. His long thin nose, his thin-lipped, drooping mouth, his pale blue eyes and his cadaverous cheeks, fairly leaked sorrow.

"Everything going to smash in the blamed country. The trusts are gobbling up everything. A man has no chance," he moaned to himself. "The trustst won't keep their hands off anything. They have even got their grip on our national sport, baseball, the finest sport in the world. I tell you the country is going to the demnition bow-wows."

Mr. Blue's feet were on his roller-top desk, his body was sunk comfortably in a big swivel chair, and outwardly he was at ease, even if his mind was filled with discontented thoughts. Just then there came an interruption. Mr. Brightside from the office across the hall came bursting into the room.

"Hello, old chap, aren't you going out to the game today? Here it is nearly 3 o'clock. Let's get a hustle on," he shouted in his usual breezy fashion.

Mr. Lugubrious Blue scowled fiercely.

"Baseball, that's just what I was thinking of. It's been swallowed up by the cussed trusts and—"

SOMETHING DOING.

"Oh, cheer up," said Mr. Brightside. "Let's go out to the Cubs park and forget business. Marquard is going to pitch against Chance's phenom, young Jimmie Lavender. Ought to be a great battle. 'Member when Brown and Mathewson used to hook up in 1908. This promises to be just as good a show."

Mr. Blue finally left his office with Mr. Brightside. On their way to the elevated train that was to transport them to the westside, Mr. Blue kept up his running remarks on syndicate baseball.

"Baseball players today are nothing more than slaves," he said mournfully. "They sign a contract and are in the power of a team owner for life. They have no liberty of their own. They are worse off than Uncle Tom was."

"Look out there," yelled Mr. Brightside and he yanked Mr. Blue aside just as a big automobile swept past along Jackson boulevard. Mr. Blue jumped and as he did so, the driver of the car grinned and waved a friendly hand. For the first time in the afternoon, Mr. Blue smiled. Indeed, he fairly beamed as he waved back a greeting.

"That's Frank Chance in his big car. One of the finest fellows you ever met. I know him well. I meet him every winter in Los Angeles where he has an orange ranch," he complacently informed his companion. Then he returned to his hobby.

"A ball player now has to play for whatever money the magnate wants to give him. He is owned body and soul. He can be sold just like a slave. He—"

Honk, honk, honk, came the warning sound of another auto horn. Mr. Blue saw the driver and grinned again.

"Hello, Frank, you homerun kid," he yelled enthusiastically as the car sped by.

"That's Frank Schulte in the car he got last year when he pounded out twenty-five home runs," explained Mr. Blue.

"Uh," grunted Mr. Brightside, but he said nothing. Then Mr. Blue got started again.

"As I was saying," he began, "the ball player today is nothing but a piece of chattel. He has no rights He—"

This time another auto horn.

"Hello, Johnny. Hello, you little Trojan," shouted Mr. Blue.

"Who was that?" inquired Mr. Brightside.

Mr. Blue's bosom swelled tremendously.

NOT BROKE.

"That," he said impressively, "was Johnny Evers, the greatest little second baseman that ever put on a spiked shoe. He just bought a dandy new car the other day. He gets a new one every year. I was in the auto store when he bought his car, and I tell you he got a beauty." Then Mr. Blue pointed excitedly to a big machine that was tearing along. It was filled with a laughing bunch of keen-eyed young fellows, whose clear skins told of good wholesome living and plenty of exercise.

"That is Ed Reulbach taking Sheckard, Tinker and Archer out to the game in his machine," he said. "I know Tinker well. He's got a big apple orchard up in Oregon, makes about $5000 for five months' work in baseball and $350 a week for his vaudeville sketch of baseball in the winter. Nice boy is Joe. He's got a fine wife and a dandy pair of kids, too."

"I suppose that Sheckard and Archer are broke. They have no autos," ventured Mr. Brightside.

Mr. Lugubrious Blue snorted indignantly.

"Not on your life," he bellowed. "They have theirs stored away and invested in good things, I can tell you. Those fellows are level-headed, and when they quit baseball they can live without worrying."

When Mr. Blue and Mr. Brightside arrived at the Cub Park and saw the big stands filling with well-dressed people, and looked out over the smooth green field, dotted here and there by players in spotless white uniforms, they both breathed ecstatic sighs.

"Swell day for a game," said Mr. Brightside. Mr. Blue was looking like a normal human being. He was expanding under the influence of the national game like a dry sponge that had been tossed in a bucket of water.

"Nice grounds here," he said complacently. "I tell you, baseball is a great business. It costs about $700 a day to run a big team. Why, in Pittsburgh, Forbes Field, with its big steel and concrete stands, cost nearly $1,000,000. Think of that. New York has got a stand that seats more than 40,000 people. Brooklyn is building a new stand and grounds. I tell you, baseball is some business."

"Pretty soft to come here in the afternoon, sit in the grand stand and watch something that gives you two hours of thrills for 75 cents," remarked Mr. Brightside, as he lighted a long, thin Panatella and prepared to watch Jimmy Lavender and Marquard "warm up."

"It's the cleanest, most-honest sport in the world," averred Mr. Blue. "Why, I remember when we used to go down to the lake front, sit in hard, dirty seats and boil in the sun to watch Cap Anson and his old "White Stockings" play.

PRETTY TOUGH.

"But its certainly tough on those slaves of ball players," softly interjected Mr. Brightside, looking covertly at his companion. The shaft sailed straight over Mr. Blue's uncovered dome.

"Come into my office some day and I will explain to you all about this baseball trust and how it ought to be and can be smashed," remarked Mr. Blue.

"Play ball," yelled the umpire.

Snodgrass of New York walked to the plate swinging his bat.

Three times he swung his bat at the little white pill that came flashing up to the plate with all the puzzling curve that Jimmy Lavender's arm could put on it.

"Striker out," yelled the ump.

"That's the boy, that's the boy, Jimmy," yelled Mr. Blue in great glee.

"Poor slaves, even the populace hates them," thought Mr. Brightside as the stands roared and reverberated with cries of encouragement to the young pitcher.

Then he misquoted softly: "The game's the thing."

CHANGES IN OFFICIALS OF BIG COMPANY.

A great many changes have been made in the business organization of the American Motors Company of Indianapolis. D. S. Menasco, vice-president and sales manager of the company, has, due to the increased growth and business of the organization, found it necessary to relinquish the greater part of the office work and devote his time to the corporation and organization matters.

He will take charge of the field work and will spend much time in investigating conditions in different sections of the country and furthering the interests of the concern. He will keep in very close touch with the dealers throughout the United States and Canada.

D. B. Williams, assistant sales and advertising manager, has been appointed publicity manager in charge of all advertising work, and C. C. Perrin, formerly connected with the Regal Motor Car Company, has been installed as sales manager. Perrin has for three years been connected with the Regal company in the capacity of sales manager. He recently resigned that position to take up the work with the American Motors Company.

Inner tubes often come in cardboard boxes. These afford ample protection while they are stored on the dealers' shelves, but not when placed in the car.

In and Out.

COAST TEAMS CHANGE QUICK.

Beavers and Seals Examples of the Process.

Rapps and Fisher Remnants of Championship Team.

San Francisco Only Has Four Members of 1909 Nine.

As a shining example of how minor league championship teams change in a remarkably short space of time, take a squint at the line-up of the club which won the pennant for Portland in 1910 and the one now sporting McCredie's second division togs. Rapps and Fisher are the only men left, although Krueger finished the season with the combination that fall.

The San Francisco Seals likewise furnish an excellent sample of progression and retrogression. At this writing there are only four members of the Seals who belonged at the time the Ewingites won their lone pennant in 1909, and who probably had as much as anybody else to do with the success of that campaign.

They are Ernest Mohler, captain and second-sacker; Claude Berry, catcher; Cack Henley, pitcher, and Mundorff, outfielder. Even McArdle has lost out in the shuffle.

MANY ARE GONE.

Of the victorious pitchers of that crusade, Meikle has gone to Tacoma; Willis is with Vancouver; Eastley is with the Portland Northwesterners; Browning is in the Texas League, where he went in exchange for Red Toner; Stewart is with Vernon, and Durham, Griffin and Corbett are "hors du" Coast League.

First Baseman Tennant got "in bad" with the bosses last fall, and is now with Sioux City in the Western League; Shortstop McArdle has been set down as too poor a sticker, while Third Baseman Zeider, the real star of that aggregation, is playing first base for the Chicago White Sox.

Of the outfielders, Ping Bodie is busting fences with the Chicago Americans; Lewis has gone to Sacramento, and Melchoir to Spokane. Catcher Nick Williams is managing the Portland class B club. Outfielder Miller, who batted .347 in sixty games, is also in the majors.

Thus it can be seen that of the entire lot of some twenty odd men, four are still with the Seals—one of them is said to be scheduled for the toboggan, Catcher Berry—three have climbed to the major league; two are still in class AA with other clubs, and ten or more have fallen by the wayside.

THREE ARE SLIPPING.

Of the remnants, three of the men are slowly but surely slipping, and another season or two will likely see them in other pastures. Danny Shea's addition to the backstopping department will likely see the transfer of the "iron man," Berry; Mohler is out now with a bad leg, although it is significant that in all the talk of switches the little southpaw's name has not once been mentioned; Henley started out well this season, but of late the opposition has shown a tendency to solve his shoots.

Fans of the 1909 period will recall that Henley led the league's pitchers that fall with thirty-one wins and only ten losses; Willis had twenty victories and nine losses; Browning thirty-two victories and sixteen defeats, Eastley nineteen victories and sixteen defeats, and Stewart three victories and four wallopings.

Mundorff played in less than one-half the full quota of games that season, and was not considered very promising, although the Seals did keep a string on him until this season, when he broke in the limelight with his bat. He was a youngster then, but hit .265 in 102 games.

FOREIGN INVASION.

French, English and German Makers of Cars Fight for Popularity. Increasing Production.

America is experiencing an invasion of foreign engineers at present, as well as an invasion of many production managers from French, English and German factories and not a few of the directors and others interested in increasing automobile production. The coming midsummer convention of the Society of Automobile Engineers at Detroit is responsible for the numbers on this side at the present time. Some of them are here with the object of establishing engineering connection in a consulting capacity with American factories, others are investigating American production methods and others are here to purchase machinery for factories.

A company at Brockton, Mass., has opened a motor line from that city to Brant Rock, a popular summer resort, and several cars are running back and forth daily.

SPORT MISSING IN DEER CHASE.

Sportsmen Maintain Season Opens Too Early.

Animals, Worthless, Invite Slaughter.

Soft Horns May Be Crushed With Fingers.

[Special Correspondence of The Times.]

PORTERVILLE, July 11.—Those who enjoy killing deer with a club, and having killed them find that the horns, hide and meat are worthless, will enjoy the deer hunting at this time in the Porterville Sierras, the season for the game having opened July 1.

Many a party of merry huntsmen, armed with 30-30 rifles and plenty of bait, took to the higher meadows the morning of Sunday last, to be in the upper reaches in ample time for the opening day. They were equipped with the regulation ammunition for long range shooting, and then had little use for it. None of the animals are in shape to take to the brush, and realizing, apparently, the uselessness of running themselves to death, they appear to invite their own slaughter with the least waste of energy.

As a matter of fact, the season opens at least six weeks too early. Many deer have been slaughtered—there is not a suggestion of sport about it—only to find the animals with their horns still in the velvet, their pelts covered with ticks, poor as scarecrows and the flesh so rank and strong as to be unfit food for the dogs.

The brush is the natural cover for deer, but the bucks will not take to the brush when their horns are so soft that they can be crushed between the thumb and finger. As a result practically all of the bucks, and especially the older ones, are still to be found in the meadows, and as it is still early in the season, none of the bucks reported so far are in any kind of condition for venison.

Up to the present time nearly as many deer have been reported as are ordinarily taken in an entire season. If the present conditions continue for a few years more, the deer will have gone to join the dodo and the great auk.

BEARS IN TROUBLE.

There is one bright side to the early invasion of the hills and a side which presents its cheerful aspect to the ranchers of the upper hills, and that is, the bear are certainly getting theirs. For some unaccountable reason there appears to be unusual numbers of the small black bears in the hills this year. The fondness of bruin for growing pork is notorious, and it is complained that raising pigs is about out of the question in the upper foothills. The Indians of the Tule reserve have been shooting numbers of the animals, chiefly as a protective measure, however. At this season of the year a bear hide is worth but little—and bear meat is worth but little more than that at any time.

Bear steaks have been exhibited for sale in the local markets and have more or less advertised themselves to the passers-by. The hardier spirits, who want to say they have done it, have bought small quantities of it—and then moved out of the house while it cooked.

Officials of the local game protective associations are endeavoring to keep an accurate as possible account of all deer taken in the hills this year, with a view to making a showing to the Legislature next session which will result in changes in the open season. There is no question that present conditions will result in practical extermination of the animals, in spite of the fact that the many volunteer game wardens appear to have cut down the slaughter. Some of the gun clubs of neighboring communities oppose a change on purely selfish grounds, as this is the season when most people take their vacations—which is another reason why the open season should be changed, if we are to protect the game.

The New Champion.

SPRINTER MEREDITH HAS INTERESTING CAREER.

BY MARGARET W. DE PEYSTER.

[BY FEDERAL (WIRELESS) LINE TO THE TIMES.]

PHILADELPHIA BUREAU OF THE TIMES, July 13.—[Special Dispatch.] Down in the little town of Media, Pa., thirteen miles from Philadelphia, lives the family of "Ted" Meredith, the 20-year-old school boy, who broke the world's record in winning the final heat of the 800-meter run at the Olympic games in Stockholm.

The town is of the quaint old Quaker type, surrounded by the richest farms in the State. On one of these farms, Meredith was reared and in the fresh pure air of the country, laid the foundation for the marvelous framework of muscle and speed that flashed over the line in Stockholm, a winner over the best runners that the world can produce.

His five sisters were the first to hear the news, his father being busy on the farm, which is near Elwyn.

"Isn't that just grand," cried one sister, while the other echoed her sentiment. "I had no idea Ed would win the race, but we were all hoping for the best. Somebody run and tell father. Goodness, won't he be glad. But Ted was always doing the unexpected. Why should we be surprised."

In the meantime Mr. Meredith strolled to the house.

"Ed won his race, father," cried out one of the Miss Merediths, and immediately the father quickened his pace. "Tell me all about it," said he. He smiled as he heard that his son not only had won the race, but also had broken the world's record for the distance.

"I had Ed picked as a sure thing for one of the three first places," said Mr. Meredith. "The men I was afraid possibly would beat him out were Davenport of Chicago University or Caldwell, of Massachussetts Agricultural College, both men to expect big things of, but neither of these men was even placed in the event.

TRAINED AS A HORSE.

"Ed has been trained just as I trained my horses. I made no distinction at all. This method of my own in training, which has made prise-winners of dozens of my horse breeds, I decided to try on my boy and my method has been successful. I started to train Ed when he was 15 years old, nothing very much, of course, because he was too young then, but just to keep a watchful eye on him to see that he should get the proper idea how to run. He had a natural inclination to this form of athletics and I merely encouraged him to continue.

"I saw no reason why Ed, with my previous experience to guide him, should not become a star as a runner. He is temperate in all his habits, but one thing which is generally emphasized in the training of a runner, which I didn't put much stock in, was the eating. I always gave him all he could eat, pie, ice cream, almost anything. There has been a story circulated that I was in the habit of fastening him to the back of the dog cart whenever I went for a jog about the country, but this is not so, of course. Being in close touch with Ed and being his real trainer ever since he was a boy, I was well aware of his ability as a runner, and knew just what he was able to do. Consequently the news of his victory does not come as much of a surprise, for really, I was more than half expecting it."

Meredith sailed with the Olympic team with Lippincott, the Pennsylvania freshman, as a cabin mate. These two boys met first at the Boston Olympic trials.

HUNDREDS OF TROPHIES.

Meredith was graduated from the Delaware county school and from there entered the Williamson school near Elwyn. He was graduated as a stone mason after three years' study. For the last year he has been taking a preparatory course at Mercersburg Academy with the intention of entering the University of Pennsylvania next fall.

While at Mercersburg he took first place in the 220, 440, and 880-yard dashes in practically every meet in which he entered. An idea of the number of races in which he took part can be got from seeing the medals which he won in these events. They number up toward 200, while the cups captured are counted by the dozens.

When Meredith was timed for the quarter mile when 17, he was snapped by the stop-watch in 48 1-5. Similar performances in the other distances have been recorded, but not officially.

EASTERN TENNIS EXPERTS PREDICT NEW CHAMPION.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE OF THE TIMES.]

NEW YORK, July 8.—Ranking players are already commencing to discuss the probable outcome of this year's national lawn tennis championship. It is pretty generally felt that there will be a new champion this year.

In the last eleven years only four Americans, Larned, Ward, Wright and Clothier, have won the title. Of these four men one, Larned, has been in the first rank for two decades. The other three have occupied similar positions for at least half that time.

This year the titleholder will be obliged to play through the tournament. Could Larned remain at the top of his form through a whole week? Many are positive that he could not. This year the veteran has been seen oftener on the links than the courts. In fact, the only lawn tennis match of any consequence that he has figured in this season was the men's doubles at Tuxedo some weeks ago. It is believed to be more than likely that Larned will decide not to defend his title, preferring to go down in American lawn tennis history as an undefeated champion.

FEW PROMISING PLAYERS.

During the last decade less than half a dozen men have ever given promise of attaining the championship. McLoughlin of San Francisco, Bundy of Los Angeles, Touchard, Long, Niles and Johnson, and only the first two could be seriously considered in this connection. The present favorite for the title is Maurice F. McLoughlin, the brilliant player from the Pacific Coast. Last year McLoughlin was the challenger. McLoughlin met his first ranking player in Dabney. The latter, by aggressive play, succeeded in forcing one set to deuce, though he could not capture one. McLoughlin met Beals C. Wright in the finals. He played like a whirlwind, sacrificing safety to dash and abandon, charging the net at every opening and volleying like one possessed, breaking the strings in five racquets during the match and earning 68 points to Wright's 29. In the challenge match McLoughlin played remarkably well and tried everything in his power, but was unable to break the master's perfect defense, namely, his almost superhuman attack.

A new player, who has revealed the qualities that go to the making of a champion is Richard Norris Williams, Jr., the young Philadelphian. By the time the championship is held Williams should be good enough to encounter on equal terms all but three or four of the best players. Williams has the physique, the brains, the knowledge, the strokes and apparently the temperament to make a champion.

Professional chauffeurs of Baltimore are indignant over that section of the new motor car laws which provides that professional chauffeurs—that is, men who drive for wages cars that are hired out—shall pay $5 for their drivers' licenses while others shall pay but $2, and have started a fight against it.

Studebaker

Flanders "20"

Suppose we deliver a "20" at your door tomorrow—

Touring time is here; and you feel the urge of it.

Telephone the Studebaker dealer and have a "20" sent out tomorrow.

It will cost you $900—or $995, if it's fully equipped.

And what will you get—will you get $900 worth.

Well, we don't know of a better $900 worth in the world.

We'd say that, even if you judged it only from the standpoint of size; and good looks; and workmanship; and material; and generous specifications.

But that isn't the main point.

The thing that ought to bring you to a decision to send for the "20" tomorrow is the certainty that you're not taking a chance.

It might be wise to take more time if the "20" were just a motor car.

But it's infinitely more than that—it's a Studebaker motor car.

Seventy-five thousand other owners have preceded you in the Studebaker "testing out" process.

Sixty years of faithful performance have made the Studebaker word as good as gold.

Enormous productive capacity and world-wide distribution make the price right.

Yield to that impulse to get a car at once.

You're made absolutely safe by that name Studebaker.

Telephone the Studebaker dealer.

Take the children with you when you get the first demonstration tomorrow.

NATIONAL SHOOT TO BE HELD AT SACRAMENTO.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SACRAMENTO, July 13.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Crack shots from all over the country will be attracted to Sacramento during the California State Fair to attend a national blue rock shoot to be held under the auspices of the Capital City Blue Rock Club of Sacramento, with the assistance of the Pacific Coast Blue Rock Association, which includes all the clubs in the West.

The meet will probably be one of the largest ever attempted on the Coast. It will open on Sunday, November 15, and last over Monday and Tuesday. Sunday will be the big day of the meet, when the famous Sorenson individual championship diamond medal for 100 targets will be awarded.

A handsome trophy will be offered for a three-men team event on Sunday. The big shoots on Sunday will be for prizes amounting to $2000. The trophies up for the entire meet aggregate $4000.

The big arms and power companies will send crack professional shots for exhibition work, but the competition for prizes will be for amateurs only.

CROWN PRINCE TIRED OF PAYING SPEED FINES.

[By Atlantic Cable and by Wireless from Chicago to The Times.]

BERLIN, July 13.—Crown Prince William was fined so many times for over-speeding when he motored from Kiel to Berlin after regatta week, when riding incognito, that the crown has reappeared upon the Prince's car.

Traveling incognito was very pleasant until the fines for speeding piled up.

"I am no millionaire, and such fines would ruin me," the Crown Prince said.

Berlin was highly amused at this admission that the Prince has the speed habit. The court gossip declares that he still has two cars without the crown which he uses for incognito trips when Danzig gets too dull.

ENGLAND PICKS BOATS FOR SPEED DASHES.

[BY CABLE AND A. P. TO THE TIMES.]

SOUTHAMPTON, July 13.—Only three motor boats appeared today in the elimination trials to select the British representatives for the race to be held in the United States on August 31 for the international trophy.

Mackay Edgar's Maple Leaf IV covered a course of thirty-three nautical miles in 49 minutes. The Marquis of Anglesey's Mona covered the same course in 1 hour 1 minute and 46 seconds and Norman C. Neill's Milmar in 1 hour 4 minutes and 33 seconds. Three boats are to be sent to the United States.

CLASSY EQUIPMENT.

R.C.H. Touring Car Will Be Pioneer Low-Priced Machine in Making Innovation.

A sensation among the automobile producing circles has been created by the announcement of the equipment of the R.C.H. touring car for 1913. The equipment made known recently by the R.C.H. corporation is in a class which has before been looked for only on the higher-priced cars. It includes five electric lights, non-skid, 32x3½-inch tires all round, Warner automoter, top fitted with Jiffy curtains, top slid cover, rear vision mirror and robe rail.

It is the belief of the R.C.H. corporation that the 1913 buyers will demand the equipment which tends to the comfort and convenience of the owner. That the progressive manufacturers realize this fact is evidenced by the equipment, furnished with the 1913 R.C.H. touring car, which sells at $900. To this model belongs the distinction of being the first low-priced car to specify either electric lights, Warner autometer or non-skid tires as a regular equipment.

The lamps used on the touring car model are all of the bullet type, the head lights being twelve inches in diameter, the side lamps six inches in diameter, while the tail lamp is four inches in diameter. Ediswan sockets are used throughout. On the head lights the parabola is set into the body of the lamp so as to give easy access to the bulbs and focusing device, and make cleaning easy. The current is supplied by 100 Ampere storage battery carried in a battery case on the running board.

Few changes will be made in the manufacture of the R.C.H. car. The wind shield will be of the same type as was used before, which is integral with the body, thus doing away with all arms and supports. The horn is of the special Tally-ho type. Among mechanical changes in chassis is a hand brake, placed at the right of the driver. There is also a hand throttle controlled by means of a lever operating on a segment attached to the steering column.

They will continue the use of the Bosch high-tension magneto. The latest improved B.D. carburetor will be used. The left hand drive now being featured in many popular makes of automobiles will be continued. No changes will be made in the motor, which has given satisfactory service since its inception about a year ago. The transmission, which is integral with the rear axle, will be the same.

With the production of 20,000 cars, which is the number announced for the 1912 season, the popularity of the R.C.H. car during the one year that it has been on the market is evident At the present time the car is represented in thirty-five different countries, and the success with which their product has met has warranted the announcement of this huge output for the coming season.

With the EE model R.C.H. car selling at $750, the equipment includes gas head lamps, and prest-o-lite tank, oil side and tail lamps, 32x3½-inch tires on demountable rims, top with Jiffy curtains and tally-ho horn. The model selling at $700 will be furnished with gas head lamps, oil side and tail lamps, 30x3-inch tires, on clincher rims, generator, top and tally-ho horn. The short wheel base two-passenger roadster will be continued in the standard and EE models.

JOE JEANNETTE MATCHED.

NEW YORK, July 13.—[By Federal (Wireless) Line to The Times.] Joe Jeannette and Battling Jim Johnson, the southern colored fighter, who fought many good battles in England, have been matched by Harry Edwards, the fight promoter of Philadelphia, to meet in a six-round contest at the Olympic Athletic Club of that city, Friday night.

Berlin has a new $300,000 stadium, where it hopes to conduct the 1916 Olympic games.

What Overloading Does to Tires

How 200,000 Avoid It

Makers of cars figure passengers at 150 pounds each.

They figure the weight of the car as they sell it without any extras added.

But nine cars in ten have extras. And passengers often weigh more than 150 pounds.

So most tires at times are vastly overloaded. And the frequent result is a blow-out. This adds enormously to one's tire expense.

Tires 10 Per Cent Oversize

No-Rim-Cut tires—our patent type—are 10 per cent over the rated size.

That means 10 per cent more air—10 per cent added carrying capacity. And that takes care of your extras.

This 10 per cent oversize, under average conditions, adds 25 per cent to the tire mileage.

No Rim-Cutting

These patent tires are also proof against rim-cutting.

Over 1,250,000 of these tires have been used, on some 200,000 cars. In all this experience there has never been a single instance of rim-cutting with this new-type tire.

But of all the ruined clincher tires, statistics show that 25 per cent are rim-cut.

Save 48 Per Cent

So No-Rim-Cut tires save 33⅓ plus 23 per cent.

This has been proved by users of thousands of cases. As a result No-Rim-Cut tires now far exceed any other tire in existence.

And the sale of them now doubles every eight months, because of what users tell others.

Our 1912 Tire Book—based on 13 years of tire making—is filled with facts you should know. Ask us to mail it to you.

SURF FISHING IS FASCINATING.

South Coast Only Place in World for the Sport.

Corbina Is the Gamest Salt-Water Fish of Its Size.

Is Clever in Slipping Off the Hook.

On the coast of Southern California below Santa Monica and extending south almost as far as Panama is the only place in the world where surf fishing may be enjoyed. Although in the waters of the Gulf of Mexico there is caught a fish called the Red Snapper, which is very similar in many ways to the surf, the sport of this style of angling is indulged in almost entirely by the fishermen of Southern California.

The surf, also commonly called corbina, is a fish that very favorably compares with the mountain trout in that it is very gamey, the gamest fish for its size to be found in salt water according to some of the best authorities. These fish are wary, not as timid perhaps as their mountain brothers, on account of the difference in their surroundings, the roar of the surf tending to make them less shy as to noises, but when they are once frightened from a locality it is not likely that they will again return.

These members of the finny tribe are very clever as to freeing themselves when hooked, and unless extreme care and patience are exercised it is almost an impossibility to land a large fish.

As the surf is caught only in the breakers close to shore, from whence they derive their name, considerable difficulty is encountered in bringing the large ones to a landing from the beach due to the resistance of the undertow. When a fish has been hooked it will invariably turn and dash for the open ocean, and the experienced angler will always give him all the line it wants. It is not at all unusual for a good-sized surf to run out as much as six or seven hundred feet of line before stopping, but care must be taken lest the line slack, for it is at this time that they will most frequently dislodge the hook.

THICK OF THE BATTLE.

The hardest part of the fight comes after the quarry has been reeled back into close quarters again, and it gets into the surf, as they have a peculiar manner of turning their bodies sideways and by so doing getting the greatest resistance from the undertow.

The surf is considered by a great many anglers to be the finest fish for eating purposes living in salt water, and this, coupled with their gameness and the difficulty experienced in catching them, makes them one of the most desirable species to be found in any waters.

Although fair catches may be secured at some of the near-by beach towns, the best success will be met farther down the coast in the vicinity of Oceanside and San Onofre, where the beach is not lined with the fishermen too numerous to count.

The most popular style of tackle is the regular nine-ounce equipment carrying from No. 1 to No. 3 Pennel Kirby hooks. Pismo clams and sand crabs are the baits used to the best advantage.

The casting is also a difficult matter to handle properly in the matter of getting proper distance, which is usually from about sixty to one hundred feet, and at the same time keeping the bait on the hooks. For this purpose a three-ounce sinker is preferable.

At this time of the year, surf fishing will be found at its very best, as the tides are now extremely high and the weather mild, both of which are very essential for good results.

PLACES ACCESSIBLE.

One of the greatest advantages of this sport over most other fishing, especially trout fishing is the comparative ease with which fishing grounds are reached. In nearly every case the best localities are within easy reach of railroads or electric car lines and little time is consumed in travel.

A trip of this kind can be accomplished very easily in a day, although it is much better to plan to stay over the beach overnight as the surf bites better after 6 o'clock in the evening and early in the morning, the big fish in most cases being caught well after dark.

While the trout fisherman will miss the pleasant mountain streams and the beautiful surroundings to be found in the cool canyons where the speckled beauties abound, the absence of overhanging trees and vines, which are such an annoyance and a hindrance in casting, is a very desirable feature.

A good-sized surf usually weighs between two and three pounds, but the croaker will average about six or seven pounds.

There is also one other peculiarity

There is also one other peculiarity of the croaker by which they differ from the surf. This is a small black spot to be found at the base of the left fin.

A legend is told regarding this distinguishing mark of the croaker, to the effect that an exceptionally large one was caught at one time by a Chinese fisherman and in landing the fish he was bitten on the finger. For revenge, the celestial angler marked it at the base of the left fin with a spot of black paint and returned it to the water with a curse upon its kind; and this black mark has since been a characteristic of this species.

G. E. Sheldon, a prominent local sportsman who has followed surf fishing for a number of years, says that the sport is so fascinating and exciting, that after once indulging in it, a fisherman very rarely breaks away from it, and invariably becomes an ardent follower of this Southern California sport.

ISLANDS MAY REMOVE BAN ON AUTOMOBILES.

An effort is being made to reopen Prince Edward Island to the automobile trade. It is probably the only place in the world except Bermuda, where automobiles are prohibited. Both of the islands up to the present time have kept up the barriers against motor cars, but there is a prospect of again placing them on Prince Edward Island.

A. R. Brennan, a prominent citizen and publisher of Summerside, Prince Edward Island, has begun an educational campaign to offset the pronounced feeling against automobiles which was caused by reckless usage when they were first introduced in that country.

At the time when motor cars were being condemned as an economic waste, Benjamin Briscoe, president of the United States Motor Company, made a strenuous campaign in trying to bring them back into favor. Brennan, remembering this, has written to Briscoe asking for information and advice regarding a plan to allay the feeling which the islanders in agricultural districts have for the motor car and which will open the door to motoring. The United States Motor Company's president has sent to Brennan the facts concerning 25,000 Maxwell cars which are used entirely for utility purposes and 30,000 others which have proved a distinct benefit to their owners.

The Buffalo office for the registration of automobiles has issued numbers for 20,919 machines this year and granted licenses to 4150 chauffeurs.

A Big Asset.

FINE BAY AT BALBOA HOLDS MANY DELIGHTS.

BALBOA, July 13.—At Newport Beach nature has provided a beautiful bay consisting of over seven square miles of land-locked water that resembles a vast lake more than a salt-water bay on account of its being almost entirely surrounded with land.

It is at Balboa that the bay appears to the best advantage, as there is always plenty of water in the lower part of the bay at the lowest tides. Five or six years ago the bay was the favorite resting place of myriads of water fowl, but now their place is taken by water craft of every kind from a home-made canoe to the stately auxiliary cruiser.

Many people have been kept from visiting Newport Bay heretofore by the insufficient car service between Los Angeles and Newport Beach, but the Pacific Electric has now installed a forty-five-minute year-around service in return for the spirit of push and enterprise which lately awoke with a start along the Southern California beaches.

Balboa is destined to be one of the most famous recreation spots in the West on account of this bay. The crowd of people that visits the place every Sunday is well dressed and well behaved.

The survey of the bay now being made by Engineer D. E. Hughes for the War Department has attracted a great deal of interest to the bay, as it is one of the best natural harbors on the Coast. There is little likelihood of the pleasant features of the bay front as a homesite being destroyed by the improvement of the bay by the Federal government, as the wharves and docks, if built, will go across the bay along by old Port Orange, where steamers unloaded years ago.

In any event, when a jetty is constructed at the entrance to the bay, the pleasure craft that will ester will outnumber the ships of commerce many times over, as there are hundreds of fine launches and yachts that cannot find anchorage to suit them at the present time.

Boats of all kinds drawing less than six feet of water cross the bar into the bay at the present time, but it is the knowledge that it cannot be done every day that keeps some away.

The seven-ton cruiser, Sea Queen, from Balboa, as well as the launch Echo, go over the bar nearly every day with passengers for fishing trips on the ocean and the market fishermen that anchor their boats off the Southern Pacific wharf at Newport hasten to the shelter of the bay when storms make the ocean dangerous.

The trip to the upper bay, six miles from Balboa through tortuous channels and under frowning chalk cliffs is as pretty a trip as one can find on the water, while a ride on the bay in one of the gondolas at night, when the moon is full and the tide is high is the very poetry of motion. A gondola slips through the water easier than any other kind of a boat and as one lies back in the soft leather cushions and looks across the sparkling water at the myriad of electric lights on every side he thinks he has found the spot on earth where there is true rest and enjoyment.

Many well-furnished apartment-houses have gone up the last year and more are being built now, the time having arrived when there is sufficient year-round patronage to warrant the investment.

Fishing in the bay is good if you know where to go and have the right kind of bait. One must seek the deepest places as in the bay the fish stay out of shallow water. Near Port Orange is one of the best places in the bay to land a good catch of lady-fish or spot-fins and if one wants to try the strength of his tackle a monster oil shark or skate can be hooked with live bait.

Balboa, East Newport and Bay Island are at present the choice residence sections of the city. Everything here is new and clean and the building restrictions protect those who have built expensive homes.

NATIONAL CHARACTERISTICS.

Germany and France Set Pace in Body Design and Construction of the Most Popular Cars.

The Frenchman and the German have done much to set the pace of body styles. Many of the most lauded features of body design in our leading cars of today are imitations of the French and German.

The Frenchman is an artist in lines and curves. He, as no other person, is competent to interlace the concave and the convex, the converging and the diverging to a fascinating completeness. He compels applause to designs that from another's hand would be radical and extreme, but, with the detail of his art, he adds what is apparently an insignificant curve, and produces a dynamic design.

The German, on the other hand, has gone more into the mathematics of body design and construction. He has taken the extremes of the faddist, the wind-resistance ideas of the enthusiast, the touring conceptions of the owner-driver, the racing instincts of the speedster and has woven these into his seven-passenger touring car, into his limousine, into his imperial limousine, his Berline, his laudaulet, and his brougham and coupe. He has produced a commendable design, a design that works economy to the chassis parts and comforts to the owners and his passengers.

Grif Drops Morning Work.

Manager Griffith of the Senators last week cut off morning practice for his team. With the coming of hot weather a three-hour session in the afternoon is about all that a ball player can stand and be in shape to do good work. The phenomenal record made by the Nationals was on the road in cool weather and without the aid of morning practice. Playing ball in Washington during the hot months is hard on the players, and there is no doubt that in former years mistakes were made by compelling them to indulge in morning practice.

Marion

Expansion Follows Satisfaction

TEN YEARS of making good at a fair price forces the expansion of the Marion Motor Car Company. We built our first cars well. We built better cars each succeeding year. Now we have plans for the greatest Marion of all. Marion age, Marion quality and Marion reputation have combined to make urgent an increased production. We recently announced our plans. They are nearing completion. Numerous men of national prominence as producers are now with us. Factory facilities are broadened. We are ready to make the greatest Marion of all.

To buy because of low price is unwise. To pay more than necessary is to yield to pride. The Marion is the medium. It is a good car at a fair price. It performs constantly and economically year after year. It doesn't have to be "traded in."

Ten year old Marions are doing valiant duty today. This year's models all have the Marion sturdiness and efficiency of old, but they also have every refinement and improvement automobile engineers have produced since.

In other words, the MARION is a good car, a time-proven car, a modern car. It is sold at a price that suits the man or woman who demands a genuinely good and serviceable automobile in exchange for the exact amount of cash it is worth.

Send us a wire, letter or postal asking for our literature, or see the nearest Marion dealer.

RIDING SURF BOARD THRILLS.

George Freeth Is Teaching Girls at Redondo.

Hawaiian Swimmer Performs Hair-raising Stunts.

Pretty Miss Says It Is Best Sport in the World.

[Special Correspondence of The Times.]

REDONDO BEACH, July 13.—The exciting Hawaiian sport, surf-board riding, so easy for the native Hawaiian, and so difficult for the American, has been taken up by some of the summer girls here, and judging by their preseverance they mean to master the feat or die in the attempt. These girls are probably the only women in the country who ride the surf board, and but few men have learned the art of handling the board.

Miss Dolly Mings, Miss Birdene Packson and Mrs. Hattie Whitney are the young women, and may be seen almost any morning learning the tricks of the sport under the instruction of George Freeth, the Hawaiian swimming instructor.

Miss Packson, a pretty blonde, who came here recently from San Francisco, describes the surf-board riding as the "best sport" she knows of. She says "you feel just as though you were riding through the air in an aircraft when you ride in on the breakers."

Miss Packson has been swimming but three months, but in that time has learned to do no end of things in the swimming line. She swims well, does high and fancy diving and has become adept at swinging through the air on the rings in the plunge, a feat of which she is most proud, as she is the only girl among the swimmers who does this.

Miss Mings, who holds the Pacific Coast and Southern California woman's championship for fifty yards, is the best and strongest swimmer here, and her fancy diving is equaled by none of the other swimmers. Surf-board riding is the latest accomplishment acquired by this attractive little swimmer, who keeps up her swimming winter and summer.

Mrs. Whitney has so far proven the most expert with the surf board, as she has given the most time to it. All of the girls agree that the sport is difficult to learn, but very delightful.

REQUIRES NERVE.

George Freeth, the instructor, says: "Surf-board riding requires unlimited nerve, and is much like mastering a bucking broncho. You never know just what will happen. A little chop and down you go. But the only really difficult or dangerous thing about it is when you attempt to ride the board standing, after the manner of the Hawaiians."

When you hear Freeth describe how to ride a surf board you feel as though you could do it, whether you are a swimmer or not, but the girls who have tried it say it is quite different when lying on the board, which appears to be determined to throw one.

At any rate, here are Freeth's methods as described by him: First, when leaving the beach you carry the board until beyond your depth, but hold the board off to one side, headed into the breakers, otherwise the breaker may catch the board and send you sprawling. Second, lie flat on the board with the feet just hooking over the end, and paddle with the arms as if they were oars. At the same time balance the board by pressing down with the chest on whichever side the board should be directed. Third, start to paddle about twenty feet from the breaker, and keep paddling until you have fully caught the breaker. Then slide backwards off the board until the end of it strikes between the knees and hips so as to remove the weight from the front of the board to prevent it from running into the sand. As the board rides over the breakers and up to the beach use the feet as a rudder with which to steer it, and as you are carried into shore hold to the board with both hands.

There are just four things to avoid to prevent danger, according to Freeth. "First, the rider must never get between the breaker and the board, or there is danger of being hit by the heavy board. Another thing to watch is that you paddle until fully up to the breaker. Above all things the rider should remember not to slide off the board too far when taking the breaker; that is, the foot of the board should touch the legs of the swimmer between the hips and the knees; otherwise the board might strike the swimmer in the body. The last thing, but most important to remember, is never to let go of the board."

The surf boards used by Freeth and his class of pupils are of redwood and weigh about forty pounds. The dimensions are eight feet long, twenty-four inches in width and two inches thick.

ATHLETIC GIRLS.

Although not many of the girls at the beach have been brave enough to attempt the surf board yet the majority this year are ambitious swimmers or divers and each one seems to have some particular stunt in aquatics in which she excels. No one seems content merely to jump the breakers or lounge on the sand in a stunning bathing suit. It may be that the girls are eager to vie with the different holders of championships in their swimming stunts, of whom there are several here. Ludy Langer, holder of 220, 440 and 880 yard championship for Southern California; Cliff Bowes, Pacific Coast champion diver; Tommy Witt, champion child diver, are all here this year.

Among the girls who do fancy diving stunts, distance or fast swimming are Miss Dolly Connolly, a pretty Redondo Beach High School girl; Miss Pearl Hutchinson of Los Angeles, Miss Norman Bennett and Mrs. T. B. Bassett.

The art of riding the surf board in a standing position, which is done by balancing the body on the board, was revived by Freeth in Honolulu in 1900. Although Hawaiians generally rode the surf board, up to that time they rode only by lying on the board, although they knew that their early ancestors had ridden in a standing position. Freeth, who now has one of the old surf boards given him by a native prince which had been handed down from the early days, as a boy persisted in trying to ride the breakers in a standing position as he had heard of from the old natives' stories.

The board given him by the prince was sixteen feet long and about four inches thick and after many falls and calculations, Freeth figured out that his board was too long for the breakers, as it couldn't take the curve in the combers.

He finally worked out the dimensions that are used now in the boards in Hawaii, eight feet long, and twenty-four inches, by four inches thick. Now many of the Hawaiians ride the surf board standing and carry a second person on their shoulders.

"Look! Another One."

Fishing through the surf at Huntington Beach is a "live" sport. It is a rare day indeed when the going is not good.

WATER GLASS FISHING NEW SPORT AT REDONDO.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE OF THE TIMES.]

REDONDO BEACH, July 13.—Water glass fishing is the very latest thing in fishing here, indeed so late that but few know what it is and none but George Freeth, the Hawaiian, knows how to do it. This is an Hawaiian form of sport introduced by Freeth, who on several occasions recently has mystified curious onlookers on the wharves by swimming idly about the pilings holding in his teeth a box which covers his face and carrying a spear in one hand. Now and then the swimmer wearing the queer muzzle or box would thrust out the spear and bring up a fish. Then it was realized by the fishermen on the wharves that he was merely fishing.

Water glass fishing is a favorite sport with the Hawaiians and requires considerable skill. Aside from the skill, all that is necessary is a small box fitted with heavy glass at one end, which is used as a magnifying glass in the water, and a long-handled spear with which to thrust at the fish.

HOW HE DOES IT.

Freeth uses a box about 6 by 10 inches at one end and a trifle larger at the other end. In the smaller end is a piece of window glass. He holds this box with his teeth as he swims, so that the water just covers the top of the glass. By means of the glass he is able to see the fish plainly and they in turn are attracted by the queer box, as fish, it seems, have curiosity as well as human beings. Freeth's spear has a handle about twelve feet in length and a three-pronged spear. With this he either spears the fish or drives the spear and lets go, if far away. Sea bass and perch are caught this way at a depth of twenty-five or thirty feet.

Sometimes the fish is caught on the spear, or again if the water is shallow the fish is held on the bottom by the spear until the fisherman can get it. The natives carry a large bag in which to put the fish when spearing them.

Within a half an hour Freeth often catches twelve or fourteen fish in this way. He says the principal difficulty in fishing this way is to gauge the distance correctly, as the water telescope not only magnifies the fish but also the distance.

Another method of spearing fish in which Freeth indulges is surf spearing. Standing on the beach he hurls his spear at sharks and stingarees. This is not such good sport as the water glass stunt, however, according to Freeth, as the latter requires greater skill. His style of fishing, he says, is far more sportsmanlike than using a rod and reel or a seine.

However, in the surf spearing he has to confine his efforts to shark and stingarees as it is not permitted to spear surf fish.

Cubs Sign Notre Dame Star.

Fred Williams, the hard-hitting outfielder of the Notre Dame University baseball team, who was its captain this spring, has signed a contract to play with the Cubs. It was once thought that Williams might be chosen to go to Stockholm to participate in the Olympic games on account of his speed in the 100-yard dash, for which he has a record of 10s, but he preferred to play baseball. He will join the Cubs at once. It is said that Williams had an offer from every club in the major leagues.

The automobile division of the Pennsylvania State Highway Department has issued over 46,000 licenses to automobile owners in the State. This eclipses the record of the entire year of 1911 by several thousand. It is expected that the total number will run close to 60,000 this year.

Happy Days.

VENICE SPORTS ARE THRIVING.

All Forms of Athletics on Tap at Beach.

Bay Teams Making Plans for Baseball League.

Pretty Bathing Girls Have Fun on Strand.

[Special Correspondence of The Times.]

VENICE, July 13.—Plans are being made to make Venice the summer recreation metropolis. Fred K. McCarver, advertising manager for the Abbot Kinney Company, is working on a plan for the further encouragement of surf bathing. As many as a thousand persons disport in the surf and on the sand each morning, but McCarver wants to see, and confidently expects to see, this number doubled during the next two or three weeks.

Talk of forming a seaside baseball league for the summer is strong. There are two good teams in Venice, one in Ocean Park, and one in Santa Monica, and a fifth nine will be formed soon from the merchants of Pier avenue. The Ship Cafe nine, representing Venice, and the Venice Ship Cafe aggregation, and the Venice fire department team are already strong, playing each other and outside teams. Every Sunday a diamond contest is staged on the Venice grounds. The Ocean Park and Santa Monica nines do not stage games so often, but they are in good trim and ready for the league stunt. Tomorrow the Goodhue Baking Company team will play the Ship Cafe team on the Venice diamond.

Bowling, cricket and swimming are sports which are rapidly coming to the front here. Local swimmers attended a meeting of lovers of aquatic sports at the Los Angeles Athletic Club rooms Wednesday, when plans were laid for the formation of a polo league, including, it is hoped, a team from Venice.

The Santa Monica, Fresno, Venice and Los Angeles cricket teams are being combined for a match with the crack Hemet team, on the Vineyard grounds, near Venice. Pat Higgins, secretary of the Los Angeles club, is arranging the details. He hopes to pick a team from these four aggregations which will be strong enough to down the Hemeters.

Bowling, in both Venice and the Ocean Park section, is at its height. Monday night the Hammond Lumber Company team will bowl the Nick Carter five on the Pier-avenue alleys in a return match, the contest between these two last Monday ending in favor of the lumber boys. Gleason of the Pier avenue team captured high game honors this week with a score of 216, and an average of 859.

ENGLISHMEN JUBILANT OVER VICTORY IN MILE.

[By Federal (Wireless) Line to The Times.]

NEW YORK BUREAU OF THE TIMES, July 13.—[Special Dispatch.] John Bull is happy for the first time in years. Let Americans run away with the rest of the events on the Olympic programme as far as England is concerned; England has won the 1500-meter race. The 1500-meter, be it known, is the metric substitute for the mile race. England, until the past half dozen years, has been immensely proud of her mile runners.

"Oh, the Yanks have a flash of speed," said the British sportsmen, "but wait until they're called upon to show bottom, and they can't do it."

Lightbody, when he won the 1500-meter race at Athens, six years ago, broke the English heart. Everybody in England expected to see an Englishman run away with that event and even we Americans were shadowed with the ancient traditions of English invincibility.

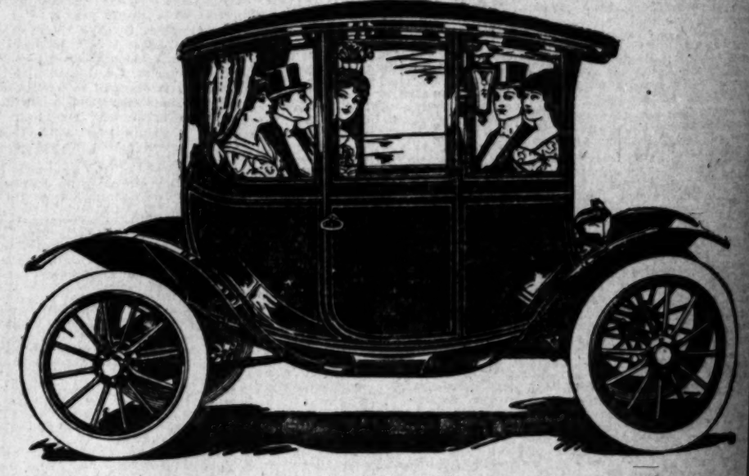
Flanders Colonial Electric



Glen Curtiss, the Noted Aviator, Says of the Flanders Electric:

"From the standpoint of appearance and easy riding qualities, it is so far superior to anything in the line of automobiles that there is no comparison. The idea of bringing an electric car into a small village, where the streets are all on a steep grade and no pavements, was somewhat of an experiment, but the car has surprised us in its hill-climbing qualities and economy.

"The most remarkable feature of the car is the way it takes the bad cross-walks and the ease with which it rides over rough roads. In fact, I may say it rides easier than any car of any length wheel-base or spring construction in which I have ever ridden."

COMPARE IT

LONG BEACH IN SUMMER GARB.

Serene Charm Attractive to Thousands of Visitors.

Safe Bathing Is a Boon to Anxious Parents.

Tennis and Golf Facilities Are High-Class.

[Special Correspondence of The Times.]

LONG BEACH, July 13.—Long Beach, famed equally as the Queen of Beaches and the City That Does Things, is just now doing the Dr. Jekyll and Hyde act, throwing off the mask of busy commercialism which makes her dominant life during the winter months, and donning instead the merry, joyous garb of a care-free summer resort.

Few cities in this country can boast of equal activity as a busy, bustling city and as a desirable summer resort, and therein Long Beach stands alone among the beaches of the Pacific Coast.

Enjoying the benefits of natural and artificial protection from old Neptune's angry moods, the fourteen miles of gently sloping sands, with not a treacherous step-off in its entire submerged length, are an asset which tells its own story of this city's popularity and why, during the summer months, the thousands of families from the desert interior pack goods and chattels and take the first train oceanward when school closes. Their children can romp about on the sands all day in safety, sport in the surf in absolute security, and tired parents can secure the rest they seek.

VARIED AMUSEMENTS.

Long Beach lays no claim to being a city of many wonders. And in her quiet, restful charm of everyday surroundings lies the secret of her popularity. Amusements there are in plenty, from merry-go-round to roller coaster, dance hall, skating rink, "movies" and real theaters.

No prettier sight can be imagined than a glance along the sands and in the surf on any afternoon during the summer. Scattered about are groups, parties, couples and even lone individuals lying in the warm, soft sand, either watching the hundreds sporting in the surf, or else shaded from old Sol by a beach umbrella, are either reading, sewing or taking a brief nap. Here a dainty maid in charming bathing costume is stretched at full length, with dimpled chin and piquant face supported by browning hand and arm, chatting with girl chum or boyish acquaintance in complete comradeship and fearless bon homie. Occasionally one prankish youngster will start a mischievous frolic and there is a mad race over the beach in and around staid matrons, sometimes to the discomfort of innocent spectators. But at the beach one learns to take things as they happen.

PICNIC RENDEZOUS.

Long Beach is the picnic rendezvous of all the societies, Sunday-schools and conventions of the Southland. Only a few weeks ago the Sunday-schools of Pasadena came to the beach, thirty-eight carloads of them. Last Saturday the 1500 employees of one of Los Angeles' big department stores spent the day here and today a rival store sent its 2500 employees here for the fourth consecutive annual outing. Next week Monrovia will close up business for the day and come in force for a day "beside the sunlit sea." And off and on during the summer months come other gatherings, graphic evidence that there is something about Long Beach that charms.

Next week begins the twenty-fourth annual convention of the Christian assembly, comprising churches from Southern California, which will be attended by 3000 delegates, who will remain for two weeks, combining religious study with the pleasures of a real outing for two weeks. This will be followed by the Southern California assembly, whose sessions will last three weeks and whose programmes comprise the brightest and best speakers of all denominations throughout the country. This assembly, too, will bring its thousands. These programmes are arranged for morning and evening, allowing the afternoons for the outings and recreation sports.

Long Beach's amusement center is the "Pike," the stretch of walk in front of the bath-house holdings, and extending from Pine avenue to Chestnut way, where the strand walk begins, which is a continuation of the Pike and equally as attractive. It is a spacious cement thoroughfare skirted by booths, kiosks, pavilions, shops, motion-picture shows and theaters, each of an individuality all its own. Illumined at night by thousands of vari-colored incandescents and a restless, moving throng of people, it presents a scene of fairyland. In the center is the bath-house, a modern natatorium, containing every modern device for the accommodation of bathers. To those who shun the ocean is provided two large plunges with tempered water. That it is a popular place in summer is shown by the fact that daily the number who pass the turnstiles range from 2000 to 5000 people.

But at the beach one learns to take things as they happen.

PICNIC RENDEZOUS.

Long Beach is the picnic rendezvous of all the societies, Sunday-schools and conventions of the Southland. Only a few weeks ago the Sunday-schools of Pasadena came to the beach, thirty-eight carloads of them. Last Saturday the 1500 employees of one of Los Angeles' big department stores spent the day here and today a rival store sent its 2500 employees here for the fourth consecutive annual outing. Next week Monrovia will close up business for the day and come in force for a day "beside the salt sea." And off and on during the summer months come other gatherings, graphic evidence that there is something about Long Beach that charms.

Next week begins the twenty-fourth annual convention of the Christian assembly, comprising churches from Southern California, which will be attended by 3000 delegates, who will remain for two weeks, combining religious study with the pleasures of a real outing for two weeks. This will be followed by the Southern California assembly, whose sessions will last three weeks and whose programmes comprise the brightest and best speakers of all denominations throughout the country. This assembly, too, will bring its thousands. These programmes are arranged for morning and evening, allowing the afternoons for the outings and recreation sports. Long Beach's amusement center is the "Pike," the stretch of walk in front of the bath-house holdings, and extending from Pine avenue to Chestnut way, where the strand walk begins, which is a continuation of the Pike and equally as attractive. It is a spacious cement thoroughfare dotted by booths, kiosks, pavilions, dance, motion-picture shows and bazaars, each of an individuality all its own, illumined at night by thousands of vari-colored incandescents and a restless, moving throng of people it presents a scene of fairyland. In the center is the bath-house, a modern natatorium, containing every modern device for the accommodation of bathers. To those who shun the ocean is provided two large plunges with tempered water. That it is a popular place in summer is shown by the fact that daily the number who pass the turnstiles range from 2000 to 5000 people.

Did They Make the Dive?

Of course not, but they came very close to it, at Balboa, where the water in the bay is just right for a swim.

Seven moving-picture shows and two popular-price theaters afford plenty of opportunities for those inclined to comedy or drama portrayal, all under strict censor and therefore clean and wholesome.

FUN FOR THE KIDS.

For the children there is a merry-go-round of the old style, a steam carrousel or hippodrome of modern ingenuity, a roller coaster, with its startling dips, an airship spiral way with a circular descent of seventy-five feet, the only one of its kind in existence, and a boat swing, all of which are ever popular for the little ones.

"Ye City Jail," a concession full of startling and weird traps and conceits, is the leading freak of this summer and affords plenty of excitement.

For the older young folks is the skating rink and dancing pavilion, both under strict rules, where perfect decorum and attention to the proprieties is absolutely enforced.

The pier, ever a feature of Long Beach, and a favorite place for fishermen and sightseers, who delight in the novelty of a quarter-mile walk out over the ocean, is undergoing repairs, but is open to small assemblages. The outer end is a great rendezvous for fishermen and many good catches have been made. Those who prefer deep-sea fishing find many opportunities in the regular launches, which make daily trips to the fishing banks and give you all you catch.

For real outdoor athletic lovers, Long Beach presents for tennis adherents one of the finest courts on the Pacific at Hotel Virginia and here will be held from July 29 to August 3 the Southern California championship tourney.

The golf links of the Virginia Country Club is another sport center that is daily growing in popularity and its water hazard is conceded one of the best in the country. This week the preliminaries for the president's trophy cup are being played.

During August the Sunset Yacht Club will hold its annual regatta, with four days' racing in front of the city, affording free sport for the thousands who from sand and bluff can enjoy an unobstructed view of every contest.

Taking it all in all, Long Beach affords plenty of excitement for those who wish it and rest for those who prefer that way of enjoying their summer outing.

NEW OFFICIALS JOIN NYBERB AUTO WORKS.

A change in the organization of the Nyberg Automobile Works of Anderson, Ind., has recently been announced. W. E. Moore, who has been with the concern since its formation as superintendent of production, has been promoted to the position of assistant general manager, and in the future will assist the president and general manager of the concern, Henry Nyberg. He will be succeeded in his former position by Otto Schultz, who is a new member of the Nyberg organization. He was previously superintendent of the Falls Motor Company of Sheboygan Falls, Wis.

Before his connection with that concern he had been for some time with the Mercer Automobile Company of Trenton, N. J., and also the National Motor Vehicle Company of Indianapolis, Ind.

Announcement has been made to the effect that hereafter the Nyberg Company will manufacture trucks on a large scale. They will be of 3000-pound capacity and will sell at $2000. One of the trucks loaded to its full capacity will be entered in the Four States Tour. This will be a good test, as it will be most strenuous and will prove the worth of the new addition to the truck industry. The route of the tour through Ohio, West Virginia, Kentucky and Indiana will present obstacles which only the best makes of trucks can overcome.

MORAN AND WHITE OUT FOR GORE SATURDAY.

Each Considers Other Stepping Stone to Higher Things and Will Win or "Bust"—Wolgast Admits Poor Condition—Attell and Thomas May Meet in August—Other Items of Ring.

BY OWEN R. BIRD.

FIGHT menu for next Saturday:

Owen Moran and Jack White, twenty rounds; weight 128 at 10 a.m.

Pete McVey and Jimmy Evans, ten rounds; weight 133 at 10 a.m.

Jimmy Austin and Danny Rooney, six rounds; weight 105 pounds, no time.

George Blake will referee the preliminaries and Charlie Eyton will referee the main event. First preliminary will start at 2:00 p.m.

While there is no championship at stake in the White-Moran battle, that is about the only thing that is not at stake. Each man considers the other a stepping stone to better things. Moran wants to get even with the White family, as a whole, by knocking Jack dead because he says that he was robbed in the fight with brother Charles at Syracuse before coming to the Coast. White says that if he can lay Moran wheer the woodbine twineth, he knows that his rise to the top of the ladder will only occupy a short time.

But the fact that is interesting the public at large is, Can Moran come back? We all know that Owen has been in the rocks several times and that he was quite a bit higher than ever before, after the Wolgast fight, but since that time he has taken a brace, taken the pledge and given up all the things that go with the white glare. White says this is all "bunk" and that the only place Moran is simple is in his dome, but then he always says this in a pinch.

WHITE HAS YOUTH.

Now it is just like this: Jack White is a youngster, 22 years old, who is just beginning to feel his oats. He has a lot to learn, but is of the crafty disposition which makes a fighter last a long time and go the full distance. Look at Abe Attell, for instance. Not that Jack White is a fighter with the speed and cleverness of the little Jew, but his mental attitude is something like Abe's, in that he never takes a chance until the time is ripe and when he does he generally knocks somebody out. White knows that he has a deadly punch in both hands, but knowing, does not go wild and stand up and swing his head off, rather waiting for the other fellow to make the opening.

MORAN LIKES TO FIGHT.

On the other hand, Moran loves to swap punches, and this had a great deal to do with his getting the hook with Ad Wolgast one year ago, Fourth of July. Of course, he can afford to take more of a chance with a fellow of White's style. And he will have to take some chances, as it is doubtful if he can stand a full twenty rounds yet, after being out of the game with a bad hand for so long. It is for this reason that he is going to wade in and try and knock out White inside of the twelve-round limit.

Anyway, this attitude will make the fight well worth going to see. If Moran cannot whip White, he will be done for, while if he succeeds in beating the Chicago cyclone, he will be counted quite a way along on the "come-back" road.

Moran says that he is going to show more speed and footwork than we have seen here this year, so we are interested and want to know what is coming off next Saturday.

Both White and Moran will box the full limit this afternoon, Moran at Venice and White at Doyle's, and until they have taken their workout it will be a hard matter to get a line on matters of condition.

Wolgast Not Right.

Speaking of condition, Ad Wolgast now admits that those who said he was not in good trim for his fight on July 4 were right, but he was not convinced until he had seen the pictures. Then he had to give up. The little German lion has so much heart that it is a hard matter for him to realize that his body can go back if his heart does not.

It is practically certain that Wolgast has no intention of meeting Rivers on Labor Day. He knows he would not be right, so will not take a chance with his title. He says that if he can make Joe Rivers wait long enough the Mexican will grow heavy until 133 ringside will be as hard for him to make as it is for Packy McFarland now. Then Joe will be weak and Ad thinks he will be a nice ripe plum ready to pick.

Levy Wild

This attitude has made Joe Levy wild and he says that he will claim the championship, unless Wolgast signs up by Monday afternoon, but that will not do much good, outside of creating a great deal of talk.

Levy said yesterday: "Wolgast is always talking about the men he has fought never being able to fight again. Well that goes for Rivers. Just look at Wolgast, he will not fight."

Levy is wild these days and is likely to say anything.

Abe to Get Chance.

Abe Attell is going to be offered an August date with Harry Thomas, Jimmy Johnson's little featherweight, who made such a good showing against Jack White at Vernon June 8. Should he refuse, Harry will be put on with Frankie Conley. Frankie is back in our midst, looking for fight and looking hard. He says that he will meet any of the men Uncle Tom selects, but that he wants another chance. This gospel of another chance gets over-worked sometimes, but Frankie has been a good little wagon in his time.

Ritchie Must Wait.

Willie Ritchie is making all kinds of wild noises in San Francisco these days, but as for a fight with Ad Wolgast, after the recent turn in the Rivers affair, it seems as if he is going to wait a long time before he finds the champion sitting across the ring from him, stripped for action. Wolgast says that Ritchie is the most dangerous lightweight in the ring today, and says frankly that he will not take a chance with him yet.

August 10, of course, will see Joe Mandot and Ritchie in action at Vernon, and then the winner of that may be put on Labor Day with the winner of the White and Moran battle, unless Joe Rivers will agree to meet Ritchie or one of the winners, but this is not very likely, as Levy says that he is going to take Joe East and grab all the coin he can before the return match. Levy firmly believes that there will be a return match, but if Joe goes East he may not be here for a Labor Day date.

Chico at Last.

At last somebody is on Battling Chico's trail. It is Jimmy Fox and his manager, Joe Sullivan, writes that the boy has every right to meet the little bantam of Joe Rivers as he has a decision over Eddie Campi, and also one over Jimmy Carroll. He wants to make the bout ten rounds at the regular bantam weight.

Cleveland ambulance drivers have declared war on Police Chief Kohler's order that ambulances must not exceed a speed of eight miles an hour while carrying accident victims to the hospitals.

A Busy Day for Anglers at Redondo,

Where the fishing off the wharves seldom is off color

AMATEUR NOTES.

BY THE BYSTANDER.

With the prospect of a lot of outside competition in the fall swimming championships the local swimmers are hard at work in preparation. Cliff Bowes and Ludy Langer are helping to run the bathhouse at Redondo and are incidentally getting in some good licks by training a little every day. Langer has been getting it in the neck pretty regularly from the northern swimmers lately and is determined to repeat his feat of last September of winning everything from the 220 to the 880, while Bowes is trying to recover his old-time form in the diving and sprints.

There is a grand season of rushing going on in the south this summer by the students and graduates of all the colleges, due to the fact that more than the usual number of star athletes graduated from the high-school ranks this year and it's now a case of button, button, who's got the button, among the colleges which are offering all sorts of inducements to draw the athletic talent. And in the meanwhile the ex-high school phenom sits on his throne and has a good time, being treated like a king by all the college men and telling all of them that he will be sure to show up at their institution in the fall. "Beans" Whitted, who is about the biggest prize of them all, drives the ice wagon at Amusa and receives all kinds of flattering offers, while half the colleges in the State are proudly claiming him as their very own for next year.

The feat of James Meridith of Mercersberg Academy of winning the 800-meter race at the Olympic Games, defeating the best athletes that the world could send against him, and smashing the world's records for that distance as well as that for the half-mile run, will go down into history as one of the greatest accomplishments in the story of athletics. Meridith is only a 19-year-old youngster, not yet out of high school and yet has been able to set up marks in interscholastic circles which may never be equalled. Not many college men can run a 440 in 48 3-5s and an 880 in 1.56min. the same day, and then a month later run the half in the world's record time of 1.52 1-5.

The local sporting public is going to have a great treat set before them this coming fall in the line of football. Both the Rugby enthusiasts and the followers of the American game are announcing bigger programmes than ever before and the local followers of the pig skin are fortunate, indeed. The rugby men will have all the big northern teams down here in addition to seeing the famous Australian aggregation in action. The followers of the old game will have such teams as Denver University, Oregon Aggies and the University of Michigan to expound the values of that sport. This means that this season will be a very busy one and no one will have to suffer from lack of sufficient sport.

Merkle Is Best.

McGraw says Merkle is the best first baseman in baseball, and he means it. The only one who can measure skill with him is McInnis. Merkle is a better first baseman than McGann ever was. He covers ground like a shortstop, is a first-class batter and base runner and a fine first-sack guardian on thrown balls.

An all-the-year-round European road map for American motorists abroad has just been issued by the Foreign Touring Bureau of the American Automobile Association.

PLOT AGAINST UNWARY DUCK.

Gun Club Has Established Novel Innovation.

Blue Rocks to Soar High in Air Now.

Marksmen Can Practice to Bag Real Game.

If word of it gets out among duck circles, the usual flight from the north will not come off this year.

There are some good shots among the local duck clubmen, some fine shots, but there are also some of them that have to buy a new case of shells every time they go down to the club—with the limit only thirty-five at that. Apparently the trouble is in lack of practice during the time the birds are not lawful game. The regular blue rock game is good fun, and good training for the embryo shotgun man, but for the duck shooter it is not the right thing. Ducks rarely, if ever, rise from a point sixteen yards in front of the shooter and then shoot off at various angles, but always away from the shooter on about the same level. This is the flight of the ordinary blue rock under interstate rules.

The unhappy duck that's killed usually runs foul of the fatal pellets while he is coming down toward the shooter from a greater elevation or while he is hustling past the blind, high in the air, and bound for more remote points.

Out at the range of the Los Angeles Rifle and Revolver Club in Sycamore Canyon near Glendale, they have framed up a grave conspiracy against the welfare of the wary duck who knows who are the poorer shots in his favorite club, and who therefore picks out the spots occupied by Mr. Rottenshot and Mr. Can't Hitem when he wants to go down into the places where the feed is good.

On the rifle range the surrounding hills are steep and dotted with little trees. Behind one of the trees is a space cut out of the side of the hill, and about sixty feet above the ploughed field below. In this little space of a Sunday is planted an expert blue rock trap, with various piles of blue rocks. Below, in a little wash that runs across the field, piles of fired shells mark the places where shooters of former Sundays laid in wait for the innocent blue rocks on the hill.

The shooters of the "mock ducks" stand in the little shallow wash, about fifty yards from the trap, and sixty feet below it. From their stand the trap is invisible, only a little green tree marks the flushing place of the birds.

Then, with squads ready below, the black saucers come whirling out of the top of the little green tree, heading straight out across the field, and usually passing over the shooting squad forty to fifty feet above their heads. That is, the ducks pass over once in a while. Usually they get to within fifty feet of the shooter—if he is a wise and cool-headed shooter, then the nitro cracks, and a puff of black dust floats off in the western breeze, while a few fragments of an asphalt saucer come hurtling down to the ground. Never in the regulation sixteen-yard rise, are the birds so completely powdered, ground completely to black dust, as when they are coming head on into a charge of shot at the close range of these birds.

Sometimes the game is changed, and the birds are thrown to come right into the line of shooters, curving downward from the green tree and heading to strike the ground just in rear of the crowd if they are missed. Still another modification consists of placing the line of shooters at the foot of the hill with their backs turned toward the trap, each man peering in his turn up into the sky, waiting for the bird to come over his head into sight. The clays as they fly, make a queer, whirring, hissing sound, not unlike a duck, warning the man with the shotgun that another saucer is on its way.

The game sounds hard and can be, fearfully so. When the shooter has once mastered the proper lead, hitting those coming straight over is very easy. Then, as the trap will not throw the birds precisely alike, and as the breeze catches the saucers in their flight, the shooters get unexpected misses, the flight of the birds to one side or the other introducing new complications of lead and swing. The speed of the saucer is fully that of the duck, and it would require but wings, a quack or two, and water all around to make things entirely realistic to the duck man.

Thus far seventeen out of twenty is the highest continuous score on record at the birds passing overhead, the birds falling before two little twenty gauges in the hands of Dr. Packard and Crossman on the Fourth of July in the prize shoot. The close range, the fact that the birds are getting closer with each fraction of a second and not escaping through the shot pattern, makes the game one in which the little, small-bore guns outclass the big twelve gauges.

PROPELLOR-DRIVEN AUTO MAKES RUN.

[By Atlantic Cable and by Wireless from Chicago to The Times.]

PARIS, July 13.—A successful trial run was made today from Paris to Lyons, about 320 miles, by a motor car driven by a revolving wing, says the Figaro.

The vehicle, which was designed by Compte Bertrand de Lesseps, and called the "winged car," has the appearance of an ordinary motor car except that in front it is shaped like the prow of a ship. From the extremity of the prow extends a shaft to which is attached a propellor or revolving wing, invented by M. Filippi.

The wing, which is small, strong and thick, revolves with a protecting cage. The engine, which is of forty-horse-power, rotates the wing by a shaft and chain transmission. There is no other mechanism, the wheels of the car being free except for foot brakes.

GORDON BENNETT TRIALS.

RHEIMS, July 13.—[By Cable and A. P. Day Wire.] The elimination trials for the purpose of choosing France's representatives for the Gordon Bennett international aviation cup contest at Chicago next September were held today. Provost, in a monoplane, was first, maintaining an average speed of 160 kilometers (99.3 miles) an hour. Frey, also in a monoplane, took second place, flying at an average rate of 144 kilometers (84.4 miles) an hour.

Notes.—At Santa Ana—$2.50 per arrest paid to motor cop.
At Glendale—City Marshal rides a motorcycle.
At Glendora—One motor cop employed Sundays at $5 per day.
At Monrovia—Employs motor cop occasionally at $5 per day.
At Riverside—One motor cop occasionally at $80 per month.
At Watts—Formerly paid one-half the fine to the motor cops, after deducting the Recorder's fee, but the shyster practices of the Watts grafters ruined the town; they now have no motor cop and are trying to change the name of their town.
At Azusa—Has this week joined the municipal grafters' league to blackmail the traveling public.

On the Mat.

LOCAL WRESTLERS TO SETTLE SUPREMACY.

THE local fans are to have a wrestling treat in the near future, if Harry Burns carries out his present plans. It seems that we have two celebrities right in our midst in the persons of Dan McCloud of the Los Angeles Athletic Club and Jack Donovan of the local Y.M.C.A.

At one time McCloud was the heavyweight champion of the United States and Donovan was also some goer in his time. There has been a great deal of talk as to the respective merits of these two heavyweight mat men here, and now Burns is going to match them up during the first week in August.

Demetral, the famous Greek, has also written to Burns for a local date and says that he will be willing to meet any of the local lights after he has finished with Jack Leon in Salt Lake on July 23. The Greek writes that he expects to win this match in the first two falls without any trouble and then after taking the measure of the best here hopes to find a chance open to meet Frank Gotch.

It will be remembered that this game was once before opened here, but did not take very well, owing to the class of the men in the matches, but if they bring out some of the real good ones, there is no reason why the game should not become one of the staple sports of this section.

All the matches will be the best two out of three falls on the catch-as-catch-can method. If the two war horses, McCloud and Donovan, mix there will be a lot of lively interest as both have big followings at the L.A.A.C. and the Y.M.C.A., respectively. McCloud has had a great deal of success in his work at the club, while Donovan claims that his factory turns out the more finished products from the raw material. So, in the scheduled match the followers will be given a chance to see who is the best man.

Can You Qualify?

We are about ready to appoint agents throughout Southern California for "The Detroiter."

We do not particularly care whether you are an expert salesman or not, as the car sells itself, but we do require and positively insist on it, that you be upright and fair in your treatment of patrons. The Detroiter factory takes proper care of its agents, and purchasers of Detroiter cars must in turn receive the same protection.

We want agents who see more in life than just the dollar, and who realize that even an honest car needs some degree of watching and attention—especially when in the hands of inexperienced drivers—in order to enjoy a reputation that will endure.

If you cannot comply with requirements, spare yourself the trouble of a reply.

college does not move for over a year. A six-foot cut on one side and a seven-foot fill on the other has made the ground absolutely level and the track has already been laid out.

When college opens in September, 1913, the field will be occupied by a semi-temporary structure, built on the foundations which will carry the completed stadium and gymnasium. Even in its uncompleted state, the field will be without a peer on the Coast.

The field itself will be complete in every detail. Along the east side will be the 220-yard straightaway course. Taking in three sides of the field will be large temporary bleachers, capable of accomodating from three to 4000 people.

The bulk of the grand stand will be on the west side of the course, where a fine view can be had of the entire length of the straightaway, but there will be bleachers about six tiers high surrounding the entire field with the exception of the south end, which will be taken up by the gymnasium.

These bleachers will be painted white and will serve the purpose of a fence until the stadium is finished. The gymnasium will be built on permanent foundations, but will be subjected to alterations as time goes on until the building can be completed. In its temporary state it will be only surpassed by the gymnasium at the University of California.

All of the permanent stadium and the permanent gymnasium will be completed, according to present plans, within about ten years, and when they are done, the plant will be the finest west of the Mississippi, and one of the best in the United States.

New Zealand, Queensland and New South Wales Rugby football unions will pick a strong team for their tour of San Francisco and the Pacific Coast, starting October 5.

FLYING SPARKS OF MOTORDOM.

Seven new motor clubs have been admitted to the Minnesota State Automobile Association. They are Graceville, Hancock, Akeley, Morehead, Breckenridge, Winthrop and Itasca county.

That automobile riding develops the chest, is the opinion of a New York tailor, who states that the girth of a man's chest increases on an average of an inch every two years after he begins to ride regularly in a car.

Over 8000 automobiles and motorcycles have been registered in Oregon. This is an increase of 2000 over the entire registration for 1911. There is $8,000,000 invested in automobiles and accessories in that State at the present time.

Judge Bazille, president of the Automobile Club of St. Paul, has been appointed chairman of the Tours and Contest Committee of the Minnesota State Automobile Association. It is planned to have the fourth annual tour to Winnipeg start July 20.

Of all the wood-using industries of Michigan, the makers of automobiles pay the highest price for what they use, according to a report of the wood-using industries of Michigan by H. Maxwell, expert for the Public Domain Commission.

The kingdom of Holland boasts of but a single automobile factory, the Industrieele Maatschappij Trompenburg, which manufactures all parts of the chassis and builds its own bodies. The cars are marketed under the name Spyker.

Long Island, the eastern paradise of motorists, is the largest insular body included in the United States proper. By road, it is 133 miles from Long Island City to Montauk Point and ranges from 20 to 40 miles across at various diameters along main highways.

There was an increase in the sales of American automobiles in England during 1911, compared with the previous year. In certain makes, the demand was greater than the supply. Since the government has raised the tax on motor cars according to horsepower, the demand for the higher priced cars has declined, while the medium and lower power cars of 15 to 25 horsepower are in demand.

Chicago's city council, in its efforts to minimize motor car accidents, has passed an ordinance, designed to compels drivers of motor cars and riders of motorcycles, to stop at all street crossings when street cars have stopped to take on or discharge passengers.

Maryland and other motorists are warned not to be tempted to scorch over the new State highways lest they fall into the hands of the law. The patrol of the State Roads Commission have been instructed to take the number of every machine that exceeds the legal speed limit of twenty-five miles an hour, and those numbers will be handed over to State Motor Vehicle Commissioner Roe. The commissioner can either impose a fine, a jail sentence or revoke licenses.

Metal and leather tire trunks are to be strongly recommended as the best protection possible for the extra tires. Often shoes are seen on the roofs of limousines or other closed cars, with no protection whatever. In such a position they get the full effect of all the elements to a much greater extent than they would even if uncovered and mounted at the side or the rear of these cars. It such exposed positions the substantial tire trunk is almost a necessity.

The tool boxes, that for so many seasons have burdened the running boards, are being removed in many of the new models. The tools are being carried in cases under the front seat, taking the place of the gasoline tank, which is being positioned under the back of the chassis frame. With several makers the battery box, also a running board decoration, has been removed, and for next season will be snugly supported in a bracket under the main frame parts, where it is entirely hidden from view and much better protected than when outside. With those concerns still using acetylene for lighting the gas tank is being concealed, and with the many concerns adopting electricity the necessary battery is hidden under the framework.

After a car has been driven a few thousand miles it has had time to limber up, and whatever fits may have been on the tight side will have had time to free themselves or seize. Brake connections in particular should be carefully gone over and the road wheel bearings may need a 1-32-inch shim to take up side play which may have been overlooked in the Cars should be copiously oiled in every moving part after delivery month or so, in order to [illegible] that may have been left rough. An inadvertent stroke of tool in turning may render a bolt tight in its bearings, but with judicious lubrication the bolt will, so to speak, work itself free with the aid of oil, plenty of which ensue.

How France manages to have a number of automobile accidents is illustrated in the following which occurred recently. A motorist whose care had killed a pedestrian, was sentenced by the court to serve one month in prison and to pay annually to each child of the victim until the child attains the age of 16 and to give the victim's widow a lump sum.

SPALDING COM... STARS: PAST ...

The Catchers and First Ba... the Old Days; but, as a G... Players Compared Very ... Today—Pitchers Didn't C...

BY J. E.

EVERY winter when the Stove League assembles, and at intervals in the summer, some one starts a comparison between the old-time and the present day stars of the diamond. The youthful 1912 "fan" who may range in age from 16 to 25 years, never admits much to the credit of the old-timers. To him baseball is strictly a modern thing, and the men who played it fifteen, twenty, thirty and even forty years ago were little more than dubs. With many of the older "fans" the Wrights and the Barnes, the Kellys and the Williamsons, the Ansons and the Delahantys, the Burdocks and the Sutcliffes were the best that ever happened, or ever can happen. And so the wordy war goes on and the disputants arrive nowhere.

The men who are competent to make a really intelligent comparison are few and far between. Better fitted than any other man, perhaps, is A. G. Spalding. Once a star of the first magnitude, the man who later was chief assistant to the late William A. Hulbert in rescuing the game from the gamblers, the man who in 1874 took the first baseball team to England, the man who spread the gospel of baseball in the great world trip of 1888-89, the man who led in driving Freedmanism and Anticatism from the game, Mr. Spalding is the colossal living figure in baseball, even though he now resides nearly 2000 miles from the scene of the big league battles.

"It is all a matter of class," he declared the other day while standing near the Plaza in San Diego, a location that has made some history in the recent I.W.W. troubles in that city. "If Cobb and Wagner and Lajoie and Chance had been born twenty-five years sooner than they were, they would have been stars twenty-five years ago. Conversely, if George Wright, Ross Barnes, Al Spalding, Anson, Clarkson, Brouthers, Williamson and Kelly and the others had been born so as to be in their playing prime at this moment, they would have been stars today. A 2:10 trotter is a 2:10 trotter. There are more good players than there used to be because there are now, perhaps, 1,000 professional ball players, while in the old days there were at most only a few hundred. Yet no pitcher has ever performed a greater feat, even in this day of improvements, than did Radbourne when he pitched his way into the National League championship in 1884. It is all a question of class, I say, and the year or two the individual starred has nothing to do with it. Denton Young was a pitcher of class for twenty years; Old O'Rourke, old as he was, could play a great game of ball up to a few years ago. His age, which had caught him up some, was all that kept him out of the big league ranks many years, and not any lack of playing ability and class."

SPALDING, P.

"Spalding" once "p," is a big man physically. He seems to grow bigger and bigger every time you see him and the impression that he gives to one is one of massiveness, rather than of fatness. After he had uttered these words regarding "class," he shifted from his feet and a look of reminiscence almost glimmered in his eyes. Possibly at that moment "Spalding," the "p," was wishing that he had been born somewhat later, just to have tried his mettle among a later generation of pitchers and before a generation of fans who cannot see farther than five years. For "Spalding," the "p," was one of the first really great pitchers that the game has seen. It is to be continued, "in claiming that for him due for the player of early days it is not be forgotten that he was the first to create his plays. The game as now, profit by the long list of brilliant features chronicled in the baseball guides and on the sporting

The game [illegible] player could not [illegible] profit by the long list [illegible] chronicled in the [illegible] and on the sporting pages of the daily newspapers. He had to rely upon his own efforts of brain and brawn. Today the professional ball player, having mastered the fundamentals, receives his instructions as to the strategy of each play that confronts him from the man in command of the field, and both have the advantage of the performances of all the old-timers and all generations of ball players, to aid them.

STRATEGY THE SAME.

"You will hear a great deal of brag and talk about the marvelous changes in the strategy of the game. Perhaps you know it and perhaps you do not, but I directed the playing of the five times Boston champions and of the Chicago White Stockings. Not so long ago, I decided that I would test the theory that the game has made such wonderful changes in strategy. I saw several of the world's championship games between the Giants and Connie Mack's Athletics. Here was my chance to make the test. Here, if anywhere, were games to be played under the direction of the accepted present-day masters of strategy. Well, I worked it out on this plan: I blotted from mind the crowds, the date of the play, the shouting and blaring that goes along with such games. At every play I mentally put myself back into the center of the diamond, where I had stood for so many years, and at every turn and emergency I asked myself: 'What would you have done next?' Invariably the play was directed by Mack and McGraw precisely as I would have directed in the '70s.

CATCHERS BETTER.

"The catchers of today," he explained, "are as a whole, better throwers and play a speedier and headier game than those of long ago, and yet the old days produced individual players who would catch along with the men of today and suffer nothing by comparison. The old-time catcher at the beginning played without glove, mask, chest protector or shin guards. He had his bare hands to play with—nothing else. It took bravery under such conditions to face the swift pitching of the early day. Present-day catchers will take chances which the old-timers could not, but this is due to the protection they have. There never were finer catchers than men like Jim White, Buck Ewing, Charlie Bennett, Frank Flint—oh, so many that I could name. More dependence is placed on the catcher today in handling the game, but that is the only real change.

THE PITCHERS.

"Now as to pitchers. Here is where I live and here is where I could write a book. When I started pitching, I was a tall lanky youth with no end of strength. My dependence was speed. We could not throw the ball, as is done today, but actually had to pitch it with a straight arm. The change from the true pitch to the throw was made imperative by the fact that not enough men could be found who actually could pitch in compliance with the then existing rules. The rules of 1860 and the early '70s forbade jerking or throwing the ball; the rules of 1875 required that the arm be kept as nearly perpendicular as possible and with the hand no higher than the hip when delivering the ball; the rules of 1878 kept the hand below the waist line; the rules of 1883 kept the hand to the shoulder line; finally, as it is today, pitching became a sort of go-as-you-please affair. Pitching under the old rules was a natural gift and not an acquired knack. It is now possible to develop a first-class pitcher from a player who has the arm and the brains. The curve came when the pitching arm was allowed to come higher. Arthur Cummins, who threw the first curved ball, was a thin, long-wristed chap, who learned the trick of snapping the wrist and fingers at the instant of delivery, giving the ball a twist. Cummings was a great pitcher of this type and so was Bobby Matthews. We had a notion that they could do the trick better if they had a ball that had been used some and was softened up a bit—which is true, for the pitcher of today likes a ball that has been used. The ball had not been standarized in those early days so it was not unusual for the home club to 'jockey' with the ball and provide one that was especially suited to the home team. Along about that time, the middle of the '70s, Tom Bond and afterward the 'Only' Nolan acquired fame as curve ball artists. Then they came along faster and faster. I believe that I was the last of the old straight-arm pitchers, but managed to squeeze in my fifth national championship in 1876.

NEVER THREW CURVE.

"I never used a curve in all my experience in the box. I believe, however, that I was the first man to use change of pace, and it came about in this way: The first man I ever saw pitch an effective very slow ball was 'Phoney' Martin of Brooklyn. The Bostons often batted against him, and we soon realized that we were up against a strange proposition. The ball seemed to float right up to the batsman, and we struck out with a frequency that surprised us. We often discussed Martin's pitching and wondered what it was that made it so difficult to hit. Ross Barnes owned up that it was very tantalizing. Barnes was a nervous man who usually carried something of a grouch, but the bigger the grouch the better he would play. 'We ought to kill it, but we can't,' was what he meant to say, although he did not say it exactly that way.

"That is where I got the notion of change of pace, which stood me in such great stead in my pitching days. But I did not learn the trick from 'Phoney' Martin. About the same time we heard that a man named Archie Bush, who was playing captain and catcher and change pitcher for Harvard College team, in the early '70s, had this puzzling delivery. When we played this club, they put in a very swift pitcher named Cheever Goodwin, whom we batted all over the field. Bush went in. He showed us up. He had the delivery down far better than 'Phoney' Martin and we would strike out time and again. I recall discussing it with George Wright, but he could not explain, any more than I, why we were striking from three to six inches under the ball.

MIXING THEM UP.

"I had to know that trick. Bush showed it to me, and from being a swift ball pitcher, I learned to 'mix them up.' It took much patience to get that delivery so that it could be used, but I mastered it and used the slow ball oftener than the swift. So far as I know, I was the first to use the swift and slow delivery in pitching, now so generally in vogue.

"To this day I believe, as I always believed, that a careful study of each batsman is the first requisite of a successful pitcher; after that come control, change of pace, the curves and the breaks. Anybody can learn to throw all the curves that any pitcher needs, but how many really study the batsmen? Matthewson is the superb pitcher he is, because he knows the ins and outs of every man he is called upon to face and carries this information in his head from one game to another. He knows what they like and what they do not like; knows how to read their minds, almost, and tell what they are expecting. It is called 'outguessing the batter' but it goes deeper than guessing. There is psychology in pitching, and possibly the knowledge of this psychology is inborn. One man using all the curves and breaks and change of pace, will be batted out of the box; another man using the same materials will be practically unhittable. There comes to my mind now an old-time pitcher called 'Cherokee' Fisher. He could send them in like lightning, and we used to bat him everywhere. He lacked what might be termed 'pitching brains'—gave every batsman the same thing, and always swift. You can imagine what he got when he faced good batsmen.

PITCHING TO A MEAL SACK.

"Pitching today is a good deal like pitching to a meal sack, instead of to real flesh and blood. I know, because I have tried it. In 1908 there was a benefit game in Boston between the old-time university players and the remnants of the Boston team of 1871 and a few years afterward. I pitched for the remnants and Jim O'Rourke who caught me in 1873, went behind the bat. He looked like a meal sack. I had scarcely had a ball in my hand, as a player, for twenty-five years, when I went into the center of the diamond in this game. Great heavens, how tall I seemed to be! All of the players looked down in the world, and I getting a birdseye view of them. O'Rourke was muffled up until I did not recognize him as a proper figure behind the bat. I soon learned, though, that pitching is something that you cannot forget—like swimming, it stays with you always. After the first inning, I got hold of O'Rourke and said:

"'Good Governor, Jim, what is the matter? I seem to be as big as a house.'

"'You are,' he kidded back at me. "'But I haven't grown any taller.'

"Then it flashed in on me. We were playing on a diamond the middle of which was about eighteen inches higher than the diamond I knew. That raise gives the pitcher a tremendous advantage over the pitcher who stands on a level with the batsmen.

"That benefit game taught me more vividly than any other experience that while the essentials of the game have not changed, the rules have. I started to coach under the old rules, running up and down the base lines instead of being confined to the coacher's lines of today.

"'Here, you can't do that,' shouted a dozen or more of the university players, at one time.

"'I'd like to know why not,' I replied. 'We are playing under the 1871 rules.'

"Right in the first inning someone made a foul tip off my pitching and O'Rourke caught it. I insisted that the batter was out, and for a moment even O'Rourke could not hearken back to the old rules. He had been catching under the late rules, you see, and wanted to let it go for a strike.

"Another thing that this game taught me is, that there is nothing new under the sun. The same old tricks—the pitching tricks, I mean—were just as effective. Since then I have watched all of the great pitchers and some not so great, and more strongly than ever it is borne in on me that it all goes back to a question of class. The classy pitcher wins—he is the brainy pitcher, who has the physical strength and the skill to back up his brains; in other words the man who can make his hand and arm do what the brain commands. Golf players have a term which they call co-ordination, which fits the case.

FIRST BASEMEN.

"First base play has radically changed. I never saw a better first baseman than Hal Chase, so I cannot be accused of partiality in this instance. Comiskey, who was in his playing prime many years ago, is generally given the credit of having perfected the present style of play—to play deep, to depend more on the pitcher to cover first, and, with the second baseman, to cover the hypothetical position of 'right shortstop.' Sometimes I have seen occasions when I thought Chase overdid this deep play. We never had a first baseman who classed with Chase or others I could name. In selecting a first baseman we always tried to get one who could bat like a fiend, who would be tall enough to reach about everything in sight, and a sure catch. We did not insist that he should be a first-class thrower. The Comiskey plan of first-base play, like bunting, is one of the developments of the game, but neither of these is sufficiently far-reaching to have affected the bottom theory of play.

AT SECOND BASE.

"Second base play has changed very little. There never was a better second baseman than Ross Barnes, who was at his best in the early '70s. If he were active today and in his playing prime, with a reasonable amount of practice he could go in and play second base in any club and in any league. Do not forget that in saying this I have in mind that there is really a great second baseman playing today, in Collins, and that the game has had a long list of brilliant second basemen like Dunlap, and Lajoie, and McPhee, and Pfeffer, and Richardson, and—well so many of them that their names do not come instantly to mind. Surely second base has shown a marvelous line of accomplished ball players.

SHORT AND THIRD.

"Neither has there been any more change in shortstop play. We have stars like Wagner in this place, and yet Jack Glasscock, in the '80s, and George Wright, earlier, were just as good. Glasscock never had a superior at short field.

"Third basemen? We have stars today, naturally, but a better third baseman never went to the difficult corner than Jerry Denny, who was playing in the '80s. He had that indefinable, but apparent something which is called 'class.' So had many others right along in the procession from the time the first professional game was played.

IN THE OUTFIELD.

"Neither has outfield play changed much. We have the Cobbs and the Speakers and the Schultes, and so on, but as outfielders they have no more 'class' and playing ability than did Jimmy Fogarty, one of the greatest of the great, the par excellence of the finished fielder—or Lange and Curt Welch, or Andy Leonard and Ned Cuthbert of an earlier period.

"All of this talk, you see, goes to show that the game has always produced artists, and that a diamond of the first water always is one. Stars then and stars now have the 'class.' Each and all were born with the love of the game, possessed the playing instinct, developed into great men in their calling and passed along after the first flush of youth had gone. There is a big gulf between talent and genius in every walk of life, as well as in ball playing. There have been millions of soldiers in this world but only a few Hannibals and Alexanders and Caesars and Fredericks and Napoleans and Grants. So every time I see somebody rise on his hind legs and proclaim that the present day stars are the greatest that ever happened, merely because these stars happen to be playing today in a game that has not essentially changed for thirty years or more, then I feel like saying I know better, because I have seen them all, almost from the first, and because I know that great players have developed at every stage of the life of baseball.

FASTER BASE RUNNING.

"Base-running is speedier than it used to be. As a rule the runners are faster. Yet no man in the game has a greater instinctive knowledge of when to start and steal than had Ross Barnes. No man knows better than did Barnes how to take advantage of every opening. Lange, Hamilton, Fogarty, Welch, scores and almost hundreds of others were great base runners. Mike Kelly, one of the most unique figures the game has known, is frequently the greatest base runner of them all. But Kelly was in a class by himself. He was always getting into holes and getting out of them by unexpected breaks. When he played right field he never was a sure catch. You almost expected anything to happen when a fly went out to him. He might get it, and again, he might not. Somehow his errors never seemed to count. I have seen him time and again drop a fly in right field, and then nail a man at third who was running from second on the error. How he could throw! Kelly was a wonder at getting away from the base for a steal, and though not a fast runner was a terror to catchers. He was an instinctive ball player, born so and not made. As a quick thinker and as an actor he was a marvel.

"Underlying all play there is a psychology that cannot be explained. What starts the 'break' in a close contest? How do the players know when the 'break' comes? Why is it that one pitcher intuitively knows what the batsman is expecting and gives him something else, while another pitcher using the same curves and having the same control of the ball lacks this intuition? I might ask fifty questions along the same channel and get no satisfactory reply. Referring again to the 'break,' it is true that every player, to a greater or less extent, knows, or rather feels, the 'break' coming and is invariably affected thereby. His actions and manner plainly show which team is getting the benefit of the 'break.' At this moment a player's nerve is strained to the limit.

"Illustrating another point in the psychology of the game I will quote an instance. During one of the games of the world's series of last year, I was sitting with my New York partner, Mr. Curtis. He was rooting all he knew how for the Giants. Mathewson was pitching a masterly game. In a little while I began to tell Mr. Curtis what the next ball would be coming from the hand of that pitching wizard. The score was 1 to 0 in favor of New York at the end of the eighth inning. Finally in the ninth inning, I think it was, Baker came to bat. I said to Mr. Curtis:

"'Curtis, here is where the game breaks. Mathewson will go on feeding the batsman as he has been. Now what would happen to this game, and what effect would it have on this immense audience, if Baker should knock the ball over the right field stand for a home run? At this stage of the game I know that is just what Ross Barnes or George Wright would have tried to do forty years ago.'

"Mr. Curtis knew that I had been calling Mathewson right along. He turned to me quickly and almost in a scared tone he said:

"'Don't breathe it, Mr. Spalding.'

Mathewson sent over what he guessed was the right article, but Baker's home run broke up the game. The psychological moment had arrived.

"How did I know it; or rather, how did I feel it? I cannot tell, for I do not know. Possibly it was only a coincidence. I do not pretend to explain how I kept calling Mathewson's intentions; I do not pretend to say how the idea of a home run flashed in on me. Maybe Mack and Baker had it the same way I did. I knew it was then or never. How? That I cannot explain. Ask any captain of a ball team who has the direction of the game how or why he frequently gets a 'hunch' that a certain thing is going to happen. Perhaps he can tell you what it is, but he will be at a complete loss to explain.

Fine Record for Evers.

Twenty-five games in succession without an error is a stretch of perfect fielding continuity, or continuous perfection, credited to Johnny Evers this season.

Better Than in 1905.

"This ball club," says John McGraw, referring to his Giants, "is a stronger all-around club than the Giants that won the world's championship in 1905. It is making a good many more runs than that club did."

The Syracuse Automobile Dealers' Association plans to organize the leading dealers of the city in a "motor mart," on a large tract of land near the center of the city. The plans embody a large two-story building with a big demonstration court in the center, roofed with glass, the whole to cost about $100,000 and to accommodate some seventeen stockholders.

The Champion of the World.

THE REAL AD WOLGAST: A CHARACTER SKETCH.

Behind the Exterior of a Rough Little Lion-hearted Fighter, Is a Whimsical, Humorous, Little Fellow With a Fund of Dry Philosophy—He Has the Financial Scheme of a Trust Magnate.

BY HARRY CARR.

ONE might as well be frankly egotistical about this:

For a year and a half I have been living in a strange world peopled by baseball stars and soldiers of fortune who live by their fists instead of their swords, but who are quite as interesting and picturesque as Athos and Porthos and D'Artagnan were in their day.

This is to be the first of a little series of sketches I am going to write about the flora and fauna I have discovered.

One should naturally begin with Ad Wolgast. As lightweight champion of the world he is naturally the biggest walrus. And in addition he is one of the most interesting characters I have ever met anywhere.

The delightful part of newspaper work is meeting men with the cover off. You see the star behind the scenes.

The public knows Ad Wolgast as a tough little Dutchman with the heart of a lion. They do not know the real Wolgast.

Out of a weary waste of 100,000 bores, I have met perhaps 100 men of really remarkable personality. Some of them have been doctors, some lawyers, some were soldiers, some were editors and some were trust magnates; but one was a prize fighter—Ad Wolgast, the lightweight champion of the world.

I have hunted with him, fished with him, rooted with him at ball games; climbed mountain trails with him. We have talked over everything from dry farming to Maude Adams, from socialism to the hope of the hereafter.

No matter who you are, you couldn't help being charmed with Ad Wolgast—if you took the trouble to dig down under the prize fight part. He is one of the few men I know who does not think in ruts. I have never talked with him five minutes that I did not come away hugging some idea whose freshness and originality and quaintness hit me a solar plexus.

AD AND THE RABBIT.

One day, I remember, we were in a cafe and a little boy brought up a pet rabbit and laid it in Ad's arms. The little fluffy thing did not show the slightest fear, but nestled down contentedly on the mighty right arm. I could see that it made a tremendous impression upon Ad. He looked up with a queer awed expression in his eyes and said, "Do you know why this little thing isn't afraid? Because it does not know there is any such thing in the world as sin. Nobody would be scared of anything if we did not know there was anything wrong in the world." He kept repeating a dozen times, "That little innocent thing. It does not know there is anything wrong in the world."

Ad probably does not know there is such a thing in the world as New Thought; but he certainly pulled the G-string.

Wolgast's people are Milwaukee Germans—strong believers in socialism and equal distribution of wealth. He has told me several times that there has been considerable difficulty in the family because he can't see that it is his duty to divide his not inconsiderable wealth with the world at large.

"There is nothing in this socialism stuff," he said, "any man who can climb wants to climb. Do you know," he said, "it never makes me sore when anyone tries to look down upon me. I always say to myself, 'Go to it, old fellow. If you are not actually better than I am, this shows that you wish you were, and that is going in the right direction.'"

A HUMOROUS FANCY.

Ad has a fund of the most delightful whimsical humor. One day we were talking about King George's Indian hunting expedition. "If I were a King," said Ad, "I would have an elephant howdah that was built in style. I would have it built three stories high on the elephant's back. On the top I would have a glass observatory with a telescope, where a man would be stationed to look for tigers. Then I would have an elevator going from the bottom to the top. When the man sighted a tiger he would telephone down to me and I would go up in the elevator and have a look at him. If it looked like a good tiger I would go out on the front porch and have a shot at him. I have heard that elephants like to splash mud on themselves. I would take advantage of this and plant grass seed in the mud; so there would be a beautiful grass lawn all around the howdah."

HIGH FINANCE.

Modern finance—not so much the gritty little money-grabbing, but the big "game"—appeals very strongly to Ad. Every time you see him he is bursting with some kind of a scheme that sounds like Wall street.

Perhaps the oddest phase in which he has presented himself to me is as a commercialized fighting corporation.

He is organizing himself very much as I imagine John D. would, were he a fighter. I call Ad the "Wolgast Enterprises—Limited."

One part of his scheme is a holding company that can instantly throw resources upon the market in the event of need; an investment company, and a feeder company.

Ad and Mrs. Wolgast.

Showing the champion as a citizen, with two jewels—a diamond and a wife.

Ad told me about it one day when we were hurrying down a trail in the Nordhoff Mountains; but I was afraid of snakes and was out of breath and was wondering why the Creator didn't make the world all level ground; so I didn't get all of it." But this is the theory upon which he is building up his fortunes:

He has suited some of his money away in Venice real estate where the values rise very quickly and the market is instant. This is his holding company which can come instantly to the rescue of any weak point along the line.

He has planted about $8000 in acreage between Los Angeles and the beach. This he calls, "my twenty-year investment." That is planted and not to be touched until the city has grown to the beach and closed in around it.

HIS OREGON VENTURE.

Some time this week Ad will start for Oregon where he will start a big cattle ranch. He intends to sell stock in this company reserving a certain share of the acreage for himself in lieu of promoters' stock.

Ad's fists are his feeder company. After the starting of this ranch, he intends to fight as a means of tiding this cattle company over the first lean years.

"The reason that farms so often fail," said Ad, as I was panting down the trail behind him, "is lack of capital. The farmer expects to get returns too quickly.

"I am going to start an enormous cattle ranch up there where land is cheap and grass is plentiful. While it is getting its start, I will keep it going by fighting. My fists will be my income-producing corporation. By the time I am ready to quit the ring, my cattle ought to be ready to produce dividends.

"As I figure it, by that time, the Panama Canal will be open for business and big cattle ships will be carrying beef cattle to New York and Europe at cheap freight rates instead of altogether through Chicago as at present."

Wolgast's Plan for an Elephant Howdah.

farming from the bottom of his soul.

I won't pretend that Ad said it in these very words, but that was the point. His words are hard to repeat. Like most men who think more rapidly than they talk, he has curious habits of speech. He begins nearly every remark with, "And—then—now." When you say something that he agrees with, he says, "Well, there you are."

A PRACTICAL FARMER.

I have never seen anything from politics to the way to mix corn bread that didn't interest Ad; but he loves

Animals love him on sight. Up at Harrow's ranch in the Ventura Mountains, the horses would follow him around like the dogs. One day he saved the life of a blooded mare by his knowledge of equine obstetrics. He knows all about dry farming in the West, and curing hams and marketing farm produce to get the best of the middlemen. He has a big farm in Cadillac, Mich., where he has astonished the natives with all sorts of modern notions about taking out insurance on stock.

WORLD'S GREATEST FIGHTER.

As a fighter, Ad's work is pretty well known. Charley Eyton, the referee, states that Wolgast is the greatest light weight fighter the world has ever known. His work is distinguished by two qualities, daring originality of method and iron courage.

He has been given the credit of inventing the American system of fighting where you take a punch to give back a punch; but, of course, he didn't. Gen. U. S. Grant invented that system at the beginning of the battle of the Wilderness. Our prize fighters have been using the tactics of Gen. Grant just as our football players played the old American game exactly on the strategy lines used by Napoleon.

Ad won the world's championship from Battling Nelson in the most desperate fight of modern ring history. Ad has told me about it several times.

The first twenty-five or thirty rounds were so terrific that his body began to chill from exhaustion. His seconds then began to give him brandy.

"The liquor made me so dizzy," said Ad, "that I didn't know where I was. I was only vaguely conscious of some one in front of me who was trying to hurt me."

After the thirtieth round his head began to clear. He became conscious of a dreadful face in front of him. It was Bat Nelson.

"Honest," said Ad, "I hated to hit him, he looked so bad. His face was swollen like a pounded beefsteak and about as bloody as one. His eyes were closed and he could only see by cocking his head on one side. "Why don't you quit; I don't want to hit and you can't win?" I said to him. "He only called me a coward and said he knew I would quit before the fight was through. That made me so sore that I hit him again and then I was sorry that I did so. And so we went on, me telling him to quit and he calling me names and making me so mad I hit him again."

MURDERED HOPES.

Since winning the championship, Ad has left a trail of murdered hopes behind him. It is a fact that no fighter whom he has beaten has ever been able to fight to any effect again.

Boys who have fought him, tell me that he is hard to fight, for two reasons; He covers up in such a remarkable way that you only see a tangle of arms in front of you, with no way to break through. The most maddening thing about Ad, however, is his way of returning a blow for a blow.

"Just as you step in and land on him," said Willie Ritchie the other day, "you think to yourself, 'I guess that will hold him for a while!' and whang! Before you can recover yourself, he hands you back one."

One of these days, of course, Ad will lose the championship to some newer star, for even the lion-hearted must go.

A typical Teuton, Ad has an appalling ability to look at himself with cold, critical, impersonal judgment. He has sized up the coming champion contenders as though it were some one else's crown they were after.

HOW HE SIZES 'EM.

This is what he thinks of them:

Rivers—a false alarm. He thinks the Mexican lacks courage and has only one good hand—the right.

Packy McFarland—would be very dangerous if he could chose the weight, but will always go into the ring weak at 133 pounds. Is likely to last longer than any other prominent fighter who ever was connected with the ring, because he has not fought many hard fights.

Willie Ritchie—problematical. Very fast boxer and hard hitter, but can't tell what he would do in twenty rounds.

Joe Mandot—not a dangerous contender.

Young Jack O'Brien—the hardest boy now in the ring to hit.

Of the boys now disappearing from the ring, Ad thinks George Memsic the best. Ad says Memsic could hit the hardest blow of any lightweight ever in the ring.

Ad is already looking forward to the time when he leaves the ring.

"When the average fighter leaves the ring," he said. "He marries some blondined girl out of the chorus and settles down trying to run a saloon. He thinks his friends will bring him patrons.

"Let me tell you, when a champion is down and out, he hasn't any friends. When I got married, I went back and found the little girl who used to sit across the aisle from me in school. When I get through, I hoped to be fixed financially for the rest of my life, with a good income-producing business. The one big ambition of my life is to be a respected citizen in whatever town I am going to live and have the business men there think I am a 'live wire' in the business world."

DE WITT VAN COURT'S COLUMN.

There will be no Wolgast-Rivers fight on Labor Day. Take this from me. I had the pleasure of a talk with Ad and Tom Jones yesterday afternoon and they both agreed that Ad would not be in condition for Labor Day.

Both Ad and Tom Jones were perfectly frank in their statements in this regard. Ad admitted to me that he was not in good condition for his fight with Rivers, but when I came out with the statement that I thought he was not right, he and Tom were quite peeved, but we must hand it to both Ad and Tom. They are in the fighting game to make all they can. I believe in telling the public all that happens. The public are the people that support the promoters, fighters and fight managers and they are entitled to the truth of all things concerning the fighting game, regardless of who it helps and who it hurts.

I said before the fight that Wolgast was not the Ad of old and that he was not in good condition. This he and Tom Jones admitted to me yesterday.

I then advised both Tom and Ad not to fight again until he was right if it took several years to get back into shape. It was this very same thing that forced Jim Jeffries back into the game before he was right. Jim felt for the public opinion stuff and fought and lost. What credit did he get for doing so?

I have always been a great admirer of Joe Rivers and he made a wonderful fight with Wolgast and I think at the present time that he won the fight fair and square. But we cannot take anything from Wolgast when we learn that he was a sick man when he entered the ring, which there is no doubt in my mind he was. The fact that Wolgast was losing weight while in training was the best proof in the world that he was not right physically.

He also looked, with a bit of exaggeration, to be about fifteen pounds lighter than when he fought Owen Moran a year ago.

We will have to wait until these two boys meet again until we can settle these arguments as to who is the better boy.

There is a strong movement on hand to stop all fight pictures being shown in Los Angeles. Since the Jeffries-Johnson fight there have been several moving pictures of fights shown in this town, and nobody, as far as I have been able to discover, has been demoralized by these exhibitions. Most of these protests come from people who never saw a boxing match and know absolutely nothing about it.

Boxing or fighting, as some are pleased to call it, is far less brutal than football and many other sports, but from the fact that they are popular and draw a lot of money they are condemned.

Boxing is just what the promoters make it—good or bad. The game has been conducted along pretty good lines since it has been permitted in Los Angeles, but I will admit that it could have been much better.

I do not believe in letting well enough alone as long as there is any chance to better the conditions.

It is the public that pays the price and supports the game and as long as it does this it is entitled to know just what is doing before and during a contest. All this talk of "Don't say this or that about the boxing game," is all foolishness. Let us call a spade a spade and make no bones about it.

All excuses that are offered about how this contest should have ended or how that should have been conducted is all bosh. Give them the truth of the whole thing from start to finish and there will be little chance of anything crooked.

I am glad to hear that they are considering the proposition of fighting the fighting game here. Let them fight it out and settle the thing for good and all time.

Boxing is as clean as any sport in existence when promoted along honest lines. It is not the fault of the boxing itself, but the fault of these greedy promoters, who wish to pull off any and all kinds of stuff on the public and then squeal when called for their crookedness.

When I say this I am not referring to the last contest between Rivers and Wolgast. If ever there was a fight on the square, it was that one, but there are many that contend that it was a frame-up.

As I said before, Wolgast admitted to me that he was in poor condition and should never have met Joe Rivers in the condition he was in.

The best proof in the world that he was on the square about the contest is the fact that he and Tom Jones bet their pile on the result of it and won.

Ad held Rivers cheaply, and was a lucky boy to get the decision, and while I am saying this I do not believe that the referee did anything but what he thought was right. I will admit that I thought Welsh got a severe case of "rattles," but I honestly believe he was honest in his decision. At the same time I will also say that I do not believe that he is competent.

I said several weeks ago, if I was Ad Wolgast's manager I would not stand for anyone but Jack Welsh, if it was possible to get him. This is business. I also said that if I were the manager of Joe Rivers I would not stand for anyone but Charlie Eyton. Welsh is too lenient with fighters when it comes to holding or clinching, and Eyton is more strict on the interpretation of the rules. Welsh's style was all in favor of Wolgast and Eyton's was all in favor of Rivers. For that reason I [illegible] in favor of the referee that [illegible] most strictly the M. G. rules [illegible] cannot be improved upon.

The Packard for 1913

Its dominance on the road impels its dominance in sales

Before the 1913 model was announced orders had been received for over 500 cars and since its actual appearance the sales have reached a volume which exceeds all previous records.

There being a definite allotment of Packard "48" to sell in this territory, an immediate order is necessary to secure a delivery.

The Packard "Six" is the logical masterpiece of fourteen years of engineering success. Its stamina was proven by a hundred thousand miles of the roughest kind of mountain driving before the 1912 model was offered for sale last year. The experience of users has added public assurance to our own confidence in the pre-eminence of this, the Packard Six.

The Touring Car at $4850 and the Phaeton at $4750, f. o. b. factory—fully equipped with the Bijur Electric System—Glass Front—Top—Full Nickel Finish—offer the purchaser the Greatest Motor Car Value for 1913.

Gasoline in Europe sells as high 40 to 60 cents a gallon, and this probably one of the main reasons w there is not more touring cars among the owners of motor cars. The most light cars offered by European manufacturers are designed to afford econ omy in gasoline consumption and not pot powerful enough to make reasonable long tours over hilly roads. It is the modern low-priced car exported from this country that is demonstrating to Europeans the possibilities in motor car construction.

THE JUMP-UPS

VERSES BY PAUL WEST
DRAWINGS BY WM. H. LOOMIS

1.—Newport was thronged with titled folk—dukes, princes, lords and earls—
And social life was moving on in giddy, ceaseless whirls;
But though the Jump-Ups went about, this noble crowd to meet,
Fair Genevieve was much distressed, her joy was incomplete.

2.—"I wish," she said to Jim one day, "we knew a prince or so Who'd come along and visit us—'twould help a lot, you know."
When as she spoke a motor car came whizzing through the gate,
And in it sat a couple in an attitude of state.

3.—A most distinguished pair they were, as up the steps they ran,
Announcing with a smile, "The Prince and Princess Razbazan!"
Jim gasped in awe, while Genevieve turned twenty tints with pride,
As with a bow the Prince advanced, the Princess by his side.

4.—"Madame! Monsieur!" the Prince exclaimed, "this liberty excuse,
But we have heard so much of you the chance we could not lose
To meet you soon as we arrived! What? Be your guests? Merci!
To spend the week at your maison too honored we shall be!"

5.—So it began. The news flew 'round; all Newport wildly ran
To meet the Jump-Ups' guests, the Prince and Princess Razbazan,
And Genevieve declared to Jim, "Oh, love, this trick's a winner!
To-night we'll conquer Newport with their Highnesses at dinner!"

6.—And really 'twas a noted throng that 'round their table drew
To fawn upon those princely guests and homage deep to do,
And everything was going well, when all at once the Prince
Let forth a wild and fearful howl that made the party wince.

7.—Then he upon the table leaped; the Princess joined him, too,
And there a wild and frantic dance they started in to do.
The guests in horror shrieked and ran, when into the affair
There burst two men in uniform and fell upon the pair.

8.—"Don't be afraid," they calmly said; "we'll get them out all right.
We're guards from the asylum where this pair escaped last night."
"By jinks!" laughed Jim, who saw the joke, "is there a room to spare?
I think my wife and me would be a blamed sight safer there!"

MR. TWEE DEEDLE.

I WAS THINKING, DICKIE, WOULDN'T IT BE FINE IF WE COULD GO THROUGH THE LOOKING-GLASS LIKE ALICE DID?

OH SIS! IT WOULD BE FINE, BUT THAT WAS ONLY A STORY AND WE ARE REAL!

NOW THEN MISTER DICKIE! SEE? YOU JUMP AT CONCLUSIONS TOO QUICKLY! THERE IS A LOOKING GLASS LAND, FOR I CAN SEE IT!

YES SIR! SURE POP! THERE IS!

GO REAL EASY SIS, SO YOU WONT BREAK THE GLASS IF IT ISN'T REAL!

COME ON, IT'S REAL! I'VE PUT MY FOOT THROUGH!

LOOK DOLLY! IF THAT ISN'T QUEER! YOU CAN SEE ALL AROUND THE GLASS IS LOOKING GLASS LAND, BUT INSIDE IT'S OUR HOUSE

OF COURSE! 'CAUSE IT IS OUR LOOKING GLASS!

I THOUGHT MR. TWEE DEEDLE WAS THE ONE WHO MADE THE LOOKING GLASS LAND OPEN TO US!

YES, I HEARD DOLLY WISH TO COME

LOOK! LOOK! THAT HORSE IS RUNNING BACKWARD WITH THE WAGON!

DON'T IT LOOK FUNNY!

THAT EVERY THING GOES BACKWARD IN LOOKING GLASS LAND

IS HE GERMAN, MR. TWEE DEEDLE? I CAN'T UNDERSTAND HIM!

HERE! YOU LEAVE OUR LOOKING GLASS ALONE! THAT BELONGS TO MY MAMMA!

NO DOLLY, HE IS JUST TALKING BACKWARD AND HE'S PUTTING THE LOOKING GLASS IN THE WAGON BACKWARD TOO!

WHY DID HE PUT US IN THE WAGON, MR. TWEE DEEDLE?

HE SAID THE LOOKING GLASS WAS LOST AND BECAUSE WE WERE WITH IT, WE ARE LOST TOO, SO HE WOULD TAKE ALL OF US TO THE KING!

Separate Silk and Satin Jackets

Empire Coat of Salmon Silk

A Long Black Model

Of Changeable Taffeta

IN THIS day of silks and satins the newest exploitations for summer wear are the separate little jackets that are slipped over lingerie frocks, giving just a little warmth and adding piquant charm to the season's styles. These are short or long and are delightfully varied in line and ornamentation. They can repeat the color note of the dress or can sound a decided note of contrast to the costume. They are easily constructed and require a small amount of material—what more does womankind ask?

In the black silk coat there is shown a long slenderizing line that is especially becoming to tall figures. The model has a broad flat collar edged with a silk-covered cording. The sleeves show turned-back cuffs, and at the waist line loops of silk are fastened over large silk buttons. This is beauty and simplicity in a stunning combination.

An empire style is a coatee of salmon-covered silk worn over a voile gown. This shows sleeves shirred on the underarm seam, with deep cuffs. The fullness of the bodice is gathered into a cording, from which falls a fitted peplum. One side of this has a turned-back edge, held under a button. The curved revers lap over a collar of hemstitched linen at the back.

Paris has taken the white silk and satin coats to its modistic heart. These are worn over dark dress and usually show a touch of black. They are beautiful, cool-looking and can be worn with any frock.

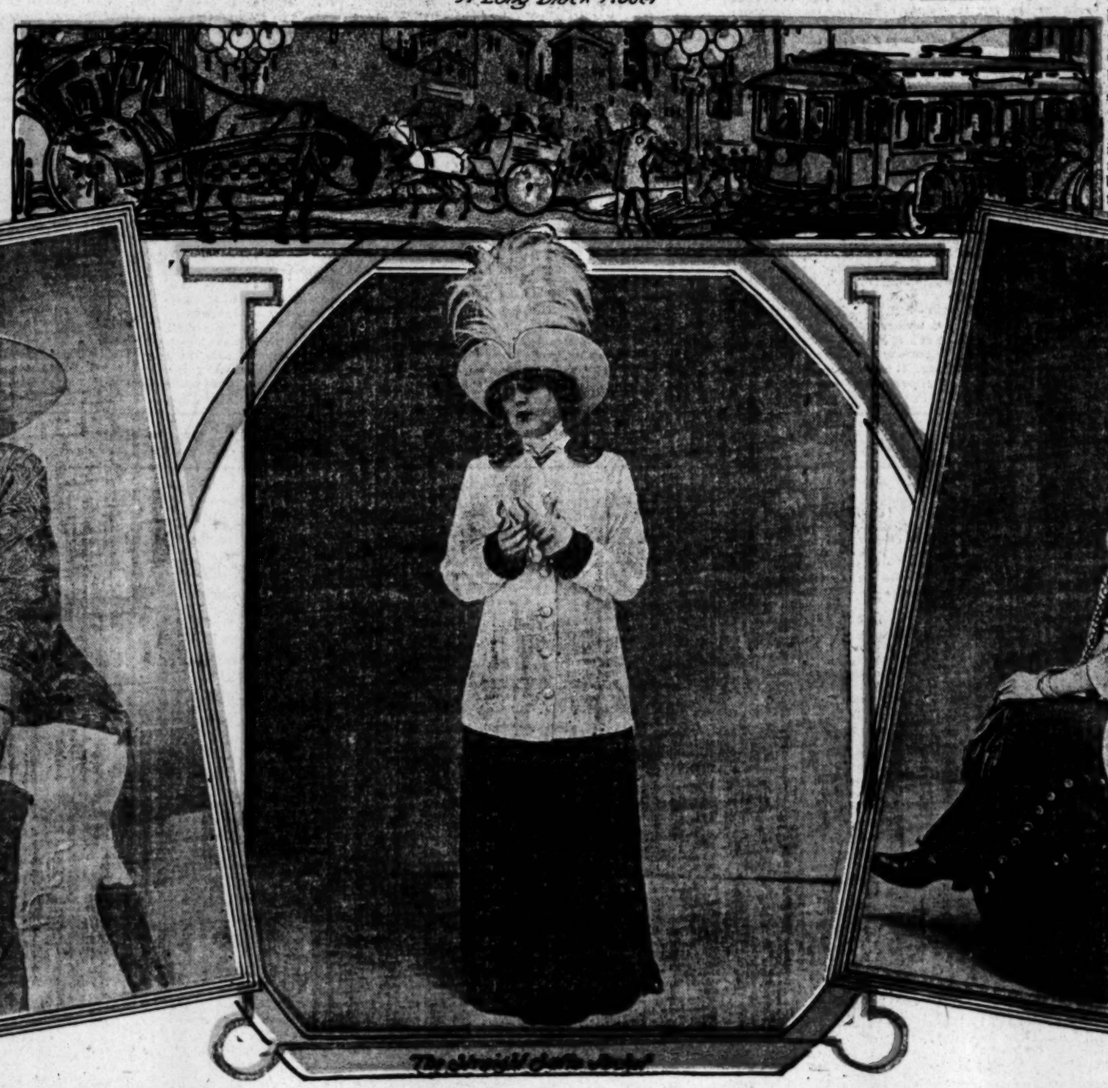
White satin in a cutaway style is shown in tailored charm. The sleeves have cuffs that are trimmed with cords and buttons: the peplum is long and curved, and a black satin rolled collar completes the "chic" of the jacket.

A straight satin model is another Paris favorite. It buttons down the center, and has a narrow black stitched collar and cuffs for contrasting notes. The back is plain and the sleeves are tailored.

Suggesting the orient in its gorgeous embroidery on yellow silk is a jacket with cutaway front lines and kimono sleeves. It has one large revers, faced with folds of yellow chiffon. Otherwise, the luxuriance of design needs no further emphasis.

Changeable taffeta in silver and blue is made up in the last little model. A deep shawl collar is edged with a quilling. The sleeves are straight kimono and are edged with quilling and ornamented with a line of crystal buttons. The fronts are curved, fastening at one side under crystal buttons. The jacket, by the way, is lined with silver-and-rose chiffon to prove the touch of the Parisian modiste.

Separate jackets have so firmly been installed in summer styles that they need little introduction, further than a glance at the models. They have been accepted and are their own beautiful excuse for being.



Mlle Dalin in a Paris Novelty

COMMON SENSE in the HOME
EDITED by MARION HARLAND

THE PROBLEM OF THE SHIFTLESS HUSBAND.

"I HAVE been watching and watching and watching your corner day by day and week after week for months in the hope of seeing something that would solve the problem which haunts me ceaselessly. You tell young women and men how to make a living, and encourage housekeepers with incomes to be economical with what their husbands 'allow' them for supplying the table, and all that. Not a word for women whose husbands don't support them, yet who have children who must eat and be clothed and have a tight roof over their heads.

"Let me tell my story in as few words as I can, and prefuce it by saying that it is not such an uncommon experience as you and other women who are comfortably off may think.

"I have been married ten years. We have three children. My husband is well and strong. He never has supported his family. He never will. He is one of the men who will never get on in the world. It is not necessary to say why this is the case. As you have told us more than once, it is in bad taste to wash one's soiled linen in public. I have washed mine behind closed doors for eight years. The neighbors may have their suspicions—but never mind.

Mother Clings to Her Children.

"I am strong and willing. I can do almost any kind of honest work. And it breaks my heart to think of parting with my children. Poor little innocent babies! It is not their fault that they are here. And I love them better than I love my own life. I cannot send them to a foster home or beg strangers to adopt them.

"This is the question I put before you and your fellow workers who know the world and want to lend a helping hand to those who are in distress:

"How can a married woman who is well and willing to work maintain herself, her three babies, and—heaven help and pity me—keep their father out of the workhouse or wherever it is that the city would send men that might provide for their families and do not?

"Sometimes I am desperate enough to do anything—right or wrong. But I keep myself honest and respectable for the children's sake.

"In there any line of work you can think of that would enable me to make even a few dollars a week without leaving home (such as it is) and the babies who cannot take care of themselves?

"I began this letter by saying that mine is not such an uncommon case as you might think. If other women would speak out plainly, you would find out what a sham this talk of men supporting their wives in hundreds of homes. But, I say again, never mind. What I am after is to know how to mend this particular evil.

"Dear lady, I am not a bad tempered woman, if I do speak more strongly than is quite polite. I am only driven to my wits' end. I don't ask for charity. I want honest, hard work. But what can a married woman who is a mother do at home? I have nobody to whom I can go if you fail me. MRS. J. K."

Suggestions of Members Requested.

I wish you had trusted me far enough to give me your whole name and address. We have tactful and judicious and tender hearted members to whom I might refer you for employment and counsel. Yet I appreciate the reserve that leads you to remain incognita. It is possible that I may be of service to you as a member of a class which you say, with truth, is larger than any of us can believe without making diligent search into special instances.

I may have referred before in the corner to the dry admonition of the president of a woman's college in a baccalaureate address:

"I earnestly advise each of you young ladies, graduates of this year, never to marry until you are able to support a husband."

In view of facts that drift to me through letters like yours, and which are learned from observation and reading newspaper reports, the injunction sounds like common sense and not jesting. Pessimistic journalists and social reformers tell us the young men nowadays are afraid to marry for fear of extravagant wives and financial shipwreck. The college president would remove that obstacle to general obedience to natural laws.

Seriously and sadly, I would lay the case of this woman and a hundred other married women who also are mothers, before our readers, while I struggle in the fog of our correspondent's present distress.

* *

Methods of Some Women.

What some women have done to support their families:

One housemother, the wife of a badly paid clergyman in a country town, gave the parishioners to understand that she did not wish to be excused from subscribing to missions and charities, and that she could not deduct these subscriptions from the salary that barely met the living expenses of her household. She kept no maid, and was herself an excellent cook.

Three times a week she baked a big batch of brown bread according to a recipe of her own, acknowledged to be incomparable. She soon had regular customers for all the loaves she could turn out. Neighbors sent to the parsonage for them, and she was spared the trouble of delivering her wares. She kept this up for three years—the length of her stay in that town—and yearly passed over to the credit of the church a handsome sum for benevolent objects and for church missions.

It may be said that this hardly comes under the head of "self-support." In reality, she saved the money she would otherwise have drawn from the salary designed to maintain the clergyman and family, enabling her husband and children to live more comfortably than if she had no other treasury. Clergyman, I digress to remark, are not excused from contributing their full quota to every cause that demands help from the wealthiest of their flocks. The charity of the poor to their fellow sufferers is proverbial.

How Two Sisters Solved Problem.

Two sisters in a southern city had the care of an invalid brother upon their consciences and hearts and little provision for their own needs. None of the three was young or vigorous. The women had a local reputation for making the best "beaten biscuits" in the region. They fell to work to make this one talent useful.

At first they had but a dozen or so families upon their list of customers. These spread the story of their brave enterprise and the admirable quality of the biscuits. Next they began to get orders from bakers, then from women's exchanges all over the country. For twenty years the manufacture went on, gaining repute every year and enlarging the extent of territory. The invalid brother died, then one of the sisters, and the other retired upon the modest competency she had been able to lay aside from the maintenance of the household. The workers had not amassed a fortune. They had made a decent living and saved a few hundreds against a rainy day.

"My Husband Is Well and Strong. He Never Has Supported His Family. He Never Will. He Is One of the Men Who Never Will Get Along in the World."

An energetic New England spinster, left to make a living for herself and aged mother, cast about in her mind for, as she put it, "some honest means of support that did not oblige her to stand behind a counter or take in fine sewing." She lived in a berry bearing region, and she liked to "do up preserves." She put up ten times as many jellies, preserves, and pickles as she had ever put up before, and sent out cards to private families within a radius of twenty miles, offering these for sale. The result encouraged her to quadruple the quantity the second year and to study up other varieties.

For a dozen years past her stamp upon pickles, preserves, jelly, brandied fruit chutney, etc., is considered by grocers and consumers as a guaranty of the quality of what brings the highest prices of any similar products in this country.

Pickles Foundation of Fortune.

A woman whose husband had served in the civil war and lost heavily by reason of his absence from home set her active wits to work to get the means for educating their children. She had her house and furniture and the reputation of making such pickles as nobody else could compound. She enlarged the quantity manufactured in her own kitchen gradually as orders increased, making her invalid husband business manager and purchasing agent. Today she is a rich woman, her boys and girls have gone through college, and her pickles are exported by the hundred cases to foreign lands.

I could cite several other instances of the improvement to the utmost of a single talent and what would be set down as of an humble order resulting in comparative affluence and now and then in positive wealth.

Look we now at cases of a less ambitious type.

A woman who had learned dressmaking in her youth practiced the trade to her own satisfaction after marriage in designing and making up tasteful costumes for her children. She paid especial heed to the manufacture of "layettes," her babies succeeding one another so fast that she could not afford to pay for having the dainty outfits made. Moreover, as she confessed she "just gloried in the work!" When her husband died she had four little ones, and little besides his life insurance with which to maintain them.

She wrote her many friends of her desire to get orders for "layettes," in full or in part, and got as many as she could handle within the year. The exquisite daintiness of the wee garments excited universal admiration. Embroidered coats and frocks for children of a larger growth were made to order and gave as much satisfaction. She kept a roof over her head and kept her children with her.

Minor Talent Turned to Account.

An instance of what a woman may do whose one available talent is of a yet humbler order may be of more practical value to our correspondent. A widow, the mother of a boy of 8 and a girl of 6, lived in a bustling manufacturing town that was in a fair way to grow into a city. She had never learned a trade. She had no especial bent for anything that she knew of. That was what she would have said had she been questioned as to her "stock in trade" of brains, energy, and aptitude.

Like our correspondent, she could not endure the thought of parting with her children. If she could but keep the little household together until the boy was big enough to go to work she would be satisfied. She was no fool, for she evolved from a brain quickened by the exigency a scheme she had never heard of. She became a "general mender."

Scores of girls employed in factories and stores trooped by her door daily to and from their work. She reasoned within herself that they could not mend their stockings and other garments in the evenings when they were worn out by hard work or had some frolic on foot. She called in person at their boarding houses and bargained with landladies to allow each a small commission upon orders gained through her. Then she arranged with the girls to whom the landladies had spoken to do their mending for so much a month.

The bundles were left for her as they went to work and called for on the way home. In the course of time the boy was big enough to deliver the parcels of neatly mended garments and to call for the others. The girls took a fancy to the pleasant spoken little woman who repaired rents and darned thin places as nobody else had ever done. Now and then a gown that was out of fashion or which could be cut down to suit a smaller figure, although too badly worn to be presentable upon the owner, was passed over for the little daughter.

Men Soon Among Customers.

The "gentlemen friends" of the working girls, hearing of the gallant fight the widow was making and of the wonders accomplished by her needle in prolonging the usefulness of garments supposed to be past worthy, craved permission to be numbered among her regular customers. She had her hands brim full in less than a year, and, having learned the chief secret of success—viz.: to do her best always—she set her head to a business-like plan for her clientèle. She was not handsome, she was not particularly clever, in what the boys would call "slick senses," and she made it do in the face of work. By the exercise of the same day diligence in business, she trained her children to man's and woman's estate and lived to patch the trousers and the stockings of happy, well clad grandchildren.

Each of the foregoing chronicles of life has the same moral. First, to do what you can do best, and, that done, see to it that the task is performed. If the success of your whole undertaking depended on the way in which the particular job was turned off. If the history of failures in business were told as often as the story of notable successes, we should find that at least 50 per cent are due to the relaxing care and circumspection after success seems assured beyond the chance of loss.

Certain popular patented articles hold their own in the esteem of the public for half a century. Others, as popular for a time, have dropped entirely out of sight and mind. In the one case the original excellent quality of the product is maintained as rigidly as if each one manufactured were a "sample package." In the other case the desire to make money there or there out of it suggests cheaper materials or cheaper labor. "The public will be none the wiser for the change."

* *

Chief Object of Contempt.

The public is wiser, and, the moment it is detected, abused confidence wins only indignant contempt.

But to go back to our woman who wanted our verdict.

You are willing, strong, and not afraid of work—three essentials for the success you would find. You may see in the street what other women, no more gifted than you, the tallest and affluent in opportunity, have yourself, have done to gratify your aspiration. What one thing can you do so well that it might become a specialty? Study what has been related of other excursion into the world where things are bought and sold, and think over your capital.

For that is what every one has to start with—capital—if one knows how to use it. "Capitalize" your health, your vigor, your earnest desire to find something to do that will help you to take care of the children.

Can you bake, or preserve, or pickle, or make or mend clothing? One resident of a suburban town, where there was neither gas nor electricity, cleared a neat little sum weekly by taking care of lamps in houses where mistresses and servants disliked the job so much that the lamps were never properly attended to.

Another is a neighborhood housekeeper making $1.50 a week by it the year round and extras in spring and autumn cleanings. Another braids substantial pretty rugs and sells all she can make. Another makes her church money by crocheting shawls and socks and the fashionable crocheted handbags now so fashionable.

I wish you would write again and let me assist you to the fulfillment of your every desire in some way.

Meanwhile, our practical housekeepers will think of divers things I have not hinted that may inspire you.

MARION HARLAND'S HELPING HAND

IMPORTANT NOTICE

BECAUSE of the enormous number of letters sent to the department I must ask contributors to limit their communications to 100 words, except in cases of formulas or recipes which require greater space. I must all my correspondents to have a showing in the Corner, and if my request in this respect is complied with it will be possible to print many more letters.

Attention is called to the fact that Marion Harland cannot receive money for patterns, as she has no connection with any department that sells them. Marion Harland.

"MAY a chutin give a few hints as to ways and means of amusing and helping oneself while practically secluded from the rest of the world?

"First, there was brought to me a dining room chair of suitable height. Casters were made fast to the legs, with caps that slipped up and were adjusted in place. In this I was drawn from room to room. As I regained partially the use of my hands and arms we had a frame made from the bottom of an upholstered arm chair and double casters fitted upon the legs. In this I could propel myself all over the first floor of the house. My elbows are crooked and my fingers are stiff.

"I framed about twenty-five pictures cut from leading newspapers, and when I was too nervous to read some one would take these down for me and I would amuse myself by changing the places of all the pictures. I make scrap books of pictures we have cut out and stored away in boxes against 'a rainy day.' Every little helps when one has few diversions.

"A third of my life has been passed in a wheeled chair, I find the best way of distracting the mind from dreary thoughts and useless longing is to try to help somebody else. So, if you will allow me, I should like to suggest a thing or two to active housemothers. I am not one of these, but I see much from my chair and turn many things over in my mind.

"If you spill kerosene upon the floor or table, put upon it any cleanser you may have at hand, and cover this with baking soda. Leave the soda on for a day or two, and then pour boiling water over all. When the wet is cleaned up there will remain no sign of the oil.

To Save Scrubbing.

"To save yourself much scrubbing, paste together several sheets of heavy wrapping paper; let them get dry, and lay down in front of the doors through which there is most passing back and forth from out of doors.

"Strip fresh young mint leaves from the stems; wash and drain, or dry them upon a cloth. Chop fine; put into a sauce boat or bowl; add two tablespoonfuls of sugar for three tablespoonfuls of chopped mint; mix and let all stand five minutes before pouring upon the ingredients six tablespoonfuls of vinegar. If you object to the floating bits of mint, strain the mixture when it has stood two hours and squeeze hard to get the full flavor of the mint. Make the mint sauce two hours or more before dinner.

"Some think that a little of the liquor in which the mutton is cooked improves the sauce. It is eaten with lamb or mutton, as I suppose everybody who reads the Helping Hand knows.

"In conclusion, let me say that I pass your paper on when I have read it to a friend who has to sit up most of the night with an invalid husband. Your corner is a blessing to all, and preaches better sermons than one sometimes hears from the pulpit. But it is hard upon shutins like myself who might do so much if we could get the minute we see the 'want' to be tied hand and foot and simply wait for others to accomplish what we long to do.

"J. C. G."

I wish you would let me have your address in full and allow me to pass it on to those who could, perhaps, do something, now and then, to lessen the monotonous grayness of your daily living. Our membership is large and we are of one mind with regard to our duty and privilege in the matter of our beloved shutins. We might send you reading matter, at least, and some of our sweet hearted woman ask for addresses to which they may write cheery, comforting letters of sisterly affection. I should like to put you into communication with these ministering angels. I anticipate requests from them when your touching letter has been read. One and all, we "believe in the communion of saints."

Some Tomato Recipes.

"As tomatoes are going to be in their prime before long, these recipes may come in well.

"FRIED GREEN TOMATOES.—Slice firm green tomatoes less than half an inch thick and roll in peppered and salted flour. Heat a mixture of half butter, half lard, in a frying pan. (I use more butter than lard.) Lay in the floured tomatoes and fry rather slowly, turning once, carefully. Take up with a perforated skimmer and drain off every drop of grease. Serve on a hot platter. Garnish with bacon. They make a nice breakfast dish.

"GREEN TOMATO MINCEMEAT.—Chop eight pounds of green tomatoes fine and mix with four pounds of light brown sugar. Boil for two hours. Mix in with this a pound of cleaned and seeded raisins and the same of cleaned currants; one-half pint of vinegar, two teaspoonfuls each of cinnamon and cloves, and juice of a lemon. "Boil for five minutes after it begins to bubble all over and turn into fruit cans. Seal while hot as you would canned fruit. It will keep well.

"I saw awhile ago that a correspondent asked for this recipe. I hope she will see it.

"PICALILLI.—Chop a peck of green tomatoes fine, also four large green peppers. Stir in a cupful of salt and let it stand all night. In the morning drain off the superfluous liquid and put the tomatoes into a kettle with enough vinegar to cover it; two tablespoonfuls of cinnamon, one tablespoonful of mustard and allspice mixed in equal parts, one cup of brown sugar, and a minced onion. Boil one hour. Can while hot. It will keep pretty well in small corked bottles with wide mouths, but it is safer to put it up in pint fruit cans and seal.

"VETERAN HOUSEMOTHER."

Briefs for Everyday Workers.

"IRON HOLDER.—Wash all the starch out of old linked cuffs, and iron smooth. They may be hung up by the buttonholes and are easily laundered. They are used for small irons and in handling and crimping tongs.

"Mrs. S. S."

"TO SEW ON HOOKS AND EYES NEATLY.—Choose a needle that is just the length of the distance at which you wish to place your hooks. Make eyes with a double thread by taking two stitches at the same place the width of the hook. Then take one stitch in 'buttonhole' and then one in the needle between the outside and the first thickness of the material upon which you are sewing just the length of the needle. Repeat for the next eye. Go on in this manner, setting the hooks a needle's length apart, and you will get them at regular distances from one another without stopping to measure for each one.

"MAC."

An Ohio member has the credit of the ingenious little device. Has she any "briefs" of the same kind for us?

Prune Pie Recipe.

A brief recipe from the "Ladies' Home Casserole" is in a different vein.

"PRUNE PIE.—To the whites of two eggs whipped to a stiff froth add a cupful of cooked prunes pressed through a meat grinder; three tablespoonfuls of sugar; one tablespoonful of lemon extract. Beat well and bake with two crusts in a lower pie crust.

"This is enough for one pie.

IN ITS graceful lines, its decorative leaves and its beautiful blossoms, the water lily is one of the favorites of summer. I have had the designer pick the largest lilies and place them in a beautiful design on a thirty-inch centerpiece for you. I feel sure that this will be as popular as other lily designs.

There is shown one-sixth of the design. When tracing it, keep the same center by pinning the paper firmly down to your fabric. Swing the design around and continue to trace after accurately matching the edge of the centerpiece.

Use white or tan linen and your choice can be colored threads or white, or the heavy silks that work up in such glossy beauty. The method of working is pictured here for you. It is most effective, easy and quick in the working.

The parallel lines suggest the solid work to be done after padding with darning cotton in the opposite direction. The dots in the design are seed stitches, or tiny back stitches in parallel lines. French knots are excellent for filling in the centers and stem stitch will give an effective line for the graceful stems.

Use long and short stems on the outer petals of the lily and outline the veins as shown. In the buds the green outer leaves are solid and the white petal is outlined on the edge.

White, with yellow centers and silvery green leaves, is a combination very effective on gray or tan linen. The all-white treatment on white is elegant, and, as you know, harmonizes with any scheme on the table or in the room.

I must tell you of another idea for filling in large leaves. It is a darning stitch, done in parallel rows. Some embroiderers have taken this idea and filled in large spaces with crosses.

The changes can be rung on the one idea. The recommendation for the suggestion is in the quickness with which you can do the work.

Pad the plain edge with flat soutache or with darning cotton and work the edge in buttonhole stitches. A lace edge of cluny or torchon adds greatly to the effect. By buying a white lace you can color it ecru by boiling it in strong tea or coffee. An old yellow effect is obtained by shaking lace in ochre and allowing it to remain for three days.

Stencil dye is also good for coloring laces. In joining a lace edge cut out the irregular design rather than through it, and buttonhole the edge over the lace to join it. In this way the line of joining cannot be seen, and the design in the lace is continuous.

There! You are ready for your lily excursion!

A Unique Corset Cover

TWO fine lawn or linen handkerchiefs are required for a dainty and unique corset cover that the particular girl will find pleasure in making for herself.

They must be chosen to match, with a narrow hemstitched border and, if possible, lines of fine lace inset all around. Handkerchiefs with embroidered corners or with a dainty design of fine embroidery inside the hem are quite as nice for this work, and have the advantage of wearing longer than those with lace inset.

Fold the handkerchiefs over crosswise and pin firmly; then cut through the fold, which will give you four triangular pieces of material. These four corner pieces are then sewed by hand with the over-and-over stitch to inch-wide embroidered insertion or beading in such a way that they will fit together, forming a point up both in front and back and points down under the arms.

A semicircular piece is cut out of the underarm pieces to form the armhole, and these are joined at the top with a ruffle of embroidered beading that is whipped on all around the armhole, and also continued around the top of the garment. On the outer edge of this a narrow lace edging is sewed, whipped on with very fine stitches. The bottom of the garment is finished with a two-inch-wide beading, through which ribbon is run, as it is through the beading on the other parts of the garment.

When sewing the beading between the hemstitched edges of the handkerchiefs, do not cut it off at the raw edge, but turn it over neatly, and continue with the same strip for the joining of the next section of handkerchief.

To make a chemise it will be necessary to add only a nainsook skirt to the top already made. One and a half widths of nainsook will be required; but this is wider than is necessary, so from each length you cut a five-inch strip. Sew the two widths up as you would for a plain petticoat, and join it to the corset cover by gathering the top and whipping it to the wide beading.

Either finish the skirt with a three-inch hem or add a three-inch ruffle to it and edge the ruffle with narrow lace matching that used on the corset cover. This same pattern may be adopted for an empire evening petticoat and be the correct thing to wear under a lingerie gown made with a high waist. The skirt is cut longer on this, however, and should be finished with a deeper flounce, the length depending on the size of the wearer. The flounce at the bottom of the skirt may be put on with wide beading at its head, and through this ribbon is run and tied with a full bow on the side. This is an extra expense, but it adds much to the attractiveness of the garment.

Very lovely are the combinations made with silk handkerchiefs and pet-ticoats of china silk.

Such garments are acceptable additions to the trousseau and make ideal gifts for the prospective bride.

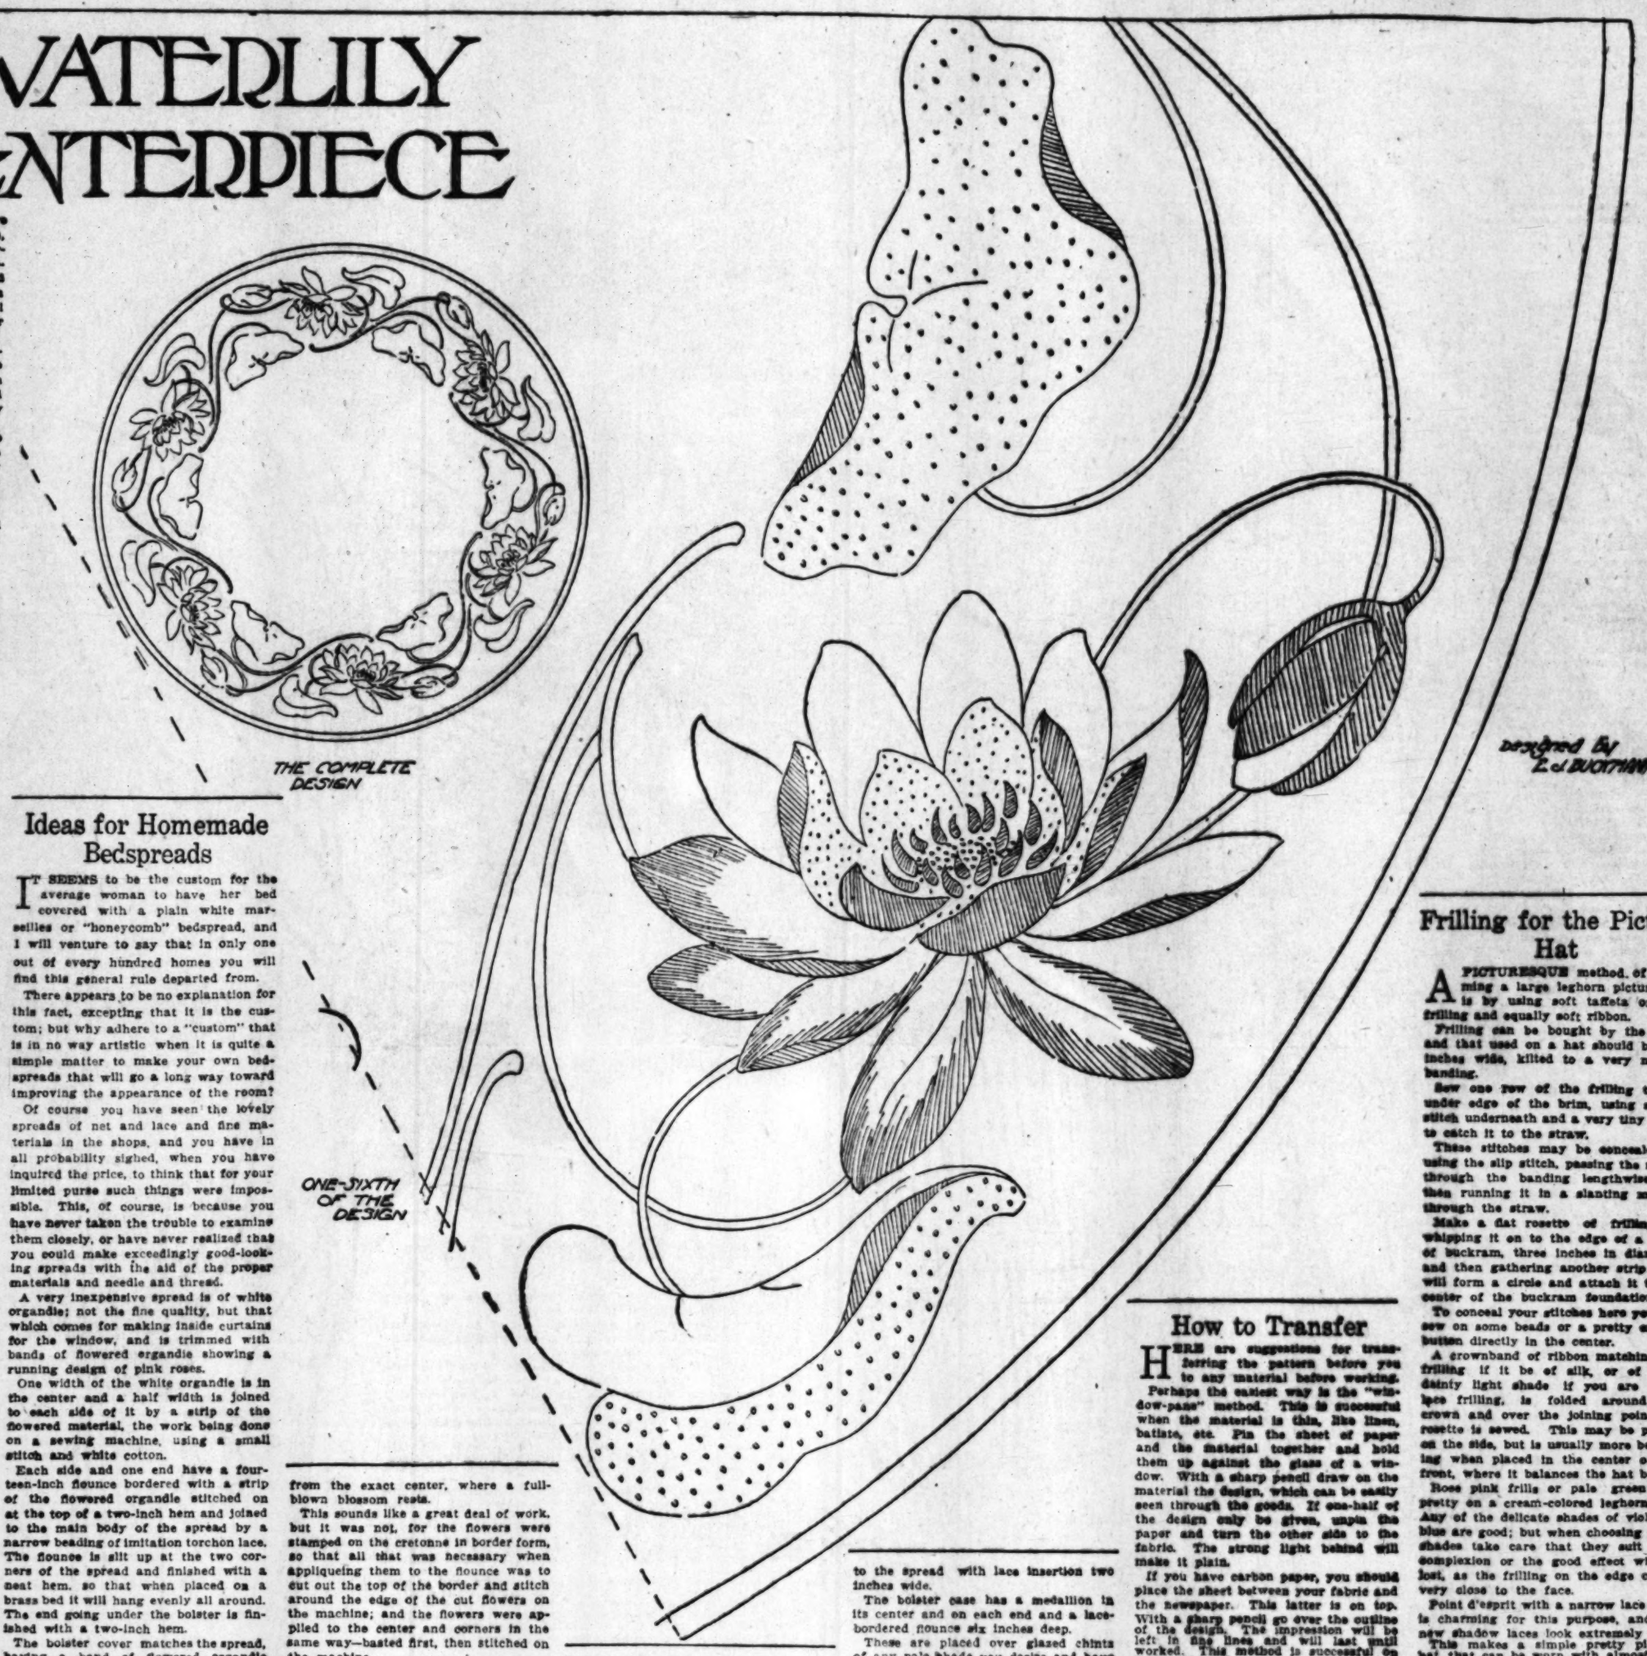
A WATERLILY CENTERPIECE



THE COMPLETE DESIGN

ONE-SIXTH OF THE DESIGN

designed by L. de BUCHANAN

IN ITS graceful lines, its decorative leaves and its beautiful blossoms, the water lily is one of the favorites of summer. I have had the designer pick the largest lilies and place them in a beautiful design on a thirty-inch centerpiece for you. I feel sure that this will be as popular as other lily designs.

There is shown one-sixth of the design. When tracing it, keep the same corner by pinning the paper firmly down on your fabric. Swing the design around and continue to trace after accurately matching the edge of the centerpiece.

The white or tan linen and your choice of colored threads or white, or the heavy silks that work up in such glossy beauty. The method of working is pictured here for you. It is most effective, easy and quick in the working.

The parallel lines suggest the solid work to be done after padding with darning cotton in the opposite direction. The dots in the design are seed stitches, or tiny back stitches in parallel lines. French knots are excellent for filling in the centers and stem stitch will give an effective line for the graceful stems.

The long and short stems on the outer petals of the lily and outline the veins as shown. In the buds the green outer leaves are solid and the white petal is outlined on the edge.

White, with yellow centers and silvery green leaves, is a combination very effective on gray or tan linen. The all-white treatment on white is elegant, and, as you know, harmonizes with any scheme on the table or in the room.

I must tell you of another idea for filling in large leaves. It is a darning stitch, done in parallel rows. Some embroiderers have taken this idea and filled in large spaces with crossed. The changes can be rung on the one idea. The recommendation for the suggestion is in the quickness with which you can do the work.

Pad the plain edge with flat soutache or with darning cotton and work the edge in buttonhole stitches. A lace edge of cluny or torchon adds greatly to the effect. By buying a white lace you can dye it ecru by boiling it in strong tea or coffee. An old yellow effect is obtained by shaking lace in ocher and allowing it to remain for three days.

Sepia dye is also good for coloring lace. In joining a lace edge cut out the irregular design rather than through it and buttonhole the edge over the lace to join it. In this way the line of joining cannot be seen, and the design in the lace is continuous.

There! You are ready for your lily centerpiece!

Ideas for Homemade Bedspreads

IT SEEMS to be the custom for the average woman to have her bed covered with a plain white marseilles or "honeycomb" bedspread, and I will venture to say that in only one out of every hundred homes you will find this general rule departed from.

There appears to be no explanation for this fact, excepting that it is the custom; but why adhere to a "custom" that is in no way artistic when it is quite a simple matter to make your own bedspreads that will go a long way toward improving the appearance of the room?

Of course you have seen the lovely spreads of net and lace and fine materials in the shops, and you have in all probability sighed, when you have inquired the price, to think that for your limited purse such things were impossible. This, of course, is because you have never taken the trouble to examine them closely, or have never realized that you could make exceedingly good-looking spreads with the aid of the proper materials and needle and thread.

A very inexpensive spread is of white organdie; not the fine quality, but that which comes for making inside curtains for the window, and is trimmed with bands of flowered organdie showing a running design of pink roses.

One width of the white organdie is in the center and a half width is joined to each side of it by a strip of the flowered material, the work being done on a sewing machine, using a small stitch and white cotton.

Each side and one end have a fourteen-inch flounce bordered with a strip of the flowered organdie stitched on at the top of a two-inch hem and joined to the main body of the spread by a narrow beading of imitation torchon lace. The flounce is slit up at the two corners of the spread and finished with a neat hem, so that when placed on a brass bed it will hang evenly all around. The end going under the bolster is finished with a two-inch hem.

The bolster cover matches the spread, having a band of flowered organdie stitched its length in the center and forming a ruffle on each end.

Unbleached sheeting muslin is the foundation of a most attractive spread. This is made with one piece fitting the top of the bed and a rather scant flounce on three sides.

Yellow poppies cut from cretonne are appliqued on the edge of the flounce and at each corner of the main portion of the spread, while in the center is a circle of poppies radiating by their stems from the exact center, where a full-blown blossom rests.

This sounds like a great deal of work, but it was not, for the flowers were stamped on the cretonne in border form, so that all that was necessary when appliqueing them to the flounce was to cut out the top of the border and stitch around the edge of the cut flowers on the machine; and the flowers were applied to the center and corners in the same way—basted first, then stitched on the machine.

The flounce was joined to the spread with a double row of stitching.

The bolster cover showed the border design stitched on it with the flowers standing upward. The ecru color of the muslin blends well with the color of the flowers and their green leaves and is an ideal cover to use in a room furnished in yellow and with yellow paper on the wall.

Coarse ecru net makes a splendid foundation for a very handsome lacy bedspread. This has a fancy lace medallion placed directly in the center, and also one in each corner. A deep flounce is edged with cluny or linen torchon lace in a heavy weave and is joined to the spread with lace insertion two inches wide.

The bolster case has a medallion in its center and on each end and a lace-bordered flounce six inches deep.

These are placed over glazed chints of any pale shade you desire and have the appearance of a very rich-looking spread over a satin lining.

There are three pretty spreads to copy, and I am sure a visit to any one of the larger shops will give you all sorts of new ideas that can be developed in materials which cost but little.

Make your own bedspread to match the furnishings in your room.

Surely the way is easy.

A Unique Corset Cover

TWO fine lawn or linen handkerchiefs are required for a dainty and unique corset cover that the particular girl will find pleasure in making for herself.

They must be chosen to match, with a narrow hemstitched border and, if possible, lines of fine lace inset all around. Handkerchiefs with embroidered corners or with a dainty design of fine embroidery inside the hem are quite the thing for this work, and have the advantage of wearing longer than those with lace inset.

Pull the handkerchiefs over crosswise and pin firmly; then cut through the fold, which will give you four triangular pieces of material. These four triangular pieces are then sewed by hand with the over-and-over stitch to inch-wide embroidered insertion or beading so that they will fit together, forming a point up both in front and back and also down under the arms.

A considerable piece is cut out of the bottom pieces to form the armhole, and these are joined at the top with a piece of embroidered beading that is also run all around the armhole, and is continued around the top of the garment. On the outer edge of this corset cover lace edging is sewed, whipped on with very fine stitches. The bottom of the garment is finished with beading, through which ribbon is run, as it is through the beading on the other parts of the garment.

When sewing the beading between the embroidered edges of the handkerchief, do not cut it off at the raw edge, but turn it over neatly, and continue on the same strip for the joining of the next section of handkerchief.

To make a chemise it will be necessary to add only a nainsook skirt to the corset cover already made. One and a half yards of nainsook will be required; but one is wider than is necessary, so that each length you cut a five-inch piece. Sew the two widths up as you would for a plain petticoat, and join it to the corset cover by gathering the top and whipping it to the wide beading.

Now finish the skirt with a three-inch hem or add a three-inch ruffle to match that used on the corset cover. Lace edge the ruffle with narrow lace matching that used on the corset cover.

Any pretty pattern may be adopted for the simple evening petticoat and be the same thing to wear under a lingerie dress made with a high waist. The skirt is cut longer on this, however, and should be finished with a deeper flounce, or length depending on the size of the wearer. The flounce at the bottom of the skirt may be put on with wide beading at its head, and through this beading is run and tied with a full bow in front. This is an extra expense, but adds much to the attractiveness of the garment.

Very pretty are the combinations made with silk handkerchiefs and petticoats of china silk.

Such garments are acceptable additions to the trousseau and make ideal gifts for the prospective bride.

How to Transfer

HERE are suggestions for transferring the pattern before you to any material before working.

Perhaps the easiest way is the "window-pane" method. This is successful when the material is thin, like linen, batiste, etc. Pin the sheet of paper and the material together and hold them up against the glass of a window. With a sharp pencil draw on the material the design, which can be easily seen through the goods. If one-half of the design only be given, unpin the paper and turn the other side to the fabric. The strong light behind will make it plain.

If you have carbon paper, you should place the sheet between your fabric and the newspaper. This latter is on top. With a sharp pencil go over the outline of the design. The impression will be left in fine lines and will last until worked. This method is successful on heavy material.

The last way is also easy. On wax paper or ordinary tissue paper trace the pattern before you. When the design is completed, turn over the paper and outline the pattern with a heavy lead pencil. Then place the design down on the fabric and redraw the outline, pressing hard with the pencil. The pattern will be transferred without difficulty.

Frilling for the Picture Hat

A PICTURESQUE method of trimming a large leghorn picture hat is by using soft taffeta or lace frilling and equally soft ribbon.

Frilling can be bought by the yard, and that used on a hat should be two inches wide, kilted to a very narrow banding.

Sew one row of the frilling to the under edge of the brim, using a tiny stitch underneath and a very tiny stitch to catch it to the straw.

These stitches may be concealed by using the slip stitch, passing the needle through the banding lengthwise and then running it in a slanting manner through the straw.

Make a flat rosette of frilling by whipping it on to the edge of a circle of buckram, three inches in diameter, and then gathering another strip so it will form a circle and attach it to the center of the buckram foundation.

To conceal your stitches here you can sew on some beads or a pretty crystal button directly in the center.

A crownband of ribbon matching the frilling if it be of silk, or of some dainty light shade if you are using lace frilling, is folded around the crown and over the joining point the rosette is sewed. This may be placed on the side, but is usually more becoming when placed in the center of the front, where it balances the hat better.

Rose pink frills or pale green are pretty on a cream-colored leghorn hat. Any of the delicate shades of violet or blue are good; but when choosing these shades take care that they suit your complexion or the good effect will be lost, as the frilling on the edge comes very close to the face.

Point d'esprit with a narrow lace edge is charming for this purpose, and the new shadow laces look extremely well.

This makes a simple pretty picture hat, that can be worn with almost any gown.

Buttonholes on Wool

A GOOD deal of time and labor can be saved by doing all the buttonholes on men's flannel shirts, and on children's woolen frocks that have to be washed, with wool thread the color of the material.

Buttonholes worked in cotton often stretch and fray out in the washing; but woolen ones keep their shape, and even if they shrink, can easily be stretched enough to fit the button.

FABRIC-COVERED HATS

CRETONNE OVER RICE STRAW

PLEATED LACE AND SILK

OF DOTTED SWISS

A BLESSING in disguise is the present mode of covering the summer hat with some pretty fabric. All sorts of things are possible with the fabric-covered hat. Any frock can be matched with this plan, and the marks of rain and sun can be effectually covered up.

The fad is a new and pretty one, and the work is easily done if you have the slightest idea of the milliner's art.

Cretonne covers a large shade hat of rice straw. The work is done by first placing a circular piece of cretonne over the top of the crown and sewing it around the edge with long stitches; then the brim is covered, and for this you will have to make a paper pattern exactly fitting the brim. Cut the material by it and lay it smoothly over the brim, pinning securely on the outer edge. Turn this in half an inch and slipstitch it down to the straw; then sew the inner edge fast to the crown with a long-and-short stitch.

A piece of bias material is cut for the band encircling the crown. The edges are hemmed and a cord is run through the hem. The band is drawn tight around the hat's crown and fastened at the side, where the stitches are concealed by the trimming.

It is possible to cover a buckram frame in this same manner and face it with straw. Beginning always on the outer edge when sewing on the strips of straw, work toward the center, lapping the edges as you sew.

Dotted swiss covering a wire frame makes a delightfully light-weight and cool hat for midsummer. In the model shown a circular piece covers the crown; this is sewed down at the crown line, where it is joined by the brim covering. The latter is put on quite plain, and the edge is bound with a narrow piece of bias satin matching that which is run through the swiss, shirred about and tied in a flat little bow in front. The only other trimming is a rather flat pansy of satin, placed at the edge of the brim on the left side.

Shadow lace laid in fine pleats over the crown and brim makes a delectable covering for the next model. At the apex of the crown a narrow frill of lace is held down with a corded edge. The lace is applied in the same manner to the upper brim, but the under brim shows a facing of soft silk. This is gathered on the outer edge, where the stitches are covered with a band of straw; then the silk is drawn tight to the crown line, where it is sewed fast.

A simple wreath of roses and foliage circles the crown of this altogether charming hat.

THE [illegible] World's Dressed Folk

Before the Garden Party

MADGE DEAR:

Such a wonderful garden party! You will enjoy hearing all about it, I'm sure.

It was given by Mrs. Janney in honor of Angela Forbes on Thursday, and without exception was the most enjoyable affair I have attended this summer.

May asked me to come over a bit early to help her with the finishing touches—hanging Japanese lanterns on the trees and arranging flowers on the tables. It was then that I had an opportunity to observe at close range three charming gowns, designed by a famous French modiste, but made, my dear, by our own little village dressmaker.

Florence and Lillian Escott and May Powell were the proud possessors of these dainty frocks. Lillian was beautiful in rose-colored marquisette combined with black satin and chiffon.

Three of Fashion's newest tricks are described in this frock: the long-tailed coat-bodice, full sleeves and ruchings around the bottom of the skirt.

The sleeves were really cut in one with the bodice, but so arranged with a narrow stitched tuck as to simulate a elongated armhole outlined with tiny cut jet buttons, showed at the joining point of the bodice above a bib effect of satin.

A satin collar had about its edge a narrow frill of pink chiffon, and a wider frill appeared on the short sleeves.

The long coattail joined the bodice with a cord and was trimmed with a shaped band of satin. Two satin bands on the skirt were topped by ruches of chiffon, while a wider ruche finished the skirt's hem. Pink roses trimmed her white chip hat.

May's dress had a Russian blouse and pannier skirt.

The blouse was of a shaded blue taffeta showing glints of silver. It opened up the left side to the shoulder and was trimmed with black satin-covered buttons. Around the hem a broad band of embroidery was edged with a two-inch band of satin. The sleeves are short and full, showing a wide inset of striped blue-and-white taffeta, which also is used for the skirt.

On this the pannier drapery is obtained by a wide band of embroidery holding it in just below the knees, while it is finished at the bottom with silk, cut lengthwise to show stripes.

The striped silk is used also for trimming on her small bell-shaped hat of black straw.

Florence's gown of satin-faced pongee was a chic creation. The high-waisted bodice opened in front over a vest of ecru net, and had a graduated frill of net around the neck, wider, of course, in the back, and ending in points in front. A girdle of black messaline was tied in a broad flat bow, held in place with a square buckle in front.

Pannier draperies are caught in place with broad bows of messaline, and a band of it was used in place of a hem.

The sleeves in this gown are long, quite to the lowest point of the wrist, while a frill of net reached to the knuckles and extended up the outer seam to the elbow. A band of messaline is used on them, both at the wrist and at the top of a long tight-fitting cuff. Above that the sleeves are slightly full.

A smart "corporal" hat of black hemp, turned up abruptly at the side and trimmed with a tall "brush" of black feathers, completed this effective costume.

There now, don't you think a wise choice can be made from these when you or your friends are planning a new frock? With love, dear sister,

ELEANOR.

WASHINGTON, July 14.—Sweeping reductions in express rates, averaging, in general, approximately 15 per cent.; drastic reforms in regulations and practices; and comprehensive changes in the methods of operation, are prescribed in a report made public today by the Interstate Commerce Commission of its investigation into the business of the thirteen great express companies of the United States.

Dealing with the identity of interest between the various companies, the report finds that while these companies are separate legal entities, "it is of interest to regard the fact that by stock ownership and otherwise they are so interlaced, intertwined and interlocked that it is with difficulty we can trace any one of the greater companies as either wholly independent in its management or the agency of a single railroad system.
